SEWING MACHINE SALES

FOR 1872.

BY comparison of Statistics from sworn returns of the sales of Sewing Machines for 1871 and 1872, it shows that the

"DOMESTIC"

SEWING MACHINE Co.'s sales have increased over 375 per cent., while no other Co.'s sales have increased over 36 per cent., proving the great popularity of the "DOMESTIC."

Annexed are the percentage of gain, of the leading makers:

Domestic Sewing Machine Co.,	gain	375	per cent
Wheeler & Wilson	"	" 36	"
Singer	"	" 23	"
Grover & Baker	"	" 5	"
Weed	"	" 2	"
Wilcox & Gibbs	"	" 12	"
Wilson	"	" 8	"

Other Machines Co.'s' sales show a loss over the year before.

If the increase in sales be any criterion of merit, the "DOMESTIC" bears the palm.

The "DOMESTIC" works so easy, it is working itself into every family.

The "DOMESTIC" runs so light, it is distancing all competitors. It only asks a few days trial.

The "DOMESTIC" is recommend by the Medical Faculty.

Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGGART."

THE GREAT SOUTH AMERICAN

Jurubeba Blood Purifier,

Is the most powerful cleanser, strengthener and remover of Glandular Obstructions known to Materia Medica.

It is specially adapted to constitutions "worn down" and debilitated by the warm weather of Spring and Summer, when the blood is not in active circulation, consequently gathering impurities from sluggishness and imperfect action of the secretive organs, and is manifested by Tumors, Eruptions, Blotches, Boils, Pustules, Scrofula, &c.

In the heat of Summer, frequently the Liver and Spleen do not properly perform their functions; the Uterine and Urinary Organs are inactive, producing weakness of the stomach and intestines and a predisposition to bilious derangement.

Dr. Wells'

EXTRACT OF JURUBEBA

is prepared directly from the SOUTH AMERICAN PLANT, and is peculiarly suited to all these difficulties; it will cleanse the VITIATED BLOOD, strengthen the LIFE-GIVING POWERS, and REMOVE ALL OBSTRUCTIONS from IMPAIRED AND ENFEEBLED Organs.

It should be freely taken, as Jurubeba is pronounced by medical writers the most efficient PURIFIER, TONIC and DEOBSTRUENT known in the whole range of medicinal plants.

The Chronicle.

AN ACCIDENT POLICY MAN.—We are rather sorry that General Crook didn't capture the Modocs. During the war it was observed that when General Crook was sent after bushwhackers, he never brought any into camp to be bothered with—they always met with some accident. We remember an illustrative occasion. Crook, then colonel of the Thirty-sixth Ohio, reported to Rosecrans at Cross Lanes, after the battle of Carnifex Ferry. Rosecrans was delighted to see him, because he had a good helper. The bushwhackers were very troublesome. Crook was ordered to squelch them. About ten days afterwards Crook came into headquarters looking like a man who had been sleeping out o'nights. Rosecrans and the rest of us greeted him warmly, and, after a glass of—water, said

Rosy—"Well, Crook, what did you do?"

Crook—"Cleaned out the bushwhackers."

Rosy—"Didn't you take any prisoners?"

Crook (drawling)—"Well, yes. I did have—seven, but the d—d fools fell off a tree and broke their necks."

—A scientific paper says "If a man had an arm long enough to reach to the sun, and were to touch that body with his finger, he could never find out whether it was hot or cold, for he would be dead before the sensation arrived at headquarters, which would require a hundred years." This is very interesting and highly improtant. But now we want to know what it would cost that man annually for coat sleeves; how long it would take him to put on a clean shirt, the number of centuries he would have to expend to feel in his pocket for his handkerchief, and whether he could ever hope to part his hair properly while his arm had only one elbow. When light is thrown on these branches of the subject, we shall be better prepared to decide whether to advise our readers to let their arms grow to that length or not.

—The grasshoppers are slowly working their way northward from Texas. Many of them are so fat now that they can neither fly nor walk long at a time, and are compelled to take the cars at frequent intervals.

IRON in the BLOOD.

DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, DROPSY, HUMORS

PERUVIAN SYRUP

Makes the Weak Strong.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested, and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Rumors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures to strong, healthy, and happy men and women: and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has "PERUVIAN SYRUP" blown in the glass.

State News.

A barn belonging to Col. Waterman Smith of Manchester was burned on Thursday.

The Trustees of the New Hampton Institute have passed a series of resolutions inviting the Legislature to change the location of the Normal School from Plymouth to New Hampton, if the school cannot be maintained without State aid in its present location, which they promise to do if moved to New Hampton.

Henry Harrison Nutting, who shot Mrs. Keyes of Mason, about a year ago, because she would not marry him, and then attempted suicide, died suddenly at the State Prison, about two weeks ago. It seems the ball that had lodged in his head worked through the inner table of the skull, and caused almost instant death.

The body of Miss Gratia Kingsbury, of Sullivan, who has been missing from her home since November last, was found in a brook near Keene line one day last week. It is supposed she wandered away in a fit of insanity and drowned herself. She was sixty-seven years of age.

The house of Charles Osgood, the veteran White Mountain stage-driver, was burned at North Conway, Friday. Furniture saved. Loss $2000.

The committee on division of towns visited Laconia and Guilford on Thursday and came to the opinion that three towns will doubtless be constructed out of the territory of the two, with Lake Village, Laconia and Guilford Village as the respective business centres.

The trustees of the State Orphans' Home at Franklin have organized by choosing Hon. George W. Nesmith of Franklin, president; Hon. O. F. Fowler of Bristol, vice-president; Rev. C. W. Millen of Tilton, secretary; and Hon. John Kimball of Concord, treasurer. The institution is in a flourishing condition.

Charles Gillis, late postmaster at Hillsborough, who has lately been confined in jail at Concord on the charge of opening letters, was released by giving bail in the amount of $2750.

Miss Ella F. Wood, who was shot in Hudson by Henry Jewett, died on Saturday.

Two barns, belonging to William and Orren C. Kibbey of Newport, were burned Friday night, with four hogs, the carts and wagons. Loss $1000; insured for $500.

Henry Bishop, aged 20 years, was knocked from the cars by a bridge just below Lancaster. He fell through the bridge and was mangled about the face and head. No hopes are entertained of his recovery.

On Friday, a fire was discovered in the picker room of the Langdon Mills, Manchester, and in an incredibly short time spread to all parts of the room. The hydrants of the corporation were turned upon the fire, which was finally extinguished without a general alarm. Loss from $3000 to $4000; insured.

Readables.

Hon. Horace F. Clark, son-in-law of Cornelius Vanderbilt, and President of the Lake Shore and Union Pacific Railroads died in New York on the 20th, of rheumatism of the heart. He was about 28 years of age.

The inspectors who accepted Miss Anthony's vote at Rochester last fall, were fined $25 each and the costs of the prosecution.

The town of Michigamme, on Michigamme Lake, Marquette county, Michigan, was entirely destroyed by fire on the 19th. Over 200 houses were burned. The loss of property is immense. Eight lives were lost. The place was a mining town in the iron region and contained 800 inhabitants. The heat so warped the rails of the Marquette, Houghton & Ontonagon Railroad as to render the passage of cars impossible in certain places.

The cholera has appeared at Washington, D. C., and Paducah, Ky., and the mortality at Memphis and Nashville is increasing.

Louise Roederbreck of Jersey City opened a vein in her arm, then dissolved the brimstone contained in a box of matches and swallowed it, but an emetic saved her life.

Sharkey, a New York murderer, has been found guilty.

There is almost as severe a blockade of the Mississippi River outlets now as when the United States fleet cruised off its mouths, as the passages are choking with detritus, and each year increases the difficulties of navigation.

Two children, Annie Reagan and Maggie Mulray, aged 5 years, who have been missing at Philadelphia since Wednesday, were found Friday morning locked in a closet in an empty house in the 25th ward. One of the children was beyond human aid but the other recovered. It is believed that a terrible crime has been committed.

A fire at Pottsville, Pa., destroyed fifty buildings on the 20th. Loss $200,000; insurance $50,000. Several persons killed and others wounded.

The Legislature.

On Thursday, in the House, Mr. Burrows of Plymouth introduced a bill designed to secure to the much abused race of husbands some trifling rights of property in the way of personal apparel, such as hats, coats and pantaloons, and also a prima facie right to the razor, [of which they are not to be deprived except by the verdict of a competent commission. The bill "is to take effect on the slightest provocation."

Mr. Smith of Newmarket, moved its reference to a select committee of three unmarried men of the House, with instructions to report after they had, by experience, duly investigated the subject, said committee to consist of Messrs. Bingham of Littleton, Cogswell of Concord and Wheelock of Keene. Mr. Bingham of Littleton [according to the Speaker] proposed an amendment by inserting the word "youngest" before the word "unmarried." The amendment was adopted.

Mr. Giffin of Keene moved the indefinite postponement of the resolution. Lost.

The Speaker suggested that, under the rules, it was not competent for the gentleman from New-Market to name the committee. [Laughter.]

The resolution as amended, then passed, amid roars of laughter on all sides.

An act to authorize the Portsmouth, Great Falls and Conway Railroad to connect with the Portsmouth and Dover Railroad was passed.

On Friday, the Committee on elections, to whom was referred the remonstrance of Nathaniel Wiggin against the right of James P. Tilton to a seat in the House from Greenland, submitted a unanimous report that Mr. Tilton is entitled to his seat. Adopted.

The bill incorporating the Ladies' Humane Society of Portsmouth was passed.

THRILLING ADVENTURE. — The following is from a California paper:—Millie Coyan, aged about ten years, and daughter of George M. Coyan, general manager of all the mines in and about Lost Camp, was assisting some of her younger sisters over the sluice boxes in the mine known as Wood's Ravine, when she missed her footing and fell into the boxes, through which was running at the time about 500 inches of water. She was swept for a distance of about 1,600 feet through the sluices as though she had been a feather. It appears that she passed through the boxes in a sitting position, and during her terrible race tried repeatedly to rescue herself from what in ninety cases out of a hundred would have proved fatal to the strongest man. Even while going at the rate of a railroad train, she exhibited presence of mind enough to let her head fall back into the water to escape a piece of wood that was nailed over the boxes, and against which, but for the precaution taken, her brains would certainly have been dashed out. After being carried a distance of 900 feet she was washed over a "dump" twelve feet high, falling into another sluice box 700 feet long. Passing through the latter, she was swept over another "dump," twenty feet high, falling among rough, jagged rocks. Here she managed to crawl out a few feet from under the heavy body of falling water, and was shortly after rescued by Mr. Bartlett, foreman of the mine. It was found that she had sustained severe injuries on the left knee, hip and side. Her face was also scratched and swelled, but fortunately neither will permanently disfigure her.

The July number of The Nursery, published by John L. Shorey, is now ready for his waiting little friends. Whoever has been in the habit of carrying this periodical home to a child or group of children, knows how well adapted it is to their capacities and needs no inducement to continue the custom.

Orange Judd & Co., give to subscribers to Hearth and Home a large chromo picture of a rosy-cheeked little girl enjoying the contents of a strawberry basket, and to subscribers to the American Agriculturist a smaller picture of two children making of a pumpkin a jack-o'-lantern.

Boston Correspondence.

BOSTON, June 21, 1873.

The many friends who in years past visited the hospitable mansion of Hon. Alexander Blaisdell at Greenland, will be glad to know that his venerable mare "Fanny" is still among living equines, having narrowly escaped the fire which destroyed his fine surburban residence, and braved the epizootic with the equanimity of a horse car conductor. I saw him driving this wonderful old mare in our city on Wednesday, and though thirty-four years of age, her eye is as bright, her coat as sleek, her hearing as good as ever, and Mr. B. pronounces her sound and kind in every respect. For twenty-four years she has been in his possession, having been purchased for $200, and soon after making 2:45 in harness on a Bangor track. $500 was there offered for her, but I hardly think money could buy her now. She is of Morgan-Drew stock and is used daily.

A cotemporary of the "one horse shay" stood at the corner of Cornhill and Court streets one day this week, labelled "For Sail." It was the hardest looking top buggy I've ever seen (and that's saying a good deal—after I'd picked myself up.) and I fancy the proprietor had rode so much in the same that he was anxious for a sail. [Vide.—J. Tucker, S. G. Hooper, A. Emery, et als.]

Don't advertise any more "date slips." An editor in an adjoining town is in trouble for so doing. A lady emulous of having the rarest exotics in her greenhouse, applied for a dozen of said slips and was excited to great wrath at the attempt to palm off paltry slips of paper upon her in lieu of the tropical plants. No cocoanuts will be gathered from her hothouse this year, and only printers or showmen will appreciate the error she made.

Seekers after a Cotton Gin, or even Holland Gin, are supposed to have an exhaustive search in Boston. Now comes a Mississippi planter, who seeing a placard of "Cotton Hose" in a window on Temple Place, went in and ordered half a gross. What he knew about farming wasn't much, when he found agricultural implements were not placed upon the same footing, and he acknowledged himself soled in a graceful manner. M.

SOMNAMBULISTS often get themselves into unpleasant scrapes, but seldom into a less enviable one than was achieved by a student of the French College of Ste. Barbe. Being missed by his room-mate in the night, and his partiality to this kind of exercise being known, search was instantly made for him, with the result of finding him comfortably reposing in the gutter on the roof, four stories from the ground, and with one leg dangling over the edge. The morning bell was about to ring, the noise would surely awaken him, and only the courage and presence of mind of one of the ushers saved the luckless sleep-walker from a cruel death. First directing the students to pile their mattresses in the court-yard beneath the spot where the sleeper lay, the brave usher slid down the gable roof, at imminent risk of going over, cautiously awakened the slumbering boy, and dragged him back into safety. It is pleasant to read that this gallant exploit was rewarded by a commemorative silver medal, purchased by subscription among the students, and a more solid, but possibly less gratifying testimonial from the Faculty.

Good For Dover.

By the new arrangement of the Eastern R. R., a morning train leaves Great Falls at 6.22 in competition to the 5.40 morning train on the B. & M. Road. This makes four trains daily on each road from this point and intermediate stations to Boston. It is also a matter of some importance to people in this vicinity wishing to visit Portsmouth, to know that by this new arrangement of the Eastern road a connection is made at South Berwick Junction with the 10.10 A. M. train from Dover on the B. & M. Road. On returning from Portsmouth, the train leaving at 4.50 P. M. on the Eastern Road connects at Salmon Falls in season for the 5.42 train on the B. & M. Road for Dover; also the train leaving Portsmouth at 7.15 P. M. connects at the same point with the 8 15 train on the B. & M. for Dover. This forms a route to Portsmouth and return far preferable to the one usually travelled heretofore over the B. & M. and Portsmouth & Concord Roads and the travelling public will find it decidedly to their advantage to patronize it until the completion of the P. & D. Road.—Dover Democrat.

WELL'S GRAND DISTRIBUTION.—The committee, after drawing nearly one hundred and fifty thousand dollars have decided to postpone the drawing until July 1st, 1873. This will positively be the last postponement W. B. Lowd, Agent.

FOR LOSS OF APPETITE, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Depression of Spirits and General Debility, in their various forms, FERRO-PHOSPHORATED ELIXIR OF CALISYA made by Caswell, Hazard & Co., New York, and sold by all druggists, is the best tonic. As a stimulant tonic for patients recovering from fever or other sickness, it has no equal. If taken during the season it prevents fever and ague and other intermittent fevers. d10

AN REINFORCEMENT DEMANDED.—When the system begins to wilt under the effects of the first "heated term," it is obvious that it ought to be reinforced and sustained by wholesome stimulation: To resort to the adulterated liquors of commerce in such a crisis, as too many do, is the height of infatuated folly. All such fiery stimulants have a sting. After the first effect has passed away, that sting is felt. The reaction is fearful. The prostration of body and mind which ensues is more complete than before. But the operation of a medical tonic like Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, in which extracts of the rarest vegetable roots and herbs are blended with the spirituous essence of rye, pure and undefiled, is very different. No unpleasant reaction follows its use. It is a permanent, a perpetual invigorant, and there is no phase of debility, indigestion, biliousness, nervousness or intermittent fever which it will not speedily cure.

Fourth of July.

At the regular meeting of the citizens' committee, Thursday evening, Ex-Gov. Goodwin stated that he had received a telegram from the New York committee, requesting on behalf of the New York and Boston Sons a change of location of the tents, and had replied by telegraph that such change was impossible. The committee unanimously voted to approve of this action.

On motion of Mr. Thomas S. Nowell, it was voted to hold a union praise meeting in the tents on Sunday afternoon, July 6th. The matter was referred to the committee on music.

It was voted that the ladies visiting Portsmouth with the Sons be admitted to the collation.

The committee voted to fire the first salute on the 4th at the arrival of the Boston Sons, and to omit the proposed salute at noon. The location of the place for the salute was left to the committee on salutes.

Adjourned to Tuesday evening.

High School Association.

Mercantile Hall was filled again with the graduates of the High Schools on Friday evening. The Directors reported that the reunion will be held in one of the tents to be erected for the reception of the Sons, on Saturday, July 5th, at 3 P. M. Harlow's Band will be engaged to furnish the music. Prominent graduates will address the Association, and a distinguished literary Son who has presented the schools with many valuable gifts, will probably read a poem written for the occasion. The citizens' committee at the meeting on Friday evening, voted the Association the use of the tent, free of cost. The next meeting of the Association will be held on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock.

To the Mountains.

The accommodations for summer travel on the various routes leading out of Boston are vastly superior this year to anything heretofore known. The Pullman cars began running last Monday on the North Conway express trains of the Eastern Railroad, anticipating the great tide of summer travel by some few days in order to have everything in readiness when the rush comes. The trains leave Boston at 8:10 A. M. and 2:35 P. M. The morning train, as was the case last year, does not stop either at Lynn or Salem, but between Boston and Portsmouth stops at Ipswich and Newburyport, and beyond Portsmouth at Great Falls, Union Village, Rochester and West Ossipee, connecting at the latter place with the train for Wolfeborough. The afternoon train stops both at Lynn and Salem, and this year at Swampscott also. Last year there was an express train from Boston to Swampscott, and the 2:30 and the North Conway train did not stop there, but this year the former has been discontinued, as the stopping of the North Conway has rendered it needless. The travel between the most popular sea-side resort north of Boston, and the White Mountains, will thus be greatly accommodated, which will be duly appreciated by the visitors to those places. The afternoon train for North Conway also stops at Ipswich, Newburyport, Hampton, North Hampton, Portsmouth and the stations between Great Falls and North Conway. The Pullman express trains for Bangor and St. John at 8:30 A. M., and 8 o'clock P. M., stop neither at Lynn nor Salem, the only stopping-place between Boston and Portsmouth being at Newburyport.

The Police Judgeship.

Messrs. Editors:—In the Chronicle of Saturday I noticed a statement that the proposed removal of County Solicitor Frink and Police Justice Page is not popular among the republicans of this city. So far as concerns Mr. Frink I know little about the matter, though I have never heard anything advanced against him either as a gentleman or an official, and his professional reputation stands high; but I know that you are correct in intimating that the republicans of this city are not generally anxious for Judge Page's removal.

For one, I can see no sufficient reason for such removal; there is no vengeance to be repaid on his head, as no one was "addressed" out of office to make room for him, his predecessor's term having expired under the statute of limitations; he has attended faithfully to the duties of his position, and has apparently succeeded in as entirely diverting himself of personal and political feeling on the bench as it is possible for a man to do; he has shown wise discrimination in dealing with the cases brought before him, judging leniently where the offence was a first or trivial one, and dealing severely with hardened and habitual criminals; in short, he has made an excellent and conscientious magistrate, and it seems to me that the example of the legislature of last year (which did not molest Judge Page, though the memory of the outrageous proceedings of the previous democratic legislature was then fresh) could be profitably followed by the present one, so far as Calvin Page, Esq., is concerned. MODOC.

Laconics.

A company of thirty marines, under the command of Lieut. McDonnell, arrived at the Navy Yard on Friday from Washington.

Mr. Cotton W. Drake, of Rye, was badly injured, one day last week, by falling into his barn cellar. He was badly bruised, and for some time insensible.

An alarm of fire at about one o'clock Monday morning was occasioned by the blaze from a kiln at the Christian Shore brick-yard. No loss, no insurance.

More ladies and gentlemen are needed at the Court House to make wreaths for decorating. Go this evening at 7:30.

The Boston Traveller says that the steam yacht Major, which is to commence running from Portsmouth to Star Island July 1st, is a model of elegance.

Dr. O. Fitzgerald, the wonderful Clairvoyant Physician and Surgeon will visit Portsmouth again at Franklin House Thursday and Friday, June 26 and 27, remaining two days only. Don't fail to see him; his cures are truly wonderful. tf

Clippings.

From the Portsmouth Journal.

"IDYLS OF STRAWBERRY BANK."—It is said that the sweetest singer of all the birds has to be placed in the darkness to evoke its rapturous song, and even to submit to a cruel loss of eyesight that he may be the better singer. Like the Nightingale, our afflicted fellow townsman, Daniel A. Drown, in the dark and in pain is giving forth his pleasant songs to cheer us and touch the kindlier sympathies and emotions of our being,—such songs as otherwise he might never have sung. And strongly do the sympathies of his brother "Sons of Portsmouth" go forth to him. They will read this new book of his Poems, and wonder that one, to whom nearly all the avenues to enjoyment are made channels of suffering, can still have so much of the love of Nature in him and write so cheerfully.

His Boston friends, B. P. Shillaber, M. P. Kennard and others, have kindly aided him in producing this volume and placing in it some of the pictures of home, which will be dear to absent Sons; and even many who are not in a poetic vein will take the book home with them as a memento of the Reunion of the coming Fourth, which they can also preserve as a "reward of merit" for the good deed of cheering the sufferer by their purchase, just as they have carefully preserved the Rewards of Merit "for good deportment and attention to study" which the school teacher of their infant days gave them. The book opens with a stirring and delightful welcome song to the Sons of Portsmouth. The frontispiece is Market Square, and following are pictures of the North and South Mill bridges, Pleasant street, State street, and a river view. The books can be had at Mr. Joseph H. Foster's.

—We learn from the Chicago Journal of Commerce, that Mr. Warren J. Muchemore, a son of Portsmouth, has been appointed Agent and general contractor in that city, of the celebrated Architectural Iron Works of New York, of which Daniel D. Badger, Esq., another Son, is the President. The Journal speaks in highly complimentary terms of Mr. Muchemore, and his friends here will be pleased to hear of his rapid promotion. This company have already designed, constructed and erected more than a thousand iron-front buildings of every size and order of architecture, which loom up not only in this but foreign countries.

—Our Kittery neighbors have decided to refer to the next annual meeting the whole subject of the bequest of Arabella Rice of $30,000 for the founding and maintenance of a free town library. A correspondent of The State (Portland) speaks of "existing doubts as to the validity of the will."

The new school house in District No. 7, which is now being built, is to cost about $4,000 and will be a neat and substantial structure. Its dimensions are 34x45 feet, portico 12x14 feet with a belfry 8x12 feet and 12 feet high.

—Schooner Anna Bell Hyer collided with schooner Patriot near "boiling rock" in Piscataqua river Monday morning, causing the loss of the latter's anchor, chain and and standing rigging on her port side. The former vessel sustained no injury.

—Hon. W. H. Y. Hackett is to read an essay, upon the question, "Are Business Principles and Christian Principles Necessarily Incompatible," before the next annual meeting of the New Hampshire Unitarian Association, which convenes at Milford next Wednesday.

President, WILLIAM SIMES,

Treasurer, J. F. SHORES.

Deposits, $1,930,378.46.

The Treasurer would ask the attention of the Depositors to these notices.

1st, In July next, the regular Five Years Extra Dividend will be declared.

2, From the 3d day of July to the 20th day of August, the books will be in the hands of a committee to examine the accounts and cast the Dividends thereon, during which time no Withdrawals can be made; therefore, the treasurer requests all depositors needing money during that interval to withdraw it on the 1st, 2nd, or 3d of July, as they can do it on those days without affecting the dividends.

3d. Deposits will be received as usual, while the books are in the hands of the Committee.

4th, The regular and extra dividends can be added to the Depositors' books after the 20th day of August and can then be withdrawn, if so desired; but if allowed to remain, the interest on those dividends will be cast from the 1st day of July.

5th, This bank pays to its Depositors interest semi-annually at the rate of five per cent. per annum free of all taxes, and that interest compounds every six months.

6th. Interest on new deposits commences on the first day of each and every month, and all deposits made on the first three days of each month draw interest from the first day of that month.

SEWING MACHINE SALES

FOR 1872.

BY comparison of Statistics from sworn returns of the sales of Sewing Machines for 1871 and 1872, it shows that the

"DOMESTIC"

SEWING MACHINE Co.'s sales have increased over 375 per cent., while no other Co.'s sales have increased over 36 per cent., proving the great popularity of the "DOMESTIC."

Annexed are the percentage of gain, of the leading makers:

Domestic Sewing Machine Co.,	gain 375	per cent
Wheeler & Wilson	" 36	"
Singer	" " 23	"
Grover & Baker	" " 5	"
Weed	" " 8	"
Wilcox & Gibbs	" " 12	"
Wilson	" " 8	"

Other Machines Co.'s' sales show a loss over the year before.

If the increase in sales be any criterion of merit, the "DOMESTIC" bears the palm.

The "DOMESTIC" works so easy, it is working itself into every family.

The "DOMESTIC" runs so light, it is distancing all competitors. It only asks a few days trial.

The "DOMESTIC" is recommend by the Medical Faculty.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY, SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs,
NO. 368 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON

After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Examinations made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of Inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents, or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of securing their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. ELDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend all inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases for a very reasonable charge. JOHN TAGGART."

IRON in the BLOOD.

DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, DROPSY, HUMORS

PERUVIAN SYRUP

Makes the Weak Strong.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.

Thousands have been charged by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

THE GREAT SOUTH AMERICAN

Jurubeba Blood Purifier,

Is the most powerful cleanser, strengthener and remover of Glandular Obstructions known to Materia Medica.

It is specially adapted to constitutions "worn down" and debilitated by the warm weather of Spring and Summer, when the blood is not in active circulation, consequently stagnating impurities from sluggishness and imperfect action of the secretive organs, and is manifested by Tumors, Eruptions, Blotches, Boils, Pustules, Scrofula, &c.

In the heat of Summer, frequently the Liver and Spleen do not properly perform their functions; the Uterine and Urinary Organs are inactive, producing weakness of the stomach and bowels, and a predisposition to bilious derangement.

Dr. Wells'

EXTRACT OF JURUBEBA

is prepared directly from the SOUTH AMERICAN PLANT, and is peculiarly suited to all these difficulties; it will cleanse the VITIATED BLOOD, strengthen LIFE-GIVING POWERS, and REMOVE ALL OBSTRUCTIONS from IMPAIRED AND ENFEEBLED Organs.

It should be freely taken, as Jurubeba is pronounced by medical writers the most efficient PURIFIER, TONIC and DEOBSTRUENT Known in the whole range of medicinal plants.

The Fruit Crop—State Repudiation—Improved Feeling in the South—Business Healthy—District Expenditures—The Farmers' Triumph—The Civil Service Reformed.

WASHINGTON, June 21.

The hot season commenced here at the same time as last year, and has been about up to the last year's standard. The health savans say the cholera is coming with the hot weather, via Memphis and Nashville, and everybody must put themselves in condition to give it the go-bye. Up to this time the weather has been cool and pleasant, with no rain for more than three weeks. The small fruits promise abundance if the drought does not interfere. That promise has been realized with strawberries; peaches will also be abundant, and grapes, of which great quantities have been planted in this section in the last few years. Hay, where not killed out by the severe drought of last year, promises a good supply to the half-starved cattle that lived through the winter. A southern climate is not adapted to beef and dairy farming, except in the mountain districts. The insects generated in hot climates torment the flesh off cattle, and are not favorable to milk; and besides, there is no such pasturage and growth of hay as you have, except in the mountain regions and some of the bottom lands. Cattle have to grow thick-hided, south, as a protection against insects, which drive them out of the meadow lands, until cold weather sets in.

You published a letter last winter predicting repudiation from Virginia around to Arkansas. It now seems likely to be realized. Virginia settles the rate of interest on her debt. North Carolina congressmen and leading citizens find the doctrine of repudiation popular enough to openly advocate it. They can't make South Carolina levy taxes to pay interest! Louisiana promised the money to her debtors, but still it don't come, and Arkansas is in about the worst condition of any. To repudiate will destroy their state credit hereafter. That is about the last thing which can be done for them. When they can't borrow, the thieves can only steal what is raised by taxes. Repudiation long years ago, in Mississippi, destroyed the credit of that State, and she is not now in the hopeless condition of debt of her neighbors in consequence.

The nomination of Greeley by the Democracy last year was one of those Providential acts which work good, in ways not contemplated. It put all parties on the same platform, substantially, and broke down the barrier of ill feeling, before existing all over the South, and nobody wants to revive it who has any brains. This is the testimony from all parts of the South. The recent movement of Beauregard and others in Louisiana comes out of it.

A healthy increase of exports and decrease of imports comes from the great rise in gold in the early Spring. The exports have increased in New York alone more than thirty millions above the amount for the first six months of the year. It clears our markets of accumulated surplus products, at better prices, and checks the adverse trade balance. It won't make a fat treasury, and pay off the public debt rapidly when imports are checked and exports increased, but it stops the accumulation of debts abroad, which with accumulated interest must sometime be paid. A fellow is sometimes hard up when he stops borrowing, and earns something, and begins to pay off; but it is a healthy operation. It was high time we as a nation began to pay, and stop the accumulation of debt abroad for articles which have no substantial basis of value here, for future earnings.

The morning papers publish the bill for providing for the ordinary and contingent expenses of District officials. Its foots up the modest sum of $693,000 for a population of one hundred and thirty thousand people in a compact body. It includes nothing for streets, parks, water, interest, &c. As Congress provides mainly for the police force, and Board of Health and Asylums, and as they have cut down the expenses on account of the great deficiency in the revenue, some of you economical people in New Hampshire may be inclined to inquire how much it would take when they felt flesh and paid all the bills?

Since the farmer granges upset things in Illinois, defeating some judges and electing others, they are receiving a good deal of attention, advice, and caution. They are advised that they mustn't upset a judge for an ante-diluvian opinion making them slaves, because it interferes with the independence of the Judiciary, no matter what becomes of their own independence. And to elect a judge, who has ideas in common with themselves, is to be irreverent towards antiquated wrongs. I have not seen the decision of Judge Lawrence, who was so curtly set aside, but from the discussion, I infer that he decided a law of Illinois unconstitutional which undertook to regulate railroad corporations, which had received unlimited charters from previous legislatures. The powers which had been given these corporations had not been properly guarded, through ignorance, interest, or some other cause; and because of this neglect or ignorance, or perhaps worse, the legislature had vested perpetual rights in the corporation and when those vested rights were used by the corporation, to wrong and oppress the people they were given to benefit, there was no power on the part of the people to correct the evil, short of revolution. If the farmers of Illinois men into parties, all sorts of questions are likely to come in to take their place. It is a good time to get up parties on side issues until some great questions arise to absorb them again into two main divisions. It will not be surprising if existing organizations get tangled up and somewhat broken, while the new divisions of the future are forming.

The Civil Service regulations are always a subject for a paragraph like the weather. The new Board have not published their yet, but it is understood that competitive examinations will no longer govern in the appointment of the $900 positions, which are held exclusively by females as copyists and counters. It is also understood provision will be made to give some chance to those outside the District of Columbia. EXE.

State News.

Carleton C. Fuller's house at North Stratford was burned Saturday morning. Loss $1500; insured for $1200.

A two years old son of Dr. E. Mitchell of Lancaster died, Friday, from the effects of drinking a solution used for polishing silver.

The Dover Democrat says that work on the railroad from Dover to Great Falls will soon be commenced. This with the Portsmouth & Dover Railroad, is of great importance to our neighbor city, tending to open new facilities for business. One shoe firm in Northwood think of transferring their business, which employs 250 persons, to Dover.

Thursday morning, Mr. John Libbey of East Warren, upon visiting a bear trap which he had set, found that some "varmint" had put his foot in it and then walked off, trap and all. Pursuit was made by Mr. Libby and others, and eight miles from the starting point he was overtaken and shot. He was an enormous bear, measuring seven feet from head to tail and weighing about 450 pounds. His skin alone weighed over forty pounds, and his feet were nine inches in length.

Mrs. M. S. Bedel of Bath was lately thrown from a carriage down a steep bank nearly fifty feet and very seriously injured.

The Lebanon Free Press (republican) hopes the address for the removal of democratic State officers will not pass. It says "the sentiment of the people at home is decidedly averse to it."

At West Milan, on Saturday, Miss Jeanett Corkum, eighteen years old, threw herself in front of a train of cars and was cut in two. She had attempted suicide before.

Great excitement exists in Webster and Fisherville over the arrest of Rev. Geo. Woods on the charge of sodomy.

Readables.

The New York Graphic thinks that with Mr. Bingham in Japan, and Farnsworth at the bar, and Butler administering the Government of Massachusetts, the next Congress will be quiet as a Quaker meeting and exemplary as a graveyard. In fact, Washington bids fair to be dull as a deserted village next winter.

James O'Brien, a convict 24 years old, escaped from the Massachusetts State Prison on Sunday morning. He rigged a "dummy" in his cell and when the men were taken to the wash-room, O'Brien managed to leave them and conceal himself. When the men were locked up again, the officer in charge was deceived by the "dummy" and passed out after locking the cells. Then O'Brien secured a rope with a hook, climbed up on a pile of barrels and boxes, threw the hook to the top of the wall, pulled himself up, jumped off on a wooden fence and escaped. He was not missed for four hours after.

The Wareham News man says a former principal of Middleborough Academy, at one time on the approach of a tempest, insulated his chair on four pieces of glass, and as he thought, politely invited a young lady to sit in his lap for safety. To show the popularity of the man of letters, the young lady replied she would rather be struck by lightning.

John Franklin, a farmer of New York, deliberately threw a valuable plowshare into the river on account of his wife's incessant scolding. Mr. Franklin, it might be well to add, was attached to the weight by a rope; consequently Mrs. F. has lost a husband, a plowshare, and three feet of good rope, just through a chronic propensity to wag her tongue.

The King of Siam is rapidly civilizing, having learned to swear and wear a boiled shirt.

Naval Constructor Samuel H. Pook succeeds Constructor William L. Hanscom at the Charlestown navy yard. Mr. Hanscom goes to the Brooklyn yard.

The departure of the editor of the Charlestown Advertiser on the annual press excursion, last week, gave opportunity to the "devil" to come to the front and be seen of all men. He says he feels that he has talent and has been kept in the background long enough. "Down in front" is his war cry.

A gentleman of the colored persuasion who resides in the suburbs of Lexington, Kentucky, a few nights ago, sent his son to guard certain cherry trees from depredators. A little before midnight he went out to see if his son was at his post. He walked near the boy, without seeing him, toward the cherry trees. The bang of a gun and a stinging sensation convinced the old man that his son was there. He now amuses himself extracting fine shot from his person, and, meantime, stands up to eat his meals.

Charles Koppitz, recently leader of the Globe Theatre orchestra in Boston, died suddenly in Montreal on Sunday.

Mr. Meacham says Gen. Canby was shot by Capt. Jack.

The Charlestown Advertiser says complaints have been received at the Navy Department, Washington, relative to presents made to Naval Constructor Hanscom of the Charlestown naval station on the occasion of the celebration of the tenth anniversary of his marriage. It is said that Government employes who gave money to aid in purchasing presents for Mr. Hanscom, thought they would be retained in the yard by so doing. The charges are however emphatically denied.

Baroness Von Rhode is again Lucca. That is, she has been lucky enough to obtain, as the telegraph assures us, a decree of divorce from a very bad husband.

An incendiary fire at Passaic, N. J., Saturday night, destroyed $100,000 worth of property.

When Stokes heard of the conviction of Sharkey he turned deadly pale.

Elias Pike, of Salisbury, Mass., fell into a spring while drinking from it on Saturday, and was drowned. He was 62 years old and in feeble health.

Stokes' third trial will take place in October. In the meantime an effort will be made to bail him.

Owing to drought, fires in the woods are reported from all sections.

On Sunday, steamer Columbus, from Dublin for Holyhead, ran on Saint Renes Rock, near Holyhead, and broke in two amidships. Two hundred passengers were on board. Twelve of them and three of the crew were drowned.

Lewis Tappan, the famous anti-slavery agitator, died in Brooklyn, Saturday, of paralysis, at the age of 85 years.

During a fire at Sacarappa, Me., Monday morning, Mrs. Roberts, 65 years old, jumped from the attic of the burning building to the ground and waskilled.

WHISTLING to keep their courage up, is the interpretation the Springfield Republican gives of the protestations of the Massachusetts anti-Butler papers that Benjamin F.'s chances of being governor of that State are infinitesimal. It holds that these journals are entirely over-doing the matter, and that while looking the other way and whistling may help a child by a graveyard, it is hardly a safe recipe for keeping a very able, very corrupt man out of the Massachusetts governorship. Not only, it says, does he draw to himself all the worst elements in society and politics, but even decent, God-fearing men are attracted to him. The salary matter aside, he stands a much better chance to win than he did two years ago. He has no such formidable opposition to encounter at the threshold as on the former occasion; of the men who drove him out of Worcester, some have had new light on his merits and political deservings, others are not serving the republican party at present, others are under weighty bonds to keep the peace, others have gone on journeys, like Lord Lovell, strange countries for to see. While he will retain a portion of his prohibitionist admirers, he will poll the full voting strength of the liquor interest." Still the Republican holds that it does not yet necessarily follow that he is to be the next governor, but it is very sure whistling will not dispose of him. The consternation Benjamin F. carries into the editorial sanctums of Massachusetts is a very amusing spectacle to people outside that State.

LEPROSY IN SAN FRANCISCO.—Leprosy has made so formidable appearance in San Francisco that the people are beginning to be alarmed lest it should break out in the form of an epidemic. A doctor, writing to a San Francisco paper on the subject, traces the origin of the disease to the advent of the Chinese. Three years ago the presence of the disease was suspected, and after a long search a native Californian, of Indian blood, was found secreted in the city, afflicted with leprosy; but now cases are met on the street, and in some localities several at a time. The doctor recommends that vigorous measures should be taken to establish a quarantine to prevent the further importation of the disease, and that the Board of Health ferret out and confine in a hospital, which should be established for the purpose, such cases as come to their notice in the city.

THE BARRY DIVORCE CASE.—In the Supreme Court, on Saturday, Judge Ames presiding, the Barry divorce case came up once more and was finally disposed of, the court ordering the libel to be dismissed.

It will be recollected that some time since Charles A. Barry, a teacher of drawing in the public schools of Boston, filed a libel of divorce against his wife, Flora E. Barry, quite well-known as a public singer. The libel alleged adultery on the part of the libellee. It will also be recollected that on the 3d inst. a hearing was had before Judge Ames on a motion for alimony and counsel fees. At that hearing evidence was introduced to show that the libellant had no income beyond about $2500 from his profession and that the libellee had been deprived of her accustomed income by representations made to various parties by her husband. After hearing the evidence the court ordered the libellant to make weekly payments to the libellee at the rate of $1000 per annum, besides paying $150 for her counsel's fees.

On Saturday last Edwin L. Barney, Esq., counsel for the libellee, moved that the libel be dismissed on the ground that the order of court giving Mrs. Barry alimony and counsel fees had not been complied with.

Leonard A. Jones, Esq., counsel for Mr. Barry, stated that the order in regard to alimony and counsel fees had not been complied with, on account of the libellant's inability to do so, his income not being sufficient for his support and the payment of the alimony, the salary of Mr. Barry for the month of May having been trusteed in advance by the father of Mrs. Barry. Mr. Jones further said that under the circumstances they would of course have to submit to the dismissal of the case, should the court so decide.

After considering the case, Judge Ames ordered that the libel be dismissed for the reasons set forth in the motion of the libellee's counsel.

This, of course, settles the case so far as the present libel is concerned, and another libel setting forth the same grounds cannot be brought. It remains, however, to be seen whether this is the end of the difficulty. It wouldn't be strange if one or the other party should make further efforts to free themselves from the matrimonial yoke, which appears to be anything but comfortable or pleasant to either party.—Boston Herald.

—The Alta Californian tells about a man who is burying his vices: "He looks like an undertaker; but it's so easy to stop these foolish practices, you know. The only trouble he has suffered in abstaining has been: First, "restlessness and a desire to chew something; second, a sort of mental thirst that seems unquenchable; third, an insane idea of doing two things at once, and never feeling satisfied or at rest; fourth, sleepless nights, waking up every fifteen minutes and thinking each time that he has overslept himself; fifth, a desire to tell every one he sees that he has quit smoking and "smiling"—this is done to brace up his failing courage and commend himself and his pride to the work of self conquest; sixth, he imagines he used to smoke a whole box of cigars a day, and brags of his former powers, while insinuating his present fortitude; seventh, he is now suffering from a tempting voice, which says: 'If you take up smoking again, you could restrain yourself to the moderate use of the weed; why should you persecute yourself, and thereby acknowledge that you can't smoke in moderation? Your will is certainly strong enough to resist any sucess in future!' He is in a bad state of colic now. If he gives in, he will be smoking ten cigars a day within a week. But it's so easy for him to quit smoking, if he only makes up his mind so do so!"

A little thoughtfulness saves a deal of trouble. A young man on Nelson street will not step into the grass when it is wet and his boots are blacked. He says he doesn't mind the blacking, but his mother is getting old and lame, and can't work a brush as she used to.—Danbury News.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

To Advertisers.

The DAILY CHRONICLE and NEW HAMPSHIRE GAZETTE will be enlarged July 1st. Those of our patrons who desire their adverticements changed at that time,are requested to send them in immediately.

The steamer Major, which is to run between this city and Star Island during the summer, arrived here Monday forenoon and left at 11 o'clock on her first trip. She is a trifle larger than the Appledore, is splendidly fitted up and steams very fast.

The schooner Mary E. Caswell has been purchased by the Laighton Brothers,of Appledore Island,and is receiving a thorough overhauling and refitting. She is to be rechristened the "Sparkle," and will be employed as a tender to the Appledore House, to take out fishing and sailing parties desiring to remain afloat over night. She is a roomy vessel and staunch sea boat, and under the skillful handling of some old Shoals skipper will ride out almost any weather in perfect safety.

On account of the breaking of one of the street sprinklers on Monday, Mr. E. H. Balch desires us to apologise for its absence from duty to-day. It will be repaired as soon as possible and be put on the route again.

Two young lads of Kittery were out sailing in a boat on Saturday afternoon, and the skipper of the craft did two things which he "didn't oughter"—he made the sheet fast, for one thing, and then neglected his boat while he "chaffed" some men on board a vessel. As a natural consequence of such reckless conduct as those, the boat filled with water, but was too buoyant to sink, and the crew were picked up and the boat towed to the navy yard by the steamer Emerald. The boat was bailed out and the wet navigators again set sail, the skipper justly remarking that "anybody who makes a sheet fast and then don't mind what he's doing, ought to get capsized." He minded what he was doing, after that, and didn't make his sheet fast any more, so the boat reached her moorings in safety.

The annual exhibition of the Girls High School will take place July 15th. We understand that there is to be no exhibition at the Boys' High School this year.

The author of the article published in Congressman Small's would-be democratic hand organ in this city, headed "A Resignation and Appointment," is a liar.

We understand that the new school in District No 7, Kittery, is to be called the "Austin" school-house, Rev. Daniel Austin having been respectfully solicited by all the legal voters of said District to give it his name. It is a fine building and a credit to the builders, the district, the town and the county.

Mr. A. W. Odiorne and the workmen under his charge have completed the floor for the tent which is to be raised this week for the Sons' reception. Mr. L. E. Martin is to commence work on the triumphal arch this week.

Promptness is a virtue. In thirty minutes after the arrival of U. S. S. Plymouth in the harbor on Monday, the regatta committee were on board negotiating for the entrance of the Plymouth's boats in the 4th of July races, and came away successful.

Regular meeting of the citizen's committee this evening at the Council room at eight o'clock.

The Portsmouth Directory for 1873 is just published and for sale by Jos. H. Foster at $1.25. A large increase of names is noted. A list of absent sons and daughters is furnished.

Messrs. C. H. Mendum & Co. and Hartley W. Mason commence elaborate decorations of their stores on Market street, this week. Mr. E. A. Tilton superintends Mendum & Co.'s decorations.

"Grandmother's" anonymous communication, recommending the close of rum shops on Sundays and on the Fourth of July, has been respectfully referred to City Marshal Johnson, with power to act.

A WOMAN'S DEVOTION.—You may remember that I wrote you some time ago a description of the manner in which the murderers kill time in the Tombs, in which I spoke of the beautiful little lady who visits Sharkey every day, remaining at his cell door from the opening to the closing of visitors' hours. I said that their affection for each other was a subject of common remark, and that they are engaged to be married. Can you guess who that little lady is? None other than the sister of Robert Dunn, Sharkey's victim. Dunn, although a gambler by profession, and the proprietor of one or two gaming saloons, seems to have been by nature a rarely genial, good-natured fellow, wonderfully free from small vices, and ever ready to give a helping hand to anybody in distress. The consequence was that he was greatly liked by all who knew him, respectable and otherwise. In fact, he had not an enemy in the world. One of his acquaintances, a gentleman of respectability, told me that Dunn had received a good education and had drifted into his doubtful business rather through force of circumstances and associations than on account of any personal liking for it. The best trait in his character, however, was his love for his widowed mother and his sisters. He had accumulated a little property, the proceeds of which he devoted to the comfort of the former and the education and advancement of the latter. It is said that he carefully guarded them from any taint which might accrue from his own associations, and that he even successfully kept them in ignorance of what sort of business he was pursuing. Sharkey, a young ward politician of the better class, fairly educated, good looking, and possessed of a competence, fell in love with Mis Dunn, and she reciprocated his attachment. Dunn looked upon the suit with favor and the two men were the best of friends.

On the fatal Sunday they were returning from the funeral of a friend together and stepped into "The Place" to get a drink. They had been drinking before and it had affected Sharkey's head. In the course of the conversation Sharkey took a drunken man's exception to some remark of Dunn's and drew a revolver, which he carried in accordance with the then prevalent custom, and commenced flourishing it about. Dunn laughed good naturedly at Sharkey's irritability, when suddenly the revolver went off and Dunn fell, mortally wounded. Those who know him best say that he would not have the pluck to kill a cat knowingly, let alone a human being. The dead man's sister evidently believes him innocent, if her attentions to him are any criterion. There is no question, however, that he should be severely punished for his recklessness and folly.—N. Y. cor. Boston Herald.

PLUCK THE FLOWERS!—All lovers of flowers must remember that one blossom allowed to mature or "go to seed" injures the plant more than a dozen new buds. Cut your flowers then, all of them, before they begin to fade. Adorn your room with them: put them on your tables; send bouquets to your friends who have no flowers, or exchange favors with those who have. You will surely find that the more you cut off the more you will have. All roses after they have ceased to bloom should be cut back, that the strength of the root may go to forming new roots for next year. On bushes not a seed should be allowed to mature.—Scribner's.

—The merchants of Memphis will present the Associated Press agent at that point with a miniature coffin, as a token of their slight esteem. The gentlemen sent out full and accurate reports of the prevalence of cholera in the City, in spite of the fact that the local papers remained mum. Hence the retail dealers' gratitude.

The Boston brick market is overstocked, though they have had two fires, and have got a prohibitory liquor law.—New York Times.

Morning Chronicle.

The Return of The Sons

They are coming home, those noble Sons,
Who left their native shore
To battle with the storms of life;
They are coming home once more.

O, there'll be a joyous meeting
On that great gala day
When every face with love is beaming,
Lit by the sun's bright ray.

Then will meet old friends and schoolmates,
Who, though years may roll between,
Can ne'er forget their childhood's sports,
Nor youth's exalted dreams.

But hark o'en new methinks I hear them,
Mid the cannons din and roar,
As they come with heartfelt welcomes,
To gain their native shore.

Full twenty years have passed away,
Since last they met at home
Around the dear old hearthstone;
Now in distant lands they roam.

Some now dwell among the mountains,
Where the northern regions lie,
Or walk the fertile hills and valleys
Neath fairer, summer skies.

Others in some distant clime,
Rest beneath the soft green sward,
Who, for their country's honor died,
But now, receive their just reward.

Some, perchance, have found a home,
More costly and more fair,
But still cushioned in memory dear,
In childhood, free from care.

There they roved from morn to eve,
Free to go and come at will;
And heard a mother's loving voice
Which now perhaps is still.

Some have crossed the roaring ocean,
In foreign lands to roam,
Far, far away from childhood haunts
And "Home, Home, sweet Home."

Then welcome again, dear friends of our youth
To your own native land once more,
We bid you welcome on the morn of the Fourth,
To your home on Piscataqua's shore.

SEWING MACHINE SALES

FOR 1872.

BY comparison of Statistics from sworn returns of the sales of Sewing Machines for 1871 and 1872, it shows that the

"DOMESTIC"

SEWING MACHINE Co.'s sales have increased over 375 per cent. while no other Co.'s sales have increased over 36 per cent., proving the great popularity of the "DOMESTIC."

Annexed are the percentage of gain, of the leading makers:

Domestic Sewing Machine Co.,	gain	375	per cent
Wheeler & Wilson	"	36	"
Singer	"	23	"
Grover & Baker	"	11	"
Weed	"	8	"
Wilcox & Gibbs	"	12	"
Wilson	"	8	"

Other Machines Co.'s' sales show a loss over the year before.

If the increase in sales be any criterion of merit, the "DOMESTIC" bears the palm.

The "DOMESTIC" works so easy, it is working itself into every family.

The "DOMESTIC" runs so light, it is distancing all competitors. It only asks a few days trial.

The "DOMESTIC" is recommend by the Medical Faculty.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY, SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs,
No. 78 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON

After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges. IRON in the BLOOD.

DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, DROPSY, HUMORS

PERUVIAN SYRUP

Makes the Weak Strong.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an ailment, as easily digested, and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning up. Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.

Thousands have been charged by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures to strong, healthy, and happy men and women: and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

THE GREAT SOUTH AMERICAN

Jurubeba Blood Purifier,

Is the most powerful cleanser, strengthener and remover of Glandular Obstructions known to Materia Medica.

It is specially adapted to constitutions "worn down" and debilitated by the warm weather of Spring and Summer, when the blood is not in active circulation, consequently gathering impurities from sluggishness and imperfect action of the secretive organs, and is manifested by Tumors, Eruptions, Blotches, Boils, Pustules, Scrofula, &c.

In the heat of Summer, frequently the Liver and Spleen do not properly perform their functions; the Uterine and Urinary Organs are inactive, producing weakness of the stomach and intestines and a predisposition to bilious derangement.

Dr. Wells'

EXTRACT OF JURUBEBA

is prepared directly from the SOUTH AMERICAN PLANT, and is peculiarly suited to all those difficulties; it will cleanse the VITIATED BLOOD, strengthen the LIFE-GIVING POWERS, and REMOVE ALL OBSTRUCTIONS from IMPAIRED AND ENFEEBLED Organs.

It should be freely taken, as Jurubeba is pronounced by medical writers the most efficient PURIFIER, TONIC and DEOBSTRUENT known in the whole range of medicinal plants.

THE SHAH'S HAREM.—What ever may be the price of the Shah's overcoat, it is certain he is not a good husband. At least he is not polite. When he started on his European trip he resolved to take four or five of the most taking of his wives along. They were accordingly packed up with the rest of the traps and the party started, the ladies no doubt felicitating themselves on the pleasure they were to have. But, alas! they reckoned without their host. When they got to Moscow the Shah quartered himself at the palace, but ordered his wives to a country house. They were indignant, and stamped their little feet in open revolt. But the Shah was firm, and his firman once promulgated, could not but be obeyed. Then they cried, and swore by the Koran, or the Prophet's beard, and by all the rest of the Oriental profanity, that they would not submit. The Shah took off his million dollar overcoat, toyed awhile in pensive thought with a four million dollar ring, and then tinkled a bell inlaid with two million dollars worth of gems. Slaves appeared, who were instructed by his Highness to have the refractory Harem sent back to Persia by the first train. They were sent, and, two hours after the Shah had left Moscow, the disconsolate wives were on route for Rizzan, solacing themselves with prise packages of candies and the illustrated papers.

—From a number of "Fables for Youth" by Sarsfield Young, a Son of Portsmouth, in "Our Monthly Gossip" of Lippincott's July number, we clip three:

"THE DOG AND THE SPARE-RIB.—A mastiff crossing a bridge and bearing in his mouth a piece of meat, suddenly swallowed the meat. He immediately observed that the shadow of the aforesaid meat in the water had disappeared.

Such is optics.

Moral: We learn from this fable that life is but a shadow.

THE ASS AND LOCOMOTIVE.—A donkey one day was quietly munching thistles when he heard the screaming whistle of a locomotive. Pricking up his ears, he started into a gallop and raced across lots with his tail high in air.

Moral: This fable teaches what an ass he was.

THE MOUSE AND THE CAT.—A mouse once peeped from his hole and saw a cat. The cat was looking the other way, and happened not to see the mouse.

Nobody killed.

Moral: This little fable doesn't teach anything."

ROUGH ON OLD "SUNSET."—In April last, while Hon. S. S. Cox was making a flying visit to the scenes of his boyhood in Ohio, he attended church, as all good Coxes do, on Sunday, and listened to a sermon from the following text: "As a servant earnestly desireth the shadow."—Job vii. 2.

The venerable preacher began by saying he had seen a picture illustrating the text which represented a slave looking toward the west, waiting for the end of the day's work. It was entitled, "Longing for sunset." How he "improved" that text! He called on the worthies of both Testaments; pictured Jacob's longing for Joseph, and old Simeon's desire to go, "since his eyes were made glad." He impressed the thought that life was a struggle, and no man should desire to go. "Work was to be done. And yet we should look and long for 'sunset.' When the heart breaks, and sorrow is too painful, and suicide tempts, and the soul longs for 'sunset,' we should remember that sunset is only the vestibule of sunrise." But how he perorated! "When the river is passed, the swollen flood passed, and heaven attained, there will be unshadowed joy, for there is no Sunset in heaven!"

Rather rough on our Congressman!—Editor's Drawer in Harper's Magazine for July.

A singular wager has just been reported. It is said that Stokes made a bet with a friend that he knew more about the law of his case than the judges of the general term, who refused him a new trial, and that he was perfectly willing to leave the question to the court of appeals. Strange as it may seem that court has decided that Stokes really did understand the law of the case better than the Judges. The "friend," however, urges "a technicality of the law," in bar of payment of his debt, but expresses his perfect willingness to vote for Stokes for Judge of the Supreme Court in place of Brady, or Fancher, or Davis.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

The Daily Chronicle,

Portsmouth, N. H.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 25, 1873.

True--if Truer.

Our usually fair-minded contemporary, the Manchester Union, has been preaching a sermon from the text, "Wherefore let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall," in which it takes occasion to refer to the Haverhill Bulletin and the CHRONICLE after the manner of a watchful and distrustful monitor, eager to detect a fellow student in some misdemeanor which is worthy of being reported. The Union thinks it discerns the motives which actuate the editor of the Bulletin in vindicating "the pretensions of the sublimest scoundrel on the earth for the governorship of Massachusetts"—meaning Benjamin F. Butler. The Bulletin's editor is doubtless self-satisfied with his own course and needs no defence that he is not capable of making. But the Union isn't satisfied with its shot at that paper, and without waiting for a reply, bears away to the windward and turns its broadside on the CHRONICLE in a manner which shows that the Union editor has almost convinced himself that he believes his allegations and insinuations true. Listen at him:—

The Portsmouth CHRONICLE was as zealous as any of you in the righteous cause, yet, we observe that it copies the Bulletin's endorsement of Ben Butler without a word of dissent. That paper clearly has encountered one of those temptations which are not "common to man"—at least were not in the days of the apostle, although the case of Judas seems to have been a striking parallel.

The moral which the Union would have its readers draw is that the press is to be subsidized and the leaders in the recent crusade on the public treasury be aided in escaping just condemnation. We would remind the Union that he who is eager to argue on false premises and willing to fall into misrepresentations is as liable to be mistaken in his conclusions as in judgment. We as often dissent from editorials we copy from other papers as we agree with them, but desire to give our readers the opportunity of viewing matters from other stand-points than our own. We do not, however, dissent from the Bulletin article on Gen. Butler—but from different reasons than the Union so kindly chooses to assign.

We haven't the slightest hesitation in declaring that we earnestly hope that Benjamin F. Butler will be the next Governor of Massachusetts. It seems to us that the time has come, when the old Bay State needs a man of will at the helm. We regretted that Gen. Butler was two years ago defeated in the nominating convention, honestly or otherwise, and had he met chicanery by the use of the same weapons, should not have wept over the result. It is not for Gen. Butler's sake, however, that we wish his elevation to the executive chair. With all his faults, he is bold and undaunted. The people of Massachusetts can rebuke him for his share in the salary swindle by preventing his return to Congress. They may best subserve their own interest by electing him Governor. There are few public men who have not made great mistakes. All are liable to do so, and none more than those whom Massachusetts has delighted to honor. As late as last winter a Dawes aspired to be a U. S. Senator from that State and was second on the ballot which chose Mr. Boutwell. Better for Massachusetts if men of the Dawes stamp, who deny complicity with swindlers when brought to public view, give away to men like Butler, who defend their course, right or wrong. Massachusetts occupies a deplorable situation with a Washburn at its helm, because a man of stamina is needed. The infamous system by which State constables thrive on black mail exists because the laws are not enforced. Admitted that Gen. Butler does not favor prohibition, it is known that he favors enforcement of the laws. As Governor he could make those laws unpopular and secure their repeal by enforcement or their approval by the people by showing the possibility of enforcement. At such a time as this a positive man is needed in the executive chair of Massachusetts, and prohibitionists and free rum advocates can afford to vote for him to test the endurance of the people. We favor this not to please Ben Butler, but to make him an agent for accomplishing a desired result.

State News.

"Happy New Hampshire"! exclaims the New Orleans Times, admiratively calling the attention of Louisianians to the facts that the annual expenses to government of the Granite State are but $415,488, its revenues in excess of that sum by $6,000, and these funds actually left unstolen in the treasury, while the people's savings bank deposits amount to nearly twenty-nine millions.

The horrified spectators, suspecting murder most foul, summoned the police and, as the body did not sink, they went out in boats to recover it. It was indeed a human body, that of a beautiful woman, nude and unearthly white, but when they drew it in and discovered that it was a broken plaster cast of Powers' "Greek Slave," horror gave place to other feelings, and the vigilant officer made no attempt to arrest the murderer.

Mr. Moody preached from 'He that withholdeth corn, the people shall curse him; but blessings shall be upon the head of him that selleth it.' The man sat before him and looked him squarely in the face, determined not to be daunted. Life in Danbury.

To deliberately concoct a suitable notice of James Montgomery Bailey's new book and with malice aforethought endeavor to outdo the witty author and bring him to grief, is at once an impossibility and not a necessity. The author's witty sayings are in every one's mind and the book should be in everybody's parlor. Opening it, the reader recognizes in the jolly features of Danbury's famed editor the impress of the mind that has set the world in cachination. A man with such a face can do no less than make friends and be friendly. The ladies especially will admire and claim acquaintance with the droll Bailey, for wherever intelligence is, there are his sketches gathered together.

Mr. Bailey's opening motto is one of his own rare conceits: "It is just as impossible to get along without advertising, as it is for a cross-eyed man to borrow a gun." And here is the title in full:—

Life in Danbury: Being a brief but comprehensive record of a remarkable people, under more remarkable circumstances, and chronicled in a most remarkable manner, by the author, James M. Bailey, "The Danbury News man," and carefully compiled, with a pair of eight dollar shears, by the compiler.

In the preface, Mr. Bailey tells why he wrote the book, (as if everybody did not expect and wish him to,) saying to the friends of the News, who may take up this work;

The question may come, Why did I write a book? It is a natural inquiry. It has assailed hundreds before our day; it will inflict hundreds in the years to come. And probably there is no form of interrogation so loaded with subtile torture as this very one, unless it is to be asked for a light in a strange depot by a man you had just selected out of seventeen thousand as the man to be most likely to have a match.

Various authors have various reasons for bringing out a book, and this reason may or may not be the reason they give it to the world; I know not and care not. It is not for me to judge the world, unless I am elected.

It is a matter which lies between the author and his own conscience, and I know of no place where it would be less likely to be crowded. But my reason for writing a book is so novel, so different from all others, that the public may be pardoned for feeling an intense desire to know it. Some have written a book for money; I have not. Some for fame; I have not. Some for love; I have not. Some for kindlings; I have not. I have not written a book for any of these reasons or all of them combined. In fact, gentle borrower, I have not written a book at all—I have merely clipped it. Yours truly,

CLIPPER.

But in this preface it appears that he has not quite freed his mind, so he starts off with a second one as follows:

This work is designed to while away a stray hour which the borrower may have at odd times. The matter has been carefully selected with a view to suiting all cases and conditions. Within its covers the banker may find relief—although it is extremely doubtful; and here is something for the farmer, the artisan, the undertaker, the laborer in the mines, the potter, the merchant, the student, the man of leisure, the backman, etc. The matter was written at odd times, and generally right after pay day, and it is submitted to the borrower with a great deal of timidity, but with the earnest hope that it may be the humble means of making money.

If in its perusal one single (or even married) borrower is made purer, and better, and his life made to appear brighter, and his soul lifted up generally, I shall sincerely rejoice to hear it. Address me at Danbury enclosing a stamp.

"THE DANBURY NEWS MAN."

Shepard & Gill, of Boston, publish the book, and it is selling like hot cakes.

J. H. Foster has it.

EYE-DEAL AFFECTION. — Somebody writes from Niagara Falls this season to the St. Louis Democrat in a sentimentally-querulous vein. Goat Island, he says abounds in romantic walks, shady retreats, cool resting places, and picturesque scenes which afford every opportunity for low converse, sweet whispered nothing, or serious talk, as the case may be, and from 10 A. M. until early twilight the woods are full of lovers, married and single, who flirt, build air-castles, read Tennyson, Joaquin Miller, and Swinbourne to each other, stopping at frequent intervals to take long, lingering glances into each other's eyes—glances which convey more affection in a minute than the lips could utter in a week. Most of man and woman-kind "have been there" at some period of their lives, and right there let me propound a question: Why, in the name of all the fond hopes never realized, and the tender emotions of the human heart, does there come but one period in life in which we indulge in these peculiar soul-thrilling glances? I put the same question to a poet and philosopher once, and while he freely admitted that the love he bore his wife after twenty years of married life was no more to be compared with his early love than a glowing anthracite flame to a fire-fly's spark, yet he had never been able to realize that peculiar bliss and ecstasy of mind experienced during his courting days, and the only time his wife had ever given him one of those soul searching glances was ten years after marriage, and it occasioned by a denial on his part that he had devoured the last half of a custard pie, and a desire on her part to look in his eyes to see if he was prevaricating.

—With Andy Johnson Governor of Tennessee, and General Butler Governor of Massachusetts, there would be great danger that the peaceful and friendly relations now existing between these two sovereign States might be interrupted. Voters should think of this. Springfield Republican.

—A Portland man, caught with his hook and line in another man's trout brook, completely silenced the owner, who remonstrated, with the majestic answer, "Who wants to catch your trout? I'm only trying to drown this worm."

BUREAU OF CONSTRUCTION AND REPAIR,
WASHINGTON, June 21, 1873.

SEALED PROPOSALS will be received at the Bureau until 12 o'clock noon, August 7, 1873, for the construction, including all the materials except the live-oak timber, of the hull of a steam sloop-of-war of about 1500 tons measurement, complete for sea service. Plans and specifications in detail for the hull, showing the work to be done may be seen and examined at this Bureau, and at the Commandants's Offices at the Navy Yards at Philadelphia, Brooklyn, Charlestown and Kittery, on and after the 6th of July next.

The hull must be completed in all respects according to the contract and specifications; the materials must be of the best quality, and the work must be done in the best manner, and the vessel be delivered at such Navy Yard on the Atlantic coast as the Department may direct, in eight months from the date and signing of the contract.

Payments will be made as the work progresses in proportionate amounts, reserving the usual percentage until the final completion and acceptance of the vessel.

The bids must be accompanied with the guarantee required by law, that if the contract is awarded, it will be promptly executed, and the names of the parties who are to become the sureties to the amount of the face of the contract will also be stated.

The Department reserves the right to accept or reject any or all bids which, in its opinion, are not to the public interest.

Bids will only be accepted from parties who are know to be shipbuilders, and to have the necessary facilities for doing the work. daw.

Schooner M. Sewell, from Port Johnson with between 300 and 400 tons of coal for Manchester, arrived at the Concord Railroad wharf on Thursday afternoon. Mr. Barrett, the energetic agent of the railroad, berthed the vessel that evening, and commenced discharging her on Friday morning; and on Saturday, at 10 o'clock A. M., all the coal was in Manchester and the schooner on her way to Novia Scotia for another cargo of coal. The only expenses incurred here were to the railroad company for discharging the coal, (at 30 cents per ton,) the captain being his own pilot up and down the river.

We are informed that Boatswain McCaffery, of the navy yard, is engaged in getting up a tub race for the 4th of July, and that several competitors for the honors of the race have already entered their names. Good! for a tub race is to a common pulling match as a farce is to a tragedy.

One day last week a railroad laborer down at Dover Point, who is a good swimmer, had the temerity to undertake to swim across the Piscataqua from the Point over to the Newington side, just at the time when the tide began to ebb and the current was very rapid. He was told better, but persisted in trying it. But out in midriver, it was too much for him and he was carried away down toward Portsmouth bridge. He bellowed like a dying calf and went out of sight two or three times. A boat with a couple of men put off and reached him just in time to save him from a watery grave. He is all right now, but thinks that the Piscataqua river is a fraud, and he isn't on the swim so much as he was.—Dover Democrat.

UNDERGROUND, OR LIFE BELOW THE SURFACE—Incidents and Accidents Beyond the Light of Day, Startling Adventures in all parts of the World, Mines and the Mode of Working them, Under-currents of Society, Caverns and their Mysteries, Prisons and their Secrets, Down in the Depths of the Sea, Strange Stories of the Detection of Crime. By Thomas W. Knox. 942 pages, 130 Illustrations. Hartford, Conn. J. B. Burr & Hyde, Publishers.

Too little is known by the public in general of the real character and history of the sources from which a great amount of the wealth and luxury of the world is derived. As a book for the fireside, to be read by all classes, it is certainly very valuable, in the amount of solid and important information it gives upon the character and working of mines with all its attendant perils, the rich discoveries of science under the surface of the earth—a comprehensive "underground" physical geography, in short. But the great value of the work is not comprised in the vivid descriptions of these interesting topics; for the work ranges over the entire globe, revealing mysterious histories of the race in their ancient and modern operations "under the surface," as well, and is replete with incidents of peril and destruction to the "dwellers under the earth," the toilers closed out from the light of days for years, in dark caverns, "unhonored and unsung," and even unknown to most who live in the sunlight on the variegated surface of the "smiling earth." The amount of interesting matter compressed into this book is indeed quite astonishing and could have been thus condensed only by skillful and experienced writers, indeed only by extensive travelers. Col. Knox has literally circumnavigated the globe, and taken many a long journey thousands of miles up and down its surface between the poles, to gather up the materials for this and other of his works. It is not a matter of surprise then but a legitimate result of hard work and appreciative observation, that "Underground" is so well freighted with interesting material, and so trenchant and large-minded in his reflections upon human nature as it is.

The lovers of the romantic will find pleasure in this book, while the common-place lover of the practical, and who never sees the cheese in the milk, and don't believe till he does see, will thank the author for his "solid facts."

The typography of the work is excellent, and it is well bound, a credit to publishers as well as author. The Agent, Mr. Foster, is at the Franklin House. The work is for sale only by subscription.

Fourth of July, 1873.

Morning Chronicle.

A GOOD WATCH DOG.—For many weeks past Hiram Ripley, a teamster, living on Fort street, below the railroad bridge, had been thinking he ought to have a good watch dog around the house and barn, as his wife was much of the time alone, and as bad boys frequently raided his barn for old junk. So the other day, when a farmer came along with a big brindle dog under his wagon, and wanted to sell him for five dollars, Ripley criticised the canine, inquired as to his merits, and said it was a trade. He tied the dog up in a woodshed, fed him bountifully, and he went into the country after a load of potatoes with a light heart, believing that no human being could come fooling around his house and live long. He was gone over night, and it was afternoon Friday before he returned home. He drove up to the barn, and went in by the stable door to throw open the big doors. He had just got on the male floor when a buzz-saw began ripping up and down his leg. He thought it was a buzz-saw, but it wasn't; it was the watch dog of his. Mrs. Ripley, desiring to go off to a relative's, had turned the dog into the barn, and he was watching, as was his business. Ripley yelled, "Oh! bokey to saltpetre," as he felt the grinding at his leg, and he made a long skip into a corner, and faced about, and saw the dog. The old canine deliberately picked the woollen and flesh out of his teeth, and was then ready for business. His eyes were fixed on Ripley's lower vest button, his stump tail stood up straight, and his fore legs had an uneasy motion, as if he wanted to reach out after something.

"Nice old fellow!" began Ripley, thinking to beguile the dog; "good doggy—nice doggy—don't you know me?"

The dog seemed to have heard the voice before, and he sat down and lost a little of the fierce look. This encouraged Ripley, and he started to go out, but he had taken but a few steps when the dog took half a yard from the back of his coat, and brought away a piece of flesh. Ripley fell over the peck measure and the dog took another mouthful, but did not pursue to the corner.

"Oh! jewhittaker to Jerusalem!" groaned the dog buyer, as he leaned up against a barrel and saw the dog calmly ruminating over the last mouthful.

The canine sat up again and smacked his lips, and uttered a low growl which reverberated around the barn like thunder. He closed one eye and peered at Ripley with the other, and then moved his paws around with that reckless, uneasy manner before mentioned. Ripley began yelling for help, but he had not yelled more than three times when the dog cheeked him with a look that spoke volumes. Then he went into the beguiling business again. "Here, Tiger," he called, snapping his fingers, "nice Tiger—best dog in Detroit—poor old doggy." Tiger uttered a whine and beat "Ben Butler's Dream" on the floor with his stump narrative, while a tear of tender love stole into each eye. The thing was all right now, and Ripley started out again, keeping his back behind him. He had half crossed the floor when he felt buzz-saws and red-hot irons and pitch-forks jabbing him all over. He went up and came down, turned handsprings and jumped from the trapeze, and in a moment was back in the corner, and the old dog was sitting up as before. Ripley couldn't sit down, and he didn't feel like standing up, and so he leaned up against the barrel and recklessly abused and insulted the dog. He called him an old loafer, a "ring" thief, a back-salary stealer, a carpet bagger and a Mormon, and then went on abusing every one of the canine relatives back to the great grandfather.

At length, after being a prisoner for nearly three hours, some boys discovered the man's situation. By his direction they went for a grocer who keeps a revolver, and the grocer came and released the prisoner by shooting the dog. Ripley came up town to have his wounds dressed, and they numbered twenty-three different bites, and were impartially distributed over a large extent of territory. However, there's nothing like keeping a family watch-dog.—Detroit Free Press.

—A negro in Columbus, Ga., dreamed that he found $5 at a certain place in a street. He went to the spot next morning, found $1, and now he accuses the ghost who told him to go there of stealing the other $4.

SEWING MACHINE SALES
FOR 1872.

BY comparison of Statistics from sworn returns of the sales of Sewing Machines for 1871 and 1872, it shows that the

"DOMESTIC"

SEWING MACHINE CO.'s sales have increased over 375 per cent, while no other Co.'s sales have increased over 26 per cent., proving the great popularity of the "DOMESTIC."

Amounts are the percentage of gain, of the leading makers.

Other Machines Co.'s sales show a loss over the year before.

If the increase in sales be any criterion of merit, the "DOMESTIC" bears the palm.

The "DOMESTIC" works so easy, it is working itself into every family.

The "DOMESTIC" runs so light, it is distancing all competitors. It only asks a few days trial.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.

R. S. EDDY, SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs,
No. 76 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON

After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of invention, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGGART."

IRON in the BLOOD.

DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, DROPSY, HUMORS

PERUVIAN SYRUP

Makes the Weak Strong.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.

Thousands have been charged by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

THE GREAT SOUTH AMERICAN

Jurubeba Blood Purifier,

Is the most powerful cleanser, strengthener and remover of Glandular Obstructions known to Materia Medica.

It is specially adapted to constitutions "worn down" and debilitated by the warm weather of Spring and Summer, when the blood is not in active circulation, consequently gathering impurities from sluggishness and imperfect action of the secretive organs, and is manifested by Tumors, Eruptions, Blotches, Boils, Pustules, Scrofula &c.

In the heat of Summer, frequently the Liver and Spleen do not properly perform their functions; the Uterine and Urinary Organs are inactive, producing weakness of the stomach and intestines and a predisposition to bilious derangement.

Dr. Wells'

EXTRACT OF JURUBEBA

is prepared directly from the SOUTH AMERICAN PLANT, and is peculiarly suited to all bilious difficulties; it will cleanse the VITIATED BLOOD, strengthen the LIFE-GIVING POWERS, and REMOVE ALL OBSTRUCTIONS from IMPAIRED AND DISORDERED Organs.

It should be freely taken, as Jurubeba is pronounced by medical writers the most efficient PURIFIER, TONIC and DEOBSTRUENT known in the whole range of medicinal plants.

GLAZIER AND PAPER HANGER.

The Chronicle.

ONE OF LINCOLN'S LITTLE STORIES.—A Kentucky paper relates the following, in connection with an account of an interview a citizen of that State had with the late President Lincoln at the breaking out of the rebellion:

The subject of the war was being discussed, and Mr. R.— was asked his opinion by the President as to the contemplated policy of coercion or war. Mr. R—, being a States' rights man, suggested that to prevent the effusion of fratricidal blood and strife, "the wayward sisters be allowed to depart in peace," or at least bloodshed should be avoided. Mr. Lincoln replied that whatever his sympathies and feelings might be for the people of the South he, as President, was sworn to protect and defend the Constitution and laws of the United States. He said he was in the condition of the boy who went out in company with a party of coon hunters, when a small young coon was caught, tied with a string, and the young lad requested to hold the coon until the return of the party from the pursuit of more game. The coon tugged at this string to get loose; looked wistfully at the neighboring woods and then at his guard, whose sympathies for the little prisoner were thoroughly aroused. After witnessing the vain struggles of the coon for some time, with feelings of sorrow fully aroused, he so inquized aloud as follows: "Cooney, I am sorry for you; I was told to hold you; I promised to do so, and can't let you go; but I do wish this string would break."

COUNTERFEIT AND "GENUINE" PAPER DIMES.—Counterfeit paper dimes are in circulation. What's the difference between a counterfeit dime and a genuine dime? You can't get cash for the one—and you can't get cash for the other. So there is no difference. The counterfeiter will not redeem his paper, and Government will not redeem his paper. 'Tis much of a muchness, both kinds of paper being worthless. There is a sort of belief that the Government paper will be redeemed, though it rests upon nothing but hope, that most deceiving of all deceivers. It is probable that but a small part of our smaller currency ever will be converted into cash, as much of it will be lost, in various ways—by wearing out, by being dropped and trampled upon or blown away, by being burned, and by being pronounced counterfeit when it is genuine. All this will be gained by Government, and it will be lost by the poorest members of the working classes, for whose sufferings neither governments nor politicians care anything. Had any regard been paid to the welfare of those classes, and had justice been done, all our small currency would have disappeared six years ago. Its existence is a reflection on the country's sanity, and in every way it is a calamity.—Traveller.

SLIGHTLY MIXED.—Our neighbor Church was married four times, and his wives were all buried in a certain graveyard. It became necessary, ultimately to remove the remains of the dear departed to another cemetery. Church undertook the work himself; but, in carrying the sainted dead out in a furniture cart, the bones unfortunately got mixed and when reinterment began, even church himself was unable to tell which was Emily and which was Hannah. After doing the best he could he had the four graves closed; but, being a strictly accurate man, he felt that it would be wrong to use the old headstones when he was not at all certain that Hannah's dust might not all be under her tombstone. So, in order to be precise, he had a new set made with such inscriptions as these: "Here lies Hannah Church, (and probably part of Emily,) who was born," &c., &c. "Sacred to the memory of Mary Church, (who seems to be mixed with Matilda,) who was born, &c., &c.

Stronger, pause and drop a tear,
For Emily Church lies buried here,
Mingled, in some perplexing manner,
With Mary, Matilda, and probably Hannah."

All the wives seemed satisfied with this arrangement; but some of Church's mother-in-law considered that his sense of responsibility as a man of veracity is altogether too fine.—Max Adeler.

—A Danbury man thought it would be pleasant to have his wife make wax flowers. He said there were things to cultivate beside the body, and what we live for was not bread alone, and so he got her some molds, and a couple hundred sheets of wax, and she went to work. After a while, he commenced to find some difficulty in drawing on his clothes, and experienced a mild sort of vexatious trouble in getting a comb through his hair. He didn't mind this so much, but when he walked around, stocking feet, and couldn't pull his boots on, and drew a chair into the air when he started to rise from it, he lost his interest in art, and kicked the entire establishment into the street.

THURSDAY, JUNE 26, 1873.

A TERRIBLE BOAT RIDE.—Clear Creek is a miniature river that runs through the canon of the same name. It descends upon a down grade of four hundred feet per mile, with here and there a fall over a rocky precipice fifteen or twenty feet in height. Large bowlders, forty and fifty feet in diameter, and weighing thousands of tons, impede its dashing progress every two or three yards, while its curves are so sharp and so frequent that the stream can nowhere be seen for a distance of a thousand feet. Granite cliffs two and three miles high project over it on either side, and give a frightful, romantic and dangerous appearance to the rushing torrent beneath.

Just below Black Hawk, on the side of the stream, a small reservoir has been constructed in which is kept an ordinary skiff. Last Sunday two little sons of Martin F. Walker, aged respectively ten and twelve years, got into the boat, and were splashing the water with a stick, when the fastenings gave way and the boat went drifting towards the rapidly-running current. The little boys soon discovered their danger, but were powerless to avert it; so they clutched hold of the sides of the boat; and with pallid countenance awaited their doom. Soon the boat was caught by the current and began descending at a fearful rate; over Black Hawk rapids they went like an arrow, clearing a distance of sixty feet at a single dash. Lighting again on the torrent surface the boat seemed to have gained a new impetus, and shot by the bowlders and around the rocky points with the celerity of a sunbeam.

At a distance of about six miles below the starting point, conductor Gibbons, who was standing on the rear platform of the down C. C. Train, saw the boat coming, and immediately stopped the train. All hands repaired to the water's edge, and did everything in their power to arrest the flying boat, but pass them she went like a bullet from a rifle, and was out of sight in a moment. The conductor then ordered the engineer to put on a full head of steam and follow as rapidly as possible, which he did, constantly sounding the alarm of danger. He did not get another glimpse of the boat, but the alarm brought the employees at Beaver Creek Station to the lookout, and quickly making a slip-noose they sought to throw it over the bow of the boat as she came under the bridge. This they succeeded in doing, but could no more hold it than they could have held a thunderbolt, and over Beaver Creek Falls she went with the speed of the lightning. The falls are about thirty feet high, and at the foot are a number of large bowlders, but the velocity of the boat was such that it cleared them easily, and struck the water some twenty feet beyond.

From here no one saw the boat, or its living freight, until it reached a point one hundred miles below Denver. Through Golden into the Platte River, and under the Denver bridges she went, unnoticed, nor slackened her pace until she lodged in a drift at the distance below Denver above mentioned. The Platte does not run very rapidly, but the boat had acquired such a wonderful speed in its descent from the mountains that it far outrode the current. A Mr. Walsh, who lives on a farm near the drift where the boat lodged, discovered the boys still in the boat, which was nearly full of water, and took them to his home. They were restored to their overjoyed parents the following evening, after having accomplished the most perilous journey, in the quickest time, ever before made by any human being who escaped alive. The distance travelled was one hundred and forty miles in two hours, but how it was ever done, or how the boat escaped being dashed to pieces upon some of the huge bowlders or rocky cliffs which everywhere intercept the course of Clear Creek, is nothing short of a providential miracle. Probably not again in a thousand years could the journey be made with the best appliances, and by the most skilful mariners.—Central City (Col.) Coach.

A DESPICABLE MULE.—The negro and mule (writes a friend in Clinton, Louisiana) are inseparable companions in the Southern cotton fields, and, like the Hiawathan string and bow, useless each without the other. The lazy indifference and careless cruelty of the one, and wonderful powers of endurance of severe labor, bad treatment, and neglect of the other, complete the compatibility of the two races necessary for the production of four millions of bales. A characteristic anecdote may be relished by those who have had experience of the two. The spectator had taken refuge from the sun's perpendicular rays under the shade of a spreading beech sub tegmine fagi, and lay recumbent, enjoying the fitful breezes and the sombre frothiness of the country newspaper. Along the dusty road which passed by this retreat came jogging a negro, mounted on a mule, both apparently fast asleep. As the somnolent pair approached the spot, some wicked sprite of the place gave the paper a flirt, which was no sooner seen and heard than the mule, as mules only know how, instantly "swapped ends," and leaving the negro sprawling in the dirt, took his departure, under full sail. The negro, half raising himself, and wiping the dust from eyes and mouth, watched the retreating mule for some time in silence, but at length, unconscious of an auditor, gave expression to this philosophic soliloquy: "Dat's what makes me spise a mule!"—Editor's Drawer in Harper's Magazine for July.

In the case of the exclusion of the Bible from the public schools in Cincinnati, the Ohio supreme court has decided that the school board had the right to pass a resolution to exclude not only the Bible and singing but religious instruction, and the court has no authority to interfere with their discretion in the exercise of this power.

Mr. Daly has presented Miss Clara Morris, the actress, with a two-ounce black and tan pup, whose bark is like the distant popping of champagne. It is a beautifully-animated morsel of anatomy, as active as a weazel, and as ravenous as a new-fledged mosquito.

The natives of Niagara Falls are growing more and more mercenary. There are few pieces of ground in that vicinity that you can visit without paying well for it. It is said that a party of half a dozen persons were recently standing on an open lot, within a quarter of a mile of the Falls; and before they had time to think twice a fence was built around them, and they were charged ten dollars apiece to get out.

REASONS FOR NOT ENGAGING IN A DUEL.—A good deal of laughter has greeted the following letter, which is said to have been written in these circumstances: Two well-known young men had quarrelled about some trifle. Cards had been exchanged, seconds summoned, a duel arranged. At daybreak on the morning of the fight, the challenged principal received this letter from the challenger: "My Dear Sir and Dear Adversary—I have two objections to the duel which over-obliging friends have arranged between us. My first objection is, I am afraid of hurting you. My second objection is, I am afraid you will hurt me. I really can't see what earthly advantage it would be to me to put a ball into your body, even were I to lodge it in the most fleshy part of your back. I could not make any, the least culinary use of you after your death, for you are neither a rabbit nor a turkey; besides, I am not a cannibal, and do not feed on human flesh. Wherefore, then, should I kill a man whom I can put to no sort of use? Beef is a great deal better, for, while I am quite sure yours is tender and delicate, I am afraid it lacks that firmness which takes salt, and I am sure it would not keep long.

As for myself, I confess I have decided objections to putting myself in the path of a dangerous projectile. I am downright frightened to think you might hit me, and I feel prudence requires me to keep in doors at the time appointed by our over-obliging friends for you to shoot your pistol. If you persist in your whim of trying your pistol, oblige me by taking for your mark some object of nearly my dimensions—for instance, the trunk of a tree. You will find plenty of them in the Bois de Boulogne. If you hit it drop me a line to let me know, and I will instantly confess that, had I stood in the tree's place, you would hit me too. Accept my dear sir and dear adversary, assurances of my most distinguished consideration."—Paris Letter.

—A boy thirteen years old, a few days ago, put a false head into a flour barrel, procured four quarts of peanuts and poured them over the head so as to make one think he had a barrelful, and then took his station on Woodward avenue and cried out, "All these peanuts for ten shillings." A grocer passing by whipped out the money like a streak of lightning, and the boy got away before the trick was discovered.

A SPECIMEN MONTANA POST OFFICE.—An amusing experience which recently happened to a special agent of the post office department, illustrates the ideas which postmasters in the far west entertain regarding the dignity and importance of their position. The agent, commonly called "Mac," while officially visiting various offices in Montana Territory, for the purpose of correcting any irregularities of postmasters, stopped at Iron Rod. Going into the post office, he found the room divided into three sections—first a saloon, next the post office, and the last a faro bank. The mail bag was brought in, a rough-looking customer opened it and emptied the contents on the floor. The entire crowd got down on their hands and knees, and commenced overhauling the letters, among which several were registered, and selected such as they wanted. After they were through, the remaining letters were shovelled into a candle box and placed on the bar. The special agent thinking the office needed a little regulating asked the bar tender who had received and distributed the mail, if he was the postmaster. He answered "No." "Are you the assistant postmaster?" "No." "Where is the postmaster?" "Out mining?" "Where's the assistant postmaster?" "Gone to Hell's Canyon, and by thunder Bill Jones has got to run this office next week; it's his turn." The government official then asked who he was, and demanded the keys of the office. The bar-tender coolly took the candle-box from the bar, put it on the floor and gave it a kick, sending it out of the door, saying, "There's your post office, and now git!" The agent says: "Knowing the customs of the country, I lost no time in following this advice, and got." That office was discontinued.

The Illinois farmers are to start a new Fourth of July this year. They have decided to set apart the day for a free discussion of the evils which oppress them—reading, in the place of Mr. Jefferson's document, a new declaration of independence which their executive committee has just issued.

In the July number of SCRIBNER'S MONTHLY is given the first of a series of papers with the common title, "The Great South," this one being a group of racily described scenes on a journey through Kansas, Arkansas and Texas. The writer of these sketches it is well known is Mr. Edward King, and they are illustrated by "Champ." Both author and artist have apparently worked sympathetically and with a common purpose. One of the other interesting papers in this number is by J. A. Reid, who has taken the trouble to write to several persons referred to in Ward Lamon's Life of Abraham Lincoln, and obtain from them specific declarations that they did not authorize the use of their names as authority for the statement that Mr. Lincoln was an infidel, and furthermore that they do not believe it, but in the cases of several of them are convinced that he was in later years a sincere and devoted Christian. Mrs. M. E. W. Sherwood treats of the question' "What has American done for woman?" An orthodox minister has something to say on "The Liberty of Protestantism." The article by Dr. Stephen W. Newell, entitled "Recollections of a Restored Lunatic," is a contribution to literature concerning the treatment of the insane, that is worth attention. It is not a discussion, but a simple narrative of experience in which the methods and discipline of the asylum are pleasantly approved.

The July number of HARPER'S MONTHLY is a pleasant one. Colonel Audenreid gives some account of General Sherman's recent tour in Europe, which may be considered authentic. The seventh of Emilio Castelar's papers on "Republicanism in Europe" is another article of interest.

FOR LOSS OF APPETITE, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Depression of Spirits and General Debility, in their various forms, FERRO-PHOSPHORATED ELIXIR OF CALISYA made by Caswell, Hazard & Co., New York, and sold by all druggists, is the best tonic. As a stimulant tonic for patients recovering from fever or other sickness, it has no equal. If taken during the season it prevents fever and ague and other intermittent fevers. 1J10

Spicy breath, teeth white as snowflakes,
Fragrant SOZODONT secures:
Ladies, can you be so reckless
As to fail to make them yours?

DANGER.—At this season the atmosphere is unchanged with the seeds of intermittents, remittents, rheumatism, pulmonary disorders, bilious complaints and the like. Persons whose nervous systems are relaxed are the first to succumb to these distempers. Build up the physical energies then with this potential vegetable tonic. It is the most powerful recuperant which the botanic kingdom has ever yielded to patient research and experiment. Try it. The blindest disciple of the old medical dogmas will at least admit that of a tonic and alterative, compounded of approved herb roots and barks, can do no harm, while the testimony of thousands invites a trial of its virtues. Vigor is the thing most needed in these cases as well as in dyspepsia and nervous affections, and Hostetter's Bitters is the safest, surest and most wholesome strengthening preparation that human skill has yet concocted.

Fourth of July.

At the meeting of the citizens general committee, which was largely attended, Tuesday evening, Chief Marshal Sise presented the protest of the New York committee in regard to the length of the route. After a thorough discussion, the meeting voted to adhere to the original route, without a dissenting voice. Mr. Sise stated that he had walked his horse over the route in ninety minutes and afterward walked the route in ninety five minutes.

Mr. A. W. Haven, from the literary committee, reported for President of the meeting at the tent, Mayor Marvin, with twenty Vice Presidents. James P. Bartlett, Esq., has accepted the position of Toastmaster for the occasion.

The committee on lumber were authorized to build seats in the tent for the Union praise meeting on Sunday, July 6th.

The committee on printing was authorized to provide badges for visiting Sons and Daughters not provided with them. The same committee was instructed to obtain a correct list of the returning Sons and Daughters.

The ladies' committee reported success in soliciting pastry and flowers.

After transacting a great amount of business, the meeting adjourned to Friday evening.

The literary committee have been particularly successful in their choice for a Toastmaster on the Fourth. Instinctively our citizens have turned to James P. Bartlett, Esq., as the person who would honor the position and most satisfactorily fill it, and the committee have appropriately carried out the wishes of those who have given the matter due consideration.

The Sons of Portsmouth are to visit their ancestral home on the Fourth of July, and Miss M. B. Beers has been busily employed upon the badges to be worn on the occasion. They are entirely novel, all being painted by hand after a design furnished by the Society. The material is white corded ribbon; on the upper part a bird's nest, typical of home, is painted, and a spray of strawberries, having reference to the old name of Portsmouth, occupies the lower portion, while the legend is inscribed in the intervening space. The badges are very handsome and will serve as interesting memorials in time to come.—N. Y. Mail.

The Directors of the High School Association have chosen Geo. W. Marston, of the class of 1857, to be toastmaster on the afternoon of July 5th.

Boatswain McCaffery, of the navy yard, declines to be credited with getting up a tub-race for the 4th of July, as he is doing nothing of the kind. We understand that Boatswain Jones, of the U. S. S. Sabine, is getting up a race of the kind referred to.

All the ladies who are willing to lend a helping hand for the Fourth of July decorations, and all gentlemen willing to save the ladies the difficult task of cutting spruce, are requested to meet at the Court House this evening at half past seven o'clock.

Laconics.

Two schooners were in collision in this harbor last week. The master of one undertook to libel the other vessel, but the clerk of the U. S. District Court was so far in the interior that a different course was pursued. Several maritime cases growing out of the increased commerce in the Piscataqua have been settled by arbitration, the owners of vessels adopting this course rather than to go to the interior for legal process.

Dr. Strong's sulphur bath rooms will be closed after to-morrow until the 7th of July.

The stonewall loafers at the South Cemetery have to a great extent given up business since the stationing there of a police officer, but the business of stealing flowers from graves is prosecuted as actively as ever. It is not merely bouquets and cut flowers which are pilfered, but plants growing on graves are taken up and carried away. A lady who had caused a large urn over her husband's grave to be filled with choice plants and had arranged to have the plants carefully tended and watered during the summer, was recently informed that it was useless to attempt to keep flowers there, as the rarest and choicest ones were stolen within a few hours of their setting out. It is a pity that a few of these contemptible grave-yard thieves cannot have the benefit of an introduction to Judge Page, in which event we promise them a full Police Court report, with names and residences in full, without extra charge.

Among the successful bidders for furnishing the Navy Department with supplies for the next fiscal year is J. L. Parker of this city.

Among the officers of U. S. S. Plymouth recently arrived at this Station, we are glad to greet the genial Chief Engineer Richard M. Bartleman, who was for several years attached to this navy yard and has hosts of friends among our citizens.

Special Notice.

The attention of all persons is called to the fact that by ordinance, the firing of guns, crackers and torpedoes before the fourth of July is forbidden. Any person violating this ordinance will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

FRANK B. JOHNSON,
tf. City Marshal.

Dr. O. Fitzgerald, the wonderful Clairvoyant Physician and Surgeon will visit Portsmouth again at Franklin House Thursday and Friday, June 26 and 27, remaining two days only. Don't fail to see him; his cures are truly wonderful. tf

AN ADVENTURE WITH A PANNIER.—It was Moyer's turn, says Max Adeler, for invention that caused the disaster. Moyer designed a new kind of a "patent, inflated gossamer bustle" for ladies. It was a thin bag of India rubber, which was to be inflated with gas to give it the proper distention and sufficient lightness. When the model was complete, Mrs. Moyer determined to try it. She went into the yard, and tied the machine under her dress, while Moyer turned on the kitchen gas to fill the bag. It worked well enough for a few moments, when all at once Mrs Moyer began to ascend with frightful rapidity. She had barely time to scream down to Moyer to put the children to bed early, and tell Mary Jane to set bread, and the next instant she was two miles beyond the snow-line. It was embarrassing for Mrs. Moyer—very embarrassing—especially as she could not reach around to the bustle to turn off the gas in order to come down. So she floated about up there among thunder storms and clouds and crows and aurora borealises for several hours, enjoying the scenery and studying the air currents and wishing she had brought her muff and a book to read. Then she commenced to descend gradually, until she came within a couple of hundred feet of the earth. She then screamed some as she floated along, and several enthusiastic students of natural history tried to bring her down with shot-guns, under the impression she was some new variety of ostrich or flamingo. But a sudden gust of wind struck Mrs. Moyer and blew her against the Presbyterian church steeple with such force that the "inflated gossamer bustle" exploded violently, impressing the sexton with the conviction that the sacred edifice had been struck by lightning. But when he came out and saw Mrs. Moyer caught by her pannier on the weathercock, with her parasol pointing east or west, as the wind happened to shift, he comprehended the situation. It cost six hundred dollars to build a scaffolding to get Mrs. Moyer down, and even then Moyer did not introduce his bustle into the market. He will sell out his patent rights cheap. Mrs. Moyer wants him to.

WHO DISCOVERED AMERICA.—Our fellow citizens of Scandinavian descent in the Northwestern States, are going to build a $10,000 monument at Madison, Wis., to the Discoverer of America. His name, they say, is not Christopher Columbus—as popularly supposed—but Leif Ericson, and he didn't land in 1492 but in 1000. Now we don't want to say anything harsh of the late Capt. Ericson. He was no doubt a sailor of considerable merit, and, of course, it wasn't his fault that he was born some seventeen centuries or so too late to discover America. No right feeling man would think of twitting him on such a mere chronological accident as that. But there are several learned gentlemen of our aquaintance who will insist, if the country is really going into the monument business, that the claims of one Eliali—who "lit out" from Tyre B. C. 700, in consequence of a little unpleasantness with Sennacherib, and shortly after disappeared from history through the pillars of Hercules, steering due west—shall be heard along with the rest.

There is a general impression that, while Butler is not the most admirable man in the world, it there be no other in Massachusetts of grit enough to make the canvass against him, Benjamin is the best man. The most dreadful thing about him is the way in which he exposed respectable humbugs, and if the respectability of the old Bay State cannot find one man among its numbers whose record is such that he does not fear Butler's review of it, then the popular verdict is likely to be that Massachusetts' eminent respectability is a humbug.—Chicago Evening Post.

—A saucy young widow out West said to a clerical friend, whr asked her condolingly how long her "lamented" had been dead, "I am in the honeymoon of my widowhood."

Mrs. Sparques smiled at her husband's joke, but, immediately said, "Mosquitoes are not religious." "Why?" asked Sparques. "Because they present their bills on Sundays." Sparques went out for a walk and for meditation.

SEWING MACHINE SALES

FOR 1872.

BY comparison of Statistics from sworn returns of the sales of Sewing Machines for 1871 and 1872, it shows that the

"DOMESTIC"

Sewing Machine Co.'s sales have increased over 375 per cent., while no other Co.'s sales have increased over 36 per cent., proving the great popularity of the "DOMESTIC."

Annexed are the percentage of gain, of the leading makers:

Domestic Sewing Machine Co.,	gain	375 per cent
Wheeler & Wilson	"	" 36 "
Singer	"	" 23 "
Grover & Baker	"	" 5 "
Weed	"	" 15 "
Wilcox & Gibbs	"	1" 12 "
Wilson	"	" 8 "

Other Machines Co.'s' sales show a loss over the year before.

If the increase in sales be any criterion of merit, the "DOMESTIC" bears the palm.

The "DOMESTIC" works so easy, it is working itself into every family.

The "DOMESTIC" runs so light, it is distancing all competitors. It only asks a few days trial.

The "DOMESTIC" is recommend by the Medical Faculty.

IRON in the BLOOD.

DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, DROPSY, HUMORS

PERUVIAN SYRUP

Makes the Weak Strong.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested, and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ill," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures to strong, healthy, and happy men and women: and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

THE GREAT SOUTH AMERICAN

Jurubeba Blood Purifier,

Is the most powerful cleanser, strengthener and remover of Glandular Obstructions known to Materia Medica.

It is specially adapted to constitutions "worn down" and debilitated by the warm weather of Spring and Summer, when the blood is not in active circulation, consequently gathering impurities from sluggishness and imperfect action of the secretive organs, and is manifested by Tumors, Eruptions, Blotches, Boils, Pustules, Scrofula, &c.

In the heat of Summer, frequently the Liver and Spleen do not properly perform their functions; the Uterine and Urinary Organs are inactive, producing weakness of the stomach and intestines and a predisposition to bilious derangement.

Dr. Wells'

EXTRACT OF JURUBEBA

is prepared directly from the SOUTH AMERICAN PLANT, and is peculiarly suited to all these difficulties; it will cleanse the VITIATED BLOOD, strengthen the LIFE-GIVING POWERS, and REMOVE ALL OBSTRUCTIONS from IMPAIRED AND ENFEEBLED Organs.

If should be freely taken, as Jurubeba is pronounced by medical writers the most efficient PURIFIER, TONIC and DEOBSTRUENT known in the whole range of medicinal plants.

A LITTLE FUN WITH HOPKINS.—Some years ago a new fire company was organized at Reading, and the members one evening thought they would have a little innocent fun at the expense of Hopkins, their President. They decided to rush around with the engine to Hopkins' house after dark, to throw up their ladders, pull out their hose, climb on his roof and scare him with the belief that his dwelling was on fire. But that very day Hopkins moved out of the house, and a Presbyterian clergyman moved in, without the company being aware of the change. So about 8 o'clock the humorists dashed out and went through all the movements, getting on the roof and splashing water around, and creating a terrific disturbance generally. A rival company noticing what was going on, also hurried to the scene, and without understanding the joke, attached their hose to a plug, smashed in two front windows, and began to empty a two-inch stream on the family of that Presbyterian clergyman. They squirted into all the rooms, split all the window shutters with an axe, broke down the front door, ran out the furniture, tore off the shingles, and bawled through trumpets until the hired girl had convulsions on the kitchen stairs. The first company tried to explain, but the new comers thought an effort was being made to get them out of the way, and a fight ensued, and presently firemen were sliding off the roof, and pelting down the chimney, and bleeding over the entry carpet, and having boisterous encounters with spanners and brass horns on the stairs. And the next morning that Presbyterian divine and his family moved out. They said the place seemed to be too animated and sensational for a quiet domestic circle. They wanted a house where there was more calmness and peace; where they could have more security for their privacy and pianoes, and for their front doors and shingles, and peace of mind and window sashes.

IT WORKS BOTH WAYS.—If the Chinese are heathan they argue like Christians. It is well known that the city council of San Francisco lately passed some barbarous laws against the Chinese which only the mayor's veto saved from becoming a disgrace to the city. The Chinese, in remonstrating against these laws, turned the tables completely against the whites. Their argument was this, in effect: "You complain of our emigrating to America. Why did we come? Because the white race insisted upon opening the gates of our harbors. Europeans and Americans have taken possession of our trade and driven our vessels from our own waters. By so doing they have thrown out of employment a much larger number of Chinese than have emigrated eastward. We have come because there was no longer work for us at home. You have disturbed us. We come, not to disturb you, but to get a living. Abrogate all the treaties with China and we will go home and fill our old places. Your people shall come home too, and we will each mind our own business and let other people do the same." That is fair. If Americans can go to China and go into trade, so ought the Chinese to be allowed to settle among us and earn a living in the way that suits them best. The trouble is that the anti-Chinese party want a one-sided arrangement. They want Chinese tea, but they are not willing to pay for it. The position of those who insist that we shall have all rights in China, and that Chinese shall have no rights here, is unworthy of Americans. The heathen have the best of the argument.—Advertiser.

—It is about time for hot weather, mosquitoes and the hotel clerk, says the Commercial Bulletin. All summer hotels which have not provided themselves with a "gentlemanly clerk" should do so at once, and set him up in the office, behind a large diamond pin, as soon as possible. A first-class article of this kind, well laundered, booted and broadclothed, with hair parted in the middle, has a powerful effect upon the public. Spicer says, whenever he feels unduly conceited, he packs a valise and starts for a summer hotel where they support a "gentlemanly clerk." When he arrives, tired, dusty and hungry, registers his name, and that superior being, the clerk, with utter oblivion of his existence, continues to pick his teeth, twirl his moustache, or chat with an acquaintance in the office, and finally crushes him with a stony glare, flings a key upon the marble counter, and consigns him to a cell in the fifteenth story with the air of a melo-dramatic tyrant sending the hero to the "lowest dungeon in the castle moat,"—"then" says Spicer, "I become conscious of my insignificance, and am ready to take my place again, an humble and patient worker in the ranks of humanity."

—A Memphis man insisted on having new cabbage for supper, the other night, and cooked it himself, while his wife talked about the prevailing disease. Three hours after she was wondering whether she should wear black cashmere or bombazine for second mourning.

Closing The Polls.

In the House of Representatives, Wednesday, the bill closing the polls in the city of Portsmouth, at 6.30 P. M., was amended so that the polls should not be closed before that time.

Hatch of Portsmouth, objected to the bill. He would prefer a later hour, but was not strenuous on that point. He desired to offer an amendment, which he wished to explain. At the last election there were votes of a peculiar character brought into the room, a long narrow slip, of a marked color, by means of which the men could be marked. It was designed to secure the control of persons in governmental employ. He believed that all honest men would rebuke these tricks of dishonest politicians. He condemned the practice as bribery, in its worst form. He moved to amend so that every ballot should be printed on white paper, without color or device of any kind on the back thereof.

Mr. Kent of Portsmouth hoped this question would not assume a political form, but it has. He said that the reason of the introduction of the bill was a vote passed by the city council, which he read. He said that wards one and two closed their polls about 8 o'clock, giving to Frank W. Miller a majority of 87 votes. About midnight, ward three closed their polls, giving a majority of 88 votes to Mr. Marvin, the opposing candidate. As to the ballot used, Mr. Hatch has told the truth. The design was to find out when the men at the Navy Yard did not come to the scratch, and we mean to know when they dodge (if we can, and he hoped the amendment would not pass.

Mr. Salloway of Manchester said that Mr. Hatch appeared before the committee, and said he would not oppose the bill; and now comes here and tries to kill it. He arrogates all the virtue in the world to himself and party. He desired to expose the proceedings of the election to which he referred. Mr. Hatch and his associates stopped the election till they could get a slip printed and pasted over the very ticket which he denounces, substituting some democratic names, his own among the rest, to deceive honest men who supposed they were voting republican tickets.

Mr. Kent of Portsmouth, explained that half-past six was a compromise. He explained the ticket. The laborers have a right to vote as they please but he thought that it was a serious question with the republican party if they had a right to vote an opposition ticket, and keep other men out of the Yard. As to the bribery law, he thought that if it were enforced, the State debt would be paid from the fines.

Mr. Bingham of Littleton called for the yeas and nays, a division having rejected the amendment. He said that this amendment ought not to be considered as a party question. It should be regarded not as a matter of personal prejudice, but it should be asked "What is the right?" Is there here an evil? The object of substituting the ballot for viva voce voting, was that the manner in which a man should vote should not be known.

Mr. Salloway of Manchester alluding to the law quoted by Hatch, said Hatch's name appeared on a spurious ticket and could that have been done for any other reason than to make some person vote as he did not intend? He stands here self convicted, the very man this statute was made for. He should go to the County Solicitor and ask to be indicted if he is honest in his expressions. The gentleman from Littleton is now in favor of white paper. In 1871 he was here under oath and for two days denouncey the ballot and fought for a viva voce vote for clerk. He favored numbered ballots then.

Mr. Gallinger of Concord said that the question is not whether the men in Portsmouth shall be required to vote the republican ticket, but whether they shall put themselves in a false position. He claimed that the employes of the Navy Yard obtained their places by claiming to support the principles of the administration. This is all that is asked of them, and it is right that it should be required of them. The administration has a right to ask their employees to vote for the principles of that administration. He thought it not appropriate to remind the House of the scenes in the House two years ago, when colored ballots, and numbered ballots, were used by the democrats. The evil, if there be one, exists in both parties, and if the Navy Yard were to-day under democratic rule, not one laborer in it would be allowed to vote the republican ticket. In no party has the party whip been cracked with so much sharpness as in the democratic party.

He did not believe either that the amendment would accomplish the desired effect. If such a law is to be applied in Portsmouth, he thought it should be applied elsewhere. To apply it to men who hold offices in Portsmouth fraudulently, as he believed, and not elsewhere, would be a great wrong. Men should not be allowed to go to the polls and vote against the administration they claim to support.

Mr. Gould of Peterborough said that it seemed to be an impression that to mark a ticket by a device is wrong. He could see no wrong in his claiming the right to employ men who would vote with him. He had a right to say to his employes, vote this way or I shall employ some one else. They need not sacrifice their principles, but he might properly enough seek other persons to employ.

Old Time Chronicles, No. 79.

BY UNCLE JOSEPH.

THE NEW ENGLAND PRIMER.—We have not seen this little book for more than 40 years, yet we remember it well. It was among the first picture books we ever saw, and pictures in books have been, and perhaps always will be worth much.

The book is remembered with some disagreeable feelings and much pleasure. Disagreeable because there was in it what we were taught to regard as not true. It contained the "Shorter Catechism." It was not very short, but ran through several pages. The longer we did not wish to see. Some of it was good, but its high Calvinism we were taught to believe was not correct. This was contained much in this one question and answer, "What are the decrees of God?" "The decrees of God are His eternal purpose, whereby for His own glory, He hath fore-ordained whatsoever comes to pass."

In those times in some families, children were required to learn the Catechism. And the parson of the church would visit schools, and the teacher would suspend operations while he questioned the children, who had studied this work. Parents called this "saying the Catechise," meaning the Catechism. Some years later, while teaching school, we had this Catechism brought up for the last time. It was in the family where we boarded. They thought themselves quite Puritanic. The man would question his little boy in it, who, although he could not read, was taught to repeat the answers after the father. And the father knowing we did not believe in the work, as a fling would put a question to us occasionally. And old "aunt Rache," (Rachel was her name,) would take occasion to say, "The Catechism was the escence of the gospel."

But we remember the primer with much gladness. Its pictures were rude, but worth much then. It had the alphabet, great letters and small. In it many learned the A, B, Cs as it was called. Beginning at A they would go down the column, landing at Z. Then after the scholar could repeat all, say it backwards from Z to A, "Well done," said the teacher, "nice boy, nice girl."

The primer had Italic letters, double letters, vowels and consonants, easy spelling lessons, and good reading lessons. Then questions, "Who was the first man?" "Who was the first woman?" "Who was the first murderer?" "Who was the first martyr?" &c. There was the picture alphabet. This was a wonder. The couplets were rhyme, but rhyme is not always poetry. And the declarations were often mysterious to a child, if correct in sentiment. Take the first as a specimen. Under it, was a picture of Adam in the garden, and Satan in the form of a serpent tempting him. Then the couplet.

"In Adam's fall
We sinned all."

Under C, was this with a picture.

"The cat will play
And after slay."

Under D, a man with a bag, apparently of gold, stolen, and a dog chasing him. These lines are used.

"The dog will bite
A thief at night."

O is the oak. The lines are,

"The royal oak, it is the tree
That saved his royal majesty."

Who can tell the meaning?

So it went on down to Z, where we had this.

"Zacheus he
Did climb a tree
His Lord to see."

There was the thrilling account, with a picture, of the burning of Mr. John Rogers, the first martyr in Queen Mary's reign. This took place in February, 1555. It is put down that "he was not in the least daunted, but suffered courageously for the name and sake of Jesus Christ." In the picture the flames are winding up around Mr. Rogers, armed men are around, and his wife and children of Mr. Rogers are close by. The primer record is, "his wife and nine small children and one at the breast accompanied him to the stake." The question within a few years has been a puzzling one to some, how many children had Mr. Rogers, nine or ten?

The primer contained some excellent reading matter, some simple and beautiful hymns, and as a whole, was calculated to make good impressions on youthful minds. Its memory to us, perhaps to a number, is precious. It carries us back to childhood's days, to much that was not only simple, but valuable in former times. Although it is not possible to have back our youth, yet memory and mementoes of the past enable us to seem to live over again the halcyon days of childhood and youth when the mind was just beginning to be expanded by knowledge, the brow was not wrinkled by care, nor the heart riven by sorrow.

Readables.

Mrs. Flora C. Barry, the well known vocalist, has filed a libel for divorce against her husband, Charles A. Barry, for cruelty and malicious persecution.

Mr. E. N. Erickson, who for ten years has held a responsible position with the Advertising Agency of Peaslee & Co., and who has consequently been familiar with the large advertising contracts of that firm with the United States Government (in placing the national loans), Jay Cooke & Co., the National Trust Company, the Union Pacific and other railroad Companies, Dr. B. Brandreth, &c., &c., has now become managing partner in that house. His thorough familiarity with the business, and with both advertisers and publishers, will make the connection a desirable one for all concerned.

A Little Rock letter dated the 20th instant says that rains have fallen incessantly for forty-six days, inundating the low lands and prairies, and utterly ruining the cotton crop along the Memphis and Little Rock road.

An alligator is rather smart about some things. He knows as much about strategy as a major general of militia. He will poise himself on a log, open his mouth wide by elevating his upper jaw, and remain perfectly quiet. In a short time his mouth will fill with musquitoes and flies, when down will come his jaw, taking every musquito and fly prisoner. He swallows them, licks his chops, and elevates his jaw for another floor full. This dish is regarded by the alligator as the most delicious that the country affords.

The yellow fever continues at Havana with unabated violence, a very large percentage of the cases being fatal.

The Buffalo Advertiser has this to say to the New York prohibitionists, who threaten separate action: "Allies who refuse to fight save in the way which they deem best, and who want to always lead, are undesirable allies, and can be easily dispensed with."

The Boston Journal, of the anti-beer law says: "And yet the effect of the new law thus far is to cut off the sale of beer and to revive the use of strong drinks, with a corresponding spread of drunkenness and misery. The statistics show this unmistakably, and it all happens naturally enough, for the beer law is ten times easier to execute than the old fashioned liquor law. The political effect is curious. The liquor dealers who were on the point of fraternizing with the beer men in a political crusade against prohibition, suddenly find that they are well enough off, that the beer interest, as we may say, draws the whole fire of the prohibition war, and consequently their concern in the pending campaign has undergone a material diversion."

Before Mr. Bingham goes to Japan he intends making a few speeches in Ohio in support of his action in taking "back pay" for his services during the last Congress. He says he is prepared to demonstrate and show conclusively that Congress, in passing the salary bill, had well established precedents for so doing, and that the measure was really one of economy, and that members of the last Congress will not get as much for their services as those did who were members of the Thirty-eighth Congress.

Every offer must be accompanied by a written warranty, signed by one or more responsible persons, that the bidder or bidders will, if his or their offer be accepted, enter into an obligation within five days, with good and sufficient sureties, to furnish the articles proposed.
No proposal will be considered unless accompanied by such guaranty, and the Department reserves the right to reject any proposal unless the responsibility of the guarantors is certified to by the Collector of Internal Revenue for the district in which they reside, and unless satisfactory evidence that the bidder is a regular dealer in the articles he offers to supply is furnished with the proposal as well as to reject any proposal not considered advantageous to the Government.
It is to be understood that the contract will expire at the close of the fiscal year ending June 30, 1874 without regard to the quantities which may have been delivered, and, in case the stipulated quantity of either article shall be delivered before that date, leaving a balance due on the other article, the contract may be considered as completed in full, at the option of the Department.

The Escape of Wagner.

As might have been expected after the statement Wagner made that he could go from his prison when he chose, proving it by trying the experiment in the presence of an officer, the murderer of defenceless women is in possession of his freedom and may be now bent on saving his life at the expense of his legs. The cool villain who could row twenty miles to rob and murder and with consummate bravado bear quietly a trial and conviction, is not one to foolishly sit down and await a sentence for hanging.

Wagner possesses plausibility, is handsome, broad shouldered and strong. Having a constitutional disinclination to a violent death, he steals himself away and takes to the woods—or water; which? Had he a confederates? Which direction did he take? Life is dear to Wagner, for death to him is horrible. His victims may meet him on the shadowy threshold, and rather than risk that torture so soon, he thinks of a plan of circumvention. A broomstick is a means of salvation! He adorns it with clothing and puts it to bed. It must represent Wagner while Wagner is far away. The confiding guard, consisting of two new watchmen, look in upon it at nine o'clock at night and notice "how very still" it is. At three o'clock, Thursday morning, it occupies the same position, for a broomstick sleeps soundly!

Wagner is nothing, if not sensational. In the night, he has pried off the bars of his cell, and with nine others drops into the pantry. Here the trio obtain abundant provisions and start on their route—for Canada? They have the advantage of a six hours' start before being discovered, and five hours after that no organized pursuit had been commenced, because the Sheriff was away. If Wagner blistered his hands rowing a boat to commit murder, won't he do the same to save his neck from the gallows? Is he in the dense forest of Maine, struggling on toward Canada, or is some boat belonging in Saco or Biddeford missing, and the crafty Wagner at sea waiting to ship on some passing vessel? These are unanswered conundrums as yet, but proper vigilance should solve them within forty-eight hours. What if the fishermen should catch him?

The Isles of Shoals.

Hurd & Houghton have published a neat historical volume with the above title from the pen of our former townsman, Mr. John Scribner Jenness. Coming as it does so closely on the publication of Mrs. Thaxter's "Among the Shoals," it may be thought at first to be too much of a good thing. But on inspection of the volume, we find that it fills an unoccupied place, and while Mrs. Thaxter's charming book should be read and prized by all who have visited the Shoals, Mr. Jenness' work will be necessary to the visitor and to all lovers of history. The unique map of New England "observed and described by Captayn John Smith" is a valuable addition to historic lore. "The Portraiciture of Captayn John Smith, Admiral of New England," at the age of 37 years, is a striking likeness of that adventurous individual. As a historical record, the work will be sought after and treasured.

Fourth of July.

The triumphal arch was raised near the junction of Islington and Dover streets, Thursday afternoon. It is circular in form at the top and 26 feet high in the centre. It was built on the floor of the tent and carried by workmen to Dover street.

Meeting of the citizens' committee this evening at 8 o'clock.

The tent will probably be raised today.

Redistricting.

"Kent" telegraphs us from Concord, under date of June 26, at 8 o'clock, P. M., as follows: The House has had a field day to-day on the bill re-districting the State, and notwithstanding the filibustering of the opposition the bill has passed to its 3d reading; and at a caucus of the republicans this evening they unanimously voted "to fight it out on the same line" to-morrow and not adjourn for the week until Saturday forenoon. A final adjournment will not be reached before next Wednesday.—The bill relating to the Portsmouth High School has been reported, with amendments providing for one or more high schools; the bill is with the sub-committee at present.—Mr. Stephen L. Marston has resigned.

REDISTRICTING.—A bill has been introduced into the Legislature for re-adjusting the Councillor Districts, so as to remedy some of the great inequalities now existing between the present districts. The Constitution prescribes that these districts shall be made as nearly equal as may be, according to the number of ratable polls and proportion of public taxes. As these districts are now formed, the Hillsboro' district is nearly as large again in population and valuation as it should be, and the Strafford and Rockingham districts have each a large excess, while the Cheshire and Grafton districts scarcely exceed one-half their due proportion. It is full time that this one-sided distribution of power should be rectified, and we trust the Legislature will not adjourn until by a just apportionment the various districts are made to conform as near as may be to the constitutional requirements.

A bill has also been introduced for re-arranging the Senate districts. These under the Constitution must be made as nearly equal as may be according to the proportion of direct taxes paid by the said districts. Population or ratable polls are not to be taken into consideration. We believe this is a wrong principle, and it gives us one of the strongest arguments in favor of a Convention for the revision of the Constitution that this and other like defects may be removed. But such is the organic law now, and under it the present districts, which when formed eighteen years ago were equal and fair, have now grown out of proportion to each other and need readjustment. We see that Hon. Charles H. Bell is chairman of the committee to whom this matter and that of redistricting the Councillor districts are referred, and we need no better guarantee of a fair and convenient apportionment.—Dover Enquirer.

AN INTELLIGENT CAT.—The man who lives just back of us, Chubb, has a yellow tom-cat whose intelligence is almost human. Chubb's cat possesses a voice like Tuscarora's Indian, and when it goes out in the yard in the moonlight and meets a cat with different views, and reasons with it and indulges in animated conversation, and hits out handfuls of fur, you can hear the debate for a mile and a half. Chubb used to be much annoyed by the continual disturbance, and he would disperse the meeting with bullets and other projectiles. But at last he noticed that his remonstrances had no effect. The more soap cups and boots he fired into the yard, the louder his yellow tom-cat would screech, and when he would bang away his gun, the cat would send out an unearthly yeow! which would wake people within fifty squares and set eight or ten thousand dogs to barking. It seemed so queer to Chubb that his cat always refused to move on when hit that he determined one night to watch it.

Just at dusk he observed the cat drag about twelve inches of old stovepipe out from under a bush and crawl into it. Then the cat inserted its legs through four holes that had been punched in the iron, and with its head projecting through the end, and its body clad in armor, it winked at Chubb, and rambled off to attend the mass-meeting. Chubb says now that he wouldn't take a thousand dollars for that cat; but if we do not tunnel under Chubb's yard some night and blow his tomcat into eternity with a submarine torpedo, it will be singular. We admire ingenuity, but a vociferous tomcat makes us unhappy.—Max Adler.

Special Notice.

The attention of all persons is called to the fact that by ordinance, the firing of guns, crackers and torpedoes before the fourth of July is forbidden. Any person violating this ordinance will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

Morning Chronicle.

—When a Taunton man read that home love has a poetry of its own created out of the simplest materials, he forgot that it had been washing day, and started home to enjoy himself. After tumbling over a bucket of soap suds and a scrubbing brush he encountered his wife in the back entry, with a smile on his face, and sprang forward with a husband's tenderness to embrace her. He didn't see the dish of soft soap on the floor, and miscalculated the force of gravity so much that after describing a curve with his left leg, and landing his thumb in his wife's eye, he sat down to rest on the mop. His wife gave a dose of the milk of human kindness with the clothes stick, and declared that the next time he came home inebriated and grinning like an image peddler she would bring her mother home to stay a month.

The idea that the party owns the paper, and that its editors must swear that all on the other side are thieves and cut-throats, is, as the boys say, played out. Papers are now the organs of the whole people, and questions of public policy must be discussed in reference to the whole people and not to any party. It is safe to say that no paper starting out as an organ of any party, right or wrong, can long survive.—Galveston (Tex.) News.

SEWING MACHINE SALES

FOR 1872.

BY comparison of Statistics from sworn returns of the sales of Sewing Machines for 1871 and 1872, it shows that the

"DOMESTIC"

SEWING MACHINE Co.'s sales have increased over 375 per cent., while no other Co.'s sales have increased over 36 per cent., proving the great popularity of the "DOMESTIC."

Annexed are the percentage of gain, of the leading makers:

Domestic Sewing Machine Co.,	gain 375	per cent
Wheeler & Wilson "	" 36	"
Singer "	" 23	"
Grover & Baker "	" 5	"
Weed "	" 4	"
Wilcox & Gibbs "	" 12	"
Wilson "	" 3	"

Other Machines Co.'s' sales show a loss over the year before.

If the increase in sales be any criterion of merit, the "DOMESTIC" bears the palm.

The "DOMESTIC" works so easy, it is working itself into every family.

The "DOMESTIC" runs so light, it is distancing all competitors. It only asks a few days trial.

The "DOMESTIC" is recommend by the Medical Faculty.

All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy, and no one can more safely intrust their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGGART."

SEWING MACHINE SALES

FOR 1872.

BY comparison of Statistics from sworn returns of the sales of Sewing Machines for 1871 and 1872, it shows that the

"DOMESTIC"

SEWING MACHINE CO.'s sales have increased over 375 per cent. while no other Co.'s sales have increased over 36 per cent., proving the great popularity of the "DOMESTIC."

Annexed are the percentage of gain, of the leading makers:

Domestic Sewing Machine Co.,	gain	375 per cent
Wheeler & Wilson "	"	36 "
Singer "	"	23 "
Grover & Baker "	"	5 "
Weed "	"	8 "
Wilcox & Gibbs "	"	12 "
Wilson "	"	8 "

Other Machines Co.'s' sales show a loss over the year before.

If the increase in sales be any criterion of merit, the "DOMESTIC" bears the palm.

The "DOMESTIC" works so easy, it is working itself into every family.

The "DOMESTIC" runs so light, it is distancing all competitors. It only asks a few days trial.

The "DOMESTIC" is recommend by the Medical Faculty.

THE GREAT SOUTH AMERICAN

Jurubeba Blood Purifier,

Is the most powerful cleanser, strengthener and remover of Glandular Obstructions known to Materia Medica.

It is specially adapted to constitutions "worn down" and debilitated by the warm weather of Spring and Summer, when the blood is not in active circulation, consequently gathering impurities from sluggishness and imperfect action of the secretive organs, and is manifested by Tumors, Eruptions, Blotches, Boils, Pimples, Scrofula, &c.

In the heat of Summer, frequently the Liver and Spleen do not properly perform their functions; the Uterine and Urinary Organs are inactive, producing weakness of the stomach and intestines and a predisposition to bilious derangement.

Dr. Wells'

EXTRACT OF JURUBEBA

is prepared directly from the SOUTH AMERICAN PLANT, and is peculiarly suited to all these difficulties; it will cleanse the VITIATED BLOOD, strengthen the LIFE-GIVING POWERS, and REMOVE ALL OBSTRUCTIONS from IMPAIRED AND ENFEEBLED Organs.

It should be freely taken, as Jurubeba is pronounced by medical writers the most efficient PURIFIER, TONIC and DEOBSTRUENT known in the whole range of medical plants.

The Chronicle.

OUR VISITOR.—He came in with an interrogation point in one eye, and a stick in one hand. One eye was covered with a handkerchief and one arm in a sling. His bearing was that of a man with a settled purpose in view.

"I want to see," said he, "the man that puts things in this paper."

We intimated that several of us earned a frugal livelihood in that way.

"Well, I want to see the man which cribs things out of the other papers. The fellow who writes mostly with shears, you understand."

We explained to him that there were seasons when the most gifted among us, driven to frenzy by the scarcity of ideas and events, and by the clamorous demands of an insatiable public, in moments of emotional insanity plunged the glittering shears into our exchanges. He went off calmly, but in a voice tremulous with suppressed feeling and indistinct through the recent loss of half a dozenor so of his front teeth:

"Just so. I presume so. I don't know much about this business, but I want to see a man, the man that printed that little piece about pouring cold water down a drunken man's spine of his back, and making him instantly sober. If you please, I want to see that man. I would like to talk with him."

Then he leaned his stick against our desk and spit on his serviceable hand, and resumed his hold on the stick as though he was weighing it. After studying the stick a minute, he added in a somewhat louder tone.

"Mister, I came here to see that 'ere man. I want to see him bad."

We told him that particular man was not in.

"Just so. I presume so. They told me before I come that the man I wanted to see wouldn't be anywhere. I'll wait for him. I live up north, and I've walked seven miles to converse with that man. I guess I'll sit down and wait."

He sat down by the door and reflectively pounded the floor with his stick, but his feelings would not allow him to keep still.

"I suppose none of you didn't ever pour much cold water down any drunken man's back to make him instantly sober, perhaps."

None of us in the office had ever tried the experiment.

"Just so. I thought just as like as not you had not. Well, mister, I have. I tried it yesterday, and I have come seven miles on foot to see the man that printed that piece. It wasn't much of a piece, I don't think; but I want to see the man that printed it, just a few minutes. You see, John Smith, he lives next door to my house, when I'm to home, and he gets how-come-you-so every little period. Now when he's sober, he's all right if you keep out of his way; but when he's drunk he goes home and breaks dishes, and tips over the stove, and throws the hard ware around, and makes it inconvenient for his wife, and sometimes he gets his gun and goes out calling on his neighbors, and it ain't pleasant.

Not that I want to say anything about Smith; but me and my wife don't think he ought to do so. He came home drunk, yesterday, and broke all the kitchen windows out of his house, and followed his wife around with the carving knife, talking about her liver, and after a while he lay down by my fence and went to sleep. I had been reading that little piece; it wasn't much of a piece, and I thought if I could pour some water down his spine, on his back, and make him sober, it would be more comfortable for his wife, and a square thing to do all around. So I pouged a bucket of spring water down John Smith's spine of his back.

"Well," said we, as our visitor paused, "did it make him sober?" Our visitor took a firmer hold of his stick and replied with increased emotion:

"Just so. I suppose it did make him as sober as a judge in less time than you could say Jack Robinson; but mister, it made him mad. It made him the maddest man I ever saw, and Mister John Smith is a bigger man than me and stouter. He is a good deal stouter. Bla— bless him, I never knew he was half so stout till yesterday, and he's handy with his fists, too. I should suppose he's the handiest man with his fists I ever saw."

"Then he went for you, did he?" we asked innocently.

"Just so. Exactly. I suppose he went for me about the best he knew, but I don't hold no grudge against John Smith. I suppose he ain't a good man to hold a grudge against, only I want to see that man what printed that piece. I want to see him bad. I feel as though it would soothe me to see that man. I want to show him how a drunken man acts when you pour water down the spine of his back. That's what I come for."

Our visitor, who had poured water down the spine of a drunken man's back, remained until about 6 o'clock in the evening, and then went up street to find the man that printed that little piece. The man he is looking for started for Alaska last evening for a summer vacation, and will not be back before September, 1878.—Utica Herald.

The Daily Chronicle,

Portsmouth, N. H.

SATURDAY, JUNE 28, 1873.

Walworth's Trial.

The defence admit the killing of Mansfield T. Walworth by Frank H. Walworth, his son. Several witnesses for the defence testified to the good disposition of Frank, and his mother detailed at length the story of her unhappy married life and the wrongs and indignities she had suffered. She gave her testimony in a modest, dignified manner, and manifested the same perfect self-control which has marked the conduct of her son since the murder.

A. Ebert, who occupied the next room to young Walworth's when the murder was committed, heard angry talk and could distinguish the words "mother" and "hope."

Mrs. Walworth stated that she received letters from her husband after they were separated and divorced. There was no male person in her house to protect her except Frank. She did not know he was to visit his father and supposed he had gone to the Springs. While she lived with Mansfield T. Walworth, he always carried a pistol. Her son had kept many letters from her that his father had sent to her, being advised to do so by the family.

Mr. O'Conor said he would offer evidence in connection with the letter of May 30, 1873, which the prisoner inclosed to his uncle, but he also thought if the right time had come for the reading of these letters, the letter of the prisoner accompanying the latter letter should be read.

The district attorney made no objection to the last two letters.

Mr. O'Conor then read the letter of the prisoner to his uncle.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Sunday 1873.

Dear Uncle,—Mother told me of the invitation you extended to me to accompany you to Europe. Having only recently any desire to go to Europe the invitation was particularly acceptable, and as I would have to leave her soon any way to attend the Albany law school, I told her (on her intimating that you wished an answer in the morning) that she might say I would like to go. I am of the opinion that it would be neither safe nor wise to have her unprotected against father's arts. In fact, I do not think her situation is by any means a safe one as it is. I inclose a letter from father to her which I received yesterday. I am going down to New York in the morning to try to see him, and, I may add, without informing mother, for she would feel very uneasy. My trip will determine any question in regard to my going to Europe, or anywhere else. I will be heartily sorry if I shall have caused you any trouble or expense.

(Signed) Affec. your nephew.

F. H. WALWORTH.

Seven o'clock in the morning, May 30.

Prepare yourself for the inevitable. I am getting over my wasting fever. I am going to call on my children. My heart is starving for their caresses. I shall see them peacefully if I can, but with a tragedy if I must. Keep Frank Walworth out of my way. You have taught him to hate me. Beware you do not rouse the frenzy that is within me. I want to see my children. There is a reasonable way to lead me now. I am going to see my children. I am a broken-hearted desperado. Save this letter for the lawyer and courts if you please. God is my lawyer now—not the remorseless, brutal God that Eliza Buckus and C. E. Walworth worship, but the God that planted love for my little girls in my heart, and that says to the bereft tiger, "kill." Oh, you wretch, that kept me two years from the hands and hearts that love me. Your only excuse was my poverty and misfortunes. Should my children refuse to speak to me in the streets of Saratoga, I shall say to myself that she is teaching them all to hate a broken hearted father; all is lost and tragedy must come. When I know from the conduct of the little girls that you have taught them to hate me, that moment two pistol shots will ring about that house—one slaying you, the other myself. I know you have no fear, no more than I have, but we both must die. When that discovery teaches my brain that you have estranged my young children from me, I shall have your life. If my little girls do not love me then, my life is valueless and I shall die with a feeling of luxury and rest. But you will have to attend me to the spirit land. The God of justice demands it. But if you do right under that decree all may be well. But now my heart is agonized for my little children. If you had common sense you would know how to appreciate the danger.

(Signed) MANSFIELD T. WALWORTH.

A vast fire is raging in Plymouth woods, Mass., the front line of which is eight miles long. It has been burning a week.

The house of Bryant Peavey, of Rochester, was robbed of a trunk containing $10,000 on Thursday night, but the thief became alarmed, dropped the trunk in the street, and it was recovered next morning.

Albert H. Smith was hung at Springfield, Mass., on Friday forenoon, for the murder of Charles D. Sackett in December last. Smith's demeanor remained unchanged until the last moment, and seems to have indicated neither fear nor bravado. He made a short speech on the gallows, declaring that he had no intention to kill Sackett when he started to seek him on the night of the murder, and that his previous statements concerning Jennie Bates were true.

The safe in the railway ticket office at South Newmarket was blown open on Thursday night, and between $300 and $400 taken. No tickets are missing.

The new ocean cable has been buoyed eighty miles from Heart's Content, Newfoundland.

GENERAL B. F. BUTLER, of Massachusetts, is one of the men who may boast of fervent friends and ferocious foes, and he is frequently fortunate in both. He has a grotesque habit of startling the first and terrifying the second, and it is amusing to note the effect of his eccentricities upon the public mind. One thing may be said of him, that while calumny strikes hard it never sticks to him. He is often wounded, but never fatally, and his record shows as many conquests over his enemies as he has scars received in his conflicts with them. Some of his mistakes are stupendous, but they are generally forgiven in the real substance of his victories. We forget his fifty odd votes for Jefferson Davis in the Democratic National Convention at Charleston, S. C., in 1860, and his unnecessary championship of the back-pay steal in 1873, in the enduring splendor of his military management of the cities of Baltimore and New Orleans during the rebellion. And now that he is a candidate for Governor of Massachusetts again, the fire is opened upon him, flank, front, and rear; and it is evident that he is destined to win the prize, not less because his opponents are unreasonable than because he can show a very much better record than most of his rivals. At least there is no taint upon his hands. What gives General Butler a superior advantage is his unresting activity and his sublime audacity. He is the undaunted athlete of every campaign, the bold inventor of new issues, the pugilist of debate, as fertile with his pen in the newspapers as with his pleadings in the courts. You can hardly break down such a man, especially when he comes before you independent in his circumstances, full of health and vivacity, and ready for every encounter. We hardly think Massachusetts will clothe herself in sackcloth and ashes when Benjamin F. Butler takes her chair of State, as from all the auguries he surely will.—Philadelphia Press.

A NEW RAILWAY through a rich country is good property, but when both local and through traffic are assured, its value depends only on management. The Portland & Ogdensburg R. R.—see advertisement on another page—passes through a prosperous agricultural and manufacturing country with no competing outlet; brings the immense freight of the lakes and Canadian railways several hours nearer the ocean at the best harbor on the whole Atlantic; and besides is in good hands.

Quarries now yielding but a local supply of limestone, granite, slate or marble, and forests of lumber, are waiting only for the means of getting to market. The produce and manufactories of this thriving country cannot wait, and are moved by the indirect and costly routes. Messrs. Fairbanks alone sending 20,000 tons of scales, etc., yearly from St. Johnsbury, at great disadvantage. These same gentlemen who have made name and fortune in this hardy region are very naturally the chief promoters and managers of the new railway, part of which is now working, and the rest being steadily pushed toward completion. On general principles, it is safe to conclude without going into particulars, that the bonds offered are secure beyond the usual requirements of investors.—Christian at Work.

First-Class Carriages.

In a hotly contested municipal election, the other day, an active political manager was telling me his tactics. "We have to send carriages for some of the voters," he said. "First-class carriages! If we undertake to wait on 'em we must do it in good shape, and not leave the best carriages to be hired by the other party."

I am not much given to predicting just what will happen when women vote; but I confidently assert that they will be taken to the polls, if they wish, in first-class carriages. If the best horses are to be harnessed, and the best cushions selected, and every panel of the coach rubbed till you can see your face in it, merely to accommodate some elderly man who lives two blocks away, and could walk to the polls very easily, then how much more will these luxuries be placed at the service of every woman, young or old, whose presence at the polls is made doubtful by mud, or snow, or the prospect of a shower.

But the carriage is only the beginning of the polite attentions that will soon appear. When we see the transformation undergone by every ferry-boat and every railway-station, so soon as it comes to be frequented by women, who can doubt that voting places will experience the same change? They will soon have—at least in the "ladies' departments"—elegance instead of discomfort, beauty for ashes, plenty of rocking-chairs, and no need of spittoons. Very possibly they may have all the modern conveniences and inconveniences: furnace-registers, tea-kettles, Washington-pies, and a young lady to give checks for bundles. Who knows what elaborate comforts, what queenly luxuries, may be offered to women at voting-places, when the time has finally arrived to sue for their votes?

The common impression has always seemed quite different from all this. People look at the coarseness and dirt now visible at so many voting-places, and say, "Would you expose women to all this?" But these places are not dirtier than a railway smoking-car, and there is no more coarseness than in any forty-bond which is, for whatever reason, used by men only. You do not look into those places and say with indignation, "Never, if I can help it, shall my wife or my beloved great-grandmother travel by steamboat or rail!" You know that with those exemplary relatives will enter order and quiet, carpets and curtains. Why should it be otherwise with ward-rooms and town halls?

There is not an atom more of intrinsic difficulty in providing a decorous ladies' room for a voting-place than for a postoffice or a railway-station; and it is as simple a thing to vote a ticket as to buy one. The thing thus easily practicable, all men will desire to provide it. And the example of the first-class carriages shows that the parties will vie with each other in these pleasing arrangements. They will be driven to it, whether they wish it or not. The party which has most consistently and resolutely kept woman away from the ballot-box will be the very party compelled, for the sake of self-preservation, to make her "rights" agreeable to her, when once she gets them.

A few stupid or noisy men may indeed try to make the polls unattractive to her, the very first time, but the result of this little experiment will be so disastrous that the offenders will be sternly suppressed by their own party-leaders before another election day comes. It will soon become clear that of all possible ways of losing votes the surest lies in treating women rudely. Parties will, therefore, very promptly adopt the opposite style, and will accept the maxim which Napoleon gave his diplomatists, "Soignez les femmes—look to the women."

Lucy Stone tells a story of a good man in Kansas who, having done all he could to prevent women from being allowed to vote on school questions, was finally comforted, when that measure passed, by the thought that he should at least secure his wife's vote for a pet school-house of his own. Election day came, and the newly enfranchised matron showed the most culpable indifference to her privileges. She made breakfast as usual, went about her housework, and did on that perilous day precisely the things that anxious husband had always predicted that women never would do under such circumstances. His hints and advice found no responses; and nothing short of the best pair of horses and the best wagon finally sufficed to take the farmer's wife to the polls. I am not the least afraid that women will find voting a rude or disagreeable arrangement. I am more afraid of their being treated too well, and being too much attracted and allured by these cheap cajoleries. But women are pretty shrewd, and I am willing to trust them to go to the polls, even in first-class carriages.—T. W. Higginson, in Woman's Journal.

WANTED, AN EQUIVALENT.—No one can fully comprehend the capacity of the human stomach until he has been present at a clam dinner, and no where do dinners attain such large proportions as in Rhode Island. There is generally a fixed price for a clam dinner there, and perhaps that accounts for the quantity of clams which a native will project himself outside of. At a place called Riverside, a woman and her offspring of five summers were observed the other day industriously engaged upon clams. The boy was athirst and desired to drink, when his shrewd mother exclaimed, "Look a-here! I've paid for a clam dinner for you, and now I ain't agoing to have you filling up with water." The woman cannot be blamed, for only by strict attention to business can one get the value of a clam dinner into a five-year old stomach.

WELL'S GRAND DISTRIBUTION.—The committee, after drawing nearly one hundred and fifty thousand dollars have decided to postpone the drawing until July 1st, 1873. This will positively be the last postponement W. B. Lowd, Agent.

FOR LOSS OF APPETITE, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Depression of Spirits and General Debility, in their various forms, FERRO-PHOSPHORATED ELIXIR OF CALISAYA made by Caswell, Hazard & Co., New York, and sold by all druggists, is the best tonic. As a stimulant tonic for patients recovering from fever or other sickness, it has no equal. If taken during the season it prevents fever and ague and other intermittent fevers. j10

Spicy breath, teeth white and speckless,
Fragrant SOZODONT secures;
Ladies, can you be so reckless
As to fail to make them yours?

DANGER.—At this season the atmosphere is encouraged with the seeds of intermittents, remittents, rheumatism, pulmonary disorders, bilious complaints and the like. Persons whose nervous systems are relaxed are the first to succumb to these distempers. Brace up the physical energies then with this potential vegetable tonic. It is the most powerful recuperant which the botanic kingdom has ever yielded to patient research and experiment. Try it. The blindest disciple of the old medical dogma will at once admit that of a safe, sure and alterative, compounded of approved herbs, roots and barks can do no harm, while the testimony of thousands invites a trial of its virtues. Vigor is the thing most needed in these cases as well as in dyspepsia and nervous affections, and Hostetter's Bitters is the safest, surest and most wholesome strengthening preparation that human skill has yet concocted.

Age does not impair Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets, or Sugar-coated, Concentrated Root and Herbal Juice, Anti-Bilious Granules. Their coating, and being enclosed in glass vials, preserve their virtues unimpaired for any length of time, in any climate, so that they are always fresh and reliable, which is not the case with the pills put up in cheap wooden paste-board boxes. Recollect that for all diseases where a Laxative, Alterative or Purgative is indicated, these little Pellets will give the most perfect satisfaction to all who use them. They are sold by all enterprising Druggists at 25 cents. 687

City Council.

In Board of Mayor and Aldermen, Thursday evening, Mr. Garrett moved that the committee having charge of the investigation of charges against City Messenger Hidden be discharged. The motion was seconded but Mayor Marvin refused to entertain it on the ground that it was discourteous to members of the Board and to the Common Council! Alderman Davis stated that the chairman of the committee had said that the joint committee had dissolved. He was willing to censure the City Messenger for disrespect to the Mayor, and moved that such a vote be passed. The motion passed unanimously.

Laconics.

A little fellow named Marston, from the purlieus of Bow street, while playing on Adams & Co.'s wharf on Friday afternoon fell overboard and would have drowned but for the intrepid conduct of Mr. Benjamin Williams, who plunged head foremost into the swift whirling eddies and secured the boy. Raising his burden to the surface he swam to the wharf, where he was relieved by some boatmen. Such an act embodies real courage.

The State prison, last year, cleared $20,000 above its expenses.

A stove pipe in the house on Wall street occupied by Mr. Jackson McIntire "broke joints" and set the paper of the kitchen on fire, Friday afternoon. An alarm was given and the Fire Department turned out, but their services were not needed as the neighbors mustered in force with buckets of water and soon put out the flames. Damage trifling.

Wagner.

Wagner is adrift yet. A strange feature of this jail breaking affair is that the police of this city were not notified of Wagner's escape until half past 7 o'clock Friday evening, more than thirty-six hours after the murderer had left the jail! A reward of $500 is offered for his arrest, but from the tardy and feeble manner in which the hue-and-cry has been raised some people fancy the Alfred jail officials don't want him caught.

The State Redistricted.

"Kent" telegraphed us from Concord, Friday afternoon, that "the bill to redistrict the State has passed," and that "Mr. Stephen L. Marston has withdrawn his resignation."

N. H. Unitarian Association.

The eleventh annual convention of the Unitarians in this State, convened at Milford on Wednesday afternoon. The convention was presided over by Dr. Smith of Peterborough, and contained representatives from nearly all the churches of the denomination in the State. The report of the Secretary, Rev. T. W. Brown of Dover, shew that considerable missionary work had been done but more required. The Rev. Mr. DeNormandie of Portsmouth offered some quite touching ly appropriate resolutions concerning the late Chief Justice Bellows, which were read and adopted by a rising vote. The late Judge Bellows and Mr. DeNormandie were the first projectors of the Association and to their combined efforts is due the existence of the Society. In the evening a sermon was preached by Rev. R. R. Shippen of Boston, Secretary of the American Unitarian Association.

After a prayer and conference meeting on Thursday forenoon, the Association convened and listened to an essay by William H. Hackett, Esq., of Portsmouth upon the question, "Are Christian principles and business principles necessarily incompatible?" After the discussion was had upon the subject, Rev. Mr. Clark of Lancaster introduced a resolution commending total abstinence in use of intoxicating drinks, which met with some opposition and was declared not passed. The election of officers (nearly as last year) followed, Judge Fowler of Concord being re-elected President, and Rev. T. W. Brown as Secretary. On Thursday afternoon the convention rose.

The meetings were held in the beautiful town hall of Milford, the home of Senator Wadleigh. In the construction of the hall, the citizens have displayed much taste. In the vestibule are placed tablets of marble with the names and dates of soldiers killed in the late rebellion; and thus a patriotic people testify their veneration for men who sacrificed their lives in their country's defence.

In the town hall is a well-selected public library. The community of Milford shows a keen appreciation of this source of culture.

SERVED HIM RIGHT.—One Challen, a Cincinnati lawyer, having got a respectable man on the stand as a witness, gave him such a badgering as to call for the frequent intervention of the court. The witness took matters very coolly, but as soon as he got to the street he gave Challen such a whipping as he will probaly remember as long as he lives. Everybody seemed satisfied at the event; and, if we are not very much mistaken a little of the same kind of drill would be good in many places as well as in Cincinnati.

SPRING HATS.—A woman who is considering the matter of her spring hat is an interesting subject for contemplation. First she buys a straw frame that looks as if it had been struck by a hurricane and then sat down on by an entire Coroner's jury. After that when she rides in a street car she drinks in the details of every spring hat that enters, and leaves them all by heart, and does mental sums over the cost of the ribbon, and makes up her mind to have flowers in hers like those worn by the woman in the corner, and lace like that gaudy looking creature in the middle. And then she walks down the street and studies all the hats that come along, and when a woman passes her with one on, she twists her neck around to see how it looks behind, and is disgusted to see that the woman is also disfiguring her neck, to see how she trims her hat. When she arrives in front of a millinery store she lingers until she has analyzed all the spring hats in the window, and she determines to trim hers nineteen different ways, and decides not to have flowers like the woman who sat in the corner. Then she shoots into the store and asks to "see hats," with the air of a person who has a whole female seminary to rig out with eighty dollar headgear. She examines every hat in the establishment, overhauls ten bushels of flowers, gets about twenty dollars worth of work out of the saleswoman, and then says she will "look further." Then she goes home with her mind fixed on thirty-eight or nine different styles in which she wants to trim her hat. After awhile she begins to think she ought to have a feather in it, and she passes two or three sleepless nights trying to decide whether to put one on or not.

At last she resolves she will. Then she lies awake for two more nights endeavoring to determine whether it shall be red or blue. She fixes on blue. She buys the trimming and sews it on in seventy successive positions, her mind filled with deepest anxiety as to whether the feather should go on the right side, the left side, or on top. She puts it on the right side, but just then Mrs. Brown passes the front window with a feather on the left side of her's, and so she changes it. The next morning Mrs. Ferguson calls, and her feather is on the right side, and then Mrs Smith has feathers on both sides, and Mrs. Johnson has one on top. Then more sleepless nights and more painful uncertainty. At last, in utter despair, she takes the hat to a milliner and pays ten dollars to have it trimmed. When it comes home she pronounces it "hateful" and picks it all to pieces, and broods over it, and worries and frets, and loses her appetite, and feels life to be a burden for two weeks longer, until suddenly she hits just the right thing, and becomes at once serene and happy, and puts the hat on and goes out and makes millions of other women miserable because their hats are not trimmed exactly like hers. As a wife, woman is a blessing; as a mother, she is an inestimable boon; as an organizer of spring hats, she is simply an object of compassion.—Max Adeler.

BILLIARDS MORALIZED.—It is as true in billiards as in trade or in politics, that steady attention to business, hard work and careful good sense are the best means of accumulation. In many other ways also, however, are the moralities of this beautiful game,—moralities hitherto never developed,—illustrative of the affairs of life. A man's shots, for instance, show his character. One player is forever putting on a twist, or making draw shots, and counts in the most unexpected manner, forcing the tormented balls in every direction by cunning under-handed strokes. Another, by sheer straightforward force, drives his ball far round the table, with long sighted powerful combinations. Another prefers "follow shots;" softly and delicately he coaxes the hard ivory balls, who quietly do what he wants, but don't know that they are coaxed. Another still, the cunningest of all, a silent monopolizer, gets a corner on the balls. He gets the two reds "jawed," and stepping back and forth round the corner pocket, counts and counts to the paralysis and infuriation of the helpless excluded adversary, who longs to whack him over the head with the butt of his cue.—From "Scrope," by F. B. Perkins, in Old and New for July.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY, SOLICITOR OF PATENTS, For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs, No. 76 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON

After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Research made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of Invention, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."

"Mr. R. H. Eddy has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and a very reasonable charge. JOHN TAGGART."

SEWING MACHINE SALES

FOR 1872.

BY comparison of Statistics from sworn returns of the sales of Sewing Machines for 1871 and 1872, it shows that the

"DOMESTIC"

SEWING MACHINE Co.'s sales have increased over 375 per cent, while no other Co.'s sales have increased over 36 per cent, proving the great popularity of the "DOMESTIC."

Annexed are the percentage of gain, of the leading makers:

Domestic Sewing Machine Co.,	gain	375	per cent
Wheeler & Wilson	"	36	"
Singer	"	23	"
Grover & Baker	"	5	"
Weed	"	8	"
Wilcox & Gibbs	"	12	"
Wilson	"	2	"

Other Machine Co.'s' sales show a loss over the year before.

If the increase in sales be any criterion of merit, the "DOMESTIC" bears the palm.

The "DOMESTIC" works so easy, it is working itself into every family.

The "DOMESTIC" runs so light, it is distancing all competitors. It only asks a few days trial.

The "DOMESTIC" is recommend by the Medical Faculty.

BIXBY'S BEST SHOE BLACKING

Two Gems for Household Use.

THE GREAT SOUTH AMERICAN

Jurubeba Blood Purifier,

is the most powerful cleanser, strengthener and remover of Glandular Obstructions known to Materia Medica.

It is specially adapted to constitutions "worn down" and debilitated by the warm weather of Spring and Summer, when the blood is not in active circulation, consequently gathering impurities from sluggishness and imperfect action of the secretive organs, and is manifested by Tumors, Eruptions, Blotches, Boils, Pustules, Scrofula, &c.

In the form of Summer, frequently the Liver and Spleen do not properly perform their functions; the Uterine and Urinary Organs are inactive, producing weakness of the stomach and intestines and a predisposition to bilious derangement.

Dr. Wells'

EXTRACT OF JURUBEBA

is prepared directly from the SOUTH AMERICAN PLANT, and is peculiarly suited to all these difficulties; it will cleanse the VITIATED BLOOD, strengthen the LIFE-GIVING POWERS, and REMOVE ALL OBSTRUCTIONS from IMPAIRED AND ENFEEBLED Organs.

It should be freely taken, as Jurubeba is pronounced by medical writers the most efficient PURIFIER, TONIC and DEOBSTRUENT known in the whole range of medicinal plants.

The Chronicle.

A NEW DAVY CROCKETT.—The editor of the Washington Star, journeying in the West, gives the following account of a new member of Congress from Tennessee:

At Grand Junction we left the rough diamond of the Congressional party—the Hon. Wm. Crutchfield, the newly elected member from the Chattanooga district. Since the days of Davy Crockett, Tennessee has always managed to have at least one mountaineer character in Congress; and Crutchfield, the latest, is said to resemble Crockett more in originality and style than any of the intervening line. He is a sunburnt, wiry little man, with foxy hair and whiskers, and though, by report, of considerable means, wears the cheapest of homespun suits, a good deal frayed at the edges, and with a pair of heavy well-greased cowhide brogans that were the perpetual despair of the Pullman boot-blacks. He is not only a mighty hunter, like Crockett, but is moreover a shrewd business man. He built the "Crutchfield House" at Chattanooga, which was sold during the war for $65,000 in confederate money and the proceeds prudently turned at once into real estate in the shape of valuable farming land. In the same prudent way Crutchfield invested confederate money as fast as it came into his hands, in tobacco, which, on the advance of the Union troops, he sold at $1.50 per pound in greenbacks. Knowing the country and the people thoroughly he was of great service to General Sherman as a scout. When he was put up for Congress nobody supposed he stood any chance of being elected, as the District went democratic at the previous election by some 5,000 majority, but his neighbors took him and elected him by about 1,500 majority.

Crutchfield, by his quaint remarks and racy narratives of mountaineering experience, had made himself vastly popular with the whole party, and when he left the train, at Grand Junction, it was conceded that we could have "better spared a better man." So there was a general demand that he should make a parting speech while the train waited, and he mounted a platform barrow and proceeded about as follows:

"Gen-tel-men:—We air about to part after having traveled about a good deal hyar and thar; but I hope to meet you next winter over thar at Washington. My friend Hyne (of Arkansas) gave me some good advice how to keep from being seasick when we war down thar on the Gulf. It war to lay my head back, and look up. I think, my friend in these me-bi-ler times, that will be a good thing to do when I get to Washington. [Tremendous applause.] Gen-tel-men: We have been through a great country. Napoleon Bony-part truly said, when he threw down the pen after deeding Louisiana to the Americans: 'Thar's the heaviest blow Great Britain ever got!' [Applause.] Gen-tel-men: I wish you could have gone up home with me. I am the little dog in-big rye-up thar. I have got the smartest old woman, and the finest brats you ever set eyes on. We've got the tallest mountains, and the best whiskey you ever sampled. [Applause.] Thar is Lookout mountain, from which you can see four States—Tennessee, Alabama, Georgia, and the drunken state. Gen-tel-men: If ever you" here the engine gave a snort and the train moved off, amidst loud cheers for Crutchfield.

OBSERVATION.—We were not surprised when Mrs. Hotchkiss demanded a divorce. Mrs. Hotchkiss was a somnambulist, and after getting to sleep at night she would rise and grope her way down stairs to the Kitchen. Then she would do the whole of the week's washing, and after hanging the clothes upon the line come back to bed. The next night she would do the ironing, and the next the sweeping, and so forth. And always when she came down in the morning she would be astonished to find the work all finished, and she always insisted that Hotchkiss had done it for her while she was asleep. And Hotchkiss, the unprincipled scoundrel that he was, would smile and take the credit for it, just as much as she chose to give him, although he used to watch her get up in her sleep, and he knew well enough how it was. And when she would throw her arms around his neck and kiss him and tell him how very kind it was in him, that conscienceless rascal would say, "Oh, it's nothing, Harriet, nothing, my dear; I do it because I love my darling Harriet."

Then Mrs. Hotchkiss would nestle her head on his waistcoat and cry over his shirt front, and he would stand there with the air of a man who was conscious of having done a great and noble action at the cost of fearful self-sacrifice. This kind of thing continued for several weeks, until one night, while Mrs. Hotchkiss was washing shirts in her sleep, a needle concealed in one of the garments ran into her finger and awoke her. For a moment she was bewildered. Then the truth flashed upon her. She went up stairs. Hotchkiss was fast asleep and snoring like a fog whistle. She shook him and waked him. He thought she was still in a somnambulistic condition, so he exclaimed, "See here, old woman, lemme alone and go down and finish that washing." Mrs. Hotchkiss did not nestle her head upon his bosom then. She nestled her hands among his hair and yelled at him, and pulled him out on the floor and hammered him with a chair. And the next day she went for a divorce. They made it up afterward, but she stopped washing in her sleep, and has taken to black mailing Hotchkiss for bonnets. If he seems indisposed to disburse handsomely she always starts for a divorce, and he succumbs.

We learn from a medical journal that the doctors have prepared for circulation in the profession a "black list," containing the names of persons who will not pay their bills. The purpose is to deprive such sinners of medical attendance. This reminds us of the case of Hillegas, who lived up in Montgomery county. For years Hillegas had been almost at the point of death. Broken down, emaciated, with his appetite gone, his lungs weak, his liver torpid, his heart affected, his legs paralyzed, his arms rheumatic, his head full of neuralgia and his back aching with lumbago, he lay on his bed for five or six years, miserable, unable to move and expecting every moment to be his next one. All the doctors in the country had a shy at him one after another, and as he kept getting worse all the time it made him mad and he refused to pay their bills. So one day the doctors held a meeting and after discussing the avarice of Hillegas, they determined not to look at him again until he settled up. They said, "Now we'll let Hillegas die. We have fooled with him long enough. He has either got to pay or go down to the grave quick. No more Hillegas for us unless we can see some cash." So for six months they let him alone, and whenever one of them would drive past the house, he would pull up for a minute, look to see if there was any crape on the door, shake his head solemnly and say, "Poor Hillegas! the obstinate old fool is not long for this world." But one day Dr. Jones felt moved by humanity to break through the resolutions, so he called at Hillegas's house to see how he was—perhaps to see him die. As he entered the yard he perceived a stout man lifting a barrel of flour into a wagon. Then the man went and picked up a four hundred pound cooking stove in the shed with one hand, and seizing a keg of nails with the other, he began to walk off to the barn; but seeing a stranger he put the things down and came back. The doctor thought he recognized that face on the man's nose; but he couldn't believe it. Nevertheless it was Hillegas, perfectly well, weighing two hundred pounds, and able to lift the roof of the barn if he wanted to. And Hillegas hasn't paid those bills yet, while medicine as a profession pays less in that neighborhood than anywhere else in Montgomery county. People won't let a doctor come within a mile of their houses, unless they feel perfectly well and know there is no danger.—Max Adeler.

Graveyard vs. Prisons.

"Economy is the order of the day in Colorado, and rogues are shot as soon as caught, to save the expense of keeping them." We find the foregoing in one of our exchanges, and it leads us to query whether the great West is not ahead of us in the matter of keeping criminals, as in almost everything else except the time of sunrise? When a rogue is decently shot and buried he is safely stowed away for all practical purposes; whereas the catching, trying, convicting and jailing of criminals is a farce, or is rapidly becoming one in this vicinity.

Wagner, the brutal assassin of two helpless, inoffensive women, after awakening considerable mawkish sympathy by his good looks, and some doubts as to his guilt by his cool indifference during his trial, is no sooner condemned than he walks out of jail, taking two other unfortunate gentlemen with him and treating them to a good feed from the jailor's private larder on the way out,—all as coolly done as though Mr. Wagner was a hardened, reckless criminal and an old prison habitue. And the Dover correspondent of the Boston Journal writes that paper that "prisoners walk out of our jail so frequently that their departure hardly occasions remark. Three have quietly strolled away within a week, and none of the previously escaped nine have been returned." If prisons and jailors are so entirely insufficient to hold captured scoundrels in custody, wouldn't it be a good idea to try the Colorado plan, and give the job to respectable and efficient cemetery associations?

About Wagner's escape there is something incomprehensible. That he should have been so carelessly looked after, when he had previously boasted that he could get out of the jail whenever he liked, and had in a measure proved his boast true by walking out of his locked cell and joining the officers in a corridor, seems almost incredible, and the great delay of the jail authorities in spreading the news of the escape is unaccountable. With telegraph wires all over the country, the first positive information that Wagner had fled which reached the Portsmouth police came by mail thirty-six or forty hours after it occurred, on a postal card which offered $500 reward for the murder's recapture, "Per order county commissioners," there being no other signature.

The people of the western part of York county express amazement and indignation at the gross mismanagement which has evidently existed somewhere, and many openly express their opinion that the whole affair,—including the sensational break-out while the trial was in progress, the putting of new men on watch and the reported stealing of a boat from Wells beach,—was a "put up job." And it certainly does look as if Wagner had good friends somewhere, and that either connivance or incompetence may justly be charged against somebody.

Be Careful.

Certain measures introduced into the State legislature, with especial reference to municipal affairs in this city, seem to hang fire rather badly. Perhaps it would be as well for the legislature not to attempt to pass the bills referred to, as they might possibly be distasteful to Mayor Marvin, in which case he would be certain to veto them; and it would require no very great provocation to induce him to veto the whole proceedings of the legislature, and leave us without any State government (other than Mayor Marvin) at all. The chaps at Concord had best keep moderately quiet, and not rouse the antagonism of our chief magistrate, for when his dignity is touched he thinks nothing of firing scattering charges of "vetoes" and marvellous "rulings" in all directions, and some of the legislators might get hit. A chairman who vetoes a refusal to sustain his ruling on a point of order, who rules that a demand for the yeas and nays is a "motion" and must be duly "seconded" and passed by vote before being granted, and who refuses to entertain a motion personally distasteful to him after it is duly seconded, would veto a State legislature and governor too, for two cents. Be careful, gentlemen.

Mr. M. M. Ballou announces his retirement from the position of editor-in chief of the Boston Globe, on account of ill health. Mr. Ballou has labored indefatigably in establishing the paper the principal objection to its being that it is too much of a good thing. A little of the piquancy which characterizes the Transcript would add greatly to the Globe's circulation.

John Morrissey has got the smallest doggie in town. He is so very little that when John whistles at him you can't see the dog. When he gets tired Mr. Morrissey slips him into his vest pocket. He lost him yesterday, but after a long search found that he had slipped down into the lining of his coat. Day before yesterday a man tried to step on him. He thought it was a beetle. And two days before that one of John Toon's robins picked him up off the sidewalk and carried him up to give to the little robins to eat. Mr. Morrissey's "tiger" is said to be an animal of very different dimensions, and yet the Hon. John can carry him also in his pocket. His pockets are large.—Saratogian.

THE GREAT CURE-ALL.—No more drugs!—no more Pil. Rh. Comp.!—no more Epsom salts!—no more castor oil! All drug-dosing is hereafter to be dispensed with, and so are all dispensaries themselves, together with vaccination and blisters. Dr. John Chapman an Englishman has made discoveries and invented a general neuro-dynamic medicine, which is nothing more than a bag of ice applied to the back. We do not feel sure that we perfectly understand Dr. Chapman's theory, but we will try to explain it. The neuro-dynamic system means the art of turning on and off steam at the centres of nervous action. What is pain? "A phenomenon of functional change in the sensory centre into which the affected nerve is rooted. * * * Pain, like ordinary sensation, is of various degrees of intensity, and whereas pain denotes a more rapid functionary change in the affected sensory centre than occurs during ordinary sensation, the successively higher degrees of pain are expressive or successively higher degrees of functional change in the sensory centre." Does the reader, be he sick or well, understand? But it makes no difference. Who does understand what hurts him when his head aches? He may know generally that it is the superfluous bell pints at the dinner the night before, but why the conviviality has resulted in cerebral derangement he doesn't know. He can swallow his heck and soda water without any scientific knowledge, or rather he can put on one of Dr. Chapman's ice-bags. To cure him it is only necessary to apply cold to the spinal column. The remedy is simple, however complicated and "bothersome" may be the theory. A bag of ice to the back; that is all! Does anybody of a doubting turn of mind think this would be disagreeable? On the contrary! All of Dr. Chapman's patients testify (in writing) that they were refrigerated and refreshed. They usually fell into a pleasant sleep. One patient (evidently a lady) writes: "The ice is beautiful; I don't think I shall ever be able to do without it, it is so comforting." Another: "I find the ice very agreeable; I look for it, and like to have it on longer each time." Still another: "I go to sleep with the ice on; it is astonishing how pleasant it is." The ice-bag doesn't make you feel cold; on the other hand, it makes you feel comfortably warm. As a resource in the dog-days, what medical treatment could be more exquisitely delightful? Never mind all that learned talk about "the sensory centres," but get an ice-bag, O valetudinarian reader, fill it, adjust it, and "lie down to pleasant dreams."—N. Y. Tribune.

NUMBER TWENTY - EIGHT.—Hard words are said about number Twenty-Eight; words nearly approaching the blasphemous, and in not a few instances, going over the boundary. When the holy calm of midnight comes, when all nature ought to be at rest, these unchristian demonstrations begin, and continue, even until daylight peeps in. No description could give even an idea of the forces of the objurgations thrown from adjoining rooms—the curses, also, both loud and deep—which are thrown again t the door of Twenty-Eight. If the prayer of Zanga, in the play—"Oh for a curse to kill with!"—was granted to any one of the many thus exercised in their minds, number Twenty-Eight would soon be a very defunct individual. Now what is the cause of all this enmity? Number Twenty-Eight is a good citizen—a man who neither steals, cuts purses or throats—and who regularly votes the Republican ticket without a scratch. No moral or political sin attaches to him so far as we know, and yet men abuse him in his sleep as if he was a thief, pickpocket, or an "emotional insanity" man, with a very ready knife or pistol. The fact is that No. Twenty-Eight snores in his sleep—awfully—to the shaking of the very foundations of the hotel—and "that's what's the matter."—Concord Patriot.

Number Twenty-Eight is a Portsmouth man.

ANECDOTE OF PATRICK HENRY.—Governor Giles, of Virginia, once addressed a note to Patrick Henry, demanding satisfaction:

"Sir,—I understand that you have called me a 'bob-tailed politician;' I wish to know if it be true, and if true, to know your meaning." WM. B. GILES.

To which Henry replied:

"I do not recollect having called you a 'bob-tailed politician' at any time, but think it probable I have. Not recollecting the time or occasion, I cannot say what I did mean, but if you will tell me what you think I meant, I will say whether you are correct or not.

Yours respectfully,
PATRICK HENRY.

—A lady in Paducah was recently awakened from a sound sleep by a noise in her chamber. It was quite dark, but she could see an immense fire-bug performing eccentric gyrations around the bed, accompanied by a noise which sounded altogether different from that made by any insect she had ever seen. She was startled at first, but soon recovering, she watched her opportunity and made a sudden grab at the large brilliant star as it approached. She caught something and held on to it, while at the same moment the familiar voice of her husband was heard muttering indistinct anathemas against bats and other vermin. The lady found that it was her husband's nose she held. He had been out to the lodge, and somehow fallen asleep, during which a mischievous brother had painted his nose with phosphorous, causing it to shine out in the darkness like a jack-o'-lantern.

FOR LOSS OF APPETITE, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Depression of Spirits and General Debility, in their various forms, FERRO-PHOSPHORATED ELIXIR OF CALISYA made by Caswell, Hazard & Co., New York, and sold by all druggists, is the best tonic. As a stimulant tonic for patients recovering from fever or other sickness, it has no equal. If taken during the season it prevents fever and ague and other intermittent fevers. 1J10

Spicy breath, teeth white and sparkling,
Fragrant SOZODONT secures;
Ladies, can you be so reckless
As to foil to make them yours?

DANGER.—At this season the atmosphere is surcharged with the seeds of intermittents, remittents, rheumatism, pulmonary disorders, bilious complaints and the like. Persons whose nervous systems are unstrung are the first to succumb to these disturbers. Brace up the physical energies then with this potential tonic and invigorant. It is the most powerful recuperant which the botanic kingdom has ever yielded to patient research and experiment. Try it. The blindest disciple of the old medical dogmas will at least admit that of a tonic and alterative, compounded of approved herbs, roots and barks can do no harm, while the testimony of thousands writes a trial of its virtues. Vigor is the thing most needed in these cases as well as in dyspepsia and nervous affections, and Hostetter's Bitters is the safest, surest and most wholesome strengthening preparation that human skill has yet concocted.

Age does not impair Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets, or Sugar-coated, Concentrated Root and Herbal Juice, Anti-Bilious Granules. Their coating, and being enclosed in glass vials, preserve their virtues unimpaired for any length of time, in any climate, so that they are always fresh and reliable, which is not the case with the pills put up in cheap wooden pasteboard boxes. Recollect that for all diseases where a Laxative, Alterative or Purgative is indicated, these little Pellets will give the most perfect satisfaction to all who use them. They are sold by all enterprising Druggists at 25 cents. 687

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

The Bostonians Wide Awake.

It was our good fortune to be present at a meeting of the Sons and Daughters of Portsmouth resident in and about Boston, on Friday evening last. Frank Goodwin, Esq., President of the Association, opened the speaking with an eloquent address, detailing the workings of the organization, its intentions and expectations. Following him, Prof. A. P. Peabody, of Harvard College, feelingly referred to old associations with Portsmouth people, whom he met in every country he visited and all of whom spoke lovingly of old Strawberry Bank. He was proud to meet them anywhere and to take them by the hand. The coming reunion would bring back many pleasant memories which would not be forgotten. These memories would be cherished many years hence when those who took part in the reunion of 1853 have passed away. President Goodwin next called up Hon. Ezra A. Stevens, who responded in a most felicitous manner, as follows:—

Considerable curiosity has been felt to know who would have temerity and self-assurance enough to accept the Chief Marshalship of our procession, after what was said in this hall a few weeks since. Had I been present at that meeting, it is very doubtful, indeed whether I should have occupied my present position; for the description of the proper man for a Chief Marshal, as given by our worthy President on that occasion, was sufficient to deter a much braver man than myself from accepting it. Why, sir, if your speech has been correctly reported to me, you deemed it essential that the Marshal should be tall and noble looking, as Langer; sharp eyed as Storer; enthusiastic as Goskin; brilliant as Kennard; and energetic as Harris. He must possess the legal lore of Woodbury; the eloquence of Parker; the silvery speech and graceful diction of Fields; the poetic humor of Spalding; the inimitable drollery of Barnabee; and the military genius and prestige of Jackson—in short he must possess all the graces of all the gifted sons of Portsmouth; must be a poet and a scholar, a hero and a saint! Now, ladies and gentlemen, I think you will all agree with me, that if any such man as that were living, he must, of necessity, have been born in Portsmouth; for only old Strawberry Bank, herself, could ever have given birth to such a prodigy! But there is no such person. The gods do not bestow all their graces upon any one man. And your executive committee, being satisfied of the fact, have rushed to the opposite extreme and seized upon one who is destitute of all. But, fellow townsmen, while your Marshal has no claim whatever to any of the gifts or graces referred to, he is conscious of possessing at least two qualifications for the offices—a heart full of love to old Portsmouth, and to all her sons and daughters; and a determination to do all in his power to make our procession a success. And in his efforts to this end he asks your hearty co-operation.

Mr. Chairman, you, at least, can bear me witness that it was with extreme reluctance I consulted to accept this position and it was only when assured in the most positive manner by the executive committee and some of our older men that I could be of real service to our organization that I did so. I was by no means insensible of the honor conferred upon me, but I preferred for various reasons to remain in the ranks.

When this subject was first agitated, I hoped that our former chief-marshal would swing his baton again this time, for certainly no man could do it better; but I was told that the former officers had declined to take any prominent positions now; they consented, however, to stand as god-fathers to the movement, and to give us their countenance, advice and money; and nobly have they redeemed their promise. To one of them, Mr. Harris, we are under special obligation. He has not only given us the benefit of his valuable experience, but has worked with us night and day, sacrificing time, money and health to carry forward the present movement. I feel that every son of Portsmouth owes him a debt of gratitude for his unselfish labors.

This large audience gives token that the wish to re-visit the old homestead is very strong in the hearts of the absent sons and daughters of Portsmouth, Dear old Portsmouth! my birthplace and my home for nearly forty years! Every foot of her soil is as dear to my heart, as it is fresh in my memory, and her children too, playmates of my youth — companions of my maturer years; I shall never forget them while life lasts.

There may be living a man with heart so cold, and mind so mean, as to have no desire to return to the home of his kindred, to the place that gave him birth, and to which he is indebted for all that he is and all that he has. If so, I leave not that man his feelings, be he rich as Croesus, or poor as a church mouse.

I have not been so unfortunate as to meet such a one: but on the other hand, I have seen scores, and hundreds, whose hearts are all alive with enthusiasm—men of leisure, and men of toil,—men who wield the pen, and men who swing the adze and shove the foreplane—veterans of three score years and ten, and lads not out of their teens. All, all seem ready and anxious to return once more to the scenes of their youth.

Now, sir, we desire to utilize all this enthusiasm, to have it developed in the form of a splendid procession. Old Portsmouth has honored herself, and her sons, by her munificent invitation. Let us honor ourselves and old Portsmouth by marching in solid columns through the streets, and making them ring with our glad hurrahs, on the nation's birth day—testifying at once our love of home, and love of country; for love of home is patriotism of the purest, truest type. We are none the less good citizens of this commonwealth because of our attachment to the old Granite State—none the less true Bostonians because we still cling to 'old Strawberry Bank.' In fact, we are better citizens of the one, because of our affection for the other. And we have good reason to be proud of our old home. The weight of 250 years rests upon the paternal mansion; it is a trifle antiquated to be sure; but there is a royal family in it, still.

What other town in this broad land, or in any other, has ever twice called home her absent sons, and spread for them a festive board? And we are going home, too, this time. God willing, Sons and Daughters, Grandsons and Grandfathers—a family party—to enjoy a general thanksgiving on the Fourth of July. We mean to throw care to the winds, shake the dust from our trains, and the cobwebs from our hearts, and grow young again. We mean to have a grand good time, generally.

The authorities at home have appropriated money with unparalleled generosity, and are making very extensive preparations for our reception. It would be decidedly ungrateful, to say the least, for us to slight any portion of their entertainment—especially the great feature of the day—the procession. Not to walk in it would be like refusing to recognize one's own mother in the street. By taking our places in the ranks, we shall show our respect to the whole city, and our appreciation of their generous welcome which we shall read in every waving flag, shall breath in the perfume of every flower, and hear in every strain of music, or chime of bells.

We want to see in the procession on the Fourth, every son of Portsmouth whatever his name or age, rank, or condition. One man will be just as welcome as another. We are all Portsmouth boys now—the same boys that skated, and swam, and fished, and played hoop together, twenty, thirty, forty, fifty years ago; and we want to walk side by side, once more, as we did in days gone by.

Grandsons too, old and young, born in Boston or elsewhere will be welcome also. We will adopt them. Sir, into Portsmouth Israel, as Ephraim and Manasseh were adopted by the patriarch of old; they shall be Sons like ourselves, and reckoned with the tribes.

And there are scores of men, not born in the old homestead, whose residence there for years has made them part and parcel of the family, and whose attachment to the place is as strong as that of the native born Sons. Their influence was felt for good in the schools and churches, in the politics and business of the town, their departure therefrom was sincerely mourned and their names are household words in many a family, still.

All such will be welcomed most heartily. Come in then, former residents of Portsmouth, we want you to stand shoulder to shoulder with us. One of the toasts given at our former re-union was the following—by Israel Kimball, Esq.

"The Daughters of Portsmouth"
Though native Sons o'ernake their homes
And dwell the country o'er,
Her Daughters, fairest of the fair,
Adopt as many more.

And we don't forget the boys who married our girls. As the daughters cannot walk in our procession themselves, they must be represented there by their husbands. Come in then sons-in-law, we say; thrice welcome to you, also. Our hearts are large enough to take in every man who is in anyway connected with old Strawberry-Bank, and we want to see them all in line on the Fourth, a column a thousand strong; a procession that for size and character will exceed any ever seen in old Portsmouth; a procession that will reflect credit upon ourselves, and upon which our friends at home can look with pride and satisfaction.

S. H. Gookin, Esq., the chief Marshal of the Boston delegation in 1853, followed in a happy speech, dwelling upon the remembrance of that reunion, and the old scenes of boyhood's pranks at Puddle Dock, Point of Graves, South Mill Bridge and Spring Market.

Albert F. Sise, Esq., paid a touching tribute to several Portsmouth Sons who died for their country in the rebellion—and enlivened the meeting by reference to bon-fires on the night before the 4th and the smashing of pumpkin lanterns on Pope night.

Mayor Marvin was enthusiastically received and with a few well chosen words invited all present to come home next Friday. Mr. William Simes, jr., Rev. E. A. Rand, Rev. Wm. G. Nowell, and Mr. Woodward Emery spoke briefly, showing that the young men who have left Portsmouth are not a whit behind their elder brethren in eloquence.

After the conclusion the regular business of the meeting, remarks were made by Messrs. Samuel A. Badger, Geo. K. Hooper, Rev. Geo. M. Adams and others of Boston, and by Capt. J. Albert Sanborn and Geo. W. Marston of Portsmouth. Our citizens have but little idea of the fervent feelings of tenderness which bind the absent Sons to old Strawberry Bank and which finds expression when they meet friends from home to whom they can express their gratification and delight at the preparations making to receive them.

WAGNER RECAPTURED!

A Discouraging March.

Living on Plums.

FOOTSORE AND WEARY.

A Plucky Farmer.

A gentleman who arrived here from Farmington, N. H., Sunday evening, having driven from there that day, says he saw Wagner there in jail, Sunday morning. He had seen Wagner when he was in jail at Portsmouth. When captured Wagner had a club. He states that he had a disagreement with the two prisoners who escaped with him, as they desired to take to the railroad. He told them if they did he should part company with them. On saturday night all three went to sleep in the woods and when he awoke, Sunday morning, they were gone.

The following dispatch from Deputy Sheriff A. J. Scruton, of Farmington, was received by J. Horace Kent, Esq., of this city, Sunday evening:

"Wagner arrived at Farmington Saturday night, between five and six o'clock, called at the farm house of W. H. Tanner, and asked for something to eat, saying he was tired and hungry and had eaten nothing for several days except some plums which he found in the woods. The people gave him some food, and while he was eating Mr. Tanner suspected his identity and went for a neighbor to assist in taking him prisoner, but before he returned Wagner had finished his meal and started out again into the woods. He was pursued by Mr. Tanner and another man, who soon overtook him, captured him without much resistance, and carried him back to Farmington, where he was delivered into my custody. I immediately put him in irons. He is to be taken to Alfred Monday morning. Wagner appeared discouraged and said his feet were sore, and that he had half made up his mind to go back to Alfred, before the capture. His two companions, Harrington and McCarthy, separated from him only a few hours previous to his capture, and cannot be far away."

Farmington is about 45 miles from Alfred, Me., and 280 miles from Canada.

Fourth of July.

At the meeting of the citizens' committee, Friday evening, the committee on printing were authorized to print 5000 copies of the programme for the day. The chairman of the printing committee, Mr. William M. Thayer, announced that the room in Mr. T. S. Nowell's building on the corner of State and Pleasant streets had been engaged for general headquarters for committees on the 3d, 4th and 5th.

On Saturday, it was decided by lot that the four bands at the promenade concert should play in the following order, viz: Harlow's, Brown's, Gilmore's, Downing's.

Mr. B. F. Webster's workmen commenced the job of raising the woodwork of the arches at the market-square, Friday afternoon, and had them all in position Saturday evening. A flagstaff 66 feet high from the ground to the truck, has been planted in the centre of the square. The arch across Court street is 34 feet between perpendiculars and 25 feet high; the one across Middle street, between the residences of Charles Robinson, Esq., and Commodore Parrott, is 38 feet wide and 28 feet high; and the one between the Middle street church and Mr. Webster's house is 33 feet high and has 50 feet span. The central stage will be erected immediately.

Ladies intending to contribute donations of cake, pies, &c., to the committee of arrangements for the 4th of July, who wish to avoid the trouble of making the same, can find a large and fresh assortment at the store of J. N. Tarlton, Jr., No 6 Pleasant street.

The large boat which is to appear in the procession on the 4th as a full-rigged ship, was piloted up Market street in the most skillful manner, Saturday afternoon, by a navigator in charge of a yoke of oxen. The boat is mounted on a substantial truck, and fitted all ready for receiving her spars and rigging. She is courteously loaned for the occasion by Com. J. C. Howell, commanding the navy yard.

The chairman of the committee on decoration of tent requests us to state that it will be impossible to permit visitors entering the tent during the progress of the work, owing to the limited time given. The work of decorating commences this (Monday) evening.

The promenade concert committee are desired to meet at the City rooms this evening at 7 o'clock.

The last grand rally of the ladies will take place this evening at the Court House at 7.30. Enough spruce has been cut for them to use all the evening. Once more and for the last time, the decoration committee call upon the ladies to respond to the call for labor.

About twenty young men of this city have chartered the yacht Rover of Swampscott for the purpose of attending the celebration of the "Sons of Portsmouth" on the Fourth of July. They have procured firemen's uniforms of the "Tigers," of this city, and intend to form with the procession as representatives of Lynn. Undoubtedly they will enjoy this trip hugely.—Lynn Reporter.

Laconics.

"Jack ashore" made our streets lively, Saturday afternoon and evening. He was very numerous, early discovered the place where beer was sold, and eagerly partook thereof, after which he broke forth into song, and got into the lockup. He was from the U. S. S. Plymouth, just arrived here from a cruise.

Frye & Co. announce that on and after to-day they will make two trips each way daily to and from Boston, leaving Portsmouth at 7 and 11:28 A. M.; leaving Boston at 12:30 and 4:45 P. M. Offices—at Boston, No. 34 Washington street; at Portsmouth, 29 Congress street.

Some of the seamen from the Plymouth got into a drunken row near the saloon on the corner of Penhallow and Daniel streets, Saturday evening; and a seaman was carted to the police station, dead drunk, from Penhallow street Sunday morning.

An adjourned term of the U. S. Circuit Court will take place in this city, on Tuesday at eleven o'clock.

State Senators Hatch, Hitchcock and Sanborn were in this city on Saturday on committee duty, and stopped at the Rockingham. They were taken about the city and its environs, and expressed themselves highly pleased with its many beauties.

It is reported that the Plymouth's crew are to be paid off Tuesday morning. It will take about $45,000 to go 'round.

This is the last issue of the CHRONICLE which under the postal law passed by the last Congress can go free through the mails to actual subscribers "in the county where published." A postage of thirty cents per quarter or $1.20 per year, payable in advance at either end of the line, is demanded after July 1st.

Special Notice.

The attention of all persons is called to the fact that by ordinance, the firing of guns, crackers and torpedoes before the fourth of July is forbidden. Any person violating this ordinance will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

TERMINI TROUBLES.—When we were all snugly tucked up in our berths in the gayly-decorated sleeping-saloon, one of the new-comers began dreamily to tell stories of termini troubles. "Not much as it was when we were here and at Muskogee in 1870," he said; "three men were shot about twenty feet from this same car in one night at Muskogee. Oh! this was a little hell, this was. The roughs took possession here in earnest. The keno and monte players had any quantity of tents all about this section, and life was the most uncertain thing to keep you ever saw. One night a man lost all he had at keno; so he went around behind the tent and tried to shoot the keno-dealer in the back; he missed him, but killed another man. The keno man just got a board and put it up behind himself, and the game went on. One day one of the roughs took offence at something the railroad folks said, so he ran our train off the track next morning. There was no law here, and no means of getting any. As fast as the railroad moved on, the roughs pulled up stakes and moved with it. We tried to scare them away, but they didn't scare worth a cent. It was next to impossible for a stranger to walk through one of these towns without getting shot at. The graveyards were sometimes better populated than the towns next them. The fellows who ruled these little terrestrial hells,—where they came from nobody knows. Never had any homes—grew up like prairie grass, only ranker and coarser and meaner. They had all been terminuses ever since they could remember. Most of them had two, three and four murders on their hands, and confessed them. They openly defied the Indian authorities, and scorned Uncle Sam and his marshals. They knew there was money wherever the end was, and they meant to have it."

"But how long did this condition of affairs continue?"

"It went on steadily until the Secretary of the Interior came down here to see the Territory and to examine the railroads. He went down in this same car, and he was carefully informed of all the lawlessness and flagrant outrages which decent people had been obliged to submit to. One night while they were on road, the superintendent-in-chief pushed on a little ahead of the train to get a physician, as a gentleman in the special car was taken suddenly ill. The roughs captured the superintendent and proposed to shoot him, as they fancied him some local emissary of the general government. He begged off, however, and explained who he was. They hardly dared to shoot him then; so he succeeded in getting a physician, got back to the train, and next day he took the Secretary of the Interior to inspect this choice specimen of railroad civilization."

"And what did the Secretary see?"

"Oh, all the ruffians flocked to hear what he had to say. They had killed a man that morning for a mere caprice, and he was laid out in a little tent which the party passed by as they looked around. One after another of the rough fellows was presented to the party; and each one spoke very plainly and said he had a good right to stay in 'the Nation,' and he meant (with an oath) to stay, and he'd like to hear any one hint that he had better go away. Then they told stories of their murderous exploits, practised at marks with their revolvers, and seemed not to have the least fear of the Secretary."

"What was the result?"

"Well, the Secretary of the Interior took a bee-line for the nearest telegraph station, and sent a dispatch to General Grant, announcing that neither life nor property was safe in the Territory, and that the Indians should be aided in expelling the roughs from their midst. So, in a short time the Tenth Cavalry went into active service in the Territory."

"Did the ruffians make any resistance?"

"They got together, at the terminus, armed to the teeth, and blustered a good deal; but the cavalry men arrested one after another, and examined each man separately. When one of the terminuses was asked his name, he usually answered that it was Slim Jim, or Wild Bill, or Lone Jack (with an oath,) and that he was a gambler, or a 'pounder,' as the case might be, and furthermore, that he didn't intend to leave the Territory. Whereupon the officer commanding would say: 'Well, Slim Jim, or Wild Bill, or Lone Jack, I'll give you twelve hours to leave this town in, and if you are found in the district in one week this date, I'll have you shot!' And they took the hint."

"Where are these men now?"

"Some of them are at Denison, at the end of this road. They are secure enough there, because when they are pursued on a criminal process, they are only four miles from the Red River, and they can escape into the Territory, beyond the reach of United States law, and across the frontier in some other direction. You will see them at Denison, to-night."

A moment afterwards, the voice added:

"By the way, at the next station, Muskogee, a man was shot before the town got there, and the graveyard was started before a single street was laid out. You can see the graveyard now—a dozen men are buried there with their boots on. Good night, again."—The Great South." Edward King, Scribner's for July.

The Great South American Blood Purifier,

JURUBEBA

IS THE MOST POWERFUL CLEANSER, strengthener and remover of Glandular Obstructions known to Materia Medica.

IT IS SPECIALLY ADAPTED to constitutions "worn down" and debilitated by the warm weather of Spring and Summer, when the blood is not in active circulation, consequently gathering impurities from sluggishness and imperfect action of the secretive organs, and is manifested by Tumors, Eruptions, Blotches, Boils, Pustules, &c., &c.

WHEN WEARY AND LANGUID from overwork, and dullness, drowsiness and inertia take the place of energy and vigor, the system needs a TONIC to build it up and help the Vital Forces to regain their recuperative power.

IN THE HEAT OF SUMMER, frequently the LIVER and BILE ducts do not properly perform their functions; the Uterine and Urinary Organs are inactive, producing weakness of the stomach and intestines and a predisposition to bilious derangement.

DR. WELLS'

EXTRACT OF JURUBEBA

is prepared directly from the SOUTH AMERICAN PLANT, and is peculiarly suited to all those difficulties; it will cleanse the VITIATED BLOOD, strengthen the LIFE-GIVING POWERS, and REMOVE ALL OBSTRUCTIONS from IMPAIRED and ENFEEBLED Organs.

IF SHOULD BE FREELY TAKEN, as Jurubeba is pronounced by medical writers the most efficient PURIFIER, TONIC and DEOBSTRUENT known in the whole range of medicinal plants.

Morning Chronicle

Lost In The Mountains.

To look upon the White Mountains of New Hampshire, when summer's green mantle of verdure is flung around their peaks, awakens admiration and awe in the breast of the gazer; but to appreciate fully their great and terrible sublimity, to stand as it were, face to face with the God who created them, one needs to behold the lofty Mount Washington, king-like among the lesser giants, clad in the coat of ice which winter bends massively around him. The plumed firs and the spreading hemlock droop like sombre weepers, their branches heavy with the white snow, and glittering with crystal icicles which the cold breath of the northern blast has frozen there. The stern old rocks are frosted with innumerable pearls, and the surface of the ice-chained river shines likes a field of molten silver. For the soul of him who "looks through Nature up to Nature's God," the sight of the White Mountains in winter is both a sermon upon the Creator's goodness and a psalm of praise to His power.

A great many years ago, before the foot of civilization had pierced the impenetrable forest north of the White Mountains, and while the red Indian roamed unmolested the hunting-ground of his fathers, William Reade emigrated from Portsmouth to a spare settlement high up on what is now known as the Saco river. Reade was a poor man but an ambitious one, and the wonderful stories which had reached him of the facilities for hunting and fishing afforded by the wild regions round about the mountains had fired his brain with a desire of participation. Through thick forests and across unbridged rivers, through many dangers and much privation, he brought his tenderly nurtured wife and little daughter Leila to a rude log cabin in the wilderness. It was very lonely and desolate there to the mother and her child. The neighbors were all too far off to be company, and the monotony of a settler's life wasonly broken, now and then, by visits from the different tribes of Indians in the vicinity, most of whom were upon terms of friendship with the whites.

Among the Pequawkets was a lad of about fifteen, who had been stolen, when a mere child, from a settlement on Massachusetts Bay. This boy was called by his captors Wild Deer, on account of his extraordinary agility, but his English name was Marcus Wellman. Marcus was uncommonly strong and daring for one of his years; his wild life had developed his form and painted his cheeks; he was, withal, generous, frank, and handsome, and a favorite with the tribe which held him in bondage.

Marcus went often to the hut of Mr. Reade, because there was something congenial to the boy's innate sensibilities in the neat and orderly way in which that humble household was managed. Moreover, Marcus loved to listen to the childish prattle of the guileless Leila, and to witness the expression of wonder which crept into her blue eyes when he poured out, for her amusement, some tale of strange prowess and intrepid daring. The boy brought this girl friend many presents of rare feathers, rich skins, and gay wampum, and she prized these things very highly.

One day, when the Pequawkets had been on a trading excursion for many weeks, Marcus Wellman suddenly appeared at the house of the settler, bearing in his arms a little snow-white lamb, a present for Leila, which he had bought with the fur of otters, of a settler far down on the coast of the big lake. The little girl was delighted, and promised Marcus that the lamb, which was to be called Snowflake, should never be killed or sold as long as she lived.

Time passed on, and autumn displaced the green feet of summer, and emptied her glories upon the mountain maples. Then there came down cold winds from high land, and by and by the earth was wrapped in a covering of snow. Winter, sad and solemn, settled down upon the home of the hunter, and Leila, with her lamb, no longer wandered over the fragrant pastures upon the hill-slope. But, after a while, there came a great rain, warm from the heavy clouds, and the snow melted somewhat from the cliffs, and left here and there patches of blighted herbage and crisp grass.

One day, Snowflake, the pet lamb, managed to elude the vigilance of his mistress, and, frisking out of his hut, he made his way to the meadows, where he had been wont to go with Leila. Finding no grass there, he climbed up the mountains, and nibbled the dried leaves and blades of grass which the rain had bared.

It was not long before Leila discovered the absence of her pet, and throwing on her hood and crimson blanket, she ran out upon the hill near by to seek him. Snowflake was not to be seen however, and Leila, half frantic, ran up the hill, calling, "Snowflake! Snowflake!" But only the mocking echoes of the mountains replied. The little girl forgot all about the terror which her mother would feel in her absence, in sorrow for the loss of her lamb. She flew nimbly on, until in the hard snow, she saw the tiny marks of her pet's feet, which cut deeply into the bare ground about the great rocks. So, searching for the lamb, Leila went on until the sun began to decline in the wintry sky, and she stood on a high elevation of land far above the lonesome settlement.

"Snowflake! Snowflake! why don't you find me, Snowflake?, cried the little girl wearily, and then she sat down upon the edge of a great precipice to rest and wait for the coming of her lamb.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Reade, thoroughly alarmed at the non-appearance of her child, made the forests resound with her vain cries. Marcus Wellman, returning, near sunset, from a hunting tour, heard the agonizing voice of the mother, and knowing that all was not right, he threw down his game, and sought, with all speed, the home of the settler.

"My child! my child! oh, Marcus, bring me back my Leila!" cried the half distracted mother, as she caught sight of the tall, lithe form of the young captive.

A few moments sufficed to reveal the truth to the boy's comprehension, and the heart of the mother leaped up in hope at his words.

"Madam, the Wild Deer comes not back to the lodge of the Pequawkets until he brings the White Dove to the wigwam of her father."

He made a wild but graceful obeisance and was lost to view in the wilderness.

The night fell down, cold and piercing. There was a breath of frost in the thick air, and far off, toward the northern horizon, the brave boy could just discern the faint belt of cold, sickly blue, which is a sure harbinger of a storm. But dauntless, and unfearing, Marcus pressed on. Leila, his child pet and playmate, was exposed somewhere upon the mountains; should he fear?

All night long the boy wandered up on the cliffs, shouting far and wide the name of Leila. Morning, gray and obscured by the snow struggling slowly from the clouds, dawned upon him, and found him still unsuccessful. Still, not despairing, by the grateful light he flew from crag to crag, until, at last, he stood upon the highest peak of Mount Webster. In frenzied haste he sought around the limits of the mountain, and then, with terrible forebodings in his heart, he descended into the valley. There was no other alternative. The child must have essayed the passage of the Notch! Horror almost overcame the heart of Marcus at the bare possibility; but the waning light warned him that there was no time for hesitation. For the first time since setting forth, he drew from his pocket a flask of whortle-berry wine, which he kept always filled, and, placing it to his lips, he took a hearty draught. The stimulant gave him new life and courage, and, just as the last ray of daylight faded away, he found himself within a mile of the Gate of the Notch. He stooped carefully, as he entered the narrowing passage, and felt over the surface of the snow and ice, which covered the ground. A wild, glad cry escaped his lips as he sprang up. The lamb had assuredly passed that way, for there were the marks left by his sharp boots in the snow, and it might be possible, the boy thought, that Leila and her pet were together; but how, Marcus dared not think! He rushed on a few rods, and called the girl's name. There was no reply. Yet further, until the roar of the Silver Cascade fell upon his ear; he called again. He thought he heard a faint sound, but the wind echoes voices which live in the mountains, and they might have deceived him. Again he shouted loud and clear, "Leila!" Yes, he was not mistaken now; it was the far-off bleat of Snowflake that answered him. On and on he went, until he reached the foot of the cascade; he could go no further, for the eternal wall of rock precluded all idea of advancement in that direction.

He stopped and called the name of Snowflake; the lamb's answering bleat was almost at his side. Marcus drew out a tinder-box and a few bits of pitch wood,—articles which no hunter,red or white, carries not about his person—and in a moment, by the aid of the light thus procured, his eyes drank in the scene.

Upon a narrow shelf of rock, apparently lifeless, lay the form of little Leila, her hands crossed upon her breast and a tear frozen upon either cheek. Close by her side, crouched the lamb, his head laid upon his face, as if he knew that on the retention of warmth her life depended. Marcus took her up in his arms, and chafed her cold hands and breathed into her silent lips. There was no signs of life except a faint pulsation about the heart, and the brave boy almost despaired of ever seeing the light of those blue eyes again. Suddenly, he bethought himself of the flask of wine, and drawing it forth, he forced some of the stimulant between her lips. After a while, the opened her eyes dreamingly and murmured to herself:

"Poor little Snowflake! Why don't he come back?"

"Snowflake is here, Leila; and don't you know me, Marcus Wellman?"

"Oh, yes! Is it you, Marcus? I am glad; for I'm so sleepy."

Marcus knew that the drowsiness that steals over the freezing was coming to the worn-out child, and he exerted himself to keep her awake, as he sped up the mountain, carrying her in his arms, the lamb following nimbly behind.

It was nearly midnight of the following day, when Marcus, weary and foot-sore, laid the little Leila in the arms of her overjoyed mother. That was a time of joy long to be remembered in the hut of William Reede—a time of thanksgiving and praise to the Great Father of all good.

Well, reader, a good many years afterward, Marcus Wellman, having made his escape from the Pequawkets, grew to be a rich man, a lawyer in a promising Eastern city, and when people had begun to speak of him as being great and good, what do you think he did? He went far back to the foot of the White Mountains, and brought away Leila Reede and her parents to the home he had provided for them; and by and by, when the world had done wondering, he made Leila his wife, and they were a very happy family.

Marcus Wellman lived long, and, if a life of usefulness and active charity can avail, then he will claim much happiness in the Great Hereafter.

Improvement.

With the closing quarter of the twenty-first year of the DAILY CHRONICLE and the one hundred and seventeenth year of the NEW HAMPSHIRE GAZETTE, we are enabled to place before our readers and advertisers these papers enlarged and, we trust, greatly improved. The CHRONICLE, which was established in 1852 by FRANK W. MILLER, SAMUEL GRAY and THOMAS W. MILLER, has been prosperous from the outset, and the GAZETTE, established in 1756, though older than any other paper in America, gains strength with every issue. The continued increase of circulation and advertising has led the present proprietors to enlarge both papers, making them the largest daily and weekly in the State. The new dress is from the Boston Type Foundry and a new Acme press will make the papers look as neat and attractive as any can desire. To our patrons whose liberal support has thus far sustained these papers, we extend greetings, hoping they will appreciate the efforts made to please them. No change will be made in the subscription price, and very little in the advertising rates.

Readables.

Samuel Robinson was run over and killed by a locomotive at Turner's Falls, Saturday morning, by falling on the track while unloading lumber.

A dispatch from Treviso reports that at Polette, near Conegliane, about 55 miles north of Venice, a church was destroyed by an earthquake and thirty-eight persons killed, and in four villages near Vittoria fourteen persons were killed and many injured. Great damage was also done in the town of Belluno, on the river Piave, 50 miles north of Venice.

At Chickopee, Mass., on Monday evening, June 23, Rev. H. A. Wildridge, a little over 40 years old and late pastor of the Tabernacle Baptist Church in that town, was married to a miss of 14 years, daughter of a Dr. Rondier. Hadn't the reverend gentleman better change the "ridge" of his surname to "oats?"

Bailey, the Danbury News man, is home from his California trip, and says, that the old home is dearer to him than ever. He says "no pen, not even William," can tell how glad he is to get home.

Massachusetts has nineteen cities, the Hoosac Tunnel, and General Butler, and still she isn't satisfied, but wants a ship canal through the shoulder of Cape Cod. It will shorten navigation to New York, diminish dangers and the rates of insurance, and make the old Bay State as happy as a boy with a jews-harp, or a girl with a rag doll. It is astonishing how little will satisfy some people.

The suit of Nathan J. Miller of Plymouth, Conn., against William B. Smith of Hartford, to recover damages on account of unsoundness of the trotting mare "Nonesuch," bought of Smith by Miller, was concluded in the Superior Court with a verdict of $5,000 for plaintiff. "Nonesuch" was warranted sound,but proved to be a cribber, and the defence was that cribbing was a habit and not an unsoundness. There have been decisions both ways on this question before, in the Courts; but no man who ever owned one cribber, will want another; and no really honest man will ever sell a cribber for a sound horse.

Jesse R. Grant, father of President Grant, is dead.

J. M. Stoddard, proprietor of a hotel at Farmington, Minnesota, in a dispute with a boarder named Crown, was shot dead. The sheriff tried to arrest Brown, who resisted and was shot and killed by the sheriff.

State News.

A fire broke out in Samuel M. Griffin's carriage manufactory at the north end of Main street, in Concord, Sunday morning, about one o'clock. Two buildings and a barn were totally destroyed, together with his house. Loss about $10,000; insurance $5000. The North Church, on the south of the carriage shops, also caught and was entirely burned, with a large organ inside. The chapel of the church was nearly consumed. The loss on the church and chapel was about $15,000. There was an insurance on the chapel organ and individual pews amounting in all to about $800. The fire communicated to the house of Hon. Sylvester Dana, and the barn of Lyman Merrill on the north, both of which were destroyed. The loss on the former was $3000, with an insurance of $2500; on the latter the loss was $700, with an insurance of $500. A house in the process of construction by Shadrach Scavey was nearly destroyed. Loss about $500; no insurance.

The Durham bull General Grant at the Rockingham County farm, Brentwood, weighed, on his first anniversary, a little over thirteen hundred pounds. Can he be beat?

The signal office has received information that a member of the signal party on Mount Washington, named Seeley, met with a serious, if not fatal, accident on Saturday afternoon by falling from the trestle work of the railway.

Henry Crammer, a lad of 12 years, had his head nearly crushed off by an elevator in the cutlery works at Shelburne Falls, Saturday.

Charles A. Lane, 16 years old, a son of John G. Lane of Manchester, was drowned on Saturday afternoon at the eddy in the Merrimac River, a short distance below Amoskeag Falls. He was bathing with several other boys and was seized with cramp. His body was recovered.

A boy named Carbery, nine years of age, was drowned at "Long Hill Cove," Dover, on Friday afternoon, while bathing. The body was recovered.

Addison Wall of Seabrook has been sent to jail for non-payment of fine and costs of a liquor prosecution.

In Bridgewater, a strange and fatal disease prevails among the swine. They are found dead in the morning, though apparently well the night before.

The pond from which Keene gets its water is the common resort for bathing, fishing and boating. On a recent Sunday, sixty men and boys were seen bathing there.

A special committee of the school board of Nashua has reported in favor of asking the city government to appropriate $70,000 to be expended for a new high school-house and for two new primary and middle school-houses.

A HEALTHY JAILOR.

(Biddeford Times.)

The following instance of the freedom allowed and taken by prisoners at Alfred is given in an exchange. One morning two prisoners were ordered to perform work on the grounds. Soon they made their escape, visited Shaker village, entered and disarranged the leading man's office, proceeded to South Waterboro', and created a general disturbance. Then they telegraphed to the jailor to send an officer for them, but there was no officer on duty to send. Then they returned voluntarily. Bennett, the jailor, lacks discipline. Prisoners are not confined to the cells and none are ironed. They sing and dance to their satisfaction, or assemble and relate anecdotes. General confusion is noticeable. Bennett lacks dignity. His prisoners converse with him as with their fellow prisoners. He attends to his duties unarmed, and handles his keys in a careless manner.

Wagner Loquitur.

Wagner was conveyed to Alfred, Me., Monday morning, in charge of the Sheriff and his capturers. When in sight of Alfred he pointed his finger to the Jail, laughed and said, "There is Alfred Jail." He says: "On Wednesday night at 9.30 the watcher came and looked into my cell; saw dummy: thought it was me; I hid in corner; said he; 'It is all quiet;' they went into the office; as soon as they unlocked the office door I unlocked my cell door; climbed up on the railing to the tier above; drew the staple from the scuttle with the piece of a stool; just as I got through, the watch came in; I shut the scuttle: drew myself up through the ventilator: got out on the roof; got down through the skylight; we had blankets tied together to lower ourselves from the roof to the attic; went down stairs by a room where the inmates were asleep; went into the office and looked into the jail; made my escape through a door in the kitchen; the other two were outside; went by the Court House on to the railroad; went to Springvale and on to East Rochester; the two left me at Springvale; went through Rochester at nine in the evening; several spoke to me; went to a farm house in Farmington, N. H., and asked for something to eat; had eaten nothing but berries since my escape; ate what they gave me; turned to leave; saw Tanner and three others follow me: I walked very slow. They came up to me, and asked me if I was one of the prisoners that escaped from Alfred Jail. I told them I was Wagner, from Alfred Jail. Tanner laid hands on me; I made no resistance; they took me to the village and kept me over Sunday." Wagner says he only went out to exercise his limbs, and should have come on Tuesday or Wednesday and got in the same way he got out; says he is satisfied for the present and seems glad to get back.

COAL.

HAVING contracted for a quantity of the above coal, we would call the attention of Manufacturers, Dealers and Consumers to the following different grades mined and controlled by the Company.

HARD WHITE ASH COAL.
FREE BURNING WHITE ASH COAL.
SHAMOKIN WHITE ASH COAL.
SHAMOKIN RED ASH COAL.
NORTH FRANLIN COAL.
LYKENS VALLEY COAL.

In order that all coal shall be shipped in good order, a most rigid system of inspection, both at the mines and at the shipping ports, will at all times be enforced. In every district or the coal region there will be appointed a number of competent persons skilled in the preparation of coal, as local inspectors, whose duty it will be to visit the several collieries daily to see that a proper force is at all times employed in removing slate, and to prevent, if possible, any coal being sent from the mines in bad order. In addition to these efforts at prevention, no means will be left untried at the shipping works to cure the evils of careless preparation. At Schuylkill Haven, Port Clinton and Port Richmond, ALL COAL WILL BE SUBJECTED TO THE PERSONAL EXAMINATION OF A SKILLED INSPECTOR BEFORE IT IS SHIPPED, and if condemned by him, will be dumped in places provided for the purpose, and before being loaded into vessels WILL BE THOROUGHLY REPICKED AND CLEANSED BY HAND.

We keep a fine stock of the above coal on hand, also

New Publications.

THE MYSTERY OF METROPOLISVILLE.—Mr. Eggleston's Hoosier Schoolmaster made him widely known. This new work is in every way better. It is characterized by the same freshness and vivacity, the same accurate knowledge of Western life. It has, moreover, what the former story lacked, a symmetrical and skilfully handled plot. The author is so good a narrator that even a dull story would become interesting if told by him, and it is hardly necessary to say that the Mystery of Metropolisville, with its vivid portraits and picturesque description, is thoroughly entertaining. We owe him thanks for his genial and attractive books, and the public will not be slow to recognize in the present volume his best and most meritorious work.

Business Notices.

How Do You Feel?

The fervid heats of summer are now over. In what condition have they left you? Is your liver torpid or disordered, your appetite feeble, your digestion imperfect or painful, your nervous system shaky, your mind lethargic? This is the state in which the autumn finds tens of thousands of us, and in this state we are ripe for the malarious fevers, and bowel complaints, and bilious diseases, which the heavy dews, the vapors, and the vast difference between the temperature of night and day so apt to engender. Rouse yourself from this condition with HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. Wake up the latent vitality of the body, which only requires the stimulating, strengthening and regulating agency of this mighty vegetable restorative to enable it to remove its activity and potency. Indigestion, billiousness, miasmatic fevers, and disorders of the bowels, are the usual sequences of a long heated term. Prevent or cure them with the Bitters. You can do either, but prevention is best.

In spite of your teeth,
Both above and beneath,
Being lightly enamel'd and thin,
They will never break down,
Nor turn yellow nor brown,
If the SOZODONT'S daily brushed in.

☞ More than three decades of active service in catering for the public, have built up for the AMERICAN HOUSE, BOSTON, such an enviable reputable reputation that the proprietor (Lewis Rice) and the city may well be proud of it.

For Loss of Appetite, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Depression of Spirits and General Debility, in their various forms, FERRO-PHOSPHORATED ELIXIR OF CALISYA made by Caswell, Hazard & Co., New York, and sold by druggists, is the best tonic. As a stimulant tonic for patients recovering from fever or other sickness, it has no equal. If taken during the season it prevents fever and ague and other remittent fevers. 6j10

Retrogression.

With the present issue of this paper our local subscribers who receive their papers through the post-office must commence the payment of postage, free delivery of papers through the mails in the county where published having been stopped by act of Congress, with the free transmission of newspaper exchanges, and the franking of political and public documents and boots and unclean linen by Congressmen. Whether or no the abolition of the franking privilege will save the government anything is questioned, the general opinion of Congressmen being that it will not; and if the increased cost of running the various departments, consequent on the use of stamps, is to balance the amount saved in the transmission of the mails, as is asserted, and the Congressmen in addition each take a thousand or so from the treasury to purchase postage stamps for their own use each year, the saving will not be immense. The imposition of postage on newspapers, in exchange with each other or when sent to subscribers, will however increase the receipts of the postal department without adding to its expenses; yet we cannot but regard the abolition of the free delivery of newspapers within the county where published as a step backward, —as being a hindrance, to what extent remains to be seen, to the general dissemination of intelligence among the people, and a partial abandonment of the theory that the revenue of a postal service should be a secondary consideration, a cheap, rapid and certain means of communication between the people of different sections being the first. The new rules, we imagine, will make but a small reduction of the subscription lists of New England papers: but some of the western editors complain that their circulation will be cut off one half. It is suggested that this measure was one of petty revenge on the part of Congress, to punish the newspaper interest of the country for the universal clamor raised for the abolition of the franking privilege; and this idea is probably correct. The Congressmen fancied that if the change in the postal laws could be made to bear heavily against the newspapers, they would soon be as clamorous for a return to the old plans as they had previously been for the adoption of new ones. Whether this little game will prove to be a winning one or not, is not yet decided.

Many papers are indignant that the free transmission of exchanges has been stopped, but we see no reason to complain. On exchanges which we value, either to scissors editorials from, to read ourselves or to take home, we are perfectly willing to pay postage: and those to whom our paper is useful, will not find the paying of postage decrease it in interest or value,—and those to whom it is not worth anything we don't care to have it. We have therefore concluded to yield to the expressive wishes of Congress, and pay postage on our exchanges; and for the information of those of our subscribers who may decide to follow our example and pay postage on their papers, we publish the following

Daily papers, to regular subscribers, per year	$1.20.

All mail matter must be prepaid, (transient matter at the office where posted) but newspapers and periodicals, to regular subscribers, may be prepaid either at the office where mailed or at the place of delivery. The CHRONICLE and GAZETTE, weighing less than two ounces each, need but a one-cent stamp to send them through the mails, the same as heretofore; and the only difference the new rules make to us (for the payment of postage on our exchanges makes no material difference) is that our Daily and Weekly subscribers in the county of Rockingham will be obliged to pay postage, in accordance with the table published above.

The "Frank Jones."

The new ship now on the stocks at Neal's shipyard at Kittery is to be named the "Frank Jones," in honor of our energetic townsman,—at least, so says common report. The vessel has the heaviest keelsons we ever saw in a ship of her size, is extra heavy planked, and is being built under the constant supervision of her owners, in the very best manner and of the very best materials; and we do not hesitate to assert that she will be as strong and staunch a merchant craft as ever was born or borne on the Piscataqua, which is saying a great deal, as those who are aware of the high reputation once enjoyed in foreign ports and among shippers by Portsmouth-built ships will allow. We hope the selection of a name will prove but an omen of the good luck which will attend the ship, and that the new "Frank Jones" will become as famous for successful ventures and remunerative business speculations as the noted and enterprising gentleman in whose honor the name is bestowed.

Annexation.

The committee on Towns and Parishes, in the legislature, to whom was referred a resolution authorizing the inquiry as to the expediency of annexing Gosport to Newcastle, Rye or some other town in Rockingham County, reported through their chairman, Mr. Kent of this city, that they have considered the matter and are of the opinion that it would be expedient to annex said Gosport and such parts of the Isles of Shoals as are in the State of New Hampshire, to the city of Portsmouth, but in view of the fact that the session is about drawing to a close and that it is not desirable to prolong it by the introduction of any measures not absolutely necessary for the public welfare, they recommend that the subject be postponed to the next session of the Legislature.

Fourth of July.

The last regular meeting of the citizens' general committee will be held at the Council room this evening at 8 o'clock. All the ladies and gentlemen of the committee are requested to be present, and the chairman of each sub-committee is requested to make a verbal report of the progress made in carrying out the arrangements for the reception of the Sons. Hon. Ezra A. Stevens, Chief Marshal of the Boston Association of Sons and Daughters, is expected to be present.

All those entering boats for the Regatta are requested to meet at the store of Mr. James H. Dow on Wednesday evening, July 2d, at 9 o'clock, to draw for positions.

The vestibule of the Post-office has been handsomely decorated with draped flags and streamers, by Col. Beals of Boston. It looks nicely, and will be open on the 4th. Our neighbors, the Journal and Times, have their offices dressed out and make a fine appearance. The triumphal arch on Islington street near Dover street, received its first instalment of decorations on Monday evening, and the work of beautifying the Mercantile Library quarters was also commenced on Monday. An arch is to be erected at the South Mill-bridge to-day, and the big tent is to be raised this morning.

Everybody is hereby requested to notify all returning Sons and Daughters to call at the corner of State and Pleasant streets and register their names and receive the badges that will entitle them to be recognized everywhere as guests of the city. The headquarters of the committee will be open on and after Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. J. D. Whitcomb of the Boston Transcript and Mr. Roscoe E. Collins, of the Worcester Spy, are the first representative of the press who have arrived here to report the grand reunion.

The entries for the tub race on the 4th comprise the following names: Boatsvain Jones, U. S. N., Michael Stack, Michael Long and Patrick Connors. The gentlemen named have commenced practising, and some of them have already become so skillful in the management of tubs as to sit in one for nearly five minutes before capsizing. They are all good swimmers, and there will be more fun than hard work or danger attending their race.

Laconics.

Mr. Peter Shaw, a son of Portsmouth, is business manager of the Mobile Watchman, a new weekly paper.

The House has passed a bill amending the school law of Portsmouth.

Among the promising Fearnaught stock in Portsmouth is a black filly, daughter of Fearnaught Prince, just two years old, which weighs 900 pounds, and is often driven short routes in single and double harness, to both of which she is thoroughly broken. The same owner also occasionally drives a pair of yearling fillies, a black and a buckskin, to a light wagon.

Mr. Asa Gowen has been removed from the position of master boat-builder at the navy yard, and Mr. Augustus Stevenson of York appointed in his place.

Mrs. S. C. Jewell, blind clairvoyant physician, may be found at No. 13 Court street on Wednesday and Thursday, July 2d and 3d.

MILITARY.

ALL members of the Independent Battalion not otherwise detailed are requested to meet at the Armory this evening at 7 o'clock. July 1, 1872.
Per order Major commanding.

The Chronicle.

The Spirit of Mortal.

Oh! why should the spirit of mortal be proud?
Like a swift-fleeting meteor or fast-flying cloud;
A flash of the lightning; a break of the wave—
He passeth from life to his rest in the grave!

The leaves of the oak and the willow shall fade—
Be scattered around and together be laid;
And the young and the old, the low and the high,
Shall mouldier to dust, and together shall lie.

The infant and mother, attended and loved;
The mother, that infant's affection who proved;
The husband, that mother and infant who blessed;
Each, all, are away in their dwellings of rest.

The hand of the king the sceptre hath borne;
The brow of the priest the mitre hath worn;
The eye of the sage and the heart of the brave—
Are hidden and lost in the depth of the grave.

The peasant whose lot was to sow and to reap;
The herdsman who climbed with his goats up the steep;
The beggar, who wandered in search of his bread,
Have faded away like the grass that we tread.

So the multitude goes; like the flower o'er the weed,
That withers away to let others succeed;
So the multitude comes, even those we behold,
To repeat every tale that has often been told.

For we are the same our fathers have been;
We see the same sights our fathers have seen;
We drink the same stream and view the same sun,
And run the same course our fathers have run.

The thoughts we are thinking our fathers would think;
From the death we are shrinking our fathers would shrink;
To the life we are clinging they also would cling—
But it speeds from us all, like a bird on the wing.

They loved, but the story we cannot unfold;
They scorned, but the heart of the haughty is cold;
They grieved, but no wall from their slumbers will come;
They joyed, but the tongue of their gladness is dumb.

They died, aye! they died—we things that are now;
That walk on the turf that covers their brow,
And make in their dwellings a transient abode,
Meet the things that they met on their pilgrimage road.

Yes, hope and despondency, pleasure and pain,
We mingle together in sunshine and rain;
And the smile and the tear, the song and the dirge,
Still follow each other like surge upon surge.

'Tis the wink of an eye, 'tis the draught of a breath,
From the blossom of health to the paleness of death;
From the gilded saloon to the bier and the shroud—
Oh! why should the spirit of mortal be proud?

MURDER BY A BOY.

Maine papers gave an account a few days ago of the shooting of a girl fourteen years old by a boy of about the same age, at Madison Bridge, Somerset county, Maine. It is now said to have been a case of wilful and deliberate murder, the facts of which are stated as follows: The boy, whose name is Bertie Dorse, took the gun that the brother of the girl, Alice Spear, had loaded for crows, put it through the window and pointed it at Alice, who was standing at the corner of the shed of her father's house, only a short distance from the boy. Dorse told the neighbor's children who were gathered about the premises to stand out of the way, as he was going to shoot Alice. He fired, and the little girl dropped dead, without a groan or cry. Twenty shot entered her right side and some entered her neck. Young Dorse is spoken of as a boy of most violent temper. He has before threatened to take the lives of his playmates and has been know to draw a knife upon a child of about his own age. He has had his preliminary examination and been committed to jail to await trial at the September term of court.

—If you have got any secrets you can now tell them to your wife. She will keep shady.

CONSUMPTION

CURED

By a timely resort to this standard remedy, as is proved by hundreds of testimonials received by the proprietors.

Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry

CLERGYMEN, LAWYERS, SINGERS,

And all those whose occupation requires an unusual exercise of the vocal organs, will find this the ONLY PREPARATION which will effectually and instantaneously relieve their difficulties.

BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS.—Remember that the genuine Wistar's Balsam has on the outside wrapper the signature of "I. BUTTS," and the printed name of the proprietors, "SETH W. FOWLE & SONS, BOSTON." All others are base imitations. Examine the wrapper carefully before purchasing.

The Great South American Blood Purifier.

JURUBEBA

IS THE MOST POWERFUL CLEANSER, strengthener and remover of Glandular Obstructions known to Materia Medica.

IT IS SPECIALLY ADAPTED to constitutions "worn down" and debilitated by the warm weather of Spring and Summer, when the blood is not in active circulation, consequently gathering impurities from sluggishness and imperfect action of the secretive organs, and is manifested by Tumors, Eruptions, Blotches, Boils, Pustules, &c., &c.

WHEN WEARY AND LANGUID from overwork, and dullness, drowsiness and inertia take the place of energy and vigor, the system needs a TONIC to build it up and help the Vital Forces to regain their recuperative power.

IN THE HEAT OF SUMMER, frequently the LIVER and SPLEEN do not properly perform their functions; the Uterine and Urinary Organs are inactive, producing weakness of the stomach and intestines and a predisposition to bilious derangement.

Dr. WELLS'

EXTRACT OF JURUBEBA

is prepared directly from the SOUTH AMERICAN PLANT, and is peculiarly suited to all these difficulties; it will cleanse the VITIATED BLOOD, strengthen the LIFE-GIVING POWERS, and REMOVE ALL OBSTRUCTIONS from IMPAIRED and ENFEEBLED Organs.

IT SHOULD BE FREELY TAKEN, as Jurubeba is pronounced by medical writers the most efficient PURIFIER, TONIC and DIAPHORETIC known in the whole range of medicinal plants.

Morning Chronicle

An Infant Terrible.

BY B. W. EASTERBROOK.

Little Willie Ainsworth perched himself on big Will Hartley's knee and proceeded deliberately to his self-appointed duty of making that gentlemun uncomfortable, although to do the youngster justice he hadn't the slightest idea of what he was about.

"Mr. Hartley, do you know what my sister Nell says you are?"

Mr. Hartley's face told of both ignorance and interest. Truth to tell, Miss Nellie Ainsworth's opinion was then of considerable importance to him. His small companion scarcely waited his negative, but went on:

"She says you're a lazy spendthrift. What's that, Mr. Hartley?"

The gentleman's handsome face flushed, and without answering the child's question he put him down and rose hastily to his feet. He would probably have left the house without waiting for the lady whom he had called to see, but at that moment she entered. He scarcely touched her outstretched hand, but after a very distant greeting he said:

"Miss Ainsworth, will you please tell me upon what premises you base your conclusion that I am a lazy spendthrift?"

One glance at her little brother's tell-tale face told the young lady the whole state of the case. Certainly she was courageous, for she answered immediately, though the rich scarlet in her cheek told its own story of embarrassment.

"I think you are lazy, because you are well and do nothing, I think you are a spendthrift—"

Here she hesitated, and glanced far more expressively than she was aware of over to the alcove where, in their delicate brown wicker framework, the rarest of exotics danced in the pleasant breeze.

"Oh, I understand," said he, in a sort of proud bitterness, interpreting aright both her hesitation and her glance. "Perhaps some day you will find that you have done me injustice. Until then I will bid you good-bye."

With one little frigid inclination of the head, Mr. Hartley was gone.

"The idea," she murmured between her sobs, "of my daring to criticise Will Hartley." And I don't know anything about it either—only what Aunt Nancy said, and she don't like him either, just because she want's me to marry some one else. I ought to be ashamed of myself."

And under the influence of this last emotion Miss Ainsworth sat down to her writing table and hastily dashed off the following little note:—

"I am sure I have done you injustice, and write to beg your pardon. That speech was a hasty one, and was made in consequence of reports which I had no business to credit. Will you forgive me, and allow me to be your friend?

NELLIE AINSWORTH."

She finished this with a sigh of satisfaction; then after folding and directing it, left the room.

A moment after, Willie Ainsworth entered, and looking at the envelope lying so innocently on the rosewood desk, he said:

"Oh, it's for Mr. Hartley. I guess I'll take it down to him and make him give me a ride."

And the self-constituted post-office seized the billet and hurried out toward Mr. Hartley's residence.

Mr. Hartley's handsome horse stood prancing at the gate, and once on the back of the spirited animal the note in Willie's pocket was as completely forgotten as though it had never been written.

"I can't give you a very long ride, Willie," said Mr. Hartley to his delighted namesake. "I am going away in the evening train."

"Where to?" asked the disappointed little fellow, "and how long are you going to stay?"

"I am going a great many miles off, and I don't know exactly how long I shall remain." With which the small questioner was obliged to be content.

A few moments after they had parted, and Willie returned home with his news. His sister's anxiety concerning the mysterious disappearance of her note was forgotten in these disclosures, and so Master Willie escaped without questions or censure.

As he was undressing that night the note slipped from his pocket and fell upon the floor. He picked it up, and his childish face showed considerable perplexity.

"I ought to have given it to him this forenoon," he murmured. "I'll keep it till he comes and then give it to him."

And having hidden it safely away in the bottom of his tool chest, Master Will said his prayers, and crawled into bed with a pleasant sense of duty done.

Six months passed by, and Will Hartley returned. During his absence his friends had learned that he had completed his studies for the medical profession two or three years previously, and being rich had been treating, all along, the poor people in the suburbs. These he doctored freely and continuously, and his townfolks' knowledge of this fact will explain why Will Hartley, on his return to his native town, should find himself transformed into a hero.

Nelly Ainsworth avoided him conscien-biously.

"If I could have shown him that I believed in him before everything was proved, I would not have cared," she mused sadly, "but now as it is I don't want to see him."

For some time she succeeded in keeping out of the gentleman's way, but one evening as she and Willie were standing by the gate, he came down street on horseback.

"Oh, Mr. Hartley, Mr. Hartley," called the boy loudly, much to her dismay.

The gentleman reined in his horse, with a bow to the lady.

"I want you to finish that ride you half gave me that night you went away? You said you would when you got back."

"All right.' And Hartley leaped lightly off his horse. Come out here. I never forget my promises."

But Master Will was in no hurry. The gentleman's watch chain attracted his attention.

"Oh, Mr. Hartley, you've got a new chain, and what funny little things!" handling with evident admiration the foreign guards attached. "Do they open?"

Before the gentleman could answer, the busy little fingers had solved the question for themselves, and the largest one lay open.

"Oh, there's a picture!" said the small discoverer, but before he could look further, his companion had closed the tiny ornament and placed the chain back in its rightful place.

Nellie noticed his evident agitation, and formed her own conclusions. Will expressed his thoughts without disguise.

"Was that your sweetheart, Mr. Hartley?" she asked curiously.

"Come, are you ready?"

"In a minute," said the boy, hurrying to the house, as if a sudden thought struck him. "I've got something for you; just wait till I get it."

So Mr. Hartley had no choice but to wait.

Nellie's principal feeling, as they stood alone by the gate, talking the most common of common-places, was one of the greatest thankfulness that she had had no opportunity of re-writing or delivering that little note so strangely lost on the very evening of his departure.

"He might have thought I cared for him if he had received it," she mused, "but as it is he can't think anything of that kind."

And in her strangely sad triumph that his thoughts were likely to be of such an entirely different character, she failed to notice her brother's reappearance until she heard him say:

"There, Mr. Hartley, I've kept that for you since the night you went away. I had it in my pocket then, but I forgot it till after I got home, so I just put it away and waited."

Nellie looking up to see what this well preserved article could be, saw, with a grasp her own note of six months ago passed over into Mr. Hartley's hands.

"You see," Will went on proudly, not at all noticing his sister's distressed face, "Nell left that on her desk and I just took charge of it."

"I am very much obliged, Willie," and Mr. Hartley, with considerable calmness proceeded to open the tiny envelop.

Then Nellie Ainsworth found words, for extending her hand, she said in a tone she would have given a fortune to have kept from trembling:

"Mr. Hartley, please give me that note?"

The gentleman looked into her face for a second, and something in the scarlet cheeks and downcast lids emboldened him strangely, for without a "Forgive me," he opened the note and read it through. Then he turned to her and said very softly.

"Did you ask me for this because its contents are not supposed to hold good now?"

"Not exactly," she stammered, something in his voice only adding to her confusion.

"I am very glad of that," he said quietly.

Then, interpreting correctly her little timid glance at the mysterious guard, he disengaged it from the chain, and pressing it open passed it over to her hand, saying:

"This is yours justly. What will you do with it?"

She looked at it, recognizing herself in a sort of happy glow, then after a moment's hesitation she passed it back to her companion.

A few minutes later Willie Ainsworth testified to the condition of affairs in this wise:

"Oh, ma, Mr. Hartley kissed sister Nell down at the gate and she never said a word."

Murder in Vermont.

On the 28th of June, John Stanton, a German pedlar, stopped at the house of James Snow in Walden and asked Mrs. Snow if she wished to purchase any goods. Mrs. Snow replied that she had no money. Stanton says: "Guess you have money, as farmers generally have plenty of it." Mr. Snow, who was in the house drunk, asked what he knew about it, and ordered him to leave. Stanton said to Snow: "Guess you will not hurt anybody," and stepped out of the house and got on his wagon. Snow said, "I will show you whether I will or not." Stanton was on his wagon at this time, and had started his team out into the highway. Snow took his gun, a small fowling piece, and taking deliberate aim, shot him while he was sitting in the wagon. Stanton fell on the seat and died immediately. Snow then went to the wagon, pulled the body out on the ground and sent his wife to the neighbors to tell them what he had done. Snow was arrested.

Captain Jack prefers a moderate and eminently proper request which we hope will be granted. He asks to be relieved of his chains long enough to interview the chap who accuses him of writing "Betsey and I are Out."

SOCIAL SCIENCE—AMER. ASSOCN.

T. W. Higginson delivered his essay on "The Higher Education of Women." In opening the meeting, Josiah Quincy said the education of women began with our mother Eve, who made the first move toward that end.

In commencing, Col. Higginson quoted from Voltaire, who said, "Ideas and beards are alike—women and very young men have none." In London there was formerly a sign of "The Good Woman," consisting, of a female figure without a head! These ideas are not wholly eradicated from our minds. A young lady was once told by one of the fashionable French women, "As pretty as you are, are you not ashamed to be so learned." These fallacies the speaker thought, could not stand fire. One of them was that which confounded the laws of sex with the law of digestion. Some argue that men and women being different, different mental diet is necessary. But if this is true, why is not the physical diet made as well? If one sort of mental diet will do for boys but not for girls, why should not boys be fed on beef and potatoes, and girls on tea and toast?

The truth is that in our schools it is hard to keep the boys up to the standard of the girls, and it is often necessary to resort to some extra maneuvres to keep the girls from getting more than half of the prizes. Yet a teacher once gave the recommendation to a scholar that "Fanny Noyes is a medium scholar, and for what I know is as good as her sex in general." If girls do so well in our common schools, they will certainly do as well in the universities.

It was often the case that girls hated to leave the High School after they got there, and it often taxed the ingenuity of the committees to get rid of them. It was once found necessary to abolish a high school to graduate a class of girls, who clung to study even after they had finished the prescribed course.

The argument that women were physically unable to bear a high course of study was wholly fallacious. The desire for education proved that the one desiring it was able to bear it. The speaker could show white populations in parts of America where the women were as guiltless of any education as they were of soap and water, yet the people were more sickly than in any part of New England. Statistics did not prove that educated women, who become wives and mothers, were more sickly than those who were ignorant.

The speaker believed that school hours could with advantage be made shorter. Yet as a member of the examination Committee of Harvard College, he was led to believe that over exertion in study was uncommon. There were more girls who sink listlessly into disease from the sheer reason of having nothing to do, study, or think of, —than were injured by over-study. Dr. Johnson tells of a girl "who thought she was in love, when she was only idle," and this was too common. Tennyson speaks of girls, who, "with glowing health and boundless wealth, yet sink into disease." It was indolence that ailed American women to-day, and not overstudy, by any means.

The changes in our social system were made by the fact that the poor boys must study, and the rich need not. In one generation the poor of the previous one came forward, while the others receded a little. If this is true of the boys, much more is it true of the girls.

The education of women is to get a fair idea of books and music, and no more. The real training of the minds of women of America is confined to those who do not go to parties. As a rule the best educated girls of America are the daughters of mechanics and clergymen in country towns. This was as it should be. For the alteration of the rich and poor from generation to generation forms the salvation of our republic, by preventing the continuation of rich families.

The question of sex is out of place in the question of education. There should be no separate art of education for woman. Her mind should be trained like that of man—by opening the whole field of knowledge, and bidding her enter.

When the first novel written by a woman made its appearance, it was looked upon anxiously, as a doubtful innovation. Now George Sand and George Eliot left their male compeers far behind. Could man be sure that the day was not upon him when women would take away the science of chemistry and the arts.

Harvard College pays $25,000 a year to under-graduates to induce them to come and be taught; could they not open their doors to a few young women who only asked leave to sit on a bench to learn a little and were willing to pay their own bills? The time was nearly over when men would say, as was said by one in speaking of a certain position: "This place has neither honor nor profit and I do not see why it should not be filled by a woman!"

Prof. Agassiz was in favor of giving to woman every right, social and political, but he differed from Col. Higginson in the matter of the diet of men and women. Noticing men and women at table, as he noticed everything, the speaker knew that they did not eat of the same food. This was well known to physicians. Even among men, the scholar and literary man needed a different diet from the man of muscular work.

As to the question of the range of topics for study, he could not see that there ought to be made any discrimination between the sexes. The speaker desired to make a statement to show that he was really on the right side. His thesis at the time he took his degree of M. D., thirty years ago, was upon the equality of men and women. At the Cambridge Museum no difference is made between either the assistants employed or the attendants upon the lectures. He had also made no difference between ladies and gentlemen at his lectures, but had treated all subjects freely before mixed audiences. At the present time he was lecturing on "Reproduction," before all who chose to come. So it must be acknowledged that at Cambridge they were not quite so far behind the times as Col. Higginson would make out. The question of human progress was to be no longer subdivided, but was to be equal between the sexes.

President Raymond of Vassar College was the next speaker. The college had labored to improve the education of American women. The subject was a matter of higher education for them. There was enough, and more than enough, of education of certain kinds; what was needed was higher education than had ever been known for women. Millions of money had been expended in institutions for the sole education of men, but hitherto to women. The speaker hoped that the doors of Harvard would soon be thrown wide open to the daughters of the people as well as the sons. The question as to whether exactly the same education was suited to both men and women was as yet an unsettled one.

It had been a serious question among the gentlemen professors at Vassar College, how they were to keep even with the girls. In regard to their health, the speaker said: "I challenge the United States to produce 400 girls as healthy as those of our college. If you don't believe it, come and see." Study, rightly prosecuted, was a healthy occupation, and the speaker called the attention to Professor Agassiz' rosy face in proof of the fact. The ill health of college students was owing to vicious habits and bad living, not to hard study. All that Mr. Raymond asked was that people should use the same common sense in relation to the education of one sex as the other.

Beecher Speaks.

The Brooklyn Union published the following card:—

In a long and active life in Brooklyn I has rarely happened that the Eagle and myself have been in accord on question of common concern to our fellow-citizens. I am for this reason impelled to acknowledge the unsolicited confidence and regard, of which the columns of the Eagle of late bear testimony. I have just returned to the city, and learn that application has been made to Mrs. Victoria Woodhull for letters of mine supposed to contain information respecting certain infamous stories against me. I have no objection to have the Eagle state in any way it deems fit that Mrs. Woodhull or any other person or persons who may have letters of mine in their possession have my cordial consent to publish them. In this connection, and at the time, I will only add that the stories and rumors which for some time past have been circulated about me are grossly untrue; and I stamp them in general and in particular, as utterly false.

Respectfully,

HENRY WARD BEECHER.

AN EXTEMPORANEOUS ORATOR.

A writer in Harper's Magazine, in some off-hand sketches of distinguished Congressmen, gives the following specimen of a great extemporaneous speaker:

"Marshall of Kentucky, one of the most brilliant orators of his time, and a man of large scholarly attainments, who had as much of that mystical quality called genius as any of his contemporaries in Congress, was full of affectation in this regard. He spoke readily without preparation, his ideas following each other consecutively and with uncommon force; but he never trusted to the inspiration of the moment when there was opportunity for studying up the subject and arranging his thoughts in advance. He had a habit of absenting himself from the Capitol for days at a time, every hour of which he devoted to reading and study, his acquaintances generally supposing him to be engaged in a debauch. After getting thoroughly crammed and armed at every point, he would come into the House looking exhausted and haggard, giving color to the notion that he had been on a frolic, and watching his opportunity, would pour forth the fruits of his study in a strain of off-hand, striking eloquence that hardly ever failed to astonish his hearers. And the remark was often heard: "What a brilliant man? What could he not accomplish if he was industrious and regular in his habits!"

Business Notices.

How Do You Feel?

The fervid heats of summer are now over. In what condition have they left you? Is your liver torpid or disordered, your appetite feeble, your digestion imperfect or painful, your nervous system shaky, your mind lethargic? This is the state in which the autumn finds tens of thousands of us, and in this state we are ripe for the malarious fevers, and bowel complaints, and bilious diseases, which the heavy dews, the vapors, and the vast difference between the temperature of night and day are apt to engender. Rouse yourself from this condition with HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. Wake up the latent vitality of the body, which only requires the stimulating, strengthening and regulating agency of this mighty vegetable restorative to enable it to remove its activity and potency. Indigestion, biliousness, miasmatic fevers, and disorders of the bowels, are the usual sequences of a long heated term. Prevent or cure them with the bitters. You can do either, but prevention is best.

In spite of your teeth,
Both above and beneath,
Being lightly enamel'd and thin,
They will never break down,
Nor turn yellow nor brown,
If the SOZODONT'S daily brushed in.

☞ More than three decades of active service in catering for the public, have built up for the AMERICAN HOUSE, BOSTON, such an enviable reputation that the proprietor (Lewis Rice) and the city may well be proud of it.

For Loss of Appetite, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Depression of Spirits and General Debility, in their various forms, FERRO-PHOSPHORATED ELIXIR OF CALISAYA made by Caswell, Hazard & Co., New York, and sold by druggists, is the best tonic. As a stimulant tonic for patients recovering from fever or other sickness, it has no equal. If taken during the season it prevents fever and ague and other remittent fevers. q10

Navy Department.

BUREAU OF CONSTRUCTION AND REPAIR, WASHINGTON, June 21, 1873.

SEALED PROPOSALS will be received at the Bureau until 12 o'clock noon, August 7, 1873, for the construction, including all the materials except the live oak timber, of the hull of a sloop-of-war of about 640 tons measurement, complete for sea service. Plans and specifications in detail for the hull, showing the work to be done, may be seen and examined at this Bureau, and at the Commandant's Office at the Navy Yards at Philadelphia, Brooklyn, Charlestown and Kittery, on and after the 6th of July next.

The hull must be completed in all respects according to the contract and specifications; the materials must be of the best quality, and the work must be done in the best manner, and the vessel be delivered at such Navy Yard on the Atlantic coast as the Department may direct in eight months from the date and signing of the contract.

Payments will be made as the work progresses, in proportionate amounts, reserving the usual percentage until the final completion and acceptance of the vessel.

The bids must be accompanied with the guarantee required by law, that if the contract is awarded, it will be promptly executed, and the names of the parties who are to become the sureties to the amount of one-half of the contract will also be stated.

The Department reserves the right to accept or reject any or all bids which, in its opinion, are not to the public interest.

Bids will only be accepted from parties who are known shipbuilders, and to have the necessary facilities for doing the work. onwj1

HARD WHITE ASH COAL,
FREE BURNING WHITE ASH COAL,
SHAMOKIN WHITE ASH COAL,
SHAMOKIN RED ASH COAL,

In order that all coal shall be shipped in good order, a most rigid system of inspection, both at the mines and at the shipping ports, will at all times be enforced. In every district of the coal region there will be appointed a number of competent persons skilled in the preparation of coal, as local inspectors, whose duty it will be to visit the several collieries daily to see that a proper force is at all times employed in removing slate, and to prevent, if possible, any coal being sent from the mines in bad order. In addition to these efforts at prevention, no means will be left untried at the shipping ports to cure the evils of careless preparation. At Schuylkill Haven, Port Carbon and Port Richmond, ALL COAL WILL BE SUBJECTED TO THE PERSONAL EXAMINATION OF A SKILLED INSPECTOR BEFORE IT IS SHIPPED, and if condemned by him, will be dumped in places provided for the purpose, and before being loaded into vessels WILL BE THOROUGHLY RE-PICKED AND CLEANED BY HAND.

Said a nice little boy who brought us in two boxes of strawberries on Tuesday, "These are from Mr. Ramsdell for the notice in the paper." Then we blessed Mr. Ramsdell from the bottom of our hearts and the tips of our tongues, and we contemplated with awe the self denial of the lad who didn't eat those strawberries before he brought them up stairs—for they were just the nicest we have tasted this season, were clean and hulled. Would there were more Ramsdells in the world and more strawberries—and more nice boys!

The bill to redistrict the Senatorial and Councillor districts passed the Senate on Tuesday.

The rain came on Tuesday, and was gladly hailed by the farmers as well as citizens, though it was too late to do much good to the hay crop in this vicinity. Six weeks ago the prospect was good for a heavy cut of hay, but the dry weather has since affected it so badly that there will not be more than two-thirds of an average crop. A large amount of mown and half-dried grass was wet by the rain of Tuesday.

Governor Straw and Council, the governor's staff, the President of the State Senate and the Speaker of the House, will arrive in this city on the Thursday evening train from Concord and be escorted to their quarters at the Rockingham House.

A few hundred volumes of the "Rambles About Portsmouth" are now ready for delivery, and can be procured on application to Lewis W. Brewster, Esq., of the Portsmouth Journal.

William H. Sise, Esq., has been appointed aide to Governor Straw, with rank of Colonel.

Fourth of July.

A full attendance is requested this evening at a meeting of the High School Association at Mercantile Hall, No. 5 Congress street, at 8 o'clock.

Work will be suspended at the navy yard on the 3d, 4th and 5th.

Ex-Governor Goodwin has very kindly offered the use of the field on Islington street, opposite his residence, to the New York delegation during their presence in this city.

The Rockingham House looks finely in its gala dress of welcome to the returning Sons and Daughters, the extensive front giving Col. Beals a fine chance to display his decorative abilities.

At the Tent.

The literary committee have selected the following gentlemen for Vice Presidents on the Fourth of July, desiring that they be present without further Notice:—

Hon. Ichabod Goodwin, Lewis W. Brewster, Edward D. Coffin, John L. Elwyn, Albert A. Fernald, Joseph H. Foster, John S. H. Frink, Moses H. Goodrich, Hon. W. H. Y. Hackett, Josiah G. Hadley, Albert R. Hatch, Geo. W. Haven, John R. Holbrook, C. C. Jackson, Hon. Frank Jones, Alex. H. Ladd, Hon. D. Marcy, A. W. Haven, Charles H. Mendum, Thos. S. Nowell, Wm. F. Parrott, Geo. W. A young woman, named Mary Moore, slightly deranged, residing in Roxbury, Delaware county, N. Y., set fire to her clothes and bedding recently, rather than go to an insane asylum, and died in a few minutes.

The bonnet of the period is a miniature kitchen garden. It is decorated with cherries, grapes, blackberries, little carrots, bits of parsley, long, pale green beans, sorrel, marjorum and other vegetables familiar to professors of the culinary science.

The Brooklyn Eagle states that the examining committee of the Plymouth Church has received from F. West a specific charge of slander against Henry C. Bowen, and his is expulsion called for. The Eagle adds that the charges refer in the main to certain utterances made by Bowen at a recent conference which took place at the house of Woodhull. There is much excitement among the members of Beecher's church over the matter.

The immediate cause of the death of Jesse R. Grant, the President's father, was softening of the brain and spinal marrow, though he had been suffering for a year from a paralytic stroke. He made his will in 1865, giving his children, Mrs. Kramer, Mrs. Corbin, and Orville Grant of Chicago, $25,000 each; the President was excepted.

At Virginia City, Nevada, Sunday night, a quantity of giant powder, stored in Root's building, in the rear of the Bank of California, exploded with terrific effect. Both buildings are complete wrecks. Ten or twelve persons were killed.

At a meeting of the supervisors of Plymouth church, recently, one member told another that he would cowhide him after meeting for saying that he had been bought, but a subsequent explanation averted the cowhiding. Beecher's flock need a shepherd dog.

Vice-President Wilson does not recover, and his condition is such as to cause much apprehension.

A quarrel between a party of citizens of Rawlin's Springs, Wyoming, and some Ute Indians took place Saturday at a Ute camp, ten or twelve Indians being killed, and the result, it is feared, will be a general war with the Utes.

The public debt was decreased $2,000,000 last month.

Wagner

Has been removed from Alfred to Saco jail. He says he "laid in the road, Saturday night; did not dare to go into the bushes, as I was afraid of wild animals. I came near getting run over by a team. I went through Rochester village at nine in the evening. Several persons spoke to me but none looked suspicious. Went by day and night and had no fear of being taken. I tried to milk a cow but she would not stand. I ate what a farmer gave me and turned to leave. Looking behind I saw the farmer and three men following me. I walked very slowly for I was tired. They came up to me and said prisoners had escaped from Alfred, and asked if I was one. I said nothing. They then raised a pole to strike me. I said "Don't strike me; if you do you'll be sorry. If you be hard up and want a few dollars you can take me. I am Wagner from Alfred jail." They were all frightened. I made no resistance. Then they got brave and came up. Took off my coat and told them to bring it. They did. There had collected about twenty-five farmers. They were all scared. They took me to the village and gave me plenty to eat, and kept me in a little wooden house over Sunday. Had a good ride this morning. I only went away to exercise my limbs. I did not know as I could use them after being confined so long, and had trouble in doing so. I also wanted to see the pretty girls whom I flirted with at the trial. I like pretty girls. They like me. I did not see many. I should have come back Tuesday or Wednesday and got in the same as I got out. I was tired and wanted a little vacation. I am satisfied for the present. People don't think I'm a murderer; if they did they would not treat me so kindly. They know I am innocent. I like Bennett; he has treated me well. I hate Sheriff Warren. He has used me bad. When Tanner and friends caught me they said they did not care for the $500 reward and that I ought to have it, but I think they fooled me. I would like to pay the counsel. If Mr. Bennett would let me go out for an hour a day I would like it. I would not run away. I did not run away. I did not wish to.

He says that he entered the house of Mr. Peavey, of Gonic, and took a trunk containing $3000 in Government bonds and other money. The hired man seeing him, pursued him, when he left the trunk and made his escape. His companions who escaped with him left him the first night. Wagner says Mrs. Hontvet committed the murder.

A Murderer Lynched.

On the 29th of June, a body of masked men entered Salem, Ind., seized and held the town patrolmen, and proceeding to the jail demanded the keys of Deputy Sheriff Craycroft, who resides in the building. The Sheriff refused to give up the keys under any peril, when he was seized and confined, and a sledge hammer was procured with which the mob proceeded to force its way into the cell of Delos Hefferen, who murdered Halstead a few days since. They broke through the outer door and then got at the foot of the stairs leading to the upper story, where Hefferen's cell was situated. The doors were soon burst open. Hefferen had watched the progress of the mob and had prepared himself as well as he could for a desperate resistance. The mob knowing the desperate character of the man, procured balls of twine, saturated them with coal oil and turpentine, and threw some of them into the cell and threw the others forward on the ends of long poles and set them ablaze. Having thus lighted up the cell, bringing the victim into full view, the mob opened fire upon him. Some twenty shots were fired, one of which entered his breast and another broke his arm. A rock was thrown at him, struck him on the head, knocked him down, and before he could recover he was seized, tied and dragged out of jail. "What are you going to do with me?" he asked; "I will go along with you." He was immediately taken to a covered railroad bridge about thirty feet high, about two squares from the jail, where he asked twice to pray, but the lynchers replied they could not wait. A rope was put around his neck and thrown over the rafter of the bridge. Hefferen was then pushed off. As soon as he was dead the lynchers returned to the jail, gathered up everything they had left that could afford a clue to their identity, released the sheriff and guards and scattered in every direction. None were recognized and no person knows by what road they entered or left the town.

A MULE TARN.

[Louisville Herald.]

An untutored mule, attached to the East End and Broadway cars, turned around to look back as it was going in from Second to Jefferson. The car stopped, and the mule would have walked to the rear end but for the intelligent driver, who pulled hard on the gee rein and gave him such a whack with the car hook that he bounded straight forward like a slung-shot. Then he bounded back like a return ball, just in time to get the other end of the hook, and renewed the forward movement with such force that the rebound brought him up in a collapsed condition against the breastwork of the car. The driver looked shaky, the mule seemed anxious to go somewhere, and just then two more cars came up and stopped to see what was going on. A large crowd came up too, and a young man in nice clothes, who looked as if he might be an agent of the Humane Society, patted the creature on the neck, took him gently by the bit, and told him to "come." He only asked him once, and the mule went. When they picked the young man up and put his hat on again, and wanted to know if he was much hurt, he said he thought it wouldn't be more than two ribs and a collar-bone, and then fainted away. He was thus carried to the nearest drug store just as three more cars came up, and the number of spectators increased to 900. The six drivers then formed a hollow square, with the mule in the centre, and for about three minutes the gentle creature went forward and backward with a velocity that seemed marvelous; but something broke, and he skimmed out of his harness and disappeared around the corner of Second and Market like a shot from a mountain howitzer. Then the six intelligent drivers put their shoulders to the car and pushed it over the grade. When this was done the repentant mule was brought back, hitched up, and trotted away with his load, and everybody wanted to know of everybody else why they didn't do that in the first place.

Does not dry up a Cough and leave the cause behind, as is the case with most preparations, but it loosens and cleanses the lungs and allays irritation, thus removing the cause of the complaint.

CLERGYMEN, LAWYERS, SINGERS,

And all those whose occupation requires an unusual exercise of the vocal organs, will find this the ONLY PREPARATION which will effectually and instantaneously relieve their difficulties.

BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS.—Remember that the genuine Wistar's Balsam has on the outside wrapper the signature of "I. BUTTS," and the printed name of the proprietors, "SETH W. FOWLE & SONS, BOSTON." All others are base imitations. Examine the wrapper carefully before purchasing.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY,
SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,

For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs,

No. 76 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON.

After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of Inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity for a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend all inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges. SEWING MACHINE SALES

For 1872.

BY comparison of Statistics from sworn returns of the sales of Sewing Machines for 1871 and 1872, it shows that the

"DOMESTIC"

SEWING MACHINE CO.'S sales have increased over 375 Per Cent., while no other Co.s' sales have increased over 36 per cent, proving the great popularity of the "DOMESTIC."

Annexed are the percentage of gain, of the leading makers:

Domestic Sewing Machine Co.,	gain	375	per	cent.
Wheeler & Wilson	"	"	36	"
Singer	"	"	23	"
Grover & Baker	"	"	5	"
Weed	"	"	8	"
Wilcox & Gibbs	"	"	12	"
Wilson	"	"	8	"

Other Machine Co.'s sales show a loss over the year before.

If the increase in sales be any criterion of merit, the "DOMESTIC" bears the palm.

The "DOMESTIC" works so easy, it is working itself into every family.

The "DOMESTIC" runs so light, it is distancing all competitors. It only asks a few days trial.

The "DOMESTIC" is recommended by the Medical Faculty.

The Great South American Blood Purifier.

JURUBEBA

IS THE MOST POWERFUL CLEANSER, strengthener and remover of Glandular Obstructions and Venereal Diseases.

IT IS SPECIALLY ADAPTED to constitutions "worn down" and debilitated by the warm weather of Spring and Summer, when the blood is not in active circulation, consequently gathering impurities from stagnation and imperfect action of the secretive organs, and is manifested by Tumors, Eruptions, Blotches, Boils, Pustules, &c., &c.

WHEN WEARY AND LANGUID from overwork, and dullness, drowsiness and inertia take the place of energy and vigor, the system needs a TONIC to build it up and help the Vital Forces to regain their recuperative power.

IN THE HEAT OF SUMMER, frequently the LIVER and SPLEEN do not properly perform their functions; the Uterine and Urinary Organs are inactive, producing weakness of the stomach and intestines and a predisposition to bilious derangement.

DR. WELLS'

EXTRACT OF JURUBEBA

is prepared directly from the SOUTH AMERICAN PLANT, and is peculiarly suited to all these difficulties; it will cleanse the VITIATED BLOOD, strengthen the LIFE-GIVING POWERS, and REMOVE ALL OBSTRUCTIONS from IMPAIRED and INVEGERATED Organs.

IT SHOULD BE FREELY TAKEN, as Jurubeba is pronounced by medical writers the most efficient PURIFIER, TONIC and DEOBSTRUENT known in the whole range of medicinal plants.

Morning Chronicle

SITTING FOR A PHOTOGRAPH.

[Danbury News.]

Having a photograph taken is one of the great event in a man's life. The chief desire is to look the very best, and on the success of the picture hinges in many cases the most important epoch in life. To work up a proper appearance, time enough is used which, if devoted to catching fleas for their phosphorus, would cancel the entire National debt and establish a New York daily paper. When you have completed your toilet, you go to the gallery and force yourself into a nonchalence of expression that is too absurd for anything. Then you take the chair, spread your legs gracefully, appropriate a calm and indifferent look, and commence to perspire. An attenuated man with a pale face, long hair and a soiled nose, now comes out of a cavern and adjusts the camera. Then he gets back of you and tells you to sit back as far as you can in the chair, and that it has a remarkably backward spring. After getting you back till your spine interferes with the chair itself, he shoves your head into a pair of ice tongs, and dashes at the camera again. Here, with a piece of discolored velvet over his head, he bombards you in this manner: "Your chin out a little, please." The chin is protruded. "That's nicely; now a little more." The chin advances again, and the pomade commences to melt and start for freedom. Then he comes back to you and slaps one of your hands on your leg in such a position as to give you the appearance of trying to lift it over your head. The other is turned under itself, and has become so sweaty that you begin to fear that it will stick there permanently. A new stream of pomade finds its way out, and goes downward. Then he shakes your head in the tongs till it settles right, and says it looks like rain, and puts your chin out again, and punches out your chest, and says he doesn't know what the poor are to do next winter unless there is a radical change in affairs, and then takes the top of your head in one hand and your chin in the other, and gives your neck a wrench which would earn any other man a prominent position in a new hospital; then runs his hand through your hair and scratches your scalp, and steps back to the camera and the injured velvet for another look. By this time new sweat and pomade have started out. The whites of your eyes show unpleasantly, and your whole body feels as if it had been visited by an enormous cramp and another and much larger one was momentarily expected. Then he points at something for you to look at; tells you to look cheerful and composed, and snatches away the velvet, and pulls out his watch. When he gets tired, and you feel as if there was but very little left in this world to live for, he restores the velvet, says it is an unfavorable day for a picture, but he hopes for the best, and immediately disappears in his den. Then you get up and scratch yourself, slap on your hat, and immediately sneak home, feeling mean, humbled, and, altogether too wretched for description. The first friend who sees the picture says he can see enough resemblance to make certain that it is you, but you have tried to look too formal to be natural and graceful.

DRINKING WATER.

Drinking wine is a habit; so is drinking spirits, ale, cider, coffee and water. The last is thought a necessity; but to drink much is a habit. Some people drink little, not because their constitutions require less than others; it is their habit. These people never perspire so much as those who drink more. The more that is drank the more water passes away, or the system would suffer. As it is the strain affects it. The skin, the kidneys, bowels, lungs, are all drawn upon. The result is, as may be naturally expected, exhaustion. For this reason the man who drinks much water, particularly during the summer and in the hottest weather, is less able to endure fatigue.

The water is of no benefit to him—that is, the excess. It must pass away, and this requires an effort of the system, which is the sweating process. Had he not the excess of water he would not have perspired so; it would not have been there for the system to expel. It is a habit to drink so much, and a false thirst is created. We should drink only what is needed. The habit of drinking more will soon be overcome, and the person will feel much stronger and more capable of bearing fatigue. In winter little fluid is needed beyond what our food furnishes; in summer some more, but not much.

BASE BALL INSANITY.

[Boston News.]

One of the points of evidence given for the purpose of demonstrating young Walworth's insanity was the testimony of his mother that once upon a time he had been struck on the head with a base ball club. If this evidence is to be taken into account we must keep an eye on about every young man we meet in the street—or elsewhere. As we have several hundreds of fine players in Boston, besides a liberal supply of professionals, and as a man is considered no player at all who hasn't had his head laid open two or three times by a bat, and four or five of his fingers broken, and an eye or two put out by a ball, and his nose flattened innumerable times by tumbles and falls, then it follows that we are surrounded by lunatics who may up and shoot us whenever they take it into their cracked heads that we have offended them. Again we say, keep an eye on base ball players.

Closing The Polls.

The characteristic attempt of Albert R. Hatch to defeat the bill closing the polls in this city at 6.30 P. M., by loading it with an amendment foreign to the purposes of the bill, after agreeing not to oppose it, failed in the House, on Wednesday. On Tuesday Mr. Kent called the bill discussion and Hatch advocated his amendment. In reply, Mr. Emery of Portsmouth, (the Speaker) said that the work done at the Portsmouth Navy Yard was better than that any where else, and that it had as skillful and intelligent workmen as any other navy yard. He reviewed the bill, explained what he believed to be its purpose, and said that the proposed amendment was uncalled for. It was intended either to kill the bill or to place some members of the House in a false position. He said that the tickets of peculiar appearance which had been placed in the hands of employes of the navy yard were not such as he could sanction; but he defended the purpose for which they were gotten up. If men who were employed there professed to be republicans and did not vote the republican ticket their employers had a right to resort to this measure of "spotting" them. He said that the democratic party when in power had done the same thing, and why should not the republican party have the same privilege? Nevertheless, he believed that the republican party had not thus far made any distinction between democrats and republicans in the matter of appointing men to positions in the navy yards.

Mr. Gould of Peterboro', said that he had been misrepresented. He was not a manufacturer, but he held an honorable position under a corporation. He had never yet known politics to enter into that corporation, which employed both democrats and republicans. It was the privilege of every man whose politics did not agree with that of his employer to seek employment elsewhere.

Mr. Hatch of Portsmouth said he would like the gentleman from Portsmouth to define his position. He had taken both sides of the question. He had not admitted that such tickets were used. He said that the statement made by the gentleman from Portsmouth, (Mr. Emery) concerning the desks in Ward 3 of Portsmouth, where voting was done, was false.

Mr. Emery of Portsmouth said that he was charged with stating what was not true. He had his information from a member of the House. He would leave the matter between the two gentlemen.

Mr. Hatch said that he would then take back his statement.

Mr. Emery said he believed his information to be correct.

Mr. Hatch said in that case he would not take back his assertion.

Mr. Emery said he did not care whether he took it back or not.

Mr. Fowler of Washington, moved that the bill be laid on the table. Lost.

On Wednesday, Hatch's amendment was defeated by a vote of—yeas to—nays, and the bill passed.

State News.

The statement published that Miss Janette Corkum of West Milan committed suicide by throwing herself in front of a passing train of cars, is incorrect. Those who saw the whole of the sad affair say that she must have thought she was safely on the track upon which the train was not to come, and with her attention directed elsewhere did not discover the mistake in season to escape.

On the 28th ult., in Wolfeborough, Mrs. Esther H. Wiswell, a widow lady fifty-eight years of age, drowned herself in a small stream about three miles from the village. Her bonnet and other articles of apparel were carefully hung on the bushes near the place where her body was found. Mrs. W. was possessed of a good property, and no cause is assigned to lead her to commit this act unless it was aberration of mind, caused by the sudden death of her husband one year ago, who dropped dead while at work in his field.

In the House of Representatives, the bill to allow women to vote in school district meetings was defeated.

South Seabrook is just getting over an attack of the measles; over sixty families have had their children sick with it, several cases being fatal from the fever that set in after the measles. The disease has found its way to Seabrook Village and many children there are now sick with it.

Readables.

A proclamation of the President giving effect to the fisheries provisions of the treaty of Washington is published.

Hon. Henry Wilson has had a stroke of paralysis, but is rapidly recovering.

It was not General Beauregard, but some "other man" of the same name, who signed an address to the people of Louisiana favoring the rights of the colored people.

A supposed double suicide has just come to light. David Blacklock, aged 40 years, a well-to-do farmer, residing some miles from Baltimore, on the Hartford turnpike, was found dead in his bed from an overdose of laudanum. A few hours later a sister of the deceased proceeded to the same room and hung herself to a bedpost.

The County Convention of York County, Me., will meet at Alfred on the 13th of August. Kittery is allowed eleven delegates and York seven. Gen. Wm. P. Frye will be present and address the convention.

A duel was fought on the 1st at Montgomery station, La., between ex-Judge W. H. Cooley and Colonel R. B. Rhett, jr., both of New Orleans. Rhett was uninjured, but Cooley was fatally wounded at the second fire.

The Press Appreciated.

On the recent grand excursion of the Massachusetts Press Association, with their ladies, numbering in all nearly two hundred,—the officers of the New Hampshire, Maine and Vermont Associations were invited guests. And right royally were these visitors treated by their Massachusetts brethren. The fact is, that since these Editorial Associations,—beginning in Maine, and now extending all through New England,—have caused the fraternity to appreciate themselves and each other somewhat, other people also have come to do the same, all the more.

The recent highly enjoyable trip extended from Boston (Fitchburg Depot,) by way of the Hoosac Tunnel, to Troy, Lakes George, Champlain and Saratoga; down the Hudson by day boat "Daniel Drew" to New York; and home across the Sound, by the favorite Fall River Line, in the magnificent steamer Providence, and over the Old Colony Road. The route was especially enjoyable at this hot and dusty season, by reason of the large proportion of water travel. At Lake George, Burlington, and Saratoga, balls or levees were given complimentary to the visiting party. And at the St. Nicholas Hotel in New York, on Sunday, the party had every attention possible. The writer of this, and indeed all the party, are under especial obligations to Col. George S. Merrill, of the Lawrence American, President of the Mass. Press Association, and Messrs. Proctor of the Gloucester Telegraph and Baldwin of the Worcester Spy, respectively Secretary and Treasurer of the the same, for one of the most satisfactory excursions imaginable. The arrangements of President Merrill were perfect in every detail. Also to Mr. Crane of the American House, Burlington, and Bro. Bigelow of the Free Press of that fine old town; and to Capt. Rushlow, of the "United States," one of the Lake Champlain steamboats, your correspondent is under obligations for special courtesies.

But it was of the better modern appreciation of the members of the editorial profession generally, that we commenced to speak. And this was eminently shown by Job Jenness & Son, at the first grand reunion given to the New England press, three years ago, at the Rye Beach Ocean House, —when that splendid hostelry entertained as their own guests, without money or price, other than the honor, one hundred couples of the visiting press. The Messrs. Leland, also, at the Grand Union Hotel, at Saratoga, last year, received as their own complimentary guests, for several days, the whole New York press, with their ladies,—and declined any other compensation than the honor of entertaining so distinguished a party. And Messrs. Hathorn and Southgate, of the spacious and elegant Congress Hotel at Saratoga, on this occasion of last week, invited the Massachusetts press party to the number of almost one hundred and fifty, to make this house their home while in Saratoga, and gave a ball in their honor too—all without any charge whatever.

The Lake Champlain and Lake George Transportation Company likewise did their level best for the editorial craft, as also did the various Railroad lines over which they passed. The steamer Vermont, Capt. Flagg, is the largest and finest boat of six running on the line between Burlington and Whitehall. It happened that she would not, in the regular course, run on the days the editors were to cross and recross the lake, so as to accommodate them. So the day previous, the Vermont and her sister alternating boat, the United States, met in the middle of the Lake, and exchanging passengers, baggage, &c., each doubled on her own track, and the beautiful Vermont was for two days at the service of the printers.

There was a Railroad man too who did a great deal for this party,—Mr. H. B. Smith, of the Rensselaer & Saratoga Railroad, which is a consolidation of six several roads, with an aggregate track of 222 miles, 38 locomotives and 1071 cars. Mr. Smith is a New Hampshire man, from Durham; and as we found, is a right down good fellow, and able railroad man. He did not claim to be a Son of Portsmouth, nor even was fortunate enough to marry one of the daughters; the nearest he could get was, that he has passed through the old town several times, and has a fair cousin married to a prominent citizen here. Well, this Mr. Smith,—not John, but Henry,—took it upon himself to help out this distinguished party of editors all he could. So he sent a special train of his nicest cars to take them up at Troy; and for two or three days they were at the service of the party, until finally he took them under his own direction at Saratoga, and after a swift, (not John L.) smooth and beautiful run to Albany, backed his train clean down on the wharf alongside the steamer, set us down again, and bade us good morning. May the Smith family never run out, and their best representative, as now, always be named Henry.

There were other Railway men, plenty of them, who contributed their full quota for this same cause—General Stark, Mr. Millis, Superintendents Kendrick of the O. C. & N. R. R., Furber of the B. & M., Hatch of the Eastern, Chamberlain of the Northern, et al; and other steamboat men who did the same, notably the Steward of the Providence; but the general card of thanks for the Massachusetts folks is none of our province—they are of age, and have spoken for themselves. Ours it is, (with your permission, Messrs. Chroniclers, in your elegant new issue—which I also greatly rejoice in, as showing how you are appreciated,) nine it is only, to give thanks for courtesies shown the printers of the old Granite State, through the officers of our Association.—Verily, the world does move; and the Press has come to be acknowledged among men, as equally important with, if not indeed superior in importance and consideration, to the other learned professions.

Yours ever, F.

How Do You Feel?
The fervid heats of summer are now over. In what condition have they left you? Is your liver torpid or disordered, your appetite feeble, your digestion imperfect or painful, your nervous system shaky, your mind lethargic? This is the state in which the autumn finds tens of thousands of us, and in this state we are ripe for the malarious fevers, and bowel complaints, and bilious diseases, which the heavy dews, the vapors, and the vast difference between the temperature of night and day are apt to engender. Rouse yourself from this condition with HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. Wake up the latent vitality of the body, which only requires the stimulating, strengthening and regulating agency of this mighty vegetable restorative to enable it to remove its activity and potency. Indigestion, biliousness, miasmatic fevers, and disorders of the bowels, are the usual sequences of a long heated term. Prevent or cure them with the Bitters. You can do either, but prevention is best.

In spite of your teeth,
Both above and beneath,
Being lightly enamel'd and thin,
They will never break down,
Nor turn yellow nor brown,
If the SOZODONT'S daily brushed in.

☞ More than three decades of active service in catering for the public, have built up for the AMERICAN HOUSE, BOSTON, such an enviable reputable reputation that the proprietor (Lewis Rice) and the city may well be proud of it.

For Loss of Appetite, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Depression of Spirits and General Debility, in their various forms, the PHOSPHORIATED ELIXIR OF CALISYA made by Caswell, Hazard & Co., New York, and sold by druggists, is the best tonic. As a stimulant tonic for patients recovering from fever or other sickness, it has no equal. If taken during the season it prevents fever and ague and other remittent fevers. tj10

SEALED PROPOSALS will be received at the Bureau until 12 o'clock noon, August 7, 1873, for the construction, including all the materials except the live oak timber, of the hull of a sloop-of-war of about 540 tons measurement, complete for sea service. Plans and specifications in detail for the hull, showing the work to be done, may be seen and examined at this Bureau, and at the Commandants' Offices at the Navy Yards at Philadelphia, Brooklyn, Charlestown and Kittery, on and after the 6th of July next.
The hull must be completed in all respects according to the contract and specifications; the materials must be of the best quality, and the work must be done in the best manner, and the vessel be delivered at such Navy Yard on the Atlantic coast as the Department may direct in eight months from the date and signing of the contract.
Payments will be made as the work progresses, in proportionate amounts, reserving the usual percentage until the final completion and acceptance of the vessel.
The bids must be accompanied with the guarantee required by law, that if the contract is awarded, it will be promptly executed, and the names of the parties who are to become the sureties in the bond of the face of the contract will also be stated.
The Department reserves the right to accept or reject any or all bids which, in its opinion, are not to the public interest.

HARD WHITE ASH COAL,

In order that all coal shall be shipped in good order, a most rigid system of inspection, both at the mines and at the shipping ports, will at all times be enforced. In every district of the coal region there will be appointed a number of competent persons skilled in the preparation of coal, as local inspectors, whose duty it will be to visit the several collieries daily to see that a proper force is at all times employed in removing slate, and to prevent, if possible, any coal being sent from the mines in bad order. In addition to these efforts at prevention, no mine will be left untried at the shipping ports to cure the evils of careless preparation. At Schuylkill Haven, Port Clinton and Port Richmond, ALL COAL WILL BE SUBJECTED TO THE PERSONAL EXAMINATION OF A SKILLED INSPECTOR BEFORE IT IS SHIPPED, and if condemned by him, will be dumped in places provided for the purpose, and before being loaded into vessels WILL BE THOROUGHLY REPICKED AND CLEANED BY HAND.

Local Matters.

The Reunion.

In all sections of the city, by night and by day, the noise of the hammer is heard and the work of preparation goes on. Old Portsmouth never looked more beautiful in holiday attire than at this time. Even "Old Probabilities" gave indications that he is personally interested, and a more grateful people than the dwellers of Strawberry Bank could not well be imagined when the wind changed to east on the 1st, and brought in its train that ever did good in the events of history of the past two hundred and fifty years. Friends from afar are gathering with every train, and streets are decked with constantly increasing flags and mottoes. Spruce and evergreen adorn the sidewalks and it seems as if every person in town is joining in the welcome.

The festivities are even now upon us. The New York Sons and Daughters are coming this morning and there is an intense interest to hear Downing's magnificent Band. The New Yorkers left for Fall River last evening, arrived in Boston this morning and after taking breakfast at the United States Hotel, will march to the Eastern depot and take a special train for Portsmouth, at 8.30, arriving at Frenchman's Lane at 10.45. Our local military organizations will form on Pleasant street, right resting on City building, with Harlow's Band and the Drum Corps, (and with the citizens' committee of arrangements and citizens, who are to meet at the City Rooms at 9.30) will march to Frenchman's Lane under direction of Col. William H. Sise, Chief Marshall, and Aides. On the disembarkation of the New York delegation at Frenchman's Lane, a brief speech of welcome will be made by Mayor Marvin, after which the procession will re-form and march through Islington, Congress, Pleasant and State streets, to the Rockingham House, saluting ex-Governor Goodwin at his residence. The Military will then be dismissed until 5.30 P. M., when they will form in procession on Pleasant street and march to the Concord depot with the Mayor and members of the City government, to receive Governor Straw and staff, who will arrive from Concord at 6.15. The Governor will be escorted to the Rockingham House and the procession will then be dismissed.

At 7 o'clock, the grand complimentary concert tendered by the New York Sons to our citizens will take place at Haymarket Square in the bower of beauty prepared by New York liberality. It will be a rich treat for all lovers of music, continuing for two hours, after which the ladies and gentlemen of the New York delegation will hold a reception at their headquarters, the Rockingham House, and all ladies and gentlemen desiring the enjoyment of a social hour are requested to attend. It is particularly requested that the ladies do not appear in full dress. After the reception, Downing's Band will serenade the guests at the Rockingham. The "night before the Fourth" will be a memorable one, judging by the indications.

Fourth of July.

Members of the General Committee are requested to meet at the City rooms, this Thursday morning at 930. sharp, to take part in the reception of the delegation from New York.

The reception by the New Yorkers at the Rockingham this evening after the concert, promises to be a very pleasant affair. Full dress is not desired, and ladies may step in on their way home from the Concert, and enjoy the social greeting of friends. Should the weather be so bad as to prevent the Promenade concert on Haymarket Square, it will be given in the tent.

The display of fireworks on the evening of the 4th will take place on a stage on Market square, facing Congress street; and to allay any apprehension of danger one of the city Fire Extinguisher companies, with their engine, will be stationed on the square. The exhibition will commence at early dusk.

The ladies of the High School have entered enthusiastically into the floral festivities and we hope their action will be contagious.

Among the arrivals of Sons we notice Mr. Oliver F. Gerrish, of San Francisco, and Mr. George G. Kimball of the Savannah (Ga.) Advertiser.

We understand that Davis Bros. are intending to take photographic views of the principal street decorations.

The badges worn by returing Sons and Daughters not of the Boston or New York delegations are to be blue.

The badges for the General Committee will arrive to-day. The citizens' badges were ordered after the committees', but owing to a misunderstanding were done 0rst, and arrived yesterday, and are now ready for delivery.

The caterer for the collation earnestly requests all those ladies who have signified their intention to make donations of cake, pastry, etc., to have their gifts ready for delivery at noon to-day, as a team will start on a collecting tour at that hour. Others who may desire to contribute, will please leave their addresses at the store of Leonard Akerman & Son, this forenoon, in which case the team will not fail to call upon them.

Suicide.

Dr. Victory Hobbs, of North Hampton, son of Dr. Moses L. Hobbs, committed suicide July 2d, by taking poison. He went to his room about 10 o'clock in the forenoon, and not appearing at dinner a member of the family went to his room and found him on the bed, dead, with a small phial containg a little reddish liquid setting on the bed-rail. He has been low-spirited for some months, and has at times appeared partially deranged.

To Invited Guests.

The ladies of the N. Y. and Boston delegations, and all other ladies included in the invitations to the returning Sons and Daughters, will proceed to the tent before the arrival of the procession at the same. Ample space—marked by placards—will be assigned to them outside the tent, and as their respective delegations pass they will join their gentlemen friends, and all proceed into the tent together.

No one will be admitted without a badge. Badges will be furnished to all returning Sons and Daughters at the room under the Portsmouth Journal office, corner of State and Pleasant streets, on the 3d and morning of the 4th.

The Officers of the Navy with their ladies are requested to report at the tent ten minutes before the arrival of the procession, and the Chairman of the Collation Committee will admit them at once.

An adequate police force will be on duty at the tent to preserve order.

J. ALBERT SANBORN, Chief of Staff. WM. H. SISE, Chief Marshal.

Laconics.

"Kent" telegraphed from Concord, Wednesday evening, that the bill for closing the polls would pass, but the "veto bill" would not be reached previous to adjournment.

At the earnest request of many of our citizens the Directors of the High School association have decided to admit the public, free of charge, to the Reunion, on the 5th of July, after the graduates are provided with seats.

The legislature has passed the bill authorizing the building of a bridge across Little Harbor between Newcastle and Rye.

Howard M. Dunyon, Esq., has been appointed Justice of the Peace.

Mr. Charles H. Rowe, a Son of Portsmouth, has been appointed Conductor on the Dover & Winnipesaukee Railroad.

A MAN OF FEW WORDS.

The Washington Star says that on Friday afternoon, before leaving for Long Branch, the President took a stroll along H street, and dropped in to see a friend, who is a well-known citizen of Washington. During his stay the daughter of the gentleman referred to remarked that she had heard a pleasant thing about him. The President inquired to what she referred.

"I have been told by an officer who served with you in the army," said she, "that he had been with you under many trying circumstances and that in no single instance, no matter what the provocation, had he ever known you to make use of profane language. I was delighted to hear this, especially in view of the fact that profanity is said to be the rule and not the exception with army officers. Will you excuse me, Mr. President, if I inquire if what I heard is true?"

"It is, I believe," modestly replied the President. "I have always regarded profane language as unnecessary, to say the least, and as I am a man of few words, I have never been able to understand the necessity for useless expressions of the character referred to."

ACCOMMODATING BUT WICKED.

An Oshkosh (Wis.) preacher and a lawyer were lately riding, several miles from town, when their horse ran away and they were forced to start home on foot. They were soon overtaken by a woman, driving a nice team, whose invitation to ride they were only too happy to accept. The young woman conducted herself modestly enough till they reached the main street of the town, but then, putting her feet upon the dasher with great abandon and lighting a cigar, she put the lash to the horse and drove up and down the street at a tearing pace, treating the crowd that came out to see the fun to a sight of a very gay-looking demi-monde and two respectable but horrified citizens. Four times she drove through the street, and since then the parson and lawyer have been busy in explaining how it came about.

—Lake Ontario is becoming quite noted for its wonderful phenomena. The latest is a midnight mirage, an account of which a steamboat captain has kindly furnished to a Western exchange. He says when he was standing on the deck of his vessel in the night, while on his way up the lake, the city of Oswego, thirty-one miles distant, suddenly appeared in view, with the gas lighted in the streets, and all the appearances that a town would present from a hill in its immediate vicinity at night. The lighthouse at Oswego, as well as a dozen others on the lake shore below as far as Sackett's Harbor, was distinctly seen by this skipper, who must have taken an unusually heavy "night cap" that evening.

EDMUND BURKE,

SEWING MACHINE SALES

For 1872.

BY comparison of Statistics from sworn returns of the sales of Sewing Machines for 1871 and 1872, it shows that the

"DOMESTIC"

SEWING MACHINE CO.'s sales have increased over 275 Per Cent., while no other Co.s' sales have increased over 35 per cent., proving the great popularity of the "DOMESTIC."

Annexed are the percentage of gain, of the leading makers:

Domestic Sewing Machine Co.,	gain	275	per	cent.
Wheeler & Wilson	"	36	"	"
Singer	"	23	"	"
Grover & Baker	"	5	"	"
Weed	"	2	"	"
Wilcox & Gibbs	"	12	"	"
Wilson	"	3	"	"

Other Machine Co.'s sales show a loss over the year before.

If the increase in sales be any criterion of merit, the "DOMESTIC" bears the palm.

The "DOMESTIC" works so easy, it is working itself into every family.

The "DOMESTIC" runs so light, it is distancing all competitors. It only asks a few days trial.

The "DOMESTIC" is recommended by the Medical Faculty.

The Great South American Blood Purifier.

JURUBEBA

IS THE MOST POWERFUL CLEANSER, STRENGTHENER and remover of Glandular Obstructions known to Materia Medica.

IT IS SPECIALLY ADAPTED to constitutions "worn down" and debilitated by the warm weather of Spring and Summer, when the blood is not in active circulation, consequently gathering impurities from sluggishness and imperfect action of the secretive organs, and is manifested by Tumors, Eruptions, Blotches, Boils, Pimples, &c., &c.

WHEN WEARY AND LANGUID from overwork, and dullness, drowsiness and inertia take the place of energy and vigor, the system needs a TONIC to build it up and help the Vital Forces to regain their recuperative power.

IN THE HEAT OF SUMMER, frequently the LIVER and SPLEEN do not properly perform their functions; the Uterine and Urinary Organs are inactive, producing weakness of the stomach and intestines and a predisposition to bilious derangement.

Dr. WELLS'

EXTRACT OF JURUBEBA

is prepared directly from the SOUTH AMERICAN PLANT, and is peculiarly suited to all these difficulties; it will cleanse the VITIATED BLOOD, strengthen the LIFEGIVING POWERS, and REMOVE ALL OBSTRUCTIONS from IMPAIRED and ENFEEBLED Organs.

IT SHOULD BE FREELY TAKEN, as Jurubeba is pronounced by medical writers the most efficient PURIFIER, TONIC and DEOBSTRUENT known in the whole range of medicinal plants.

Morning Chronicle

A Day at Home.

The mother heart of Strawberry Bank,
With open gate and portals wide,
As queen of worth must always rank,
With the fond children of her pride.

To-day in robes of richest green,
Broidered with blossoms bright and fair,
She greets us to a festal scene,
With music sweet, on fragrant air.

Her board in open field is spread,
On carpet soft, 'neath tented dome,
Where branches bend and wave o'erhead,
As if to give us, "welcome home."

Here ends our march, we feast and rest,
With friends recount the days of yore,
Till every heart with keenest zest
Is filled, to early hamts explore.

Once more we cross the bridges true,
Pass through the streets and shady lanes,
Sail out upon the waters blue,
Visit the dock and Portsmouth plains.

From Christian Shore to Sagamore,
Each well known spot again is seen,
We read the names upon each door,
On Auburn's marble slabs we lean.

Beyond we see another land,
With hill and vale and winding stream,
A beaming face, an outstretched hand,
And start, to find it but a dream.

And now this glad, glad day must end,
We could not ask, or wish for more,
Than such a day, where host and friend
We meet, upon the other shore.

THE WALWORTH LETTERS.

[Portland Advertiser.]

The publication the of elder Walworth's domestic correspondence has a tendency to reconcile the public to the affliction of his sudden death. The man who would write such letters as these, even to his mother-in-law, ought to die. It must nevertheless be confessed that the younger Walworth, in becoming his father's executioner, was guilty of a marked breach of decorum, for which he ought to apologize to a scandalized community. Such conduct is indelicate, and will not be defended by anybody who properly appreciates the relation between good manners and poor morals.

It is true that evil communications corrupt good manners, and that slender apology may be allowed for the boy; for certainly his father's written communications are as prone to evil as the sparks to fly upward. For profound malignity, savage excoriation and sustained profanity, these letters from Walworth to his wife are unrivalled in the whole range of English literature. Junius perhaps was his equal in vituperation; Dean Swift's savage temper found vent in denunciation as violent and almost as coarse; but for sheer, monotonous, unqualified profanity, Walworth is peerless. This is the more remarkable, because in his work of fiction the late Mr. Walworth's style is uncommonly feeble—in fact, puerile, so that the development of his extraordinary faculty for domestic cursing is as surprising as the phenomenon described by Sir Boyle Roche, when he informed the Irish Parliament that the progress of the times was such that "little children, who could neither walk nor talk, might be seen running about the streets cursing their Maker."

Filial piety must have been sadly lacking in the Walworth family. In one of these amazing letters, the late novelist speaks of his own father, the Chancellor, then recently deceased, as a "dead dog," and a doubled-dashed "dead villain." The occasion for this passionate outburst was the fact that the Chancellor had provided in his will for the maintenance of Mrs. Walworth and her family, and had left only only a portion of the property, in trust, for the benefit of Mrs. Walworth's extremely unpleasant husband. The latter personage thereupon threatened to take an exquisite vengeance upon his unnatural parent, the "dead dog" aforesaid, by plunging his dagger into Frank's and Tracy's hearts and cutting off the Walworth name forever. The canine figure of speech it may be observed is a characteristic feature of Walworth's domestic prose. He not only calls his father a "dead dog," but describes his wife as a dashed infamous female dog, and Frank and Tracy, her offspring and his own, as "pups."

Frank appears to have thought that, if the Walworth name was to be cut off, it might be well to begin a little further back than his father had proposed. And so far he was clearly right, but it was a total mistake for him to undertake the job himself. Parricide is ungentlemanly; and besides, the example is bad. If one young man may slay the author of his existence for writing threatening letters, another will claim the same privilege because his governor exhibits an unreasonable tenacity to life and the family estate, and another because the old gentleman's personal appearance and demeanor fail to satisfy the requirements of a cultivated taste. The prevalence of such theories would tend to confusion and disorder, and we hope the precedent will be sternly frowned down, notwithstanding the palliating circumstances which have been disclosed.

PROPOSED SALE OF THE NAVY YARDS.

[Boston Herald.]

It is said by a prominent politician that at the next session of Congress there will be a majority without the vote of Massachusetts members for the reduction of the naval stations to four. To be located at Philadelphia, Kittery, Me., Mare Island, Cal., and Norfolk, Va. This will cause the sale of the property at Charlestown and Brooklyn, which is valued at a high figure, and has been wanted for some years for mercantile business and commercial improvement. It is stated that a company of mercantile

...se the Charlestown Yard, which will put large amount of money into the Treasury, and bring a taxable property to the city of Charlestown. The navy yard property can be used, if sold, for the benefit of the people and the mercantile interests of the city of Boston (with Charlestown as one of the northern wards), and will be producing something for the people, and give employment to a large number of men in commercial business at the wharves. There is good deep water at the navy yard, and if sold it will be the grand central water front depot for the Cunard and other lines of steamers between Europe and Boston. They will land all their freight and passengers there. The Eastern Railroad is to make big improvements in Charlestown for freight accommodations. The Maine, Lowell and Fitchburg roads are also within a short distance of the Navy Yard property, to which they can easily extend their tracks. The merchants and business men of Brooklyn, N. Y., also need the navy yard property in that city for public improvements and mercantile trade. It is claimed that the navy yards are no benefit to the government. They are under the control of politicians and the employes used for election purposes. The United States vessels can be constructed in private yards much cheaper and as thoroughly as at the navy yards.

Tornado at the West.

A fearful tornado passed over Neosho county, Kansas, on the 1st. The heavens were one sheet of flame, accompanied by a terrible burst of wind and rain. The tornado came from the southwest, and first struck the stone house of Mr. Giddings, half a mile south of Galesburg, blowing it down and burying Mrs. Giddings and three children in the ruins. The children were instantly killed. Mrs. Giddings was seriously injured. The gale next struck Mr. Roden's house, which was blown down. He was seriously and his wife fatally injured. Two other houses were blown from their foundations. The tornado moved in a narrow belt, and swept everything in its track—houses, fences and crops—as clean as a mower's scythe. At Parsons three houses were struck by lightning, but no serious damage was done. The rain came down in torrents, and much damage was done the wheat and corn crops.

President Edward Orton, of Antioch College, has been called to the Presidency of the Ohio Agricultural College, the office which Ex-Senator Patterson, of New Hampshire, concluded not to accept.

SENATOR CRAGIN.

[Concord Monitor.]

The strenuous efforts made by our senior Senator to defeat the salary bill, after its passage by the House, are a matter of history. With such a record, we never had a doubt but that he would refuse to accept the back pay which constitutes the worst feature of that measure. We are not surprised, therefore, to learn, as we do from the Lebanon Free Press, that "immediately after the passage of the bill he declined to accept the back pay, and never will accept it." This course does him infinite honor, and will be remembered to his credit long after the grabbers shall have felt the full measure of the people's displeasure over an exhibition of rapacity quite without a parallel in our history.

Business Notices.

How Do You Feel?

The fervid heats of summer are now over. In what condition have they left you? Is your liver torpid or disordered, your appetite feeble, your digestion imperfect or painful, your nervous system shaky, your mind lethargic? This is the state in which the autumn finds tens of thousands of us, and in this state we are ripe for the malarious fevers, and bowel complaints, and bilious diseases, which the heavy dews, the vapors, and the vast difference between the temperature of night and day are apt to engender. Rouse yourself from this condition with HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. Wake up the latent vitality of the body, which only requires the stimulating, strengthening and regulating agency of this mighty vegetable restorative to enable it to remove its activity and potency. Indigestion, biliousness, miasmatic fevers, and disorders of the bowels, are the usual sequences of a long heated term. Prevent or cure them with the Bitters. You can do either, but prevention is best.

Is spite of your teeth,
Both above and beneath,
Being lightly enamel'd and thin,
They will never break down,
Nor turn yellow nor brown,
If the SOZODONT'S daily brushed in.

For Loss of Appetite, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Depression of Spirits and General Debility, in their various forms, FERRO-PHOSPHORATED ELIXIR OF CALISYA made by Caswell, Hazard & Co., New York, and sold by druggists, is the best tonic. As a stimulant tonic for patients recovering from fever or other sickness, it has no equal. If taken during the season it prevents fever and ague and other remittent fevers. ¢j10

"The Ever-Present Now."

To-day the long absent yet cherished Sons and Daughters of Strawberry Bank return to the place of their childhood, relinquishing the cares of life, the strife for fame and the struggle for yet higher positions in life, for a brief holiday, turning their faces once more homeward to meet friends from whom for years they have been separated. Joyous will be the greetings and thrilling will be the scenes when the loved ones come in sight of their ancestral home, with its beloved memories of olden time when Portsmouth was peopled by another generation of men and women and the guests of to-day were the happy boys and girls who trod these streets, coasted down our hills, sailed our river, picnicked on the banks of the romantic Piscataqua, skated on the ice-clad ponds, attended huskings with pretty maidens and listened with awe as they were led by the hand regularly to church. What a flood of memories, sad and pleasant, must recur to each as he or she sets foot in Frenchman's Lane, listens to the cannon's roar, and realizes that it is for him or her the welcome peans sound; that in the homestead a parent with glistening eyes waits for the coming children, listens eagerly for the signal of arrival, looks longingly for the familiar form, and impatiently waits for the warm grasp of the hand and the embrace of welcome. Sad must be he who in all the thronging thousands who rush forward in gladness to greet the coming host or be greeted by the delightful dweller in the home of their early days, has no welcoming hand outstretched, no friend to recognize and express the pleasure one feels on meeting a friend.

The returning children will find Portsmouth in its most beautiful attire, for Nature seems to have vied with man in the street decorations. The majestic old trees which for so many scores of years have beautified our city have grown grander and more stately, and are nodding their heads as if in approbation. We have waited long and patiently for the absent friends. Hundreds who took part in the REUNION of 1853 are not with us to-day, and many are with us now who did not enjoy that rare jubilee of twenty years ago. Fond memories and tender recollections will be brought home to the hearts of each one as he or she passes through the crowded streets and sees the carefully laid plans carried into success. Puddle Dock and its ancient memories will appear but things of a few past days, Liberty Bridge and Point of Graves will recall many a prank half forgotten, the old Spring Market with its ever flowing stream of pure water will be sought for by the boys who annually met and fought for supremacy, "when this old hat was new."

Out from the hearts of our people, boys, (and girls too) go the ready responses to your coming. The guns you hear, tingle the senses of your old associates grown gray since you left; the swelling music of your bands thrill the heart of father, mother, sister, brother, friend, as you keep step with thousands of others in the streets you so long ago learned to love; the influence of your presence is felt by us all; the good cheer which awaits you is but a token of our tenderest feelings; the entertainments planned are only an earnest of our great desire to make your stay a happy one. If it shall appear that we as a people have manifested our great regard, that we have convinced you that of all places "there's no place like home," that whatsoever has separated us so long, "the days of auld lang syne" are yet fresh memories—then our labor has not been in vain. With one accord our citizens unite to testify to their delight at your presence; with joyful acclaim and hearts beating fast with pride for those who have left old Portsmouth but to honor her, we welcome you, thrice and a thousand times welcome! And when the festivities are over and duty calls you away again, every swelling heart, every friend and acquaintance will join in Tiny Tim's expressive benediction,—"God bless us, every one!"

To-Day's Festivities.

The reception of the Boston Sons and Daughters is the first thing on the regular programme. This will occur at Frenchman's Lane between 9.30 and 10 A. M., the procession leaving Market Square at 9. After a brief welcome by Mayor Marvin and a response by President Goodwin the time of march will be taken up, the procession moving through Islington, Congress, Market, Deer, Vaughan, Congress, Pleasant, Water, State, Cabot, Middle, Court, Pleasant, State and Middle streets to the tent. Here a welcome speech will be made by the Mayor and after the collation has been attended to an ode of welcome written by Albert Laighton will be read by Mr. Henry C. Barnabee. James T. Fields, Esq., and B. P. Shillaber will read poems, and sentiments will be read by James P. Bartlett, Esq., Master of Ceremonies, assisted by Mr. J. C. Butler. Ten regular sentiments will be responded to and it is expected that speaking will continue through the afternoon, interspersed with music by the Bands.

At 5.30 P. M., a grand regatta will take place on the river, which will interest thousands. The efficient committee having charge of the matter have been untiring in their exertions and announce five regular races, after which a tub race will be rowed.

At 7.30 the grand promenade concert will commence in the tent, Harlow's Band commencing and the Boston and New York Bands alternating. Eleven pieces are on the programme and it is unnecessary to say that the affair will be a jubilee on no small scale. Dancers will find a favorable opportunity for engaging in their favorite pastime.

At 9 o'clock, fireworks will be let off on Market Square. This location was finally decided upon by the committee in charge at the request of numerous citizens. To prevent danger from fire, one of the Extinguisher companies will be on duty in the immediate vicinity. The best positions to see the fireworks may be had on Congress street, which will be closed against the passage of horses and carriages. The promenade concert and the fireworks close the day's festivities. At 11.30, the Boston delegation will return home with Brown's and Gilmore's Bands, in a special train.

Saturday.

We hope no member or former member of the High School will neglect to attend the first Reunion of the new Association at 3 o'clock, Saturday afternoon. The officers and graduates will march to the tent with the members of the Boys' and Girls' High Schools at 2,30, Harlow's Band furnishing the music. Hon. William H. Y. Hackett will preside and James T. Fields, Esq., will read a poem. Mr. Chas. A. Hazlett will marshal the procession and Mr. Geo. W. Marston will be Master of Ceremonies. It is hoped the occasion will be one of enjoyment. Several absent Sons and Daughters are expected to respond to sentiments, and there are hints of a tapping of footsteps to Harlow's music, towards the close.

At 5.30, the New York delegation will be escorted to the depot and start for home.

Sunday.

The grand closing feature of this eventful REUNION will be the praise meeting at the tent on Sunday afternoon, commencing at 3.30. Mr. E. A. Tilton is to direct and Harlow's Band will accompany. Twelve hymns are on the programme and there will be brief addresses by our city pastors. This will be a fitting ending of the celebration and thousands are expected to join in singing the familiar hymns selected.

The New York Delegation

Arrived at Frenchman's Lane by special train, Thursday morning at 11:09. The military organization and a large concourse of citizens had been waiting nearly an hour. The New Yorkers formed in the line and under the marshalship of Jacob Wendell, Esq., marched in front of the military drawn up to receive them, and halted. Mayor Marvin then welcomed them in a speech of model brevity, speaking as follows:—

Sons and Daughters of Portsmouth resident in New York and its vicinity: We are glad to see that the home ties binding you to old Portsmouth have drawn you hither in anticipation of the great event of to-morrow, when all the wide-scattered children of this city are expected to assemble here to be welcomed home.

I congratulate you on your safe arrival, and hope that your fondest anticipations of pleasure will be realized.

In behalf of the people of whom I am one and for whom I speak, I tender you thanks for the beautiful tribute of filial affection with which you have adorned the home of your fathers. The triumphal arches which you designed and caused to be erected in Haymarket Square, will live, ever green, in our memory.

You will now please accept a floral offering of welcome at the hands of this fair representative of Portsmouth's youth and beauty.

At the conclusion of the Mayor's address, Miss Norah Bartlett, daughter of James P. Bartlett, Esq., presented Marshal Wendell with an elegant bouquet of flowers, amid the cheers of the spectators. Mr. Wendell responded to the welcome and the gift most happily, as follows:—

Mr. Mayor, and Gentlemen and Ladies:

In behalf of the delegation of Sons and Daughters of Portsmouth, residing in New York and Brooklyn, and those who accompany us, I thank you for the kind expressions with which you have been pleased to extend to us the hospitalities of your city. 'Tis many years since some of us left Portsmouth, and you will hardly recognize any of us as the children who played in your streets, attended your schools and churches, and learned here the first rudiments of home education and knowledge with which to fight the battle of life in other places. But I think I can say for one and all, that though years have passed—though we shall miss the kind greetings of many who were wont to meet us years ago—though those who gave us their blessing and bade us God speed when we left the parental roof, have passed away—we still feel that we have come home.

It was my privilege, on the return of the Sons in 1853, to be one of those who then hailed from Boston, and well do I remember the pleasant occasion. Little did we then realize the changes which in twenty years would take place. Children have become men and women, and now to assume the full responsibilities of life; those of middle life, have come to full maturity; many are gone. But with those of us who remain, and who were present on that occasion, and with all of us now present, the familiar name of Portsmouth is dear, the affection for the homes of childhood still burns brightly.

We thank you, sir, for the opportunity you have given us, of once more meeting together in our native place. We come, or many of us come, from the larger cities, where it is hard to keep up the close friendships of early years; but on this occasion, we all join as one, and renew together, by your invitation, the pleasures of our boyhood days.

Receive us as Sons and Daughters of Portsmouth; and though to some of us there comes a sadness that our Fathers and Mothers are not here to greet us now, your city contains their ashes, and their memories are closely identified in our hearts with the name of Portsmouth. We gladly accept your kind greeting, and when on the morrow the Sons and Daughters of Portsmouth resident in other places shall crowd your streets and receive your kindness, you will I trust find none will do themselves more credit and prove more loyal to the home of their childhood, than the delegation which I have the honor to represent on this occasion. Again, sir, I thank you.

At the conclusion of the reception ceremonies the procession resumed its march down Islington street, Downing's magnificent band playing "Home Again" in a manner that thrilled the hearts of all who heard it. Arriving at the residence of Ex-Gov. Goodwin, chairman of the citizen's committee, the procession halted and the baton of Downing brought out "Hail to the Chief." The Governor responded feelingly to the compliment tendered him and bade the visitors welcome. The march was then resumed through Islington, Congress, Pleasant and State streets to the Rockingham House, the headquarters of the delegation, after which the procession marched to Pleasant street and was dismissed. The decorations along the line of march were numerous and the streets were in good condition except near the junction of Islington and Summer streets, where the morning shower produced considerable mud. The New York delegation was smaller in number than was expected, many coming on other trains before and after the delegation arrived. The busy preparations every one is engaged in prevented a much larger gathering of citizens. As it was, the reception was as pleasant and passed off as well as could be wished, auguring well for the grand features of to-day.

Badges.

If you want information, seek it from a person wearing a cherry colored badge. Members of the press wear a gray badge. The officers of the High School Association wear a green badge.

The Daughters of Portsmouth resident in Boston and vicinity can get their badges this morning at the ladies' parlor of the Rockingham House.

Laconics.

Every Son and Daughter will want to purchase copies of Prof. Whitefield's views of Portsmouth. See advertisement.

The noon train from Boston on the 3d left that city with nine passenger cars, and passed through this city with them all crowded.

All store teams are desired to join in the Industrial procession to-day by the Marshal.

Mr. Geo. C. Hurlburt, correspondent of the Chicago and western press, is stopping at the Franklin House.

Sons of Portsmouth not included in the New York or Boston delegations are requested to read an advertisement elsewhere.

We call especial attention to Mr. Daniel A. Drown's "Idylls of Strawberry Bank," a neat volume which should be in every family, not only for its intrinsic value but for the sake of its blind author, who should not be forgotten on this occasion of general rejoicing. It may be had at the book stores.

The wind blew so fresh on Thursday that it became necessary to lower the tent in which the collation is to be served, and to clear away the dishes from the tables. The tent was raised again before dark and after working all night, is in fair condition for occupancy.

A fire at the residence of Mr. Frank Brown in the north part of the city, Thursday afternoon, brought out the Fire Department, but was extinguished by buckets of water.

Representatives of the press desiring to witness the regetta are requested by the regatta committee to be at the Navy Yard landing, foot of Daniel street, this afternoon at 4.45 sharp.

The company of Continentals under command of Capt. Justin French made their first parade, Thursday evening, making a neat appearance.

At 7 o'clock, Governor Straw and staff arrived and were escorted to the Rockingham House.

The concert by Downing's Band at 7 o'clock drew a great audience and their brilliant music was enthusiastically applauded. It was once of the best features of this memorable REUNION.

The nice new steam yacht "Major" will make an excursion down river, affording a full view of the regatta this afternoon. See advertisement.

When the Boston Sons arrive to-day signal guns will be fired from a battery north of the north mill pond.

The Eastern Railroad has attached Pullman cars to the 6 P. M. train for the accommodation of Mount Desert passengers who choose to go by this train and take the boat at Portland. The train arrives in Portland at 9:40 P. M.

The complete history of to-day's grand Reunion will be issued in a few days by the Historian chosen by the citizens' committee, Charles W. Gardner, Esq. The book will be a pamphlet of 100 pages and will be sold at 50 cents per copy. Every returning Son and Daughter and every citizen will want one as a keepsake of this ever memorable occasion. Orders left with Mr. Gardner at the CHRONICLE office will receive prompt attention. The book will be sent by mail if wanted. It will contain a phonetic report of the speeches at the tent today and at the Reunion of the High School Association to-morrow.

Sons of Portsmouth resident abroad, subscribe for the NEW HAMPSHIRE GAZETTE if you want the fullest reports of to-day's festivities and of all matters of local interest throughout the year.

We have employed a short hand reporter to give verbatim reports of the speeches at the tent to-day, and shall publish them in full in our next issue, Monday morning. Persons desiring copies sent by mail should leave their addresses at the CHRONICLE office, with the necessary stamps.

COAL.

HAVING contracted for a quantity of the above coal, we would call the attention of Manufacturers, Desiers and Consumers to the following different grades mined and controlled by the Company.

HARD WHITE ASH COAL,
FREE BURNING WHITE ASH COAL,
SHAMOKIN WHITE ASH COAL,
SHAMOKIN RED ASH COAL,
NORTH FRANLIN COAL,
LYKENS VALLEY COAL.

In order that all coal shall be shipped in good order, a most rigid system is established, both at the mines and at the shipping ports, will at all times be enforced. In every district of the coal region there will be appointed a number of competent persons skilled in the preparation of coal, as local inspectors, whose duty it will be to visit the several collieries daily to see that a proper force is at all times employed in removing slate, and to prevent, if possible, any coal being sent from the mines in bad order. In addition to these efforts at prevention, no means will be left untried at the shipping ports to cure the evils of careless preparation. At Port Richmond, Port Clinton and Port Richmond, ALL COAL WILL BE SUBJECTED TO THE PERSONAL EXAMINATION OF A SKILLED INSPECTOR BEFORE IT IS SHIPPED, and if condemned by him, will be dumped in places provided for the purpose, and before being loaded into vessels WILL BE THOROUGHLY REPICKED AND CLEANED BY HAND.

The New Albany (Ind.) wags mustered in front of the opera house in that city a few evenings ago and enjoyed themselves at the expense of the unwary and credulous gentlemen who attended the exhibition. When the audience entered the building the weather was threatening, and there was a general display of umbrellas. In the meantime, however, the clouds were dispersed, and at the conclusion of the exercises the weather was fair. A number of individuals who were doubtless jealous of the gentlemen in the audience who were in the company of ladies, ranged themselves in front of the door, and stood on the pavement with their umbrellas opened. As the crowd came surging and squeezing through the doorway, the brilliant light within rendered the outer darkness darker, and, with spread umbrellas, deceived everybody into the belief that rain was falling. Many and earnest were the appeals of gallant beaux to less favored gentlemen for the loan of umbrellas, and ladies were observed, in many instances, as they beheld the damp appearance of things, to stop and roof in their hats or bonnets with their handkerchiefs, in the meantime loudly deploring the expected wetting. Every man who had an umbrella in his hand disengaged his arm from the lady at his side and triumphantly lifted his watershed as he reached the lower steps, congratulating himself on the expected walk home in the near companionship to which the rain would compel his lady love. The spreading of each umbrella occasioned the spreading of a hundred mouths and roars of laughter greeted the dupes. There was an odd and never to be forgotten gathering up of ladies' skirts as the dear creatures tried to smooth their ruffled plumage, when they discovered the joke. Some were amused and laughed, and others got mad and thought "somethings" not mentionable.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY,

SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,

For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs.

No. 70 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,

After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity for a Journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGGART."

SEWING MACHINE SALES

For 1872.

BY comparison of Statistics from sworn returns of the sales of Sewing Machines for 1871 and 1872, it shows that the

"DOMESTIC"

SEWING MACHINE CO.'S sales have increased over 375 Per Cent., while no other Co.s' sales have increased over 36 per cent., proving the great popularity of the "DOMESTIC."

Annexed are the percentage of gain, of the leading makes:

Domestic Sewing Machine Co.,	gain	375	per	cent.
Wheeler & Wilson	"	"	36	"
Singer	"	"	23	"
Grover & Baker	"	"	5	"
Weed	"	"	8	"
Wilcox & Gibbs	"	"	12	"
Wilson	"	"	8	"

Other Machine Co.'s sales show a loss over the year before.

If the increase in sales be any criterion of merit, the "DOMESTIC" bears the palm.

The "DOMESTIC" works so easy, it is working itself into every family.

The "DOMESTIC" runs so light, it is distancing all competitors. It only asks a few days trial.

The "DOMESTIC" is recommended by the Medical Faculty.

The Great South American Blood Purifier.

JURUBEBA

IS THE MOST POWERFUL CLEANSER, strengthener and remover of Glandular Obstructions known to Medical Science.

IT IS SPECIALLY ADAPTED to constitutions "worn down" and debilitated by the warm weather of Spring and Summer, when the blood is not in active circulation, consequently gathering impurities from sluggishness and imperfect action of the secretions, which must be maintained by Purgers, Laxatives, Blotches, Boils, Pustules, &c., &c.

WHEN WEARY AND LANGUID from overwork, and dullness, drowsiness and inertia take the place of energy and vigor, the system needs a TONIC to build it up and help the Vital Forces to regain their recuperative power.

IN THE HEAT OF SUMMER, frequently the LIVER and SPLEEN do not properly perform their functions; the Uterine and Urinary Organs are inactive, producing weakness of the stomach and intestines and a predisposition to bilious derangement.

Dr. WELLS'

EXTRACT OF JURUBEBA

is prepared directly from the SOUTH AMERICAN PLANT, and is peculiarly suited to all these difficulties; it will cleanse the VITIATED BLOOD, strengthen the LIFE-GIVING POWERS, and REMOVE ALL OBSTRUCTIONS from IMPAIRED and EVERFLEBLED Organs.

IT SHOULD BE FREELY TAKEN, as Jurubeba is pronounced by medical writers the most efficient PURIFIER, TONIC and DEOBSTRUENT known in the whole range of medicinal plants.

Correspondence Extraordinary.

(A lively Western poetess chooses the N. Y. Graphic as the public medium of the following amusing epistle to a gentleman, and his reply:)

TO ORPHEUS C. KERR.

Dear Orpheus, I have read your "latest fancies,"
And all your "versatilities" in verse;
I'm quite enchanted with your easy style,
And forced to own that I have done far worse.
I like a muse who goes at easy canter,
Instead of hobbling at a painful gait;
I like the poet who has learned to labor,
(Alas, too many of us learn to wait!)

Pray, Orpheus, have you found Eurydice
In all your tuneful wanderings to and fro?
And are you happy in the maiden's smiles?
Answer my question truly, yes or no.
Perchance some half a dozen little Kerrs
Gather around your fond parental knee,
Stroke your moustaches, if you wear the same,
And claim the place where I would love to be.

But I can only say, 'twas ever thus;
I never found a poet in my life—
At least not one whose writings I adored—
But I was sure to find he had a wife.
Yes, oh, if fate has spared you from the toils
That silly maidens and their mammas set,
Get up a lecture, travel through the West,
And, after all, we may be happy yet.

DELPHINE GAY.

HIS ANSWER.

Not yet does any kittled beauty, pleased at
What you, so courteous, deem my verses' virtues,
Show that my muse, though nothing to be sneezed at,
Leads her to Kerr-choose.

Perhaps a reason is, that modern marriage
Were thought to curtly leave a lass in lurch, if;
By it, had she, instead of silks and carriage,
Got but a Kerr-chief.

So, here's the case, be it for worse or better;
And you'll concur, I think, when you have read it;
Chiefly for rhymes unto your sex I'm debtor,
Which I Kerr-edit.

And safer these, to cursory reflection,
Than curtain lecture dared by nature vernal;
Sooner than risk love's general disaffection,
I'd welcome Kerr-knell.

In short, fair friend, it seems to me discreetest,
To let who will the heart of pretty girl own;
Curbing myself to state I hold the sweetest,
Of O. C. Kerr-lone.

The Springfield Republican says regarding the Walworth case: "It will be hard to carry young Walworth to the gallows after such evidence as his father's letters to his mother offer. The young man had good right to believe both his own and his mother's lives in danger, and at least be prepared to defend them. Legally these conditional threats of the father do not justify manslaughter, much less premeditated murder, but they will "hang" the juries and save the prisoner."

President Grant having been asked by a young lady if the report was true, which she had heard from an officer who had served with him, that he never was known to swear, replied: "I have always regarded profane language as unnecessary, to say the least, and as I am a man of few words I have never been able to understand the necessity for useless expressions of the character referred to."

According to the Philadelphia Press, one thing may be said of General Butler, that while calumny strikes hard it never sticks to him. He is often wounded, but never fatally, and his record shows as many conquests over his enemies as he has scars received in conflicts with them. Some of his mistakes are stupendous, but they are generally forgiven in the real substance of his victories.

Speaking of the accidental destruction of the aquarium car, a western paper says: "The coming angler on the Platte will remember with gratitude our fish commissioners and will also cherish the memory of the patriot who built that bridge."

An Illinois man has invented a machine for the extermination of the potato bug. It consists of a metal block four inches square and one inch thick, at the other end of which is a cross beam two inches in height, having a small groove at its base. The bug, when caught is put in a groove, a concealed spring in the beam is touched, and a steel collar encircles the neck of the bug fastening it immovably to the block. The report of the Credit Mobilier investigation is now read to him, after which he seems perfectly willing to die. Another spring is touched, an automatic finger wrenches open the bug's mouth and deposits a drop of deadly poison at the root of the tongue. The victim's soul wings its flight to fairer scenes, and nothing remains for the corpse but the cold hic jacet.

Running the rapids of the Columbia River at the cascades is to be one of the future amusements of the pleasure traveller in Oregon, the perils, of course, forming the chief fascination. Thus far it has been very rarely done. But Capt. Ainsworth, the veteran commander and capitalist of the Oregon Steam Navigation Company, has lately taken his third boat down the cascades with safety, and had among his pleasure passenger, General Sprague and the journalist and author, Mr. Charles Nordhoff. The boat ran the six miles through the cascades in 11 1-2 minutes; and those on board of her describe the scene of the passage as extremely grand. The seething foam of the rapids as the boat passed through them dashed as high as the pilot house.

The Grand Re-Union.

The reception of the Sons and Daughters of Portsmouth is a thing of the past, and a great success it has been. It is estimated that there were 20,000 people on the streets as the procession marched, and it is certain that on no previous occasion has there been so many strangers in Portsmouth. We give this morning such details of the great celebration as we can spare room for, even with our enlarged space. Our facilities for reporting were ample, but our sheet will not contain in one or even two issues, all the matter we wish to put on record in connection with this glorious occasion. We propose, therefore, to publish at our earliest convenience verbatim reports of the speeches at the tent, the full list of decorations, and all matters of general interest to Sons and Daughters of Portsmouth.

Daylight found but few people in bed in Portsmouth, and at an early hour thousands were in the street. At the tent, Messrs. A. W. Odiorne, L. E. Martin, Wm. E. Rand and Daniel W. Adams had worked all night long that everything might be in readiness. Col. Sise, his efficient chief of staff, Capt. Sanborn, and the Assistant Marshals and Aides, formed the procession promptly and marched to Freeman's Lane to receive the Boston Sons and Daughters, who arrived about 10 o'clock.

The delegation marched out of the lane past the firemen and military drawn up in line on Islington street, to a spot opposite the late residence of True M. Ball, Esq., where the official reception took place. Mayor Marvin, who was accompanied by the officers of the city government, and other prominent citizens, stepped forward and spoke as follows:—

Sons and Daughters of Portsmouth:—In the name of your native city I extend to you, one and all, a hearty welcome home. This is our second grand family reunion, and I trust there are many present who remember the glorious time they had twenty years ago. To this number a host of younger faces have been added, and our only desire is that this visit may be as happy and as long to be remembered as the first. You have responded to our invitation and are now gathered here on the threshold of the old homestead. You will have no need to look for the latch-string. The doors are all wide open. You have come from neighboring towns and sister cities; from homes in distant though kindred States, and from far-off lands beyond the great oceans. Old Portsmouth greets her returning sons and daughters as a proud and happy mother welcomes her long-absent children, with open arms and joyful demonstrations. This is her 250th anniversary. She is a venerable mother, yet she holds her own in years remarkably well and never forgets her "sadly acquainted." She remembers just how many of her boys and girls hail from the great West; how many from the sunny South; how many roam the uneven seas, and sadly she remembers how few stay at home. But she is proud to know how much of the success and enterprise that fill the West are due to the brave pioneering of the Portsmouth boys, and that all over the country there are men and women worthy of their nativity. Today we have another and still greater cause for rejoicing; it is the 97th anniversary of our nation's liberty. I need not say how dear it is to the heart of every American citizen. There is but one pean running along the wires of our entire civilization, "God bless our native land." Again, I bid you a cordial welcome to old Strawberry Bank and proffer you a escort through her shady paths to where the great tent is ready to shelter you from the heat, and loving friends are waiting to receive you. And Mr. Marshal, as the representative of the sons and daughters of Portsmouth, invested by them with authority, I invest you with this gold ring in recognition of the authority which they have entrusted to you; and with great pleasure as the representative of Portsmouth, I now place it upon your finger.

So saying, he placed the ring on the finger of Marshal Stevens, who replied in an appropriate manner. The inscription on the ring is as follows: Portsmouth to her Sons and Daughters, July 4, 1873.

Marshal Stevens replied as follows:

Mr. Mayor and Gentlemen:

In behalf of the returning sons of Portsmouth, I thank you, most sincerely, for the very hearty welcome you have given us. This affectionate greeting of old Portsmouth, to her wandering children, finds a ready response in every heart. Wherever your generous invitation has reached the absent ones, o'er land or sea, they have instinctively answered "we'll come." And come we have, bringing with us our sons and our sons' sons; yes, our wives and daughters also.

Of those who came hither twenty years ago, some will return no more, but a kind Providence has spared many to share in the pleasures of this second reunion. Some of us will clasp again the hand of an honored father, and receive a loving mother's embrace, while others will miss the loved and the honored ones, who have long since gone to their rest, and the faces of strangers will greet them in the old homestead. But your kind words assure us that all hearts, and all homes, will be open to us, and that we shall be everywhere welcome. We shall be, indeed, one family to day.

Some have feared that the delightful scenes of our former reunion could never again be produced; but they little knew the resources of old Strawberry Bank, or the generosity of her resident Sons. Our mother town did nobly then; we are confident that she will, to-day, add fresh laurels to her brow. Those who enjoyed your hospitality on the former occasion, have ever since been longing to come again; and the younger sons, having listened to the oft-told tale, are filled with joyful anticipations of this day. But we feel assured that the expectations of all will be fully realized.

We have come, sir, at your bidding, to spend this anniversary as your guests; and while we shall rejoice in all the evidences of your material prosperity, our hearts will be chiefly gladdened by a sight of the familiar haunts of our youthful days. We long to walk again through the dear old streets and to listen once more to the music of the bells that roused us from our morning slumbers years ago. We long to take the hands of those we knew in school-boy days, those who used to help us celebrate before the cares of life weighed heavily upon us. We rejoice, in fact, to lay life's burdens down for a day, and, in spirit at least, to be boys again. And we expect, having refreshed our hearts and minds with the scenes and the memories of olden time, to return to our homes, our business, our duties, with a fresh impulse, and with a deeper love for old New Hampshire and old Portsmouth. Reverse—Native of one, adopted of the other, proud of both.

A few hard boys and girls, back to Rivermouth. Reverse—The Centipede Club grown a little (horse in the make of the grandsires.

53 and 73. Reverse—Times to try men's soles.

The rising sons. Picture of the sun rising out of the ocean. Reverse—May their shadows never be less.

As the head of the procession passed under the triumphal arch on Islington street, near Dover street, Quartermaster A. W. Odiorne, of Col. Sise's staff, was presented with an elegant bouquet by Miss Emma Goodrich, of Pawtucket, R. I. At the residence of ex-Gov. Goodwin hearty cheers were given. When the procession reached the Academy, it halted with Gilmore's Band fronting that ancient institution of learning. As the Band continued playing a scene ensued which thrilled every heart and stirred the emotions of every one in the procession. The young ladies of the public schools, numbering four hundred, being seated on elevated seats, dressed in white and wearing silk sashes, had been provided with numerous bouquets, which they flung to the returning Sons, scores of them floating through the air at a time. The music of the Band seemed to set the children in a fever of delighted excitement and with one accord their handkerchiefs kept time with the band-master's baton. As the various delegations passed the Academy, each halted and gave the young ladies cheer upon cheer, the scholars responding with songs. It was a rare sight, touching and inspiring, and thanks are especially due to Messrs. A. M. Payson and Charles E. Buzzell, by whose efforts the scholars were induced to take part.

The procession passed down Islington and Congress streets, through Market, Deer, Vaughan, Congress and Pleasant streets, over Brown's hill and through Water, State, Cabot, Middle, Court, Pleasant, State and Middle streets to the tent, where the collation was served, a hundred of Portsmouth's "fairest of the fair" having volunteered to care for the guests.

At the Tent.

Plates were laid for $500. At two o'clock the Mayor called the company to order, Prayer was offered by Rev. James DeNormandie. James P. Bartlett, Esq., master of ceremonies, was then introduced. He said:—

Dearly Beloved,—It is warm today, but our hearts are warmer than the day. There is a spark within us that always glows at the word home and the friends around it. To-day it kindles into flame and we thank God for our birthright! [Applause.] Will you now lend your willing ears to the well-of brown tones of our brother Barnabee while he reads a poem written for this glorious hour by our well-beloved brother Albert Laighton.

Mr. Henry C. Barnabee was received with applause. He said it was his part to read the lines for the author of them, whose modesty was only equalled by his ability. He would be satisfied if his voice should give proper expression to the kindling words of the home poet whose welcome ode he would present to them.

WELCOME HOME.

Where robed in beauty vale and upland lie,
Bathed in the glory of this summer sky;
Where ever the
The best of ocean on the rocky shore
Makes music wild and sweet;
And ever free the fleet,
Blue river winds by isle and bay;
O brothers, wandering far for many a year,
O sisters dear,
We welcome you to-day!

O happy bells ring out!
Each bronze tongue expressive thrills;
Ye valleys and ye hills,
Give back our welcome shout!
While chime of overture the music charm the air,
And starry banners float in skies of blue;
And blossoming arch, and wreathed column bear
The heart's endearing language warm and true.

What recollections throng;
What tender thoughts arise,
As here, beneath yon perfect skies,
Once more ye stand!
Here live the echoes of your cradle song;
This is the fairy realm of childhood's time;
Youth's blest Arcadian clime;
The dream of manhood's prime;
The shrine of age; the Enchanted Land,
By airs of memory gently fanned;
The decorated vault of heaven's blue dome,—
This, this is Home.

Home, with its streams and woods;
Its cool, green solitudes
In sylvan places;
Its favorite haunts remembered long and well;
Home, where dear kindred dwell;
And friendly faces
Reflect our own and kindly greeting give;
Where many a loved one lies in dreamless rest
In yonder churchyard by the moaning wave;
(Ah! nevermore
By sea or cave
Shall hand in hand be joined, or lip to lip be prest;
Still they are with us here,
We feel their presence near;
They speak to us, and soul to soul replies;
Love, love, never dies;
Love is a flower that evermore shall live;
Of heavenly birth,
It knows no blight of earth,
And blossoms even on the dusty grave;)
Home, with its memories, its hopes, its fears,
Its gladness and its tears.

O fair, sweet mother, cradled by the sea!
Thy wandering children rest
Once more on thy broad breast,
Where they have longed to be!
Where'er they roamed, beneath what alien skies
Their lot was cast,
Their thoughts still turned to thee,
And homesick tears have gathered to their eyes;
Thou art, 'mid storm and wave,
Shone o'er the dusky pathway of the past,
And led them where their fondest treasures lay.

And we who never from thy side have strayed,
Whose hearts have been ever closely laid,
In thy dear name we welcome them again;
Our hearts go out to meet them;
Our hands stretch forth to greet them;
Our lips rehearse once more
The welcome song of yore,
And answering lips repeat the joyful strain.

And they, thy noble sons,
The brave, true-hearted ones
Who fought for Freedom's name
For country and for thee;—
Amid this festal scene
We keep their memories green;
Whether upon the blood-stained field they
Or where the battle-flame [fell,
Lit up the wreck upon the bearing sea;
Whether they languished in the weary cell,
Or, worn with toil, they turned to thee for rest,
And died upon thy breast;
Where'er or as they perished,
Each proud soul is exalted
Where'er their graves are found,
To me 'tis hallowed ground;
And there on each returning spring
The sweetest flowers we bring.

O brothers, wandering far for many a year,
O sisters dear,
In this our glad reunion
Our hearts as one are beating!
One joyous time we celebrate, one date;
And though the parting word be spoken,
The spell shall not be broken;
The warm and kindly greeting;
The sweet communion;
The charm that rests on river, sea and shore,
The hue of sky and plain;
These, in the mystic wreath that Memory twines,
Shall bind the Exiles to Home.
And thoughts of these glad hours
Shall blend with visions of a happier sphere
Than that which holds us here;
A summer hand that lieth far away;
Where ever soon,
Our paths shall join, again
Divided nevermore.

A city measured with the golden reed,
Whose walls are jasper, and whose gates (Each gate a pearl) close not by day,
And whose foundations broad,
With precious stones are bright;
A home that hath no night,
Nor any need
Of sun or moon,
But where forever shines
The glory of the Lord.

was loudly called for, one enthusiastic lady shouting that they only wanted to look at him and cheer him. He had left the tent, however, and did not return. Nevertheless the cheers were given.

Mr. Bartlett then read the first sentiment of the day. It was:—

"Massachusetts and New Hampshire, not one bound to the other by a united government, but united by ties of kindness."

Frank Goodwin, Esq., President of the Boston delegation, responded.

Speaking was next in order in answer to sentiments, by Messrs. Frank Goodwin of Boston, Jacob Wendell of New York, Rev. Dr. Andrew P. Peabody of Harvard College, Robert L. Harris of Chicago, Jas. T. Fields of Boston, Rev. Edward A. Rand of South Boston, Ex-Gov. Goodwin, B. P. Shillaber of Chelsea, Hon. Ezra A. Stevens of Malden, Hon. Chas. Levi Woodbury and Albert F. Sise of Boston. Here a terrific thunder storm abruptly closed the exercises. We have no space for the above-mentioned speeches to-day, but shall publish them to-morrow in full.

The Regatta.

Thousands of spectators gathered on the wharves to witness the regatta, but a dense fog prevailed when the boats started. The scull race was abandoned, one boat failing to come to time. In the the 12-oared race, the Uncle Abe was withdrawn in a leaky condition. The Edith and Joe Hooker started out in the fog and disappeared from the sight of judges and spectators. The Edith had the advantage of an eddy and turned the beacod first. On the race homeward the Hooker overhauled and passed the Edith, winning the first prize in 10 minutes and 50 seconds, the Edith being five seconds behind.

By this time, a heavy thunder storm set in, but the 10-oared boats Wyoming and Infant Sculpin came into line and had a good start. The Wyoming was the winner in 12 minutes and 37 seconds, the Infant being five seconds later.

In the naval race, three boats started. The Commodore's barge came in first in 12.50 but was ruled out for not pulling over the course as directed. The Plymouth's gig was declared the winner in 13.20, the marine gig being second in 13.23. This race was the only one seen by spectators or judges. The tub race was finally abandoned.

The Promenade Concert.

The rain, which began to pour down just as the literary exercises at the tent were concluding, interfered somewhat with the arrangements for the Promenade concert in the evening. It ead been intended that facilities for dancing should be afforded the young folks, but the sudden approach of the storm prevented the necessary clearing of the floor; and the cessation of the rain brought such an immense concourse of people to the tent that it was found impossible to clear the space generally required by the "fantastic toe." The occasion was therefore devoted entirely to promenading, social intercourse, and listening to the splendid music of Gilmore's, Downing's, Brown's and Harlow's bands. The programme was generally carried out as announced, the chief exception being that Gilmore was anxious to monopolize the best part of the evening, and taking umbrage at being informed that the bands must play in order, left the tent in considerable dudgeon. The performances by all the bands were of the highest order of merit, and a great treat to those who were present.

The Fireworks,

which had been postponed on account of the rain, were "let off" on Saturday evening. Thousands of people, who still thronged the city, gathered on and around the historic Parade to witness the closing of the celebration in a blaze of pyrotechnic glory. The rain of the previous day probably had the effect of dampening the powder, which is generally considered a rather essential ingredient of fireworks, and the fact operated to the disadvantage of an otherwise fine exhibition. The closing piece, a scroll work, enclosing the motto, "Welcome, Sons and Daughters of Portsmouth," was a gorgeous display of brilliant lights and colors, and fittingly concluded the performances.

Closing Scenes.

After the fire-works, some of the boys—very "bad boys" they must have been—couldn't make up their minds to "give it up so," and started an old fashioned bon-fire on the Parade. The dry goods merchants on the neighboring streets were gently relieved of their surplus boxes, and the flames were soon mounting into the air, lighting up with a pleasant glow the North Church, the Athenæum, and the other buildings in the vicinity. Mayor Marvin was on hand, with a posse of police, to prevent things from being run to a dangerous extreme, and as the opening hour of the Sabbath drew near, the flames were extinguished.

Many of the Boston delegation left the city on the Friday evening trains, and others departed on Saturday; but the night of the latter day found many of the sons from New York still in the city, and with true boyish spirit they collected the members of Harlow's band, shortly before midnight, and gave an open-air concert in front of the Rockingham House, to the great delight of hundreds who were still on the streets, and who were attracted to the spot by the music.

The Praise Meeting.

The Praise meeting, Sunday afternoon, was a glorious finale for the re-union. Harlow's Band and five thousand persons participated, Mr. E. A. Tilton, conducting. Rev. Carlos Martyn, Rev. Dr. Bingham, Rev. James DeNormandie, Rev. A. C. Hardy, Rev. Wm. H. Alden, Rev. L. L. Harmon, Rev. Dr. Wm. Lamson, of Brookline, Mass., Father Waldron of Pennsylvania, a son of Portsmouth, and Elder Moses Howe of New Bedford, a former pastor here, all addressed the people. The choruses were grand and the people delighted. At the close of the meeting Mayor Marvin ward, and on motion made by James P. Bartlett, Esq., ex-Governor Goodwin and Col. Wm. H. Sise, the meeting voted to adjourn for ten years.

Courtesies To The Press.

A graceful and pleasant feature of Friday's celebration was the thoughtful care and courteous attention bestowed on the members of the press by Miss Annie Sise, at her residence on Middle street. For the especial benefit of the newspaper fraternity, this lady, with true Portsmouth hospitality, had set out a lunch of the most tempting viands. The press gang are noted for being excellent judges of good eating, and they exhibited a practical appreciation of Miss Sise's lunch. A very large number of the representatives of the press from all parts of the country were in town, and the hospitable reception extended to them by Miss Sise and other members of the family will long be held in grateful memories.

Laconics.

When the tent was lowered upon the crockery-laden tables, and "broke up house-keeping" to a great extent, Thursday, the prospect of having things in readiness for the collation on Friday looked rather blue; but the tent was soon raised again, and the men engaged in the good work then called upon the ladies of the neighborhood to volunteer as assistants. Miss Burleigh, Miss Florence Bowles, Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Morse, Mrs. Chas. H. Mendum, Mrs. May Locke and a few others at once responded and worked like beavers until about 9 o'clock, and were on hand again at a very early hour next morning and worked until 8 o'clock, when more ladies arrived and the damages were all repaired in time for the reunion dinner.

Among the returned Sons was Mr. George S. Morrison, of the firm of Geo. S. Morrison & Son, Little Rock, Arkansas.

Among the interesting features of the procession—at least to one young man who was struggling with too much exhilarating beverage—was the Cylinder Press formerly used to print this paper. In order to better gratify his curiosity he clambered on the truck and then on the machine, where he perched himself so conveniently that a lurch of the truck precipitated him into the ink trough, from which he secured on his person enough printer's ink to print a very large edition of the CHRONICLE. The attractiveness of his light clothing and blackened hands was sufficient without the fluent profanity with which he advertised his adventure to half a mile of admiring spectators.

The overworked editorial fraternity of this city leave for Dixville Notch and Connecticut Lake this morning, on the annual press excursion, which continues through the week.

When the procession was passing Ex-Gov. Goodwin's house, one of a span of horses harnessed to a carriage containing a choice delegation of the City Fathers, became restive, kicked up behind, reared up before, walked on his hands and in other improper ways testified to the exhilarating effect of the 4th of July air. The promptness with which the worthy Aldermen got out of that carriage was exceeded only by the speed with which the driver disappeared; but the excited animal was held by two men until the procession and crowd were past, when the horses and broken carriage were put where they could do the most good—in the stable. No one was hurt, and the damage was small. Another carriage was promptly procured for the dismounted Aldermen, and they soon rejoined the procession, nothing the worse for a short walk.

Mayor Marvin kindly obtained permission for a boy in the Reform School at Manchester to return home on the Fourth.

Lightning.

During the thunder-storm on the afternoon of the 4th, a tree near the house of Mr. James B. Pray, on Cabot street, was struck by lightning and had a large limb torn off. Mr. Pray's house was struck by lightning some weeks since, with slight damage.

At Kittery Point, the store of Mr. Jesse A. Frisbee was struck, damaging it $200 to $300. A tree four feet from the store was shattered.

During the thunder-storm of Friday afternoon, the electric fluid played one of the most singular freaks that has ever come before our notice. Mr. Robert King, the long-time sexton of St. John's Church, had occasion to visit the church just previous to the storm. Returning soon after the force of the tempest had been spent, he found the rear pew in the northwest corner completely torn to pieces. The seat, side and upper floor were ripped up and thrown over the pew in front as if by a single terrific explosion; the hymn books were also thrown some distance up the aisle. There was no appearance, however, of either wood or paper being charred or burned, and, still more singular, the place where the fluid entered could not be discovered. The walls and ceiling are all sound, as is also the under flooring. The question that is now puzzling those who have witnessed the destructive effects of the stroke is, where did the lightning enter?

The house No. 23 Deer street, occupied by Mr. Stephen W. Clarke, of the High School, was struck by lightning at a little past six o'clock. The bolt did not seem to come from above, but struck the northeast corner of the house, and passing in shattered two of the timbers between the first and second stories, scattering the plastering of the ceiling on the table, already set for tea. In the second story, in Mr. Clarke's study, it tore the plastering from the walls in several places, broke panes of glass, upset the mantel ornaments and wound up its frolic in a clothes closet. There were only ladies in the house at the time, Mr. Clarke, his brother, and Mr. Harvey having been in the study a few minutes before the shock but received no permanent injury.

Reported for the Chronicle.

Portsmouth High School Re-Union.

A Grand Success.

The scholars of the Portsmouth High Schools, past and present, old and young, girls and boys, have recently formed a High School Association, of which Hon. W. H. Y. Hackett was chosen President, by virtue of having formerly been a teacher of the High School. In response to general invitation, the officers and members of the new Association, and graduates and pupils the of Schools, formed a long procession on Market Square, Saturday afternoon, and under charge of Marshal Charles A. Hazlett and assistant, with the inspiring music of Harlow's Naval Band of this city, marched to the big tent on Middle Street. Here a large audience gathered, and a very interesting and enjoyable occasion it was, despite the fervent heat—and on all hands this reunion was pronounced one of the best features of this carnival week.

The President, Mr. Hackett, presided, in the most pleasant and agreeable manner; Mr. George W. Marston of the CHRONICLE filled the position of master of ceremonies (or toastmaster, for there was naturally but very little ceremony about the whole affair,) and James T. Fields, Esq., of Boston, was the poet of the occasion. President Hackett gave the large assembly a cordial greeting, in a few well chosen words of welcome and of compliment to the High Schools and scholars of Portsmouth, whose representatives and influence are present and felt all over the land.

After prayer by Rev. Wm. G. Nowell of Malden, Harlow's band played a beautiful piece, including a vocal verse; on which (and his seat) H. C. Barnabee stretched himself up, and said to the President that he trusted it was not out of order to give three cheers for Harlow's band, who by their splendid performances of the past three days have proved themselves to occupy a front rank among such musical organizations—and the entire audience seemed to agree with him, for the cheers were given with a will.

President Hackett then introduced James T. Fields, Esq., as a firm and active friend of this school—the scholar, poet, publisher, and man of letters, and famous among authors—an honored son of Portsmouth, "temporarily absent in Boston." Mr. Fields then read, or rather recited, in the most finished and enjoyable manner, the following scholar-ly (High School Scholar-ly) verses:

PORTSMOUTH HIGH SCHOOL REUNION.

BY JAMES T. FIELDS.

Do I stand up and speak in a dream?
Are these the scenes I once knew?
Is that old Piscataqua's stream,
Rushing on to its ocean of blue?

O visions that never can fade!
O bells that still evermore ring!
O trees that are never decayed!
O birds that forever will sing!

Ye voices that call from the past—
Ye hands that stretch out from the tomb,—
Ye dead life that spoke to us last,—
We think of you all without gloom;

For together we now meet again,
And no bond of love ever dies,
The links are unseen, but the chain
Reaches down to the home the skies.

Who tells us our beards have turned gray?
They are dyed with WILD thyme, that is all,
They have grown underneath, here to-day,
And the gray washes off at your call!

Who says he's rheumatic and stiff—
That his eyes are beginning to fail?
He is shamming it all, in a whiff
He forgets to be gouty or pale!

Who dares to remind us of age?
We are all of us children again,—
I turn back the volume a page,
And I vow I am only just ten!

My satchel is slung on my back.—
I am running according to rule,—
The Old South School is bidding me pack,
Or I shall be too late for school.

There are hurrying feet on the stairs,
There are bright eyes that beam in the sun,
And the master has ended the prayers,
And the work of the day has begun.

I am conning my Virgil;—that's cool!—
My Virgil! 'twas yours, my good friend,*—
The gift you studied at school,
And afterwards kept it to lend.

Ah Cæsar, and Virgil, alas!
What ye gave me, how little I find!
Ah, great Viri Romæ, I ye pass,
And leave not a foot-print behind.

When I call up my Sallust, no voice
To my comrades entreaty replies,
And Horace, the bard of my choice,
When I speak to him, instantly flies!

There were days when I lived with these men
In yonder old room, full of dust;—
But their speeches, so fresh to me then,
Are speechless in mouths full of rust.

Geometry! where are the charms
That sages have seen in your face!
Trigonometry! great are the harms
You conferred on a lad in this place! †

When I ran my young head in a noose,
'T was a HYPOTHENUSE, I declare,—
And little could PRISCYRIUS produce
In a brain that of figures was bare.

All my TRIANGLES then were obtuse,
And quite circumscribed were my SPHERES,
My CONICS were fainting and prone,
And my POLYGONS ended in tears.

My TANGENTS flew off into space,
On my SOLIDS no mortal could sup,
My ZONES were a frigid zone-grace,
And my CUBE-ROOTS would never come up!

Like a BINOMIAL ROOT I was found,
Unequal, and never could pass;
Young Twist thought me dark, I'll be bound,
A small geometrical ass.

For Sam had the head for a JUDGE,
And EQUATIONS to him were mere play;
From the benches he never would budge,
Till he bore all the prizes away.

On this map of the Past I unroll,
Those who fought as in youth are enshrined,
And I reverently trace on the scroll
The toil that was earnest and kind.

And for all our sins, obstinate days,
Paper pellets, potato pop-guns,—
For other most infinuous ways
That were practiced in school by the Sons;

For backslidings, a plentiful store,
For follies of various degrees,—
Ye long suffering master of yore,
Forgiveness we ask on our knees.

O Examinations! very beauty Index down,
Through me now a whole quiver of fears,
And my hair always stands up on end
When my friend Mr. Elwyn appears,—

For he made us construe and scan,
And knew when we did the thing wrong,
And we deemed him the most learned man
That Harvard had sent us along.

'Twas an honor to answer HIM right,
For his Greek and his Latin ran pure,
And when a boy "got his work right,
Scholar Elwyn's endorsement was sure.

And can I forget in time's space,
Our friend through far years, without guile,
The good Dr. Burnham, whose face
That helped us along with a smile?

When he stood up and blessed the old school,
(I can see him just now, full of love,)
We somehow felt sure 'twas his rule
To bring blessings down from above.

And I think, in these grand festal days
He is not very far from us all,
For he taught cheerful accents and grace,
And gave his whole heart to Love's call.

But the moments are waning! 'tis time
That I fold up my leaves with "Farewell;"
I come with this budget of rhyme,
As a school-boy responds to the bell:

* Turning to Hon. Mr. Hackett, the chairman.
† rointing to his heart.

"Called me,—I strang to my feet,
For I felt the old fire of a boy;—
You called me,—I could not but greet
My brothers and sisters with joy.

Come Learning, come Virtue, and Truth,
And smile on thy votaries here;—
We meet round the altar of youth,
And pledge in a bowl that is dear;

By hopes that are sacred to Hight,
By faith that is anchored in Heaven,
By those who have passed from our sight,
By love that no absence can rive,—

As brothers and sisters whose lot
Was cast on this beautiful shore,
To honor this blessed old spot,
Its children, its friends and its store;

To stand by each other, while here,
To rally around the old scene,—
To help it along with good cheer,
And to keep all its memories green.

To the first sentiment (or toast,—and sure the heat in that tent was toasting or melting,) Israel Kimball, Esq., of Washington, formerly for eleven years principal of the Boys' High School, responded in a well written but lengthy essay, which was finely read by his son, Mr. G. G. Kimball, now of Georgia. The sentiment was,

Portsmouth—her past, her present, and her promise.

Mr. K. alluded to these gatherings of Portsmouth's children from all quarters, as showing much the same spirit and feeling which prompted the Jews, in the days of the psalmist, to go up to Jerusalem from all the surrounding country, and to pray for the peace and prosperity of Jerusalem.

Alluding to the changes of time, he said there is now no clergyman, physician or school teacher here, who was such when he came here in 1844; and but three or four lawyers; and tradesmen have changed nearly as much. He alluded to Mayor Marvin as a scholar and a "good boy"—one who by "his ability to govern himself, and his willingness to be governed," gave early evidence that he possessed one of the first qualifications requisite in him who is called upon to govern others. The large number of Portsmouth people who go to live elsewhere—everywhere else—plainly shows why the home population does not increase. The sons go away of their own accord, and the daughters are carried off by wife-seekers, nolens volens. But though Portsmouth is quiet and serene, he sees no signs of decay, but rather of the continuation of the improvement which is so apparent since his coming here. He alluded to the beautiful old city as a bride arrayed to meet her husband, and rejoiced in the more general distribution of wealth here. He alluded to these social celebrations as peculiar to Portsmouth; spoke of the 250th year of the settlement; and of course did not forget Portsmouth girls. We shall give Mr. Kimball's remarks in full at the first opportunity.

To the second sentiment,

Our Teachers.—Sometimes blessings in disguise. Our chastenings only furnished momentary clouds which lasted but a little while. In the light of after sunshine, we honor them for their fidelity, respect them for their stern virtues, and trust their teachings. Their eloquent appeals, which detained us many half hours beyond school hours, and their infrequent use of the rod, have had the effect to make us better men and women, firmer in self-control, with loftier aims and aspirations. "May they be forever blessed."

Mr. Austin M. Payson, the present Principal of the Girls' High School, responded very pleasantly and appropriately.

To the 3rd sentiment,

The Class of 1864—the first to form a Class Association; may its action and success be contagious.

Mr. Charles A. Hazlett, one of the liveliest and brightest young men of this city, responded. To him, we imagine, more than any other person, is due the organization of the P. H. S. A., and this pleasant festival of good feeling. He related that his Class had kept up their organization and acquaintance, had annual dinners at the Kearsarge House, (and good ones they were too,) &c. Mr. H. rejoiced in this new and general movement, and expected many such pleasant reunions as this.

4th. The Study of the Classics—the golden key unlocking the treasures of some of the richest treasure-houses of our language.

A twinkle of fun, we thought, was apparent in the jolly chairman's eye, as a fair and classic daughter of Portsmouth and the High School ascended the platform to answer to this sentiment,—which might under the circumstances admit of a double construction, under the suggestive influence of this charming exemplar. Miss Susie P. Spalding responded thus:

That golden key which unlocks the richest treasures of our language, is turned a trifle only by the majority of scholars. A few others turn it half around in the lock; but to only a few, alas! too few ambitious ones, is it given to turn it completely, unlocking the treasures concealed. Of one who never turned this key at all, there is given a happy illustration by Saxe, famous himself as a classicist:

NOVUS, whose silly claim to high position
Is genuine, if wealth can make it true;
A youth, whose stock,—petrolean, not patrician,—
Shines none the less for being fresh and new;
Standing before a flaming picture, seek,
Announcing thus the lecture of the night,
By Everett, "The Age of Pericles?"

NOVUS, half doubting if he read aright,
Repeats the word, (colloquizing loud,)
"The age of Pericles, I wonder now
Why such a theme should gather all this crowd
That throng this door in such a mighty row;
There isn't one among them, I'll engage,
Who cares a fig about the fellow's age!"

5th. The High School Scholars of Strawberry Bank—Its earliest and sweetest summer fruit.

Response by Rev. Edward A. Rand of South Boston, who closed by reading this neat little poem by a Daughter of Portsmouth:—

COMING HOME.

BY MRS. CARRIE E. WHITON.

This is our birth-place! Lo! from East and West,
From North and South, a welcome here we claim;
Wondering in fields our childhood's feet have pressed,
If birds will sing the same;

Wondering if sighing trees that skirt the town,
With the same sweetness, older hearts will thrill,
Or roses with their beauty index down,
Blush by the wayside still.

Back through life's changing scenes our memories run,
Nor yet have known the summer hues as bright,
As when we saw our hope's unshadowed sun,
With youth's unshadowed sight.

Yet as to-day, with graver mien, we meet,
And tread again the unforgotten ways,
We clasp each others' hands with hearts that beat
As in our earlier days.

Over the blinding mist of years we pass,
And in the light, familiar faces rise;
Even the clover, swinging in the grass,
Looks brighter to our eyes.

Beneath the elms that sheltered us in play,
We look in eyes that kindle as of yore;
And lo! our cares drop silently away,
And we are young once more.

What matter if the touch of time has wrought
Its "chiselings" on each remembered face,
The sculptor of the soul, whose name is Thought,
Gives every line a grace.

And so, with outspread hands, we say "All hail!"
This great re-union but preludes the one
When the Eternal hand shall lift the veil
From the Eternal Sun.

There, 'neath the unchanging splendor of the skies,
Each soaring soul, a higher beauty gives,
God's greeting, "All hail" from hosts on hosts shall rise
In our new birth-place—Heaven!

Mrs. Carrie E. Whiton, the author of the above beautiful poem, was then called upon, but felt at that of sex, [illegible] vel sight to many, and interested the girls took so promising to all, the [illegible] meeting. Miss Sara L. [illegible] nent a part in this [illegible] East Boston, read the [illegible] Garrett, a teacher in [illegible] y in response to the following logical essay [illegible] lieve it was any less above,—and we don't be[illegible] g woman, than effective, from a fine-look[illegible] —

if from o[illegible] ne of the brothers:— [illegible] posed here

While al[illegible] the sentiments [illegible] manating this afternoon are worthy of [illegible] this we from the min[illegible] of our graduates, [illegible] body-hold to be one [illegible] of the most noble, [illegible] the ing years of life, [illegible] of our ancestors, and hopes and desires [illegible] of the present generation. Not many years ago it was deemed unnecessary for girls to have an education. Let the boys attend college, and the girls manage the affairs of the household and tend the babies. Now we would not change this, but we argue—if woman is to have the training of the men of the future generation, in their most tender and impressible years, implant ideas and cultivate tastes which shall color their lives and perhaps cling to them while life shall last—she must have all the advantages of a liberal education. Colleges must throw open their doors—some of them have already done so—and we believe the time not very far distant when Dartmouth and Harvard will not only throw wide open their doors, but each will regret she was not the first to welcome the girls.

Truly, civilization marches forward with rapid footsteps, leaving traces of her presence which will never be effaced—like the circle made by the little pebble cast in the ocean—widening and widening till its limits are lost in the boundless waters. Let us cast our eyes back to the time of our martyred President. Who of us thought the time had come when the poor benighted Africans, (God's children as well as we) who of us, I say, thought these people would be freed from their bondage—placed on a level with their former masters,—allowed the right of ballot, and given an equal share in the government of our country? Lincoln was hooted at, ridiculed as a madman by many, yet he had faith to believe that a just God would sustain the right, and we all know the result.

And now I would like to ask this question—do you place your colored brethren, your naturalized foreigners, on a higher plane than your mothers, your wives and your daughters? Like Pat, you would give an evasive answer and say there can be no comparison; but we say, "actions speak louder than words."

Do you say women are not educated? What is your standard? Tell us, that we may attain unto it, for you know we would do anything to please you. But is your half intoxicated foreigner, who has just sunning enough to sell his vote and just strength enough to drag himself to the ballot with another man's idea—is he educated? But perhaps you may say "we think too tenderly of you to expose you to calumny and insult." Let us not forget, sisters, that while many of us have fathers, husbands or brothers to protect and represent us, there are thousands of noble-minded women, in the great cities, battling with stern necessity, crushed down by oppression; and I tell you since such is the case, it is time something should be done that the downtrodden of our sex should be uplifted and the ignorant educated, that all may pursue their way, guided by a God-given conscience in the paths he has marked out for them. Let us not forget them, but make our education the means of benefiting those less fortunate. Let us cultivate conscience in this as in all else, that it may be for us a constant guide.

7th. The Ladies—Our brightest and most precious jewels. In honoring them, we honor ourselves.

Mr. Frank W. Miller spoke to this.

8th. The music of Our Singers—These Notes are never probed.

Responded to by Mr. H. C. Barnabee, with a few remarks introducing the rollicking old song of the Cork Leg, and of course he made fun alive.

9th. The High School Boy of the Future—A Whatis-it!

Response by Hon. James Shaw, Alabama.

10th. The Schoolmaster Abroad.—Portsmouth Schools are ever ready to meet any drafts which the necds of other sister communities may make upon her supply of educated Sons and Daughters.

By Rev. Wm. G. Nowell of Malden.

Mr. Barnabee then sang, to the air "John Brown," with full chorus accompaniment by the audience, the following impromptu verses by a son:

We've hatted to-day in the weary march of life,
We've fought our battles, we've toiled away from its strife,
On the old camp-ground with school memories rife,
Ere we go marching on.

Thank God, we are here at the roll-call of to-day,
Boys and girls all rejoicing to meet any drafts which the needs of other sister communities may make upon her supply of educated Sons and Daughters.

We talk of the day that have drifted away,
Like boats on the shore of a wind-swept day;
Whatever the morrow, we are SINGING to-day,
Ere we go marching on.

11th. Our Army—Portsmouth boys; First to attack and last to retreat.

Capt. J. Albert Sanborn.

12th. The Navy—Portsmouth proudly claims her share in the history of its achievements.

Frank W. Hackett, Esq.

13th. Our Merchants—The bargains of the school yard have proved to be valuable. The Nation's energy and integrity are the pillars of mercantile success.

Mr. Samuel J. Nowell of New York.

14th. The Press—The Mirror of the Times. Its mission, to express the right, repress the wrong, and leave a good impression.

Mr. George G. Kimball of Savannah.

15th. Our Absent Associates—Though Absent in fact, present in mind.

Hon. E. A. Stevens of Boston.

16th. Future Reunions—In anticipation, pleasant. May their realization surpass all expectation.

Rev. Massena Goodrich of Pawtucket, R.I.

We shall publish the remaining speeches on Wednesday, and afterwards a full description of the decorations about the city. We hope our readers will wait patiently, for they will be no loses.

ONLY $10,000 A YEAR.

[Chicago Inter-Ocean.]

It is known to those who have taken the trouble to keep note of the fortunes of the late rebel President, Jeff Davis, that a life insurance company was established by his old friends chiefly that he might be made its president at a salary of $10,000 or $12,000 a year; and as he could no longer be President of a Rebel confederacy he graciously accepted and now holds the more humble position of President of an insurance company. To the common mind a salary of $10,000 would seem a rather comfortable assurance of the ordinary necessaries not to say luxuries of life. Far from it. Here is what a Southern letter-writer says of the ex-President's forlorn condition:

"Hurled from the highest political position, robbed of fortune, laboring daily in almost abject poverty for the bread which feeds himself and family, proscribed and disfranchised, denied the political privileges of the negro servant who waits behind his chair as he takes his meals and who blacks his boots, calmly and with a God-like fortitude bowing to the inevitable, yet firm in his principles, unyielding in the dignity of his manhood, and with a soul unbending, meeting and defying in the direst adversity the taunts and oppressions of his his enemies."

And adds the following burst of passionate admiration of the hero president of an insurance company: "There is something impressively sublime in the contemplation of this wonderful man and the afflictions of adversity."

"Afflictions of adversity" at $10,000 a year must be hard to endure; but there are many Union soldiers who lost legs and arms, and carry round rebel bullets in their bodies as evidences of the long race they had to chase this "wonderful man" into the snug retreat of a straw bonnet and hoop skirt. These manage to live on a thousand a year with a "Godlike fortitude" almost as touching as the spectacle of the disfranchised Davis, with an American sovereign to black his boots and stand behind the chair of the great man when he condescends to eat the hard-earned bread of the common occupation of a "vulgar mudsill" "Hurled from the highest political position"—President of a rebellion instituted to perpetuate slavery—is good; "robbed of fortune"—his traitor ous life spared by the government he sought to destroy—is better: "laboring daily in almost abject poverty"—at $10,000 a year —is best. "Bowing to the inevitable"—submitting to have his boots blacked by a freeman—is condescension; "firm in his principles"—that man has a right to buy and sell his brother—is a noble attitude for an old man soon to die, and be brought to judgment face to face with the millions of bondmen sent into eternity by the accursed system he continues to advocate; "meeting and defying in the direst adversity the taunts of his enemies" is the very acme of buncombe. He has no enemies to "meet and defy;" nobody "taunts and oppresses" him, because nobody cares a button for him. He was, like Benedict Arnold, a traitor, and a cowardly one at that; for knowing that he merited death, he sought to escape punishment through a miserable disguise. Washington could not afford to spare the traitor of the first revolution; but the second found a government strong enough to be clement without danger. It let the chief rebel off with his life, and it has no longer any concern with him, or his rebellion.

BOLD BEN BUTLER.

[N. Y. Graphic.]

It is very evident that General Butler will secure the Republican nomination for Governor of Massachusetts. The party papers may howl against calling him to the seat filled by so many men of illustrious name, but there is no reason in their opposition. He is a fair representative of the times, and his moral status is equal to that of the rest of his brethren in Congress. Moreover, he is a man of great force, and thinks and acts with a vigor that is irresistible in its way. He has his convictions and defends his acts, and that is saying a great deal for a man who mainly makes his home in Washington. If General Butler is elected, there will be lively times in the Old Bay State—especially among railroad men.

[The Financier.]

If there is enough Butlerism in Massachusetts to make a governor, manifestly the fact ought to be known, so that natives residing elsewhere may congratulate themselves on having left the State in time; if there is not, the sooner Massachusetts sits down on him politically, the better. Even then, he will continue to keep up a turmoil in her politics, until he either dies or experiences some other change equally sweeping; but after she has squarely repudiated him, Massachusetts will be rid of her now chronic alarm lest he should elect himself for governor.

[N. Y. Graphic.]

The objection to General Butler, that he has not character enough to fill the chair once occupied by Governor Andrew, is not well taken. Probably there is no man in Massachusetts who has more character than General Butler, such as it is.

TOO MANY FOR THEM.

Wolters, the celebrated pitcher, has abandoned base ball and is peddling in Newark, N. J. The Resolutes couldn't find any one to face his cannon-balls, and after he had placed both of their catchers hors du combat and promised to go through the rest of the nine, they concluded they could dispense with his services.

Navy Department.

BUREAU OF CONSTRUCTION AND REPAIR, WASHINGTON, June 21, 1873.

SEALED PROPOSALS will be received at the Bureau until 12 o'clock noon, August 7, 1873, for the construction, including all the materials except the live oak timber, of the hull of a sloop-of-war of about 940 tons measurement, complete for sea service. Plans and specifications in detail for the hull, showing the work to be done, may be seen and examined at the Navy Yards at Philadelphia, Brooklyn, Charlestown and Kittery, on and after the 6th of July next.

The hull must be completed in all respects according to the contract and specifications; the materials to be of the best quality, and the work must be done in the best manner, and the vessel be delivered at such Navy Yard on the Atlantic coast as the Department may direct in eight months from the date and signing of the contract.

Payments will be made as the work progresses, in proportionate amounts, reserving the usual percentage until the final completion and acceptance of the vessel.

The bids must be accompanied with the guarantee required by law, that if the contract is awarded, it will be promptly executed, and the names of the parties who are to become the sureties to the amount of the face of the contract will also be stated.

The Department reserves the right to accept or reject any or all bids which, in its opinion, are not to the public interest.

COAL.

HAVING contracted for a quantity of the above coal, we would call the attention of Manufacturers, Dealers and Consumers to the following different grades mined and controlled by the Company.

HARD WHITE ASH COAL,
FREE BURNING WHITE ASH COAL,
SHAMOKIN WHITE ASH COAL,
SHAMOKIN RED ASH COAL,
NORTH FRANLIN COAL,
LYKENS VALLEY COAL.

In order that all coal shall be shipped in good order, a most rigid system of inspection, both at the mines and at the shipping ports, will at all times be enforced. In every district of the coal region there will be appointed a number of competent persons skilled in the preparation of coal, as local inspectors, whose duty it will be to visit the several collieries daily to see that a proper force is at all times employed in removing slate, and to prevent, if possible, any coal being sent from the mines in bad order. In addition to these efforts at prevention, no means will be left untried at the shipping ports to cure the evils of careless preparation. At Schuylkill Haven, Port Clinton and Port Richmond, ALL COAL WILL BE SUBJECTED TO THE PERSONAL EXAMINATION OF A SKILLED INSPECTOR BEFORE IT IS SHIPPED, and if condemned by him, will be dumped in places provided for the purpose, and before being loaded into vessels WILL BE THOROUGHLY REPICKED AND CLEANED BY HAND.

We keep a fine stock of the above coal on hand, also

SEWING MACHINE SALES

For 1872.

BY comparison of Statistics from sworn returns of the sales of Sewing Machines for 1871 and 1872, it shows that the

"DOMESTIC"

SEWING MACHINE CO.'S sales have increased over 375 Per Cent., while no other Co.s' sales have increased over 36 per cent., proving the great popularity of the "DOMESTIC."

Annexed are the percentage of gain, of the leading makers:

Domestic Sewing Machine Co.,	gain	375	per cent.
Wheeler & Wilson	"	"	36	"
Singer	"	"	23	"
Grover & Baker	"	"	6	"
Weed	"	"	8	"
Wilcox & Gibbs	"	"	12	"
Wilson	"	"	8	"

Other Machine Co.'s sales show a loss over the year before.

If the increase in sales be any criterion of merit, the "DOMESTIC" bears the palm.

The "DOMESTIC" works so easy, it is working itself into every family.

The "DOMESTIC" runs so light, it is distancing all competitors. It only asks a few days trial.

The "DOMESTIC" is recommended by the Medical Faculty.

The Great South American Blood Purifier.

JURUBEBA

IS THE MOST POWERFUL CLEANSER, Strengthener and remover of Glandular Obstructions known to Materia Medica.

IT IS SPECIALLY ADAPTED to constitutions "worn down" and debilitated by the warm weather of Spring and Summer, when the blood is not in active circulation, consequently gathering impurities from sluggishness and imperfect action of the secretive organs, and is manifested by Tumors, Eruptions, Blotches, Boils, Pustules, &c., &c.

WHEN WEARY AND LANGUID from overwork, and dullness, drowsiness and inertia take the place of energy and vigor, the system needs a TONIC to build it up and help the Vital Forces to regain their recuperative power.

IN THE HEAT OF SUMMER, frequently the LIVER and SPLEEN do not properly perform their functions; the Uterine and Urinary Organs are inactive, producing weakness of the stomach and intestines and a predisposition to bilious derangement.

Dr. WELLS'

EXTRACT OF JURUBEBA

is prepared directly from the SOUTH AMERICAN PLANT, and is peculiarly suited to all these difficulties: it will cleanse the VITIATED BLOOD, strengthen the LIFE-GIVING POWERS, and REMOVE ALL OBSTRUCTIONS from IMPAIRED and ENFEEBLED Organs.

IT SHOULD BE FREELY TAKEN, as Jurubeba is pronounced by medical writers the most efficient PURIFIER, TONIC and DEOBSTRUENT known in the whole range of medicinal plants.

Morning Chronicle

President Making.

["Gath" in Chicago Tribune.]

There are some who believe that old party lines may be maintained as far off as 1876, and these spend time discussing the probabilities of the succession. The first question put is, whether Grant will run again. Those who argue that he will, hold that he has the passion of office, no sense of coyness nor respect for the habit of previous Presidents, and can rely on his patronage and the jealousy of other aspirants, for a re-election. Such reasons belong, for the main part, to that wing of the Democratic party which is so accustomed to defeat that it never sees a bit of blue sky, and believes the worst to be inevitable.

Gen. Grant probably entertains no notion of running again, and if he did, he would be obliterated. Within his party are men who will relinquish the chance for the Presidency once out of turn,—never twice; for four years is a great division of human life for an American politician at the period when one gets the prospect of the White House in his focus. Gray heirs, shakiness, stiff joints, and the symptoms of apoplexy, and wait four years? Forbid it, the Providence which watches over Morton, Conkling, Blaine, and Fish.

"Do you know that old Fish is amongst the volunteers for the Presidency?" said a high official to me a week ago. "By George, his prospects are as good as any of them. Suppose the money-interest of the country throws the vote in '76, as it did without division in '72, wouldn't it pitch upon Fish as about the safest man in the Cabinet? And he has got to every honor by the silent slide which he seems to be waiting to take now. Governor of New York, Senator, and Secretary of State, he occupied all these places almost without a canvass. His place is about the only one in the country where he might have a positive policy, and at the right time, by a pop at Mexico, or some other part get the veering and volatile half of mankind enthusiastic for him. And do you notice that, whereas he had given up his house, and declared in solemn earnest that he would leave Washington at the beginning of the second term, he has now retaken the Morgan mansion, and his wife has exerted herself this winter as never before to entertain with cost and splendor unequaled here? Grant is giving Fish more of his time than he used to. They ride out together, and look owly."

"There's nothing new in that last," said I.

"It comes from getting up early in the morning to study the Constitution and the Manual of Congress—water."

And has it come to this, that the Secretary of State, with all that family-tree behind him, beginning with Petrus Stuyvesant's wooden-leg, and running down through Preserved Fish,—one of the noblest Elders of the head who ever blew his nose between Psalms,—has he been playing possum? In that high, columnar head, in the tulipy rudescence of that interminable nose, do we see the worm in the bud, the Presidency on the brain? "And he said, 'Follow me, and I will make you Fish-ers of men?'"

Governor Morton has gone out to Hot Springs, taking along his clerk of committee and private secretary, Mr. Hitt, of Illinois, a shrewd, secret-keeping, polite man of affairs. When Morton went aforetime, he had a cavalry escort from Little Rock to the Springs. Now he dictates letters and hangs on to the empyrean with strong willed hope. Nothing can compensate a man for the private station so much as the suffering of an ambitious man close at hand to the Presidency. Here is a Senator and Governor, whose grip, sway and force, all admit, laboring at the rough wilderness springs, in broken health, not to pacify Heaven, but to be President—to join that mighty line of citizen-magistrates which is, on the whole, the best average lot of rulers known to history—the cleanest shaved, the most round-headed, and the least bloody-minded. It is a big enough ambition, and this man in particular is big enough to take a hand in the match. The ablest trait, as well as the newest, in Morton's character, is his truce-doing. Other men quarrel at critical times of pride; he concludes peace in the moment of victory, and turns the balance to the account of fame. He can suffer without losing fortitude, and be full of mental pain without despondence. Renewal is the power of the highest vitalities, —to grow green and new upon the dead stump of a former self, as this man is seeking to do at the Hot Springs; to bridge over the gap between paralysis and the sceptre, and enter the course amongst the stud with a broken lamb like "Longfellow's" last game encounter.

Morton is fortunate in his locality as a Presidential aspirant. Indiana has never had a President, and it is the dividing State of the present Union, midway between corporations and grangers, capital and agriculture, and better situated toward the South, of which Louisville is the Key, than any Republican State. Morton is related to formidable questions of the hour by his fact; while Blaine, Fish, Conkling and the rest are better acquainted with the reeds of the British Provinces. He has about cloven the sconce of Mr. Conkling already from the Nave to the Chops, and set his head upon our battlements, where it can be seen very well curled. It would therefore seem that, if party lines continue as at present, and Hygeia grants her favors to this old gallant Ashton will stand at the pole in the next race.

But John Logan says he shan't be President. His goose is therefore cooked. There is no more use of his scalding himself in boiling water; for Logan says he shan't be President. He kicked the great martyr Caldwell in the bone and cuticle of persecution, and for this Mr. Logan has registered a Methodist oath that he shan't be President.

The Grand Re-Union.

The Decorations.

The city was in gala dress of bright-colored flags, evergreens and flowers, many of the decorations being very handsome, though no single street presented so beautiful an appearance as did Market street when arched over twenty years before. Big "campaign flags" that last autumn waved bold defiance to "the other party," were again stretched across the streets, this time bearing words of welcome; and there were few houses on the line of march but had some adornment, were it but a flag, a wreath or bouquet of flowers, while many residences were elaborately and beautifully dressed. The following list contains a brief description of the principal decorations which came under our notice, though we may very possibly have omitted to make a record of some, and there were others, off the line of march, which we did not see.

Frenchman's Lane

Was dressed out with several lines of flags stretched across from the trees on either side.

Islington Street.

Alexander Robinson displayed a large ensign, with motto, "Welcome."

Jacob Haddock had the portico of his house dressed.

Jarvis Brothers' hosiery factory was beautifully decorated, with bunting and evergreen; a large sheet bearing the national coat of arms was placed high up on the building, and about the middle were the inscriptions "Welcome Home" and "Welcome to Portsmouth." The sides of the building were also festooned.

Thomas Wardwell's house was festooned with small flags, and a large ensign was stretched across the street; over the porch was a statue of the Goddess of Liberty, with flags depending from her shoulders.

Justin B. Hanscom and Enoch J. Conners had their large double house trimmed with wreaths and small flags from the windows, the entrance festooned with a large ensign and another one suspended over the sidewalk.

George W. Shackley displayed a large evergreen wreath, a cross, ensign festooned, and signal flags.

Aaron Akerman's house had a large ensign festooned along its entire front, and wreaths were displayed.

At the junction of Dover street with Islington was the triumphal arch. It was thirty-five feet from outside of perpendiculars which were eight feet high at the spring of the arch, the arch to the centre being twenty-six feet high. The apex was surmounted with a cluster of American flags, and numerous banners were affixed to the outer circle of the arch. The bases and faces were dressed with evergreens, with shields at the spring of the arch. At the apex were the legends. "1853. Welcome. 1873." On the western face—"Future Immortelles—the memories of to-day." [The arch of 1853 stood on the same spot as this one.]

John Stavers' house was festooned with red, white and blue, and small flags and wreaths were shown in good numbers; six young girls, on an elevated platform, waved flags as the procession passed, the whole being very beautiful.

Luther E. Martin and George W. Marston had their residence handsomely dressed with bunting; over the door was a large evergreen wreath with a motto on either side,—"Our warmest greeting," "Our heartiest welcome."

Henry M. Clark produced a good effect with large flags festooned, and smaller ones interspersed.

John P. Hart's residence was decorated very beautifully, with evergreen wreaths, spruces, statuary and flowers, and motto, "Welcome home."

J. Woodman Moses' house was festooned with red, white and blue; the porch was draped with ensigns, and upon the corners were two ancient fire buckets labelled "Mechanic Fire Society, 1811."

An unfinished house on the corner of Cabot street was hung with streamers.

Ex-Gov. Goodwin had three lines of flags extending from his residence, and a splendid trees across the street, the eastern and western lines each displaying the word "Welcome;" the porch was festooned with flags, and over it was the motto, "Faith, Hope and Charity:" and the line of trees opposite were hung with flags almost the whole length of the block.

Maximilian Eldredge made a handsome display of festoons of bunting, with flags and a gilded eagle over the porch.

Mrs. Halliburton's residence was decorated with wreaths and flowers.

John A. Lamprey made a good show with spruces and small flags.

Mrs. N. G. Weeks had an ensign suspended over the sidewalk, and the porch dressed with bunting and evergreen.

The Misses Barnes displayed flags, and mottoes, "Welcome to the Sons of Old Strawberry Bank; welcome to its former residents; welcome to all." Sons of Portsmouth, be ever prompt in virtue's cause." "Be strong for God, your country, and yourselves."

John T. French's house, corner Summer street, was beautifully decorated on both streets with glories of flags, lines of streamers and small banneretts. On the Islington street side was the motto "Welcome home." [These decorations were planned by and put up under direction of D. Webster Barnabee, who would evidently make a first class professional decorator.]

James M. Carr made a handsome show of miniature flags, evergreen wreaths and festoons of spruce.

E. G. Peirce displayed a fine ensign; porch festooned with evergreen, with portrait of Washington over the door.

At the house of Mrs. Jas. Tucker two large flags were thrown across the street, (by Theodore Harris, of Boston,) one inscribed, "God bless every one of you," the other, "The flag flown by U. S. S. Minnesota on the two days of the Monitor and Merrimac battles."

Col. William H. Sise's house was beautifully dressed. From a large gilt eagle at the centre of the building, at the eaves, bright-colored streamers radiated to the ground: a glory of flags was over the porch and the word "Welcome" above the flags.

At the old Academy were displayed the most beautiful decorations conceivable, and which attracted more attention and admiration than any display of flags and flowers could be expected to,—several hundred girls and young women, in white dresses and bright-colored sashes. These decorations are referred to in another place.

Congress Street.

George Taylor had a large flag suspended across the street.

E. S. Ryder and the Rand brothers made a very pretty display of flags and foliage, with legends "1623," "1776," and "1853. Home again, 1873."

The Cutter mansion was dressed with flags, signals, etc.

Hon. W. H. Y. Hackett's residence was handsomely dressed with flags, and bore the legend, "We miss one Star (r)" [Referring to the lamented T. Starr King.]

The Jewell house and small stores beneath it were trimmed with bunting, and the house bore the motto, "We greet the present and remember the absent."

Wm. R. Preston's store in Congress Block had a fine display of bunting.

The Mercantile Library building, in which was the press headquarters, was handsomely decorated with flags and streamers; and a large flag inscribed "Portsmouth taking an account of her stock, July 4, 1873," was stretched across the street.

Market Square.

On Market square we noticed but one store decorated,—that of Capt. Jos. H. Thacher, which had lines of evergreen from the roof to the ground.

The only other decoration on Market Square was a rude shed containing a pump, the shed being dressed out with spruce, and bearing mottoes, "Better than gold is the water cold. Free." "Thanks be to God for water. Free." "Cold water, the life blood of the earth. Free." "A beverage prepared by God. Free." In the shed were men to pump and deal out water to all comers.

Market Street.

George Hill & Co., store finely trimmed with bunting.

James H. Dow had streamers and banners in profusion.

L. Blumauer and Rider & Cunningham made a joint display on their large building. A fine gray eagle was a prominent feature in the decorations at this place.

George B. French displayed a motto, "Home—the land of our birth, the holiest place on the earth." The building was also well decorated.

Charles H. Mendum & Co., made a very extensive display. The mottoes were, "Portsmouth expects her Sons to do their duty!" "The girls are all right! God bless 'em." On the corners, in the second story, were medallions with mottoes, "Old Portsmouth welcomes her children." "The knights of the yard-stick welcome you." Above Mendum's store was a large Hill Market, had the motto, "Old Spring Hill welcomes the boys." The decorations of the rest of the street were not notable, consisting mainly of spruce and evergreen.

Vaughan Street.

Most of the houses on Vaughan street displayed single flags, etc., and between Geo. W. Pendexter's house and Stoddard's stable was a large flag with the motto "We greet you with a cordial welcome."

Pleasant Street.

The CHRONICLE Office was trimmed with flags and bore the following mottoes: "Dear to our hearts are the scenes of our childhood." "A greeting to the present." "Remembrance for the absent." "1623—1776—Ever the same old Portsmouth. 1853—1873."

The vestibule of the Post-office was decorated with flags, and being kept open all day, furnished a cool resort for a great many persons.

The large block occupied by J. Albert Walker, Mrs. Wm. Pettigrew and Mrs. Hampti Kenney, was decorated with evergreen wreaths, flags, etc.

Miss C. Q. Wendell's residence was ornamented with lines of flags and mottoes, "Home, ever dear as the place of our childhood." "1815, 1853, 1873; Milestones on our life journey."

Samuel Adams displayed a flag with the motto "Welcome Sons and Daughters of Portsmouth," and decorations of evergreens.

A. F. Nowell made a neat display of flags, with the mottoes—

"Home that our feet may leave but not our hearts; the chain may lengthen but it never parts." "Our hearts, our hopes, our prayers, our tears, Are all with thee, Are all with thee."

The large block occupied by Thomas H. Odion, Miss R. A. Currier and Mrs. Rundlett was finely trimmed with flags and streamers, a large star of evergreen, and festoons.

Jos. R. Curtis had his store dressed with spruce, streamers and an evergreen star.

Hon. Daniel Marcy made a fine display of ship's signals, ensigns, etc.

The residents at the South End "chipped in" and erected arches at the junction of Pleasant street with Water, and on Mill Bridge. These were among the most tasteful private displays made. They were entirely composed of evergreens and flowers. That on the bridge was a double arch. The motto on Water street arch was "No place like home." Baskets of flowers and wreaths were pendant from both. The walks of the bridge were lined with spruces and the general effect was to transform the whole vicinity into a beautiful bower. The work was all done by private hands, and showed commendable public spirit in the celebration.

F. S. Roberts, H. F. Wendell, F. and G. Bailey and Jeremiah Goodrich, at the junction of South street with Mill Bridge, made very fine displays.

Laskey & Pearson's store was dressed with wreaths and flags.

Water Street.

J. E. Ham's house was handsomely decorated with small bannerets and evergreen wreaths.

E. R. Laighton displayed a large number of miniature ensigns.

Jos. Muchmore's house was finely dressed with flags and evergreens, and displayed the word "Welcome" in mammoth letters, done in evergreen.

John Dennis displayed a large number of small flags and a large ensign stretched across the street.

State Street.

The residents on this street generally displayed flags.

Wingate N. Isley had as mottoes on the front of his residence, "Welcome," "Home again," "Auld acquaintance." There were various devices of flags and wreaths tastefully arranged on the front, with a picture of Washington as a centre piece.

The block at the corner of State and Pleasant streets, occupied by the Journal and Times newspapers, and Thomas S. Nowell, was covered with bunting, shields, eagles and various devices of the decorative art.

E. M. Brown's residence was nicely dressed, the motto "Welcome home," done in leaves, being over the door.

Whitcomb's saloon displayed numerous small flags.

John N. Handy had a fine display, flags being suspended from the windows and twined around the porch supports, with good effect.

Dr. Parsons had evergreen and flags, well arranged, on his house.

Thomas Tredick and Alfred Stavers had the front of their double house ornamented with devices in evergreen, and festoons of bright colored cloth from porch to porch.

Thomas S. Nowell made a very handsome display of large ensigns, evergreen wreaths and festoons, with a shield and gilt eagle over the porch. Motto, "Welcome home."

The house of Leonard and Charles C. Akerman was handsomely decorated, a fine picture of Washington, framed in evergreen occupying a place over the door.

The Rockingham House's spacious front afforded an excellent opportunity for display. From the eagle on the flagstaff streamers radiated in all directions. The American and foreign colors were draped in tasteful forms over porches, windows, and wherever they could be used to good effect, the centre piece being formed of a large banner with the words, "Welcome Home" painted upon it. The effect of the whole was very fine.

The block occupied by J. P. Morse and B. F. Webster was handsomely dressed with flags, and festoons of evergreen and cloth.

Daniel Leavitt's residence was choicely ornamented, with flags and evergreen. Over the door was a representation of the traditional Uncle Sam, striped trowsers, carpet-bag and all, with the legend, "The son born July 4, 1776." Between two windows was a large shield of evergreen, above which was a fine picture of Washington, with the legend "The father."

The double house occupied by Capt. Spalding and Rev. Canon Walsh was very handsomely dressed with flags and evergreen, and a line of flags was thrown across the street.

A. H. Hill's house looked nicely, with evergreens and flags festooned.

Capt. J. M. Hill's residence was decorated, a very pleasing feature being a group of living statuary made up of four generations. The oldest person in the group was Mrs. Catharine Brown, aged 85 years; the youngest person was a baby ten months old, named Gracie Nowell, a great-granddaughter of Mrs. Brown's.

Mrs. Joseph Sise made a fine display, streamers extending from the eaves of the house to the ground, and a large eagle at the top making a good show. Motto, "Union, Liberty; July 4, 1776, 1873."

John Sise's house was handsomely dressed with flags and streamers, and a large shield. The wife of Gov. Langdon engine house (now occupied by an Extinguisher company) was neatly and tastefully dressed with flags and evergreen.

Cabot Street.

J. Brooks' store was covered with miniature ensigns.

John P. Sweeter's house was very handsomely decorated with evergreen wreaths and festoons, flowers and flags.

B. Norton's store was trimmed with flags, wreaths and spruce trees, and his house with flags.

Robert Sides' house had small flags and evergreen wreaths and festoons.

Mr. Woods' house had flags and evergreens, with motto, "Welcome home."

Middle Street.

The suburban residence of Charles H. Mendum, though so far beyond the tent ground that but few persons could be expected to see it, was finely decorated and presented a most attractive appearance. There was an evergreen arch over each gate, ornamented with shields, pennants, wreaths and flowers; the house was decorated with festoons of red, white and blue cloth, festoons and wreaths of evergreen, and flags; and small shields were placed over the windows. The effect of the whole was very neat and pleasing, and reflected credit on the planners and executors.

At the entrance to the tent grounds was a large arch of evergreen and flags, bearing the word "Welcome."

The tent looked beautifully, its 300 feet of length being bright with banners of every color. At the entrance to the tent was an arch of Roman design, surmounted with garlands and wreaths, the American shield forming the centre piece, while on the front was the word "welcome" twined in flowers. At the top of each column were large masses of flowers. The central arch was surmounted by the United States coat of arms. On either side were tall flagstaffs from which were flying about a hundred feet of flags forming another arch. Two lines of flags ran the entire length of both tents. The interior was entirely lined with the flags of all nations, caught at the top and draped to the sides, completely hiding the canvass. Intertwined was bunting of all colors the whole forming two beautiful canopies. Around the base of the tent were mottoes and shields and heraldic designs. The main motto at the head of the tent was the words, in scroll letters, two feet and a half long, "Welcome sons; welcome daughters."

W. P. Burley had an arch on his gate, surmounted by two flags.

Oxford & Johnson's store was pretty well covered with spruce, evergreen wreaths, and a multitude of small flags.

The house occupied by Chas. Marden and Robert Drew was liberally dressed out in spruce, and had a big eagle, stuffed, over the door.

Wm. O. Sides' house, corner of Middle and Cabot streets, was trimmed with spruce on the Middle street front, and on the other with flags; and a large flag bordered with oak leaves, and several small flags, waved across Cabot street.

Henry F. Gerrish's residence was decorated with flags and evergreen. Hon. John H. Bailey's residence was ornamented with a large eagle, flags, and evergreen wreaths and festoons. Mrs. Peter Jenness' mansion was decorated with flags and wreaths. Jos. H. Foster's residence bore numerous large flags and a few small ones; motto, "Welcome." These four buildings, standing all on the same side of the street and on adjoining lots, presented a very handsome appearance.

John J. Pickering had American and foreign flags on either side of the door posts, and at the top of the porch the national colors arranged in canopy form. The motto, "Welcome home," appeared over a kaleidoscopic medallion at the front of the porch. A line of flags was also suspended across the street at the front of this residence.

Capt. Wm. L. Dwight made a good show of flags, with a motto, "Portsmouth, the home of our birth."

Thomas Neal had out a couple of flags, and the porch of his house was very beautifully dressed in evergreen, bright bunting and flowers; yet the house is so completely embowered that probably not one passer-by in ten saw it.

Wm. R. Preston's fine grounds "looked like the Arabian nights," with glories of flags, draped flags and flags in festoons, vases and bouquets of flowers and unique devices in evergreen and flowers. Over the entrance gate a huge eagle held in its beak the mottoes, "We'll not forget the dear old home of boyhood's happy days." "1st Reunion, July 4, 1853" "2d Reunion, July 4, 1873." At the sides of the entrance, "Such is the Patriot's boast, Where'er he roams, His first, best country ever is his home." "To hail from Portsmouth is an honor and a password the world over."

J. F. Shores', corner of Richards avenue, displayed the following motto: "Boys, we are glad to see you. Age sits with grave upon your visage." The house was also prettily trimmed with festoons of tri-color, and flags.

Miss Larkins' house was profusely adorned with bright-colored flags, the porch draped and the windows festooned; and a line of flags was stretched across the street.

Charles Robinson made a fine display of bunting and banners, the porch of his residence being draped and ornamented with a shield. Over the porch door was a full-rigged miniature ship, under which was the legend "An absent son is thinking of you," an allusion to a Son who is away at sea. On the upper part of the house were two white banners, each bearing a "strange device" which we at first took to be an eagle practicing gymnastics, but which we suppose must be some heraldic symbol.

The Parrott mansion had its porches draped, and lines of red, white and blue bunting stretched from the eaves to the fence in front, a very simple but very neat and pleasing decoration.

E. F. Sise's was finely decorated, with flags flying from the windows, and large flags stretched from the upper story windows to the fence. There was a large shield over the door, beneath which was a floral wreath enclosing a crystal star. Motto, "Home, our birthright and our promise."

Dr. Coleman's house was neatly dressed with draped flags.

Haymarket Square.

The decorating here was done at the expense and considerably by the labor of the New York delegation, who re-christened the square Manhatton Park. Three arches were erected, besides a music stand for the use of Downing's Band, which was handsomely decorated, as was, indeed, the entire square.

The arch across Court street was 34 feet between perpendiculars and 25 feet high; that across Middle street, between the residences of Charles Robinson and Commodore Parrott, 38 feet wide and 28 feet high; and the one between the Middle street Church and B. F. Webster's house, 33 feet high with 50 feet span.

The decorations of the arches, excepting the perpendiculars, which were of spruce trees, were entirely composed of flags, colors of different nations being intertwined and streamers of different bunting used in all directions. At the sides of the triangular piece of ground were the following mottoes: "250th birthday. A garland on the brow of age." "New York to Portsmouth. For ye are our glory and joy." "Her children rise up and call her blessed." "Sprigs of life adorn the children's heads." "Thoughts of past years doth breed in us perpetual benediction." This locality was one of the chief centres of attraction, and did credit to the taste and liberality of the New York visitors as well as to their energy, for nearly all the decorating was done in short order, not many hours before the 4th.

Court Street.

The ancient house occupied by Chas. E. Myers was ornamented with numerous wreaths and festoons of evergreen, and bore this legend: "The old schoolhouse where the faithful Taft held sway. The Sons returning revive his memory to-day."?

The engine-house building was handsomely dressed. A large arch, of spruce, stood near the sidewalk, and was ornamented with flags and a shield, and a big eagle on top. The front of the building was draped with flags; No. One's door was ornamented with flags and wreaths, as was also No. Three's, and over the latter was a row of small flags, and an arch bearing the word "Welcome," with a most solemn-looking stuffed owl on the top.

Capt. Chas. H. Rollins' house had wreaths of evergreen, and flags festooned, with motto, "Welcome home."

Mr. John E. Salter's residence presented a very handsome appearance, with wreaths and festoons of evergreens, and a large arch over the gate, with motto, "Welcome home. The latch-string hangs out."

In the foregoing list of decorations, which we have endeavored to make as full and correct as possible, we have of course omitted to make mention of houses where single flags, or other decorations of no especial note were displayed; and it is very probable we may have omitted some which were deserving of special mention; this, however, will not annoy us very much should it turn out to be so, but we do hope we have not taken any one's decorations away and given them to somebody who does not deserve the credit.

At the Tent.

After the collation had been attended to, the Mayor called the meeting to order and Rev. James DeNormandie offered the following

Prayer.—Let us lift our souls up to the Throne of Grace. Our Father, Lord of heaven and earth, without whose blessing no occasion can be blessed, and in the thought of whose presence, everything becomes holy. We look up to thee with our hearts full of gratitude for the unnumbered ways in which thou hast revealed unto us thy will. On this day, which we keep as the birthday of our nation, we would pray thou would'st enable us to discern thine eternal laws, standing steadfast and unshaken amidst the human passions. Grant, we pray thee, that we may be faithful to thee in our service; that we may know that truth, and right, and justice, can be maintained only in true, in right, in just and noble works. On this day, which brings to our favored home so many absent ones, we thank thee for the glad reunions which are found in so many homes. We pray for thy blessing to rest upon all who have come and upon all who could not. For this day of beauty, we thank thee. For the divine order of this beautiful world we thank thee. For the stream of thy blessings, flowing down unbroken through the ages, we thank thee. Oh, Father almighty, grant that we may be true and faithful to thee, in the midst of all these gifts. Let not our sins gain the mastery over us. Grant that we may never ask to be delivered from the consequences of our transgressions, but be led thereby nearer to thee. And oh thou, who in thine infinite love dost never overlook or fail to bless us, grant that we may receive every blessing with faithful hearts, and use it with consecrated wills, and so be led every day nearer to thee. And when the old homes of life are broken, gather us all into thy house eternal with thee. And unto thee, in the spirit of Jesus Christ, shall be all the praise and glory, world without end—Amen.

Mr. Barnabee next read Mr. Laighton's beautiful poem of welcome to the Sons, and Mr. Bartlett then read the first sentiment of the day. It was:—

"Massachusetts and New Hampshire, not one bound to the other by a united government, but united by ties of kindness."

Frank Goodwin, Esq., President of the Boston delegation, responded.

It was the custom among the Romans, he said, in order to provide for their surplus population to establish colonies to which those who wished marched forth. The present occasion was the second reverse of that picture. They who had gone forth silently and singly returned in solid phalanx with banners flying. He then spoke of the character and standing of the sons of Portsmouth who had returned. He spoke also and at considerable length upon the action of the town in old colonial days in regard to Harvard College, the two hundredth anniversary of which was this very year. He regarded it as worthy a great celebration. The relations of Massachusetts and New Hampshire and Boston and Portsmouth were enlarged upon. His remarks were well written, delivered and received.

The third toast was:—

Our scholars abroad—The laurels they wear had their root in the soil of New Hampshire.

This was responded to by Dr. Peabody of Harvard College. He said:—

Our scholars abroad have many of them of late years come under my charge and I can speak for them as having done abundant honor to their native place. But "our scholars abroad" has a much larger significance. The literary worth and eminence of Portsmouth has been constantly reaching from him who wrote the history of the Indian war down to those who in every department of literature throughout the country, are doing honor to our town. [Applause.] Within the last twenty-five years, in the metropolis of New England, almost all good literature has passed through Portsmouth hands, either in authorship, editorship or in the publication department. In the house over which our friend Fields so long presided is the most illustrious publishing house of America. From that house, as you well know, has issued within the last few years, not only a large portion of our best permanent literature but several periodicals which have an enduring place. But if I were to particularize those who have done this work, I should show, not my partiality, but my thoughtless ignorance for the time being. It is not a haze but a galaxy before me, when I attempt to single out bright stars. There are bright stars, but their lustre is confused and blended as I look upon them as faces to day, that I cannot, I will not single them out. Let me, however, in closing, say a word for one who cannot be here and on whom the light of this day cannot shine. I must speak of our blind and suffering bard, Drown. I had the pleasure of reading some of his poems the other day. Pensive as they might be from one who has been suffering so many years; but breathing sweetness, contentment, patience and resignation, and let me say that in the galaxy of which I have spoken, there are some brighter spots than others, but there are none but have contributed to make some times see in a luminous body. I know not a name among the literary men of Portsmouth which I should not be glad to recognize here. I know not one who has not done himself honor and no one of whom his native place cannot be proud.

The West was represented by Mr. Robert Harris of Chicago, who made a short speech that was well received. As he opened his remarks the band, which was stationed some distance away, began to play "Yankee Doodle," making a great deal more noise than it was possible for the speaker to make. Several ineffectual attempts were made to stop it, but the general opinion appeared to be that it was pretty hard if "Yankee Doodle" couldn't be played on Fourth of July. The band thought so too, and kept on the even tenor of its way.

The next toast was for the daughters of Portsmouth, and was responded to by James T. Fields, who spoke as follows:—

Mr. President, Brothers and Sisters:—In that imaginative series of paintings called by Mr. John E. Salter, of Boston, the beautiful American artist, Cole, we see the child tended by its guardian angel, in a boat laden with flowers, floating out into the stream between banks that are gilded by the rising sun; then the youth full of hope and courage, taking the helm into his own hands, his guardian spirit falling behind him anxiously from the shore; then the mature man driven onward into the eddies and rapids of the river; and then the gray-haired voyager who, having approached the mouth of the stream, is being launched into that great mysterious ocean which lies in shadow, dark and vague, before him. Cole might have painted that picture from our own abounding river with its flowery banks, its eddying forces and its grand and lordly union with the sea.

There runs the stream; such is the voyage of life; here stood our guardian angels and watched us as we launched out from these fair and peaceful shores. Some of us return to bless them; and some have sailed out beyond the billows into the silent land.

Mr. President,—The sentiment you have just announced, though old as human affection, is ever new and welcome. We who have come up on this hallowed morning to the city of our birthplace, this spot of all the world, dearest and best to every one of us, a toast which celebrates the daughters of Portsmouth carries a devout and reverential meaning to every throbbing heart. We come as pilgrims to this proud anniversary—returning pilgrims to a holy shrine—to flatter or burn incense before our living mothers and sisters and wives and daughters, or to light up afresh, simply, the enduring tapers of praise around the tombs of those who have loved us, and are now passed into the skies. We take it for granted every man of us feels and knows that a woman born in Portsmouth is about the best projunction which this little planet of ours is in the habit of gracing the universe with.

We do not, I repeat sir, come back all the way from New York, and Boston, and Philadelphia, and St Louis, to utter superfluous words about any of them. Here they are, God bless them, to speak for themselves—married and single; mothers, grandmothers, and dear old motherly aunts, and aunts that are motherly only by adoption—here they are beaming their fond loving eyes upon us,—and all we say is, beat those eyes if you can!

I wish there was in five minutes time just to refer adequately to those of our girls who have graced our literature with their prose and their poetry. The names of Baxter, and Kimball, and Barnes, and Simes, and Whiton, and Knight and Roberts are enough of the honored roll, however, to remind you that New England has received from Portsmouth exquisite additions to her literary fame.

And just here, Mr. President, I have a special word to say to my brothers about our much esteemed sisters. The men of the world have not until quite recently begun to deal out even-handed justice to the women of the world. And even now many of us hang back, and are not quite ready to see why they should have the same opportunities, mental and national, with ourselves. For one I believe that this universe will never be wholly finished, never thoroughly ripened, until woman everywhere shall have the avenues to education and government open to her, as wide and expansive as God's universal providence, which is over all and for all. I have no sympathy whatever with that mediæval superstition, that blind modern prejudice, which underrates the human brain by classifying it into male and female. And I fully believe that a new era of happiness is waiting to dawn on that portion of the earth where woman shall be thoroughly educated, —educated, not ornamented only, and where mind shall be equal and intellect triumphantly crowned without any regard to sex.

Dickens, in his own beautiful way, says, "The pride of a mother in her children is composed of two cardinal virtues—Faith and Hope;" and let me emphasize, in the bearing of my younger friends who are with us today, this earnest injunction: Have a care that you never whisper by unloving words or deeds one hair of that dear head, or mark with sorrow one line on that dear face. Remember that a mother's love is perennial; that it knows no change; it is that Bethlehem star in the East which comes and stands, forever undimmed, over where the young child was!

I was honored by being called on to respond to a sentiment which touches us all deeply—"The daughters of Portsmouth." May I claim your attention two or three moments longer by reading a few verses, made for this occasion, not by myself, but by the better half of me, who had the accidental misfortune not to be born in Portsmouth. I never heard her say she regretted being born in Boston, but I am sure if the popular prejudice was not in favor of a mortal's having one birthplace,—if she could by any special dispensation have had two—her choice for one of them would have fallen among you, my friends, in this time-honored city.

But you shall hear the verses she sends to you, and judge how loyal she is to our native place, which might have been her own, I am willing to believe, had the selection of nativity been left entirely to her.

A welcome to your happy shore,
From one who loves your sea-washed town,
As lovers ever love the more
Another's not their own.

The music of these ancient sands,
Gay flutterings of the populous trees,
The sunset stretching golden bands
Across the purple seas.

Are all to-day as once they were
Strong in the light of changeless youth,
And variously their voices here
Repeat one loving truth.

Roses and lilies fade, and dumb
Must grow the birds—yet springs return.
Gray hair is not true manhood's sum,
Nor the heart's yearn.

The boy is ever nature's friend,
She whispers lest he should forget,
"Thy youth and nine can never end
However time may fret."

"Return, she says, "to the old home,
Through sun and dark I always wait
To show my boys, whene'er they come
They never are too late."

In rest of Sunday afternoon
Still as of old the shadows creep
Past the old church, and just as soon
Stretch on the fields asleep.

Still after service, faithful done
The second time, I stay to meet
The group returning, dance in the sun
To tempt their restless feet.

With those I love age cannot stay,
Though wisdom bring her gift,
Their hearts with me are still at play,
Whatever storm may drift.

"Dear boys," she whispers, "all is well!
The love that brings ye back to me,—
Deeper than tongue can ever tell,— Gives back thy youth to thee."

Floral Display.

The floral display by the children of the public schools was under the direction of Mr. A. M. Payson, principal of the Girls' High School, assisted by other teachers. The pupils numbered about four hundred and were assembled upon a platform erected for the purpose in front of the old Academy Building at the corner of Islington and Middle streets, in tiers of seats. The children were mostly dressed in white with fanciful sashes and adornments of various colors, and were graded by badges as follows; The primary department blue, intermediate pink, grammar buff, high-school girls scarlet, each scholar bearing a bouquet or device of flowers. The platform was tastefully dressed with evergreens, the position of each grade of scholars being denoted by a flag of the same color as the badges worn. The old Academy building dear to the memories of many of the visitors of the day was profusely decorated with evergreens, flags and streamers. On the front the building above the heads of the pupils appeared the following mottoes:

The Public Schools.
God. Our Country, Our Home.
"Blest be the tie that binds."
Welcome Brothers and Sisters.

The floral display was most excellently conceived and in carrying out of the details, as a whole, was the most charming feature of display on the entire route of the procession. The children sang patriotic songs from time to time as the procession passed the Academy.

The Boston Advertiser says:

"A good time through and through we've had," was the thought of every one who had the fortune to be there when good old mother Portsmouth received her sons and daughters on the occasion of her two hundred and fiftieth anniversary. And a right royal reception it was that the mother gave her children. Think of an entire city keeping open house, with all doors open wide to every one who chose to enter. Probably a greater case of wholesale hospitality was never known—and genuine, good old whole-souled New England hospitality, too. The day was a repetition of the memorable celebration of twenty years ago, only broader and more general than that, as the times have expanded since. Every one knows of the preparations made; how the city improved its time for a year before for every person in the entire population, and of the extensive arrangements that had been made; therefore there is no need to repeat the story here. The old city looked its finest, and was in the gayest of holiday attire, from shady old Islington street, beautiful as its English name, to the new glories of Manhattan park, erst Haymarket square, but on Thursday night christened by the New York delegation in honor of their adopted city. The picturesque variety of the procession, the brilliant splendor and the general prevalence of the decorations, the generous hospitality and the distinguished guests, combined to make it one of the most glorious fete days ever known in New England, and one which will cause all who were in Portsmouth on July 4th, 1873, long to remember it as such. Even the many visitors accustomed to metropolitan magnificence were free to confess that they had never seen a celebration which could compare with it. The children from abroad were numbered by thousands, coming from all parts of the land to visit what after all was the dearest place on earth to them.

Local Matters.

Notice--Bills.

All persons having Bills against the several Committees for the Reception of the Sons will please present them to the Chairmen of said committees on or before the 14th of the present month, as no bills will be allowed after that date.

H. M. CLARK, Treasurer.

The Press.

There is no surer indication of the influence of a public celebration, than the interest manifested by the leading newspapers, and the demand created thereby for said newspapers. Besides the numerous local reporters of the papers in this city, most of the Boston dailies sent special reporters, and several of them two or three, to glean the fullest accounts of the late social carnival here.

And the sales, both of the local and Boston papers, have been very large—probably without precedent. On Saturday the demand was greater than ever before, and the supply was altogether inadequate. Carriers of Boston dailies could scarcely get through the streets to their subscribers, so eager was the crowd for copies of any paper.

The Daily Globe proprietors had the foresight to send a larger number of copies containing their full report than did any of the other newspaper concerns, and thus headed the list of sales on Saturday. The Transcript's voluminous reports in their issues of Saturday and Monday, covering, in both, the proceedings of the entire four days, have been much inquired for of their agents, in this city, but the supply has been short. We naturally take some local pride in the report of the Transcript, as the historical introductory was written by a well known journalist resident in Portsmouth, and the details of the procession, decorations, etc., the great day's work of a Son by brevet (marriage,) who could take no more interest in the good fame of our city were he a native. The Transcript (of which a second edition of Saturday's issue was sent down last night,) and all the other papers, local and "foreign" may be had at Moses Brothers' store.

The N. H. GAZETTE of this week, which will be issued on Thursday morning, will contain full reports of the celebration. Price 5 cents, in wrappers for mailing if preferred.

Laconics.

We have glanced at a copy of an original work called "Underground, or Life below the Surface," by Thomas W. Knox formerly war correspondent of the New York Herald, and pronounce it one of the most readable and racily written books we ever read. It is for sale on subscription by W. P. Foster, Franklin House. We commenced to read a page or two of the work and must confess that we were obliged to read over 200 pages ere we could put it down.

The total number of Portsmouth Sons and Daughters resident in New York and Brooklyn (including the Sons who married Portsmouth daughters) is three hundred and fourteen. The New York delegation came to Portsmouth two hundred and twenty-five strong, which was a large representation.

Five men and boys were capsized while sailing in a whaleboat off Fort Light, Saturday. They were rescued after a half-hour's soaking, by three men from Newcastle. They were much exhausted.

Among the marching Sons, in the procession of the 4th, were four gentlemen (including Dr. Rice of Newport, R. I.) who formed one section, and whose united avirdupois reached within seven pounds of nine hundred,—about two hundred and twenty-three pounds apiece. And they marched over the whole route, too.

During Friday's showers the lightning struck a barn on the farm of Mark Wentworth, Esq., damaged it somewhat and set the hay on fire, and then attacked and smashed a cart. Fortunately the hay was not well enough cured to burn.

The gig's crew of U. S. S. Plymouth, through their coxswain, challenge any six-oared naval boat to a five-mile race, for $500 or $1000. There is a prospect of the challenge being accepted by Commodore Howell's barge, of the navy yard, in which case a tough race may be anticipated. The marine boat's crew of the navy yard are willing to try the Plymouth's boys in a race of three and a half miles, for $100.

Highway Robbery.

Mr. Josiah Frisbee, of Kittery Point, Me., came home from Boston to spend the 4th, in a late train Thursday night, and while walking through "Love Lane," in Kittery, on his way to the Point from the depot, at about 12 o'clock, he was confronted by two masked men whom he thinks had seen him get out of the cars at the depot near Portsmouth bridge, and who demanded his money. As their demand was enforced by the presentation of a pistol, Mr. Frisbee gave up all the money he had in one pocket, amounting to $18. He had more money in other pockets, and also a gold watch, but the robbers were in a hurry to get through their job and did not search him.

Readables.

There was a tornado at Tamsworth last Thursday, and houses were blown down and barns unroofed. No lives were lost.

A young demon named Curtain, in West Acton, Mass., enticed a younger boy into the woods and beat him to death with a club. The precocious murderer comes of a family of criminals, two brothers having been in State prison.

Buffalo, N. Y. has the shakes.

Barque Concordia has been wrecked on Newfoundland, and the captain, mate and three seamen drowned.

Several yachts and sail boats were capsized on Green Lake, Wis., on the 4th, and some twenty people drowned.

At Winchester, Va., in a family fight, one man was killed, two of his brothers wounded, and the mother of the brood fatally shot.

A nitro-glycerine explosion at Catesville, Penn., tore the earth into chasms seventy feet deep, for a space of five hundred yards. Trees were uprooted and blown a mile away. Three men are supposed to have been blown to atoms.

At Westfield, Mass., on the 4th, a young lady of 17 had her dress set on fire by a spark from a fire-cracker and was probably fatally burned.

John Elliott, aged 20, and Margaret Rollinston, aged 18, were to have been married July 5th, but went sailing on the river above Niagara falls on the 4th, in company with the girl's younger brother, and all three were dashed to pieces by being carried over the falls.

Terrific storms of wind and rain have occurred in the west, causing estimated losses of $8,000,000 in Ohio, and great damage in Wisconsin and Missouri. Rivers have overflowed and the crops are almost ruined. Many lives have been lost.

Business Notices.

☞ More than three decades of active service in catering for the public, have built up for the AMERICAN HOUSE, BOSTON, such an enviable reputable reputation that the proprietor (Lewis Rice) and the city may well be proud of it.

How Do You Feel?

The fervid heats of summer are now over. In what condition have they left you? Is your liver torpid or disordered, your appetite feeble, your digestion imperfect or painful, your nervous system shaky, your mind lethargic? This is the state in which the autumn finds tens of thousands of us, and in this state we are ripe for the malarious fevers, and bowel complaints, and bilious diseases, which the heavy dews, the vapors, and the vast difference between the temperature of night and day are apt to engender. Brace yourself from this condition with HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. Wake up the latent vitality of the body, which only requires the stimulating, strengthening and regulating agency of this mighty vegetable restorative to enable it to remove its activity and potency. Indigestion, biliousness, miasmatic fevers, and disorders of the bowels, are the usual sequences of a long heated term. Prevent them by a judicious use of the Bitters. You can do either, but prevention is best.

In spite of your teeth,
Both above and beneath,
Being lightly enamelled and thin,
They will never break down,
Nor turn yellow nor brown,
If the SOZODONT'S daily brushed in.

For Loss of Appetite, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Depression of Spirits and General Debility, in their various forms, FERRO-PHOSPHORATED ELIXIR OF CALISAYA, made by Caswell, Hazard & Co., New York, and sold by druggists, is the best tonic. As a stimulant tonic for patients recovering from fever or other sickness, it has no equal. If taken during the season it prevents fever and ague and other remittent fevers. q10

THE BOARD OF HEALTH of the City of Portsmouth call the attention of the public to the following sections of City Ordinances No. 4 and No. 100, and invite all interested in the preservation of health in the City to aid them in the execution of their duty.

ORDINANCE NO. 4.

SEC. 3. All waste water of houses, yards, cellars, sinks, pumps, &c., shall be conveyed by their owners or occupiers to the common sewers, or to such places as the Health Officers may direct.

SEC. 4. No person shall be allowed to throw any vegetable or dead animal substance, or any other matter capable of producing infection into any street, lane, alley or dock, or upon any wharf, but shall carry them or throw them into the river below low water mark.

SEC. 5. The contents of vaults and privies shall not be permitted to rise within one foot of the surface of the earth. And all owners or occupiers of buildings having such vaults or privies as may require it, shall cause them to be emptied within ten days from the promulgation of this ordinance, and in future on or before the first day of May in each year. And any such owner or occupier neglecting so to do, shall forfeit and pay for every such neglect a sum not less than three or more than twenty dollars, and a like sum for every week's neglect after the time above specified.

SEC. 11. The health officers may give written notice to the owner or occupier of any building, vessel or enclosure, to remove or destroy any nuisance or other things deemed by them, on examination, to be injurious to the public health, within a certain time limited therein; and in case such owner or occupier—the said notice having been given to him, or left at his usual place of abode—shall neglect to comply therewith, the said health officers may, by direction of the Mayor accompanied by the city marshal, forcibly enter such building, vessel, or enclosure, and cause the said nuisance or other thing aforesaid to be removed or destroyed.

SEC. 14. The owner or occupier of any building, vessel or enclosure shall be liable to pay the expense of the removal or destruction of any such nuisance or other thing, as aforesaid, including fees of the health officers who order or cause the same to be removed; and the same may be recovered by action to be brought in the name of the city.

SEC. 17. Any person or persons who shall violate any rule or regulation, or commit any act forbidden in any section of this ordinance, to which no special penalty is annexed, shall forfeit and pay a sum not less than one dollar nor more than twenty dollars, to be recovered by complainant before the police court of this city.

SEALED PROPOSALS will be received at the Bureau until 12 o'clock noon, August 7, 1873, for the construction, including all the materials except the live oak timber, of the hull of a sloop-of-war of about 840 tons measurement, complete for sea service. COAL.

HAVING contracted for a quantity of the above coal, we would call the attention of Manufacturers, Dealers and Consumers to the following different grades mined and controlled by the Company.

HARD WHITE ASH COAL,
FREE BURNING WHITE ASH COAL,
SHAMOKIN WHITE ASH COAL,
SHAMOKIN RED ASH COAL,
NORTH FRANLIN COAL,
LYKENS VALLEY COAL

In order that all coal shall be shipped in good order, a most rigid system of inspection, both at the mines and at the shipping ports, will at all times be enforced. In every district of the coal region there will be appointed a number of competent persons skilled in the preparation of coal, as local inspectors, whose duty it will be to visit the several collieries daily to see that a proper force is at all times employed in removing slate, and to prevent, if possible, any coal being sent from the mines in bad order. In addition to these efforts at prevention, no means will be left untried at the shipping ports to cure the evils of careless preparation. At Schuylkill Haven, Port Clinton and Port Richmond, ALL COAL WILL BE SUBJECTED TO THE PERSONAL EXAMINATION OF A SKILLED INSPECTOR BEFORE IT IS SHIPPED, and if condemned by him, will be dumped in places provided for the purpose, and before being loaded into vessels WILL BE THOROUGHLY RE-PICKED AND CLEANED BY HAND.

We keep a fine stock of the above coal on hand, also

SEWING MACHINE SALES

For 1872.

BY comparison of Statistics from sworn returns for 1871 and 1872, it shows that the

"DOMESTIC"

SEWING MACHINE CO.'S sales have increased over 375 Per Cent., while no other Co.s' sales have increased over 36 per cent., proving the great popularity of the "DOMESTIC."

Annexed are the percentage of gain, of the leading makers:

Domestic Sewing Machine Co.,	gain	375	per	cent.
Wheeler & Wilson	"	"	"	36	"
Singer	"	"	"	23	"
Grover & Baker	"	"	"	5	"
Weed	"	"	"	8	"
Wilcox & Gibbs	"	"	"	12	"
Wilson	"	"	"	8	"

Other Machine Co.'s sales show a loss over the year before.

If the increase in sales be any criterion of merit, the "DOMESTIC" bears the palm.

The "DOMESTIC" works so easy, it is working itself into every family.

The "DOMESTIC" runs so light, it is distancing all competitors. It only asks a few days trial.

The "DOMESTIC" is recommended by the Medical Faculty.

Describes how from the first tiny bark, when ocean was the dark realm of terrors, sails now whiten every sea, lighting flashes fleet from shore to shore, and men bring up wonders from deep waters, with many other matters of lively interest, which go to make up one of the most valuable, fascinating and remarkable productions of the age. over 200 spirited illustrations. The Great South American Blood Purifier.

JURUBEBA

IS THE MOST POWERFUL CLEANSER, strengthener and remover of Glandular Obstructions known to Materia Medica.

IT IS SPECIALLY ADAPTED to constitutions "worn down" and debilitated by the warm weather of Spring and Summer, when the blood is not in active circulation, consequently gathering impurities from sluggishness and imperfect action of the secretive organs, and is manifested by Tumors, Eruptions, Blotches, Boils, Pustules, &c., &c.

WHEN WEARY AND LANGUID from overwork, and dullness, drowsiness and inertia take the place of energy and vigor, the system needs a TONIC to build it up and help the Vital Forces to regain their recuperative power.

IN THE HEAT OF SUMMER, frequently the LIVER and SPLEEN do not properly perform their functions; the Uterine and Urinary Organs are inactive, producing weakness of the stomach and intestines and a predisposition to bilious derangement.

Dr. WELLS'

EXTRACT OF JURUBEBA

is prepared directly from the SOUTH AMERICAN PLANT, and is peculiarly suited to all these difficulties; it will cleanse the VITIATED BLOOD, strengthen the LIFE-GIVING POWERS, and REMOVE ALL OBSTRUCTIONS from IMPAIRED and ENFEEBLED Organs.

IT SHOULD BE FREELY TAKEN, as Jurubeba is pronounced by medical writers the most efficient PURIFIER, TONIC and DEOBSTRUENT known in the whole range of medicinal plants.

The Grand Reunion.

We regret our inability for want of space, to publish the remaining exercises at the tent in full, but must content ourselves and congratulate our readers that the full details of everything of interest will be soon issued in pamphlet form. Our report of yesterday ended with the speech of James T. Fields, Esq., but the remarks of Jacob Wendell, Esq. were partly in type and we give them in full.

Mr. President:

I did not suppose until a late hour that I should be called upon, for it was distinctly understood by my friends in New York that I should on this occasion be like the traditional small boy, seen, but not heard, but it seems ordered I should reply to the sentiment which has been offered.

I do not believe, sir, there is one of this company whose recollections of Portsmouth are more pleasant than my own, and its remembrance is always a fresh happiness.

It was here sir, (I address Gov. Goodwin) and in your counting room that I had my first business adventure. I shipped 80 barrels of potatoes to southern ports, and finally after weeks of anxious waiting, netted 12 cents.

I am here sir, on this occasion to represent New York, the great metropolis of our country, I might say its very heart, the pulsations of which are felt from one end of it to the other where business is done on a gigantic scale whose commerce comes from every clime whose merchants are ever ready to respond to every religious, charitable or worthy object, that commends itself to their good judgments, why Sir I have been told often by those visiting East from West or South seeking aid for some religious society or institutions of learning that after all it is in New York they get their greatest help, and with all due respect to other places, I feel, I can safely say to every young man here, native of Portsmouth that there is no place in this country where if you are active, persevering, industrious and honest with a proper regard for economy, your success is more sure than in New York.

There was a time when New York and Portsmouth were fully as closely interested in each other as at the present time. I refer to the Colonial days—when the news of the passing of the stamp act was received in the colonies and the people had recovered from the first shock of amazement that so odious a measure should be passed upon them—a general convention was held in New York, the result of which was a declaration of rights, a petition to the king and a memorial to both houses of Parliament—and shortly after a resolution emanating from New York and sent to the other colonies directing English merchants to ship no more goods to America and no goods coming from England should be held on commission in the Colonies after a certain date.

The other colonies in turn took up the key note which New York had sounded and I have in my hand the original records of the first meeting which was held in Portsmouth on the 28th of September, 1768, at the house of Mr. John Stavers—the document is long or I would read it;—suffice it to say that Jonathan Warner, Samuel Ringe and Jacob Sheafe were appointed to present the action of this meeting to the trade. The action of the colonies is a matter of history, but this document has a local interest.

New York and Portsmouth have always been interested in commerce—New York building her first vessel as early as 1614, and in 1631, she built a ship of 800 tons. What a monster, Sir, it must have seemed in those days, but it was only emblematical of the great city. She has outstripped all others in this country, and bids fair to compete favorably with the large cities of the old world.

Portsmouth has done her part to make up the enterprise of New York; a Son of Portsmouth fills a most prominent position in one of our most influential journals.

You see, Sir, in our streets, the mark of Portsmouth in iron buildings, cast by one of her Sons. Sir, if you could know, as I do, the energy, the perseverance, the hard work done by two of the members of the New York delegation (and to them belong the credit for all that has been done,)—I refer to Col. E. R. Goodrich and S. J. Nowell, — in laying plans and carrying them into effect for this celebration, you would feel honored, Sir, that your city is represented in New York, by such energy and enterprise. May the good influences which here abound be instilled into the minds of the rising generation and may Portsmouth and New York in another twenty years again clasp hands, each thankful for the past, but more than ever proful; Portsmouth that her sons of her blood proved worthy of her, New York that she is fortunate to have secured them as a part of her great community.

At the close of Mr. Wendell's remarks three cheers were given for the marshal of the New York delegation.

The sixth regular sentiment, "Our Public School System" was responded to by Rev. Edward A. Rand of Boston, who said that there was a glory and fascination about the dingy old structure on State street, and recognized the public school system as a shaping tool in his (the speaker's) personal character. He wished it not to be forgotten that at the bottom of our common school system is that idea which is so identified with our political greatness, viz: that of the worth of the individual, irrespective of caste, color, or creed. We have not yet got so far as to say "or sex," but I hope we soon shall. Mr. Rand closed with a eulogy of the State of New Hampshire.

The "Army and Navy of the United States" was next proposed, and Capt. James L. Thornton the hero of the Alabama fight was called for, but his modesty being well nigh as great as his courage he would not respond.

The master of ceremonies, Mr. Bartlett, then said "you are all aware, that the projectors of this grand meeting were principally the young men, Sons of Portsmouth, at home and abroad; but let me assure you that so far as those more advanced here in Portsmouth are concerned, although they have been less active in the matter, they have most heartily endorsed and encouraged the young men who were engaged in making the arrangements for this glorious festival. Foremost among them, is one whose name brings a thrill of pleasure to my heart, as I have no doubt it will to the heart of every one here, the evening of whose life I trust will be as peaceful as its morning and noon have been active, faithful, noble and generous. I refer to the Hon. Ichabod Goodwin, Ex-Governor of New Hampshire.

This called forth our genial and whole-souled fellow citizen who responded in one of his feeling and characteristic speeches, which we are obliged to omit for want of room.

Three cheers were then proposed and given by the Boston delegation, for ex-Gov. Goodwin, the Portsmouth boy's friend.

"Mrs. Partington" (B. P. Shillaber) was next called up and received with prolonged applause amid cries of "up, up," that all might see him; to which he replied in one of his quick sallies of wit, that it would be "all up" with him if he did! He then proceeded to read a poem, which we have been unable to obtain, but a copy of which has been promised the Historian. It was written and delivered in his own inimitable style, and was received with shouts of laughter and great applause.

Hon. Ezra A. Stevens was called forth and spoke with his usual crispiness and force, closing by asking the master of ceremonies to call upon Mr. Albert F. Sise and about fifty others who were waiting to speak!

Charles Levi Woodbury was the next speaker and succeeded in keeping his large audience seated for some fifteen minutes, notwithstandiug the mutterings of a coming thunder storm outside. Roars of laughter followed the utterance of every sentence and at its conclusion he was loudly applauded.

Mr. Albert F. Sise was then called up, and said that the best advice he could give was to advise every one to go home. (The drops were beginning to patter on the roof of the tent.) The speaker then speculated on what would be the condition of things twenty years from now. Would it not be changed? Would not the fair daughters of Portsmouth walk in procession while we men stand in solid phalanx and cheer them? A great deal has been said in Boston about the fronts of buildings, but I have got one idea down here to-day and a very good one I think. As I passed by the old Academy, I saw that they had got a new sort of front and it struck me as one of the handsomest I ever saw and I know you will respond heartily when I give you for a sentiment, "The Portsmouth Front for buildings."

The rain began to pour down over the heads of the occupants of the tent and the immense gathering sought shelter in covered teams which conveyed them down town, and those who were not fortunate enough to secure a ride were kindly taken in and provided for by the neighbors in the vicinity.

Readables.

The Harvard Freshmen crew at Springfield while practicing, were run down on Saturday by a ferry boat, and narrowly escaped with their lives.

A duel between M. Ranc and M. Cassagnac took place Monday morning in Luxembourg territory. Cassagnac was seriously wounded.

Considerable excitement was created in New York Monday evening by the receipt of a telegraphic dispatch from Liverpool, Nova Scotia, announcing that the Inman steamer City of Washington, while on her way from Queenstown to New York went ashore on Gult Rock Bar, off the coast of Nova Scotia, 70 miles west of Sambro Light. The vessel had a large load of passengers and a valuable cargo. The City of Washington left Queenstown for New York ten days ago, and had a tolerably fair and prosperous voyage until Saturday last, when she arrived off the coast of Nova Scotia, where she encountered a dense fog. The fog was so thick that the helmsman could scarcely see the length of the vessel ahead. It was not thought advisable, however, to stop the vessel, and she was kept on her course, although at a much reduced rate of speed. This was about midway between Sherburne and Liverpool, N. S. Immediately after the bar had been struck, the vessel began to fill with water. The pumps were set at work, but the water gained upon them so fast that the captain decided to leave the vessel. The passengers and crew were all got off in safety. It is thought that the City of Washington, wtih her cargo, will prove a total loss, as at last advices she was rapidly going to pieces. The steamer was quite old, and her model was not of an approved style, but she had recently been thoroughly overhauled and repaired, and was considered safe and seaworthy. It is said, however, that owing to some defect in her build she never readily answered her helm, and it may have been partly owing to this fact that her pilot was was unable to avoid running upon the bar.

The Orangemen have definitely decided to parade on the 12th inst. It is believed that there will be about 1000 men in line. The police authorities have approved of the proposed route and every precaution will be taken to prevent a riot.

A small sloop named "Marietta," of South Boston, was found early Monday morning three miles southeast of Pig Rock in Massachusetts bay on her beam ends. It is supposed that four persons belonging in her were drowned.

Capt. Thompson of the Bath ship North Star has received a gold medal from the King of Sweden for rescuing the master and crew of the Swedish ship Rosalie in the month of March last. His boatswain received a silver medal, and each of the crew three pounds.

The following is an abstract of an essay from the pen of a young lady graduate of the Biddeford High School, on the absorbing question of "What Shall I do to Live?" "The lords of creation" have been compared to sturdy oaks, and we to the vines that cling to and twine around them; but this metaphor, if ever pertinent, to use a slang phrase, has long since played out. We have all heard of the 63,000 oakless vines in Massachusetts, to say nothing of the uncounted thousands in Maine, and there are too many oaks that can scarcely support themselves, to say nothing of their supporting anything else. * * * I much prefer a life of activity and honorable exertion, and believe that the world owes me a living if I can earn it, and I expect it on no other condition."

A Mr. Jenkins of Bangor fell from his carriage Friday. His head went between the spokes of the wheel, and the horse went some distance before it was stopped. Strange to say, his neck was not broken and he will recover.

The lightning struck a stave mill in Biddeford on the Fourth, and demolished two hundred feet of it.

James Wallace, brakeman on the Boston and Maine freight train, was badly injured Friday, by his head coming in contact with the bridge at Saco.

About nine o'clock on Sunday night a desperate, though fortunately unsuccessful, attempt was made to kill Charles Briggs Lincoln, of Dedham, Mass. Mr. Lincoln, in company with his wife, was passing through the "Willows" in the vicinity of Federal Hill, when his would-be assassin fired two shots, both of which took effect, the first lodging in Mr. Lincoln's left breast, just above the nipple while the second entered his knee. The shots aroused the neighbors in the vicinity, who soon arrived and the injured man was taken to his residence and surgical aid rendered. Search was made for the assassin without avail. Mr. Lincoln was not known to have an enemy in the world, on the contrary, his easy going, good natured ways have won him many friends. Monday morning his condition was quite comfortable, but neither of the bullets had been extracted.

The report of the Committee of Trustees of Howard University, appointed to examine the recently published anonymous statements reflecting upon the Institution and General Howard, is completed. The report shows a margin of resources of $115,000, and represents the institution in a thoroughly prosperous condition. The Committee justify the vote to pay Gen. Howard the back salary, maintaining that it was fairly earned. They assert, however, that he has as yet received no portion of the $3000 voted, and represent that the attacks upon him are instigated by an old and relentless malice. The report is written by Frederick Douglass and is very warm in its defence of Howard, and bitter in its denunciation of the ex-member of the faculty who gave publicity to the charges.

A young fellow named Nicholas Cosker of Bangor was killed Friday morning while going to the pasture with his father's cow. It seems that he thoughtlessly tied the rope which was attached to the cow's horns around his waist, and that she ran, dragging him on the ground until he was dead. A gentleman who was coming into the city met and stopped the cow, cutting the rope and taking the boy home, when a physician was called, but the lad was dead when he arrived.

The engineer of a train from Lawrence to Lowell on Friday discovered a man lying between the rails, but could not stop his train till the locomotive and tender had passed over him. Strange as it may seem, the man was found unhurt. Indeed he was unconscious of having been run over when taken up, and was too much intoxicated to tell his name.

Travelers on the Boston and Albany Railroad will remember the bean stand in the Springfield depot, and the rush that occurs there among the famished passengers upon the arrival of trains. A few days since, Col. Whitley of the United States Service was at Springfield among the hungry ones, and spying a plate of beans on the counter, took a few mouthfuls therefrom, then peppered and vinegared them to suit, and reaching round to get a glass of water, was astounded on turning back to find that a tall, lank specimen of a Yankee had crowded in, appropriated the knife and fork, and evidently thankful at finding the beans ready spiced to his taste, was absorbing the wholesome vegetable with a rapidity and a coolness that was refreshing. The Colonel laughed imoderately, but the Yankee paid no attention to anything but the beans until, having satisfied his inner cravings, he observed the mirth of the Colonel and his fellow-passengers, and began to smell a mice. The question then arose, who should pay for the beans? Had they been delivered to the Colonel he would of course have been responsible, but as they were left on the counter for the first person to take who came along, it was quite another matter. The proprietor was appealed to, but could not presume to decide so delicate a question, and it was finally suggested that each party make a deposit to the value of the beans, after which the matter could be left for arbitration before the proper legal tribunal, and the money retained from the one adjudged liable. The deposit was accordingly made, and if put at interest may reach a sum sufficient to pay the national debt before the question is decided.

Prof. La Mountain, a Michigan aeronaut, met his death at Ionia on the afternoon of the 4th. The balloon in which he was, ascended about five hundred feet when it suddenly collapsed, and the unfortunate man was dashed to the ground within a short distance of the point where he ascended.

Stokes, Simmons and King, New York murderers, will, it is supposed, escape the death penalty through the new law requiring proof of a deliberate intent to kill, for conviction of murder in the first degree.

Peabody, who was stabbed by Elwell on the 4th in Gorham, died Sunday night. Elwell was committed to jail in Lancaster on Saturday night.

The Advent Camp Meeting, which has been in session in Bristol, at the foot of New Found Lake, for a few days, closed Sunday night. The meetings have been quite largely attended and considerable interest manifested. Three have received the rite of baptism, but no conversions are reported. The meetings have been under the direction of Mr. Wallace of Lake Village, assisted by several regular preachers.

The body of William Ogden, who disappeared recently from Sewell's Falls in Concord, has been found in the river in a very decomposed state. It is supposed that he went in bathing and was drowned. He was at work as a stone cutter on the foundations for the new bridge.

Eighteen Norwegians belonging to the German Arctic Navigation Company's service, who were left on Spitzbergen, were found dead by a party which went to their relief.

What becomes of the legs of them.

— Spontaneous combustion among chemicals, jute, cotton waste, and oily rags occasions thirty-two fires a year upon the average in New York city.

— One of the most modest of American journals affirms that whilst Congressmen, through their jobs and corrupt practices, are becoming less and less objects of public esteem, the respectable newspaper press continually rises higher in the scale of practical influence and popular regard.

How Do You Feel?

The fervid heats of summer are now over. In what condition have they left you? Is your liver torpid or disordered, your appetite feeble, your digestion imperfect or painful, your nervous system shaky, your mind lethargic? This is the state in which the autumn finds tens of thousands of men, and in this state we are ripe for the malarious fevers, and bowel complaints, and bilious diseases, which the heavy dews, the vapors, and the vast difference between the temperature of night and day are apt to engender. Strengthen yourself from this condition with HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. Wake up the latent vitality of the body, which only requires the stimulating, strengthening and regulating agency of this mighty vegetable restorative to enable it to remove its activity and potency, Indigestion, biliousness, malarious fevers, and disorders of the bowels, are the usual sequences of a long heated term. Prevent or cure them with the Bitters. You can do either, but prevention is best.

In spite of your teeth,
Both above and beneath,
Being lightly enamel'd and thin,
They will never break down,
Nor turn yellow nor brown,
If the SOZODONT'S daily brushed in.

For Loss of Appetite, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Depression of Spirits and General Debility, in their various forms, PERRO-PHOSPHORATED ELIXIR OF CALISYA made by Caswell, Hazard & Co., New York, and sold by druggists, is the best tonic. As a stimulant tonic for convalescents recovering from fever or other sickness, it has no equal. If taken during the season it prevents fever and ague and other remittent fevers. tj10

It was a day in mid-summer;
The boiler had burst;
Four-and-thirty brave fellows
Lay mangled in the dust.

Our hearts melted with sorrow;
With lightning speed we sent,
Thinking only of the glad to-morrow,
If we found the Centaur Liniment.

Well, we found it at Lindsley's store, three miles away; but it did its work, saved pain, inflammation, and suffering.

The Centaur Liniment always does its work, whether it be for scalds, bruises, rheumatism, stiff joints or lameness.

But this to us is an old story. Why will any suffer? Come all ye halt, lame and sore, and be healed for a dollar or fifty cents, and if you haven't that, then for nothing. We know what the Centaur Liniment is, and will warrant it every time.

Cripples throw away their crutches and leap for joy. Horses neigh for it. When Centaur Liniment comes in the front gate, pain flies out at the window.

If you would sleep without pain, walk without limping—straighten out that crooked knee, use those rheumatic-distorted fingers, or get rid of a horrid neuralgia, just use the Centaur Liniment. (White wrapper.)

The other kind (yellow wrapper) is just as effective upon your lame horses and mules. A wonder, says one; a miracle, says another.

The article is selling as no other article ever sold, and it only sells because it cures. See the certificate around the bottle. Sold by all Druggists.

Gained Fifteen Pounds of Flesh.

SOUTH BERWICK, ME., Jan. 17, 1872.

H. R. STEVENS, Esq.:

Dear Sir.—I have had dyspepsia in its worst form for the last ten years, and have taken hundreds of dollars' worth of medicine without obtaining any relief. In September last I commenced taking the VEGETINE, since which time my health has steadily improved. My food digests well, and I have gained fifteen pounds of flesh. There are several others in this place using the VEGETINE, and all have obtained relief. Yours truly,

THOMAS E. MOORE,
Overseer of the Card Room, Portsmouth Co.'s Mills.

DYSPEPSIA.

SYMPTOMS.—Want of appetite, rising of food and wind after the stomach, acidity of the stomach, heartburn, dryness and whiteness of the tongue in the morning, sense of distension in the stomach and bowels, sometimes rumbling and pain; costiveness, which is occasionally interrupted by diarrhœa; paleness of the urine. The mouth is clouded, &c. There is general debility, languor, and aversion to motion; dejection of the spirits, disturbed sleep and frightful dreams.

FEEL MYSELF A NEW MAN.

NATICK, MASS., June 1, 1872.

MR. H. R. STEVENS:

Dear Sir.—Through the advice and earnest persuasion of Rev. E. S. Bak, of this place, I have been taking VEGETINE for Dyspepsia, of which I have suffered for years. I have used only two bottles, and already feel myself a new man. Respectfully yours,

DR. J. W. CARTER.

A Source of Great Anxiety

My daughter has received great benefit from the use of VEGETINE. Her declining health was a source of great anxiety to all of her friends. A few bottles of the VEGETINE restored her health, strength and appetite. N. H. TILDEN,

What I Know About Vegetine.

SOUTH BOSTON, May 9, 1870.

H. R. STEVENS, Esq.:

Dear Sir—I have had considerable experience with the VEGETINE. For Dyspepsia, General Debility and impure blood, the VEGETINE is superior to anything which I have ever used. I commenced taking VEGETINE about the middle of last winter and, after using a few bottles it entirely cured me of dyspepsia, and my blood never was in so good condition as at the present time. It will afford me pleasure to give any further particulars relative to what I know of this good medicine, to any one who will call or address me at my residence, 386 Athens Street.

IRON IN THE BLOOD.

DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, DROPSY AND HUMORS.

PERUVIAN SYRUP

Makes The Weak Strong.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an ailment, as easily digested and assimilated with food as the oleaginous food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building upon an iron Constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

Notice--Bills

H. M. Clark, Treasurer.

Brevity is the Soul of Wit,

Doubtless, but Uncle Toby, used to say that editors and reporters, in whittling items down to save space, often cut all the sense out of them. The following paragraphs, sent by telegraph from this city to a leading Boston paper Sunday night, contain more errors materially changing the sense intended, than we ever saw in like limits before:—

Speaking of the great Praise Meeting, the reporter probably meant to say that Harlow's Band accompanied, and Mr. Edwin A. Tilton conducted the chorus; the types had it, that "Harlow's Band was in readiness, under the leadership of Mr. Edward A. Tilton."

Dr. Lamson is changed to Sampson—and truly he is no weakling.

Elder How has an e added to his name, which he never claimed or wanted; and our genial friend Rev. Carlos Martyn has an i put in his family name where the y has long been, which to be sure is not so bad as putting an eye out. And good Father Waldron is called Wardon, which will hardly suit his historic and genealogic taste.

Again, the reporter evidently intended to say that at the close of the services, the Mayor in the chair, on motion of ex-Governor Goodwin, it was voted to adjourn for ten years—then to hold another three days' celebration. Also to add, that at the North Church on Sunday morning, the pastor preached another Reunion discourse, &c. But alas! (and another example of the importance of punctuation,) the types got it and gave it thus: "at the close of the procession, came the Mayor, in a chair."

Now a chair is, to be sure, a kind of street carriage or sedan caried on poles, used in warm climates,—(and this was a warm enough climate that day;) but this was not likely the meaning intended in this case, for it is not in agreement with the facts, though there is no knowing what might have been added to the tail end of that famous Sunday afternoon procession, had it been practicable.

The reporter here telegraphed, for short, "on motion of Goodwin," &c. The editor in Boston filled up with "Frank Goodwin," when the fact is, that neither Frank, smart and popular as he is, nor any other man, can fill our noble ex-Governor's place—and long may it be ere any of them shall occupy it.

Reporter said, "voted to adjourn for ten years, and hold another three days celebration. At the North Church," &c. The types had it, hold the "celebration at the North Church."

Reporter in mentioning Rev. Mr. Martyn's second Reunion discourse, gave half the text, for short again, thus, "Bless the Lord, O my soul," &c., and the editor added "and all that is within me bless his holy name," when it should have been, "and forget not all his benefits."

Once more and for the last, but by no manner of means the least ludicrous and incongruous of all this budget of harmless mistakes,—the reporter undertook to state that "at this (the North) and the Unitarian Church, there were beautiful floral decorations." But the proverse types said that "this (the North) church was the Unitarian. There was abundance of floral decorations."

Now our celebration was hard to beat in the reporting line as well as in all other respects; and we are sure this special reporter is not often outdone.

But some folks think the military parade and procession to the praise meeting, of a Sunday, was a greater mistake on the part of somebody, than all the above.

Laconics.

We wish to refer our readers to the advertisement of the "History of the Reunion," which will be published as soon as a sufficient number of subscribers are obtained to justify the expense of the work. The publication of the History of the three days' Celebration, will involve an outlay of a number of hundred dollars and while the historian is not particularly desirous of enriching himself by its issue, still, his pecuniary resources will not allow him to risk a great amount. Hence the precautionary measures of obtaining subscribers prior to commencing the printing of the book. The History will probably consist of upwards of 175 pages of close matter from the inception of the work of the celebration, to its close on Sunday the 6th.

We were wrongly informed in regard to the statement that lightning struck the house of James Pray on Friday.

We regret that we have not room for a large amount of good reading matter pertaining to the recent celebration of the Sons and Daughters, but our readers must bear in mind that although the Chronicle has been greatly enlarged still it would not contain a tithe of what was said and done on the three fete days of the 3d, 4th and 5th. Among the documents of interest which we have in our possession is a letter from Mayor Horton of Dover to Mayor Marvin of this city expressive of regard and good feeling prevailing between this city and Dover and congratulating us on our successful celebration.

Kearsarge S. F. E. Co. No 3, of this city, were presented, by Capt Pike, in behalf of Eben Simpson S. F. E. Co. No. 2, of Biddeford, Me., with an elegant picture of their engine and the members of the company, on the evening of the 3d. They were also invited to visit Biddeford as a company sometime during the summer, which invitation they will no doubt accept at an early day. The company were also the recipients of the banner representing the Old South Church in Boston with a steamer playing and two firemen, one with a broom and the other with a rake, to represent firemen as "Haymakers."

A crowd of about 600 men, women and children comprising a picnic party from Concord passed through our streets on Tuesday on their way to Commercial wharf to take passage in the steamer "Major" to Star Island, Isles of Shoals, where they no doubt tested the cuisine of the new "Oceanic."

The N. H. Press Association of which a portion of the working force of the Chronicle form a part, arrived at Lancaster safe and happy on Monday evening. It is understood that the excursion was for the purpose of recuperation and rest, but if the route advertised for them in the programme lying before us is "done," the doors thereof will be far more jaded and worn on their return than when they started. The main objection to these tramps, is, that they are crowded with too much travel. Why not go somewhere and remain there for a week or more? Why is it necessary that we be hacked about from Dan to Beersheba and come back as tired and as ignorant as when we left? Why? Echo responds "why,"—probably because there is no one else to answer, the editorial managers being clambering through Dixville Notch just now.

The cool weather is agreeable, but we advise our friends to look out for the body. These sudden and great changes are fruitful causes of disease of different kinds, which a little extra care will prevent. Don't get sick through carelessness or neglect and then say that "it has pleased a wise and inscrutable Providence to afflict me, &c."

Col. E. R. Goodrich, the First Assistant Marshal of the New York Delegation carried in the processions of the 3d and 4th, the baton that was used by Archibald A. Peterson, Esq., when chief marshal of the delegation from the same city at the first Reunion of '53. The Colonel thinks that if there was anything creditable in the marching and general appearance of the New Yorkers on the 3d and 4th, much was due to the influence of so interesting a relic.

The many friends of Charles H. West, Esq., formerly resident in Concord, but lately an Assistant Appraiser in the Boston Custom House, will regret to hear of his death in Winchester, Mass., on Tuesday morning.

The U. S. S. Tallaposa arrived at the navy yard on Tcesday, with stores.

Our streets are again growing dusty.

The canker-worm is very prevalent here in town.

State News.

Mr. Reed Dutton of Milford, being an indulgent father and a patriotic one also, purchased a cannon for his sons on the "glorious Fourth" and told them to "blaze away," and keep up the reputation of the family while he should be absent at the celebration in the town of the Temple. The boys made good use of the field-piece during the day, and late at night they put in a double round for a parting salute. They had no sooner touched off the cannon than they saw a man flat in the street some distance from them calling for help. Hurrying to the spot they found that the charge had hit their reverend father in his leg as he was returning from Temple and fairly knocked him down. They promptly assisted their parent to rise, who as soon as he recovered himself, explained: "I told you to blaze away, boys, but I didn' expect you were going to shoot your father." The youthful gunners apologized as best they could, and are now spending their time in assiduous attention to their injured parent, who is confined to his bed, but with good prospect of getting out soon.

There was a severe thunder storm in Wilmot on the Fourth. The steeple of the Feewill Baptist church at the "Flats" was struck by lightning and considerably damaged. The lightning also struck and badly injured the barn of a Mr. Atwood.

Lewis A. Dow of Union, a carpenter, aged 23, died instantly at Great Falls, Tuesday, of sunstroke while at work framing a house. He leaves a wife and two children.

A French woman and child in Dudley, Mass., were so badly burned by the explosion of kerosene oil on Saturday night that both died in a few hours. Another child was also badly burned and cannot recover. The cause of the accident was the use of oil in building a fire.

On Friday last a young man 20 years old, named Cort, who lived at Glenburn Centre, Me., went to Hudson, and by some means a fight was begun with a crowd of fellows, one of whom kicked Cort in the groin, causing a rupture from which he died on Saturday evening.

The preparations are now going on for the centennial celebration in Jaffrey, which will occur on the 20th of August. The citizens' committee has an efficient chairman in Mr. Franklin H. Cutter, who has been the Representative in the Legislature from that town for the past two years. Hon. Joel Parker of Cambridge, Mass., has accepted an invitation to deliver the oration. A large gathering of Jaffrey's sons and daughters from various sections of the country is expected.

James E. Warren, of Rochester, a house carpenter, fell from the staging of a house which he was building, a distance of about twelve feet, striking upon his head on Monday. His back was broken by the fall. He lies in a very precarious condition.

A year ago, while plowing, Fred Pattee of East Canaan, lost a silver watch, and a few days since, while digging in his garden, unearthed it, none the worse for its year's burial.

THE BOARD OF HEALTH of the City of Portsmouth call the attention of the public to the following sections of City Ordinances No. 4 and No. 100, and invite all interested in the preservation of health in the City to aid them in the execution of their duty.

ORDINANCE NO. 4.

SEC. 3. All waste water of houses, yards, cellars, sinks, pumps, &c., shall be conveyed by their owners or occupiers to the common sewers, or to such places as the Health Officers may direct.

SEC. 4. No person shall be allowed to throw any vegetable or dead animal substance, or any other matter capable of producing infection into any street, lane, alley or dock, or upon any wharf, but shall bury them or throw them into the river below low water mark.

SEC. 5. The contents of vaults and privies shall not be permitted to rise within one foot of the surface of the earth. And all owners or occupiers of buildings having such vaults or privies as may require it, shall cause them to be emptied within ten days from the promulgation of this ordinance, and in future on or before the first day of May in each year. And any such owner or occupier neglecting so to do, shall forfeit and pay for every such neglect a sum not less than three or more than twenty dollars, and a like sum for every week's neglect after the time above specified.

SEC. 11. The health officers may give written notice to the owner or occupier of any building, vessel or enclosure, to remove or destroy any nuisance or other things deemed by them, on examination, to be injurious to the public health, within a certain time limited therein; and in case such owner or occupier—the said notice having been given to him, or left at his usual place of abode—shall neglect to comply therewith, the said health officers may, by direction of the Mayor accompanied by the city marshal, forcibly enter such building, vessel, or enclosure, and cause the said nuisance or other thing aforesaid to be removed or destroyed.

SEC. 14. The owner or occupier of any building, vessel or enclosure shall be liable to pay the expense of the removal or destruction of any such nuisance or other thing, as aforesaid, including fees of the health officers who order or cause the same to be removed; and the same may be recovered by action to be brought in the name of the city.

SEC. 17. Any person or persons who shall violate any rule or regulation, or commit any act forbidden in any section of this ordinance, to which no special penalty is annexed, shall forfeit and pay a sum not less than one dollar nor more than twenty dollars, to be recovered by complainant before the police court of this city.

Navy Department.

BUREAU OF CONSTRUCTION AND REPAIR,
WASHINGTON, June 21, 1873.

SEALED PROPOSALS will be received at the Bureau until 12 o'clock noon, August 7, 1873, for the construction, including all the materials except the live oak timber, of the hull of a sloop-of-war of about 640 tons measurement, complete for sea service. Plans and specifications in detail for the hull, showing the work to be done, may be seen and examined at this Bureau, and at the Commandant's Office at the Navy Yards at Philadelphia, Brooklyn, Charlestown and Kittery, on and after the 6th of July next.

The hull must be completed in all respects according to the contract and specifications; the materials must be of the best quality, and the work must be done in the best manner. Sufficient timber will be delivered at such Navy Yard on the Atlantic coast as the Department may direct in eight months from the date and signing of the contract.

Payments will be made as the work progresses, in proportionate amounts, reserving the usual percentage until the final completion and acceptance of the vessel.

The bids must be accompanied with the guarantee required by law, that if the contract is awarded, it will be promptly executed, and the names of the parties who are to become the sureties to the amount of the face of the contract will also be stated.

The Department reserves the right to accept or reject any or all bids which, in its opinion, are not to the public interest.

Bids will only be accepted from parties who are known shipbuilders, and to have the necessary facilities for doing the work. cawjl

R. H. EDDY,
SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,

For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs.

No. 78 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON.

After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of Inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity for a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend all inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges. COAL.

HAVING contracted for a quantity of the above coal, we would call the attention of Manufacturers, Dealers and Consumers to the following different grades mined and controlled by the Company.

HARD WHITE ASH COAL,
FREE BURNING WHITE ASH COAL,
SHAMOKIN WHITE ASH COAL,
SHAMOKIN RED ASH COAL,
NORTH FRANKLIN COAL,
LYKENS VALLEY COAL.

In order that all coal shall be shipped in good order, a most rigid system of inspection, both at the mines and at the shipping ports, will at all times be enforced. In every district of the coal region there will be appointed a number of competent persons skilled in the preparation of coal, as local inspectors, whose duty it will be to visit the several collieries daily to see that a proper force is at all times employed in removing slate, and to prevent, if possible, any coal being sent from the mines in bad order. In addition to these efforts at prevention, no means will be left untried at the shipping ports to cure the evils of careless preparation. At Schuylkill Haven, Port Clinton and Port Richmond, ALL COAL WILL BE SUBJECTED TO THE PERSONAL EXAMINATION OF A SKILLED INSPECTOR BEFORE IT IS SHIPPED, and if condemned by him, will be dumped in places provided for the purpose, and before being loaded into vessels WILL BE THOROUGHLY REPICKED AND CLEANED BY HAND.

We keep a fine stock of the above coal on hand, also

SEWING MACHINE SALES

For 1872.

BY comparison of Statistics from sworn returns of the sales of Sewing Machines for 1871 and 1872, it shows that the

"DOMESTIC"

SEWING MACHINE CO.'S sales have increased over 375 Per Cent., while no other Co.'s sales have increased over 25 per cent., proving the great popularity of the "DOMESTIC."

Annexed are the percentage of gain, of the leading makers:

The Domestic Sewing Machine Co., gain	375	per Cent.
Wheeler & Wilson	25	"	"
Singer	23	"	"
Grover & Baker	5	"	"
Weed	8	"	"
Wilcox & Gibbs	10	"	"
Wilson	8	"	"

Other Machine Co.'s sales show a loss over the same period.

If the increase in sales be any criterion of merit, the "DOMESTIC" bears the palm.

The "DOMESTIC" works so easy, it is working itself into every family.

The "DOMESTIC" runs so light, it is distancing all competitors. It only asks a few days trial.

The "DOMESTIC" is recommended by the Medical Faculty.

SUMMER CARE OF DAIRY COWS.

[N. Y. Times.]

The practice is too common among dairymen to allow their cows to be out night and day, however cold and stormy the weather may be, from the day they are turned out in the spring until the forst in the fall, and sometimes even later. Cows are subject to take severe colds from exposure to inclement weather fully as much as men are, and these colds often so completely derange and weaken the whole system, that garget with all its evils, as well as many other cow diseases, receives its starting point in that way.

Cause and effect are, as a general rule, so far separated from each other by intervening time, in cases of garget, that we fail to trace the connection between them. Yet of all the diseases or ailments to which the dairy cow is subject, garget causes the greatest loss to the dairyman, is the most difficult to cure (murrain excepted) and the most difficult to trace to its origin or starting point. Among the prolific causes of the garget the following may be named:

First.—Fast driving when the cow's bag is full of milk, causing internal injuries to the udder.

Second.—External injuries to the bag, such as thumps and bruises with sticks and stones.

Third.—Improper management in drying the cows off at the close of the milking season.

Fourth.—Over-feeding with grain.

Fifth.—Changing the cow too suddenly from dry food to succulent or milk-producing food, not giving the milk-producing and milk-secreting organs time to conform to the change produced by the change of food.

Last, but not least, a constant source from which garget arises is the cruel exposure of the cows to cold storms of rain and snow. A deep milker (and poor milkers are not often troubled with garget) during her greatest flow of milk is always very liable to attacks of garget whenever she takes cold. These attacks are often slight at first, but each succeeding one always comes with greater violence than the one preceding it, until the cow is finally ruined.

The dairyman whose cows are run the most from the pasture to the milking-barn, have the greatest number of stones thrown at them while on the way, are milked the most irregularly, are fed the greatest quantity of grain, are changed the most abruptly from hay to grass, are most exposed to cold storms, will have the most cases of garget, and I will add that he ought to have, for he fairly earns them.

LOVE OF THE BEAUTIFUL.

Place a young girl under the care of a kind-hearted, graceful women, and she, unconsciously to herself grows into a graceful lady. Place a boy in the establishment of a thorough-going, straight-forward business man, and the boy becomes a self-reliant, practical business man. Children are susceptible creatures, and circumstances and scenes and actions impress. As you influence them, not by arbitrary rules, nor by stern example alone, but in a thousand other ways that speak through beautiful forms, pretty pictures, etc., so they will grow. Teach your children, then, to love the beautiful. If you are able, give them a corner in the garden of flowers; allow them to have their favorite trees; teach them to wander in the prettiest woodlets; show them where they can best view the sunset; rouse them in the morning, not with the stern, "Time to work," but with the enthusiastic, "See the beautiful sunshine!" Buy for them pretty pictures, and encourage them to decorate their room in his or her childish way. Give them an inch, and they will go a mile. Allow them the privilege, and they will make your home pleasant and beautiful.

The Great South American Blood Purifier.

JURUBEBA

IS THE MOST POWERFUL CLEANSER, strengthener and remover of Glandular Obstructions known to Materia Medica.

IT IS SPECIALLY ADAPTED to constitutions "worn down" and debilitated by the warm weather of Spring and Summer, when the blood is not in active circulation, consequent upon stagnation impurities from sluggishness and imperfect action of the secretory organs, and is manifested by Tumors, Eruptions, Blotches, Boils, Pustules, &c., &c.

WHEN WEARY AND LANGUID from overwork, and tiredness, drowsiness and inertia take the place of energy and vigor, the system needs a TONIC to build it up and help the Vital Forces to regain their recuperative power.

IN THE HEAT OF SUMMER, frequently the LIVER and SPLEEN do not properly perform their functions; the Uterine and Urinary Organs are inactive, producing weakness of the stomach and intestines and a predisposition to bilious derangement.

Dr. WELLS'

EXTRACT OF JURUBEBA

is prepared directly from the SOUTH AMERICAN PLANT, and is peculiarly suited to all cases difficult to cure. It will cleanse the VITIATED BLOOD, strengthen the LIFE-GIVING POWERS, and REMOVE ALL OBSTRUCTIONS from IMPAIRED and ENFEEBLED Organs.

IT SHOULD BE FREELY TAKEN, as Jurubeba is pronounced by medical writers the most efficient PURIFIER, TONIC and DEOBSTRUENT known in the whole vegetable kingdom.

A Strange Adventure.

One of the most diabolical attempts at wrecking a railroad train, and at murder besides, that has ever occurred in New England, took place one mile north of Suncook, on the Portsmouth Branch, Tuesday evening. Just before the Boston express train for Concord was due at Suncook, about 8 o'clock, a woman went into Suncook depot presenting a wild and frightful appearance and in a state of the greatest excitement. Her clothing was almost torn from her body, her face and arms were bruised and bleeding, and large black and blue spots were seen on her neck. Her first exclamation was, "The train! they are going to throw the train from the track!" The first impression of the depot-master and the bystanders was that the woman was insane. She was so earnest, however, in her voice and manner that they put confidence in her statement, and immediately sent men up the track to warn the engineer of the coming express, which always stops at Suncook. The train soon came, the proper warning was given, and it moved on cautiously toward Concord.

When about a mile this side of Suncook the reported obstructions were encountered in a pile of sleepers placed upon the track. They were happily discovered in season to prevent a terrible slaughter, for the locality selected was where the train usually runs at great speed, and where, if the train had been thrown off, it would in all probability have gone down a steep embankment into the river.

Soon after reaching the depot the woman sufficiently recovered herself to tell the particulars of the attempted tragedy. She was from Pittsfield and had been to Manchester, where she had collected money to the amount of nearly $400.- She came to Suncook in the early afternoon train, that does not run through to Pittsfield. Having some spare time she went into the outskirts of Suncook and called upon an acquaintance.

About the edge of the evening she set out to return to Suncook village, and went to the railroad track in order to walk down that way. As she stepped on to the track she noticed two men at work, she supposed as section hands. As she neared them she noticed they were piling sleepers on to the track, which she could not understand. On coming up to them one of them asked her with an oath where she was going. She replied pleasantly: "To Suncook; please let me pass." Then the man said: "No, you shall never go to Suncook. I tell ye that." He then caught her, struck her several violent blows on her head, threw her on the ground and choked her till life, as he supposed, was gone, and then threw her into the bushes by the side of the track. She soon recovered consciousness and lay there for some minutes, while the two men kept on their fiendish work of obstructing the track. Presently one said to the other; "Let us go up the track and get a piece of iron, for I know where there is some." The men then started up the road, and the woman, bruised and bleeding, crawled on to the track and got down to the station in season to have the train warned and a calamity averted.

As soon as the train had started the woman told of the money she had in her satchel, which was torn from her. Officer Hildreth was notified, and went immediately to the spot. The satchel was found, but in place of the money was a piece of paper, upon which was plainly written with a lead pencil these words: "We made more than we should to have tipped off the train, you fool."

No traces of the men could be found. Prompt measures were at once taken for their arrest. The woman, who is a respectable person, remembers them both distinctly. The bridges in all directions from Suncook were guarded, and the Concord police co-operated with the Suncook officers; there is strong hope that the villains will be captured.

A POST-OFFICE MYSTERY.

[Manchester Mirror.]

Many strange facts come to light and many romances and tragedies are faintly shadowed forth under the observation of the post-office officers. Postmaster Stevens has been kind enough to show us a letter dropped in the letter-box at our post-office and addressed to "Dr. —— Manchester, N. H." (We do not think ourselves justified in giving the name.) The strange part of it is that, regularly, every two weeks for the past six years, a letter has been received at our post-office bearing the same address, written, evidently, by the same hand. The caligraphy is good and is evidently that of a lady. The name is entered on the list, always, and no one has ever claimed one of them. After lying at our office the time specified by law, the letters are sent, one after the other, to the dead-letter office at Washington. So it goes on year after year. On one occasion one of the letters was returned to this city from the dead-letter office, because it contained some trifle of lace, which the Department was desirous should be returned to the writer. The letter was signed simply "Emeline." This name was entered on the list, but no one ever claimed the letter on the bits of lace. Another strange feature of this is that the "oldest inhabitant" has never heard of any man of the name the letters bear, and so the whole matter remains a mystery, year after year.

AN EXCITING COMBAT.

[New York World.]

To those who enjoy an exibition of skill in the performance of something that is very hazardous, the drill in what is called the school of the trooper is an amusement of absorbing interest. We have just had one of these exhibitions at the Riding Hall. That building is the largest in the United States devoted to equestrian purposes, being 219 feet long by 78 feet wide. The entire space inside is one arena, the only accommodation for spectators being two small galleries, one on each side, and elevated about fifteen feet above the ground. The building not being round, the area is made slightly oval in shape by means of piling up earth in each of the four corners. The ground is covered with tan-bark to a depth of three or four inches, and each time before an exercise takes place this is loosened and made up smooth and even by means of harrowing. For several minutes before the sport begins the two galleries are packed with spectators, who tremble as the twenty fiery chargers trot in from the side entrance, led by grooms.

One gallery contains the President of the United States, the Generals of the Armies, the official Board of Visitors, besides a considerable number of guests, chiefly old graduates of the Academy. Face to face with these distinguished spectators are the occupants of the opposite gallery—many of them fair young ladies, whose good graces the youthful performers who persistently appear are anxious to win. Suddenly the wide door through which the horses have come swings open again, and in come the twenty troopers, their long sabres dangling at their sides. Each rider seizes his horse by the bridle reins, and the grooms retire. The captain, mounted on a handsome bay, after all is ready gives the command to mount, and in an instant every man is in the saddle. Other commands are then given, and the troops, after wheeling about, dividing into single files, &c., finally take up their stand, ten horses in one end of the hall and ten in the other, the companies standing face to face.

The attendants then bring in the paraphernalia. This consists of four posts provided with feet, so that they will stand on the level ground, one of which posts is set in each corner of the arena, and a leather ball, the size of a man's head, is placed on the top. On each side of the long hall a tall crane is erected, the arm extending over the track to be taken by the horses, and from this arm depends a ring six inches in diameter. Between the cranes and each corner post is a leather ball lying on the ground, being four in all. These are the imaginary foes of the mounted soldier. It will be seen that he has ten enemies to combat in going over this short distance. The captain gives the word of command, and one man from each squad spurs his horse gently and rides out obliquely across the arena.

Just before the two meet they draw their revolvers, and, holding them in upright position, ride on to the end of the hall and there fall into the course. Each man then puts spurs to his horse and discharges his pistol at the head on the first post. He then quickly deposits that weapon in the pouch and snatches his sabre from the scabbard on the opposite side. As the pistol goes "bang" the horse springs into a breakneck gallop. The sabre goes "clang," and it is no sooner out than it swoops down upon the head of the first prostrate man. Up it comes with the rapidity of lightning, and "ping" it goes through the ring depending upon the crane overhead. Down it comes with a "thud," and another man's head is gone. Up it comes, the hilt even with the rider's hip, the point leveled forward, and in the half of a second it darts out like the tongue of the cobra, and off goes the head of the man at the corner.

At the next corner the sabre has been raised and comes down with a sweep, cutting off another head. It swings once and comes down to the ground, annihilating the third prostrate man, comes up like a flash and forces the other ring, goes down again with a sweep at another foe on the ground, and finishes by letting daylight into the cranium of the last standing on the corner. Ten attendants have to be present to replace the heads as fast as they are knocked off. While the horses are making the circuit they run with great velocity, and it is a wonder to many how the men can retain their grip under such a speed, to say nothing of reaching down to the ground to cut off the heads. But while the rider is thus slashing with his sabre he must keep one eye ahead, and hold his steed well in hand, or he would soon be climbing the planks which slope down to the ground from what would be the podium in an amphitheatre. Having made the circuit, the two horsemen hold in their panting steeds and resume their places in line.

The captain then calls "next," and two more horses come prancing out, going through the same movements as the first, and so on until all have had their turn. Occasionally the rider, in thursing at the head, aims too low, and hits the wooden post. Sometimes the post goes over, and sometimes the sabre falls to the ground, leaving the post standing. It is a fearful test for the nerves. When the exercise is fully under way the noise becomes so great as to be almost deafening. The whanging of the sabres, as they hit up and down, right and left, the clanging of the long scabbards at the horses' sides, the discharge of the pistols, filling the place with smoke, the clatter of the horses' hoofs, the rattling of the earth they kick up and shoot far behind them—all this mingled with the pounding of the horses' feet against the sloping planks whenever they deviate from the regular course, makes quite noise enough, and there would be no opportunity for the spectators to applaud, even if they were cool and collected enough to think of applauding, which is seldom the case.

Of the last exercise in the trooper's school it can hardly be said that the participants did as well as they ought to do. While they showed as much skill as far as mere riding was concerned—for they stuck like leeches to the bare backs of their horses, even when they balked at the most critical moment of leaping a hurdle—many of them lost their sabres, and some even their pistols, their attendants recovering them and handling them up again. It would seem from such results that the present graduating class have been better taught how to get away from an enemy than to fight and conquer him. Certainly a cavalryman with his weapons lying on the ground is good for nothing but to retreat.

"THE WIFE'S SILK GOWN."

[Philadelphia Ledger.]

A correspondent writes that in a recent real-estate transaction in Berks County, the purchaser, after much haggling as to the price to be paid for a tract of ground, owned in common by three married men, was unable to secure a marketable title until he had in addition given five dollars to each of the respective wives in order to obtain a release of dower. Our correspondent expresses some surprise at this conduct of the wives in exchanging their "thirds" for so paltry a sum, but the custom is prevalent in many parts of Pennsylvania, and husbands can only get the signatures of their wives to deeds of real estate by promising them a "black silk gown," or its equivalent in money, which is always paid by the purchaser. The custom is frequently alluded to in the Pennsylvania Reports, and in one case the reception of a silk gown by the wife was used as corroborative evidence of the fact that she had signed the release of dower of her own free will and accord without the compulsion of her husband. Occasionally an owner when dissatisfied with the price to be paid, has been known to put his wife up to refusing her signature to the deed, and in this way obtain an increase of the purchase money. Some of the close-fitted bargainers, having succeeded in this manœuver, retain the "silk gown" money, and thus cheat their wives out of their rights; but in a well-regulated rural society such men are held in scorn and contempt, and are considered as miserable misers.

INTERESTING EXPERIMENTS IN ACCOUSTICS.

The use of wires for correcting reverberation in interiors has been subject to some very recent experiments in the Cathedral of St. Fin Barre, Cork, Ireland. The nave of the cathedral is of exceeding height and very narrow. The point whence the sound started (where the desks were) was at the intersection of the nave and transepts. The organ was in a gallery at the west end, and the organist there seated had always been able to hear more distinctly than the people sitting two thirds the way down the nave. Those sitting close to the pillars heard with special indistinctness. These were the conditions of the problem. Wires were first strained at the level of the triforium, but produced no material effect. A double course of wires was then strained about the piers of the central tower at the height of twelve or fifteen feet, with the result of considerably improving the acoustic properties of the interior. The wire, which may be so minute as to be scarcely perceptible, breaks the sound waves, and thus corrects the reverberation.

ECONOMY IN OLD TIMES.

In Jefferson county, Illinois, Mr. Coly Babcock, in 1845, wishing to purchase two pairs of shoes, went to his country store, and found that the keeper had the shoes he desired, one pair at ninety cents, the other at seventy-five cents. This was considered an exorbitant price, which he declined to pay, but would go to St. Louis. This was distant eighty miles from his residence, but he shouldered his rifle, put some "corn dodger" and salt in his shot bag, and started on foot, killing birds for meat and lying at night by camp fires of marketers, which were plenty at that time. Arriving at the Mississippi at Illinoistown (now East St. Louis,) he found that it would cost him five cents to cross the river. He was mortified to find that he would thus be obliged to break in upon his shoe money, but succumbed at last, went over to the city, and purchased two pairs of shoes at a cost of forty and sixty cents. On returning home, he found he had cleared sixty cents, less the ferriage, by his trip.

Walking eighty miles to save this amount may look absurd, but dollars were scarce, markets distant, the land covered with forests, labor without demand, and pork worth one dollar and fifty cents per hundred pounds.

— According to Dingler's Polytechnic Journal, a very strong, transparent cement, applicable to wood, porcelain, glass, stone, etc., may be made by rubbing together in a mortar 2 parts of muriate of lime, 25 parts of water, and 20 parts of powdered gum arabic. The surfaces to be united are to be painted with the cement, and bound together until completely dry.

How Do You Feel?

The fervid heats of summer are now over. In what condition have they left you? Is your liver torpid or disordered, your appetite feeble, your digestion imperfect or painful, your nervous system shaky, your mind lethargic? This is the state in which the autumn finds tens of thousands of us, and in this state we are ripe for the malarious fevers, and bowel complaints, and bilious diseases, which the heavy dews, the vapors, and the vast difference between the temperature of night and day are apt to engender. Rouse yourself from this condition with HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. Wake up the latent vitality of the body, which only requires the stimulating, strengthening and regulating agency of this mighty vegetable restorative to enable it to remove its activity and potency. Indigestion, biliousness, miasmatic fevers, and disorders of the bowels, are the usual sequences of a long heated term. Prevent or cure them with the Bitters. You can do either, but prevention is best.

With lightning speed we sent,
Thinking only of the glad to-morrow,
If we found the Centaur Liniment.

Well, we found it at Lindsley's store, three miles away; but it did its work, saved pain, inflammation, and suffering.

The Centaur Liniment always does its work, whether it be for scalds, bruises, rheumatism, stiff joints or lameness.

But this is no is an old story. Why will any suffer? Come all ye halt, lame and sore, and be healed for a dollar or fifty cents, and if you haven't that, then for nothing. We know what the Centaur Liniment is, and will warrant it every time.

IRON IN THE BLOOD.

DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, DROPSY AND RUMORS.

PERUVIAN SYRUP

Makes The Weak Strong.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning up. Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitution, Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building upon an Iron Constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

H. M. CLARK, Treasurer.

The Water Supply.

Again we are forced to make another appeal to somebody (for our life, we cannot tell who) for more water. Nearly all the water that is obtained in the middle and lower parts of the city is brought up from the cellar, and even there, in many instances, it ceases to run after an early hour in the day. Now this is rather severe; and when it is considered that there is no redress for the water-takers, it begins to assume a shadow of alarm. We have suggested various remedies from time to time for the abatement of this evil, and still we are obliged to often thirst for water and go unwashed many times, when the application of it would have secured for us an improvement in our personal appearance. We step into the office of the Aqueduct Company promptly at the expiration of the semi-annual period and pay our bill, meekly enquiring the cause of the insufficient supply of their commodity. We are dismissed with an abrupt assertion that "the Aqueduct Company never agreed to put the water into your attic—only in the cellar." Not having the articles of agreement at hand, we are unequal to cope with such superior knowledge, and descend the stairs with feelings of awe while we contemplate the venerability of an institution that has existed so long that the oldest inhabitant is unwilling to question any of the many prerogatives which it claims, prominent among which is the unparalleled privilege of holding the monopoly of furnishing the inhabitants of the city of Portsmouth with water, provided it furnish a sufficient supply. To stop here would not convince the reader that it is such a great monopoly after all; but we find on inquiry that there is a provision of its charter that allows the managers of the Company to judge what constitutes a sufficient supply.

Their interpretation of these two words makes all the trouble. Water is furnished the several steamers that ply our river; breweries and manufactories of different kinds are allowed to gorge freely from it; while some of the sojourners at the Shoals refresh themselves and slake their thirst with it on the daily arrival of the steamer with plentiful supplies of our highly-prized beverage. All this at our expense. We would not deprive the aforesaid institutions and people of any amount of water that they may need or even desire. But we know that the only cause for this arrangement—or disarrangement rather—is the miserly determination of the Aqueduct Company to enrich its coffers and quadruple the price of its stock at the cost of the comfort and convenience of its patrons.

What we need in this matter, is another corporation for the supply of water. One that will obtain a sufficient head to give us water on our chimney-tops, if need be, at any time and under any circumstances. This can be done; and at a trifling expense too, compared with the outlay which is made in some of our neighboring cities. We need to lay the matter in its true condition before the State Legislature and get the absurd charter of the present company annulled, or at least arranged within the bounds of reason and common sense. This accomplished and a new company with a management of a good business ability, started, a grateful public would soon witness the disheartened employees of the old monopoly seeking the localities where lie their rotten logs to dig them up for firewood. And the management of this body corporate would be compelled to write "To Let," on its office door and go home and enjoy the luxury of its 400 per cent. gleanings from the public purse.

Correction.

My Dear Chronicle:—I am sure that you will cheerfully give the mottoes placed upon "Manhattan Park" during the Festival, their correct reading. This is fair to the eminent authors from whom they are quoted, as well as to our care in having them accurately painted. They were as follows:

New York to Portsmouth—"For ye are our glory and joy."

"The thought of our past years in us doth breed perpetual benediction."

"Her children arise up and call her blessed."

"Sprigs of like leaf erect their filial heads."

The 250th Birthday—"A garland on the brow of age."

July 4, 1873. "That a government of the people, by the people, and for the people shall not perish from the earth."

The mottoes were made of lengths adapted to the three arches, and showing one upon each arch; but we were informed on the morning of the 3d that the height of the rigged ship made it impracticable to place them there. G.

Laconics.

The bill providing for the closing of the polls in Portsmouth, at half-past six o'clock P. M., has become a law, and is a just one. It occupied considerable time in the House, and occasioned much discussion. Its adoption was mainly due to the efforts of Mr. Kent, of Portsmouth, and his republican friends in the Legislature. The bill was persistently and ably opposed by Messrs. Hatch of Portsmouth, Bingham, of Littleton, Smith, of Newmarket, and other democrats.

On Tuesday evening, at the Franklin House, articles of agreement were signed for a race between the Plymouth's gig and the marine gig's crew of the navy yard, the latter to pull in Commodore Howell's barge. The race is to come off on Wednesday, the 15th of July, at "high water slack," (about 3 o'clock, P. M.,) the course to be from the middle buoy at the compass station off Fort McClary to the red buoy off the navy yard, around the latter buoy and back to the starting point, an estimated distance of three miles. The only rules laid down for the race are that the boats shall pull over the course named, that neither one shall foul the other, and that the boat coming in first at the point from which they start is to win. We look for a fine race, for the Plymouth's gig was a "crack" boat of the European fleet, while the Commandant's barge pulls well, and the marine crew is a plucky one. Captain Eastman of the navy and Mr. Mitchell, the Commodore's secretary, have been selected as judges, and they are to chose a referee.

The Polaris Esquimaux, who are to join the Tigress in her search for the missing vessel, arrived in this city on Wednesday evening, from Maine, by train over the P. S. & P. Railroad. They were immediately taken to the navy yard on the ferry steamer Emerald, and took up quarters on board the steamer Tallapoosa, by which vessel they are to be at once conveyed to New York, where they will join the Tigress.

RUSSIAN HORSES.

When Kaiser Wilhelm was in St. Petersburg a grand review was held in his honor. The correspondent of the Daily Times says: "The great attraction of the day was the cavalry, and that far surpassed anything which I have ever seen. The two elements of excellence were, of course, the horses themselves and the horsemanship of the riders. Can anybody explain the peculiar charm about the Russian horses? Without presuming to answer my own question, I think I may point out that one secret with trainers here seems to be to educate the horse; to make him trustworthy, faithful, ambitious, and to dispense with all those contrivances which, in more civilized countries, crush the spirit out of the poor beasts. In what other country can one see horses like those which dash along the Nveska so free, and fresh, and graceful? In what other country do they have such a glossy skin, such swan-like necks, such delicate limbs? And in what other country do they offer such material for cavalry? One must reflect, too, that Russians of a certain class are born, like Arabs, in the saddle. The horse is a member of the family, a brother, a companion in every adventure. The Russian Government had, therefore, good material; but it has employed it well, and the proof is the superb horsemen who today galloped along by Kaiser Wilhelm and his German officers. The Russian cavalry has the ordinary divisions found in all Continental armies,—namely, hussars, dragoons, curassiers, uhlans, &c., as well as some species peculiar to itself. I pass over the former, and only call attention to the horses. These sleek and muscular beasts had evidently been selected as carefully as the men themselves. For each battalion they were all of one color, now a glossy black, now a rich brown, now a light grey, and the uniformity seemed to extend even to their size, shape and motion. The effect was singularly striking. The Techeck and Cossack cavalry have been so often described that there is nothing new to be said about their appearance. The detachment which took part in the ceremonies of today wore bright red jackets and a sort of fur hats of the same color, and rode chestnut ponies. On their backs carbines were strapped, and in their hands they carried long red lances. They led the cavalry division. The first circuit of the cavalry was merely for inspection; the second was for evolution. How impatiently the Cossacks went through the first, and how eagerly they entered on the second! The ponies even trembled with enthusiasm. As the cavalcade approached the Emperors, the riders settled firmly in their saddles, loosened the reins a little, and,—the word is given. Like a flash of lightning and simultaneously the horses shoot off, and before the spectators have caught their breath, are half way around the square. What an astonishing pace! If a horse should stumble, the rider would never mount again. The Cossacks crouch low in the saddle, and shout like fiends; while their long, glittering lances, stretching out horizontally far beyond the horses, are terrifying even to friends and non-combatants. The Germans do not spare their plaudits. They have the Uhlans who trampled down the Turcos, and the Bismarck Cuirassiers who rode into the jaws of death at Mars le Tour, but nothing like these unearthly horsemen from the plains of Russia. Let me not do negative injustice, however, to the rest of the cavalry. After the second turn around the field the whole body formed at the rear, opposite the Emperors and the amphitheater. The front stretched the whole length of the field; somewhat longer, to use a comparison which many English readers will appreciate, than from the Seine to the barracks at the foot of the Champs de Mars, and several regiments deep. There were probably 15,000 in all,—the cuirassiers with their white coats and heavy black horses, the hussars with their pikes, the mounted grenadiers and the dragoons, and at the wings the reckless Cossacks again. The Grand Duke Nicholas waved his sword, and the entire force moved toward the Emperors and the spectators. At first it was a light trot, then an easy gallop, then faster and faster, till one one could only see thousands of glittering uniforms and superb horses dashing madly toward the crowd. Nearer and nearer they come, and ever at the same terrific pace. It will be death for the imperial party who are on the ground below! Suddenly the Grand Duke's sword flies up again in the air; the officers pass the word along. Still the 15,000 horsemen shake the earth. The Grand Duke's sword falls, and the mighty mass comes to a stop as if transfixed by an electric shock. Perfect silence reigns. The long line of cavalry is as calm and steady as the marble palace itself, and far back through the centers all is tranquil. I shall never look on such a spectacle again.

BUREAU OF CONSTRUCTION AND REPAIR,
WASHINGTON, June 21, 1875.

SEALED PROPOSALS will be received at the Bureau until 12 o'clock noon, August 17, 1875, for the construction, building and the materials except the live oak timber, of the hull of a sloop-of-war of about 549 tons measurement, complete for sea service. Plans and specifications in detail for the hull, showing the work to be done, may be seen and examined at this Bureau, and at the Commandants' Offices at the Navy Yards at Philadelphia, Brooklyn, Charlestown and Kittery, on and after the 6th of July next.

The hull must be completed in all respects according to the contract and specifications; the materials must be of the best quality, and the work must be done in the best manner, and the vessel be delivered at such New Yard of the Atlantic coast as the Department may direct in eight months from the date and signing of the contract.

Payments will be made as the work progresses, in proportionate amounts, reserving the usual percentage until the final completion and acceptance of the entire work.

The bids must be accompanied with the guarantee required by law, that if a contract is awarded, it will be promptly executed, and the names of the parties who are to become the sureties to the amount of the same will be mentioned in the bid.

The Department reserves the right to accept or reject any or all bids which, in its opinion, are not to the public interest.

Bids will only be accepted from parties who are known shipbuilders, and to have the necessary facilities for doing the work. oawjl

Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity for a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend all inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges. COAL.

HAVING contracted for a quantity of the above coal, we would call the attention of Manufacturers, Dealers and Consumers to the following different grades mined and controlled by the Company.

HARD WHITE ASH COAL,
FREE BURNING WHITE ASH COAL,
SHAMOKIN WHITE ASH COAL,
SHAMOKIN RED ASH COAL,
NORTH FRANLIN COAL,
LYKENS VALLEY COAL.

In order that all coal shall be shipped in good order, a most rigid system of inspection, both at the mines and at the shipping ports, will at all times be enforced. In every district of the coal region there will be appointed a number of competent persons skilled in the preparation of coal, as local inspectors, whose duty it will be to visit the several collieries daily to see that a proper force is at all times employed in removing slate, and to prevent, if possible, any coal being sent from the mines in bad order. In addition to these efforts at prevention, no means will be left untried at the shipping ports to cure the evils of careless preparation. At Schuylkill Haven, Port Clinton and Port Richmond, ALL COAL WILL BE SUBJECTED TO THE PERSONAL EXAMINATION OF A SKILLED INSPECTOR BEFORE IT IS SHIPPED, and is condemned by him, will be dumped in places provided for the purpose, and before being loaded into vessels WILL BE THOROUGHLY REPICKED AND CLEANED BY HAND.

SEWING MACHINE SALES

For 1872.

BY comparison of Statistics from sworn returns of the sales of Sewing Machines for 1871 and 1872, it shows that the

"DOMESTIC"

SEWING MACHINE Co.'s sales have increased over 375 Per Cent., while no other Co.s' sales have increased over 35 per cent., proving the great popularity of the "DOMESTIC."

Annexed are the percentage of gain, of the leading makers:

Domestic Sewing Machine Co., gain	375	per	cent.
Wheeler & Wilson " "	36	"	"
Singer " " "	23	"	"
Grover & Baker " " "	5	"	"
Weed " " "	3	"	"
Wilcox & Gibbs " " "	12	"	"
Wilson " " "	2	"	"

Other Machine Co.'s sales show a loss over the year before.

If the increase in sales be any criterion of merit, the "DOMESTIC" bears the palm.

The "DOMESTIC" works so easy, it is working itself into every family.

The "DOMESTIC" runs so light, it is distancing all competitors. It only asks a few days trial.

The "DOMESTIC" is recommended by the Medical Faculty.

REMOVAL.

DR. J. W. PARSONS

Has removed from No. 6 Daniel Street to Corner of State and Chestnut Streets.

House, 82 State Street. Office, 9 Chestnut Street.

Morning Chronicle

The High School.

One of the former carriers of the CHRONICLE, Rev. Edward A. Rand, made an excellent speech at the tent on the Fourth, and having the copy at hand we yield to the temptation to publish it.

Mr. President, Ladies and Gentleman:

If I were to prove this sentiment, I should take for proof this gathering about me today.

It gives me pleasure to stand here at this time and acknowledge my indebtedness to the Public-School-System of Portsmouth. That dingy old structure on State street, its lower part occupied by the Grammar School under Mr. Timothy G. Senter, the upper by the High School under Mr. Israel Kimball —has for me a glory that no palatial structure can ever be encompassed by. I recognize the Public School System of Portsmouth as a shaping hand in the forming of my personal character. Our teachers drilled us to the idea of conscience in study. I can testify to the studiousness of the lads. I do not mean anything disparaging to the girls. "Nichols' girls" did just as well, I doubt not.

I am only speaking of what I actually observed among the boys. It gives me pleasure to say in these days, when the classics are sometimes disparaged, that they were good Latin Scholars. Portsmouth deserves praise for keeping up the knowledge of Latin in her schools. And I don't believe any of our boys and girls ever disgraced their Latin as was recorced of the old Scotch professor.

It was in those days when the professors in the Scotch universities used Latin in their addresses to their pupils. One of the students had been guilty of jumping over a table in the recitation-room. The indignation of his professor was such that it swept away his Latin and he broke down in a serious blunder; "Norme video te-jumpantem over the table?"

It is one common-school-system that is the corner-stone of our New England civilization. Not long since I heard a foreigner at a school examination remark that this system was New England's greatest glory. We did well to drift the New England schoolhouse across the waters to the Vienna Exposition. It would have been better if coming to Portsmouth they had secured Masters Payson and Smith and then filled the school-house with some of our Portsmouth boys and girls to show more fully its powers.

We must not lose sight of the idea in our common-school-system identifying it with our political greatness; it is that of the worth of the individual. In a Spanish Court a man who was bone in America and had been also an English citizen, was condemned to death. He was sentenced to be shot. An attempt was made to save him. His friends covered him with the glory of the stars and stripes and then draped him with the pride of the Union Jack. They turned to the soldiers and dared them to fire. Not a musket was brought to bear upon him. They looked at the individual and saw there the government. They dared not fire. More fully than any other nation does America recognize the individual. She recognizes the worth of the individual irrespective of caste, color and creed. I wish it could be said irrespective of sex. I hope it will be so. It is the idea of the worth of the individual that is embodied in our common school system. And I don't know but that the time has come when national universities should be established, where the front intellects of the nation shall be gathered, where both men and women can be educated free of cost.

We must not forget that we stand to-day around the cradle of New Hampshire, that cradle rocked two hundred and fifty years ago by the strong sea-winds. New Hampshire is proud of her men and her mountains. She sends out her men to rule the country and then calls all the country in to look at her mountains. As we think of the great men who have gone before, names that have been transferred to the constellated glory of the ceparted, let us remember how much they owe to the public schools of New Hampshire.

And let me say as I close that New Hampshire must not be afraid of advanced views in education. Let her not be in the rear consenting, but at the head commanding. She must move forward and bring the people up to her position. In a certain battle during the war, a color sergeant got ahead of his regiment. The officer commanding cried to him, "Bring back the colors to the rear." The color sergeant turned and said, "Bring the men up to the colors." New Hampshire must lead off and bring the people up to her standard.

The Tigress will sail on Saturday on her Arctic voyage.

The Great South American Blood Purifier.

JURUBEBA

IS THE MOST POWERFUL CLEANSER, strengthener and remover of Glandular Obstructions known to Materia Medica.

IT IS SPECIALLY ADAPTED to constitutions "worn down" and debilitated by the warm weather of Spring and Summer, when the blood is not in active circulation, consequently gathering impurities from sluggishness and imperfect action of the secretive organs, and is manifested by Tumors, Eruptions, Blotches, Boils, Pustules, &c., &c.

WHEN WEARY AND LANGUID from overwork, and dullness, drowsiness and inertia take the place of energy and vigor, the system needs a TONIC to build it up and help the Vital Forces to regain their recuperative power.

IN THE HEAT OF SUMMER, frequently the LIVER and SPLEEN do not properly perform their functions; the Uterine and Urinary Organs are inactive, producing weakness of the stomach and intestines and a predisposition to bilious derangement.

Dr. WELLS'

EXTRACT OF JURUBEBA

is prepared directly from the SOUTH AMERICAN PLANT, and is peculiarly suited to all these difficulties; it will expel the VITIATED BLOOD, strengthen the LIFE-GIVING POWERS, and REMOVE ALL OBSTRUCTIONS from IMPAIRED and ENFEEBLED Organs.

IT SHOULD BE FREELY TAKEN, as Jurubeba is pronounced by medical writers the most efficient PURIFIER, TONIC and DEOBSTRUENT known in the whole range of medicinal plants.

Portsmouth High School Re-Union.

Want of room and a failure to procure copies of the speeches have compelled us to defer the publication of the addresses delivered at the "High School Reunion" on Saturday last. We continue them this morning, believing them well worthy a careful reading.

The remarks of Mr. A. M. Payson, Principal of the Girls' High School, in response to the 2nd sentiment, "Our Teachers," &c., were substantially as follows:

Mr. Payson said: Mr. President graduates and members of Portsmouth High Schools: I am exceedingly happy to meet you here to day. All the circumstances, save one, connected with this occasion are very pleasant; and that one, perhaps I magnify beyond its real importance,—still I feel embarrassed—for as I look over this assembly and see these young ladies and young gentlemen, gathered here in so great numbers, I find myself, as an eloquent son of Portsmouth said twenty years ago, all at once in sympathy with the old lady, whose tenement was leather and knew not what to do. Changing the original of the story—book a little, I might truly assert,

> There was an old teacher,
> I've oft heard him pray,
> When he met all his pupils,
> He'd know what to say.

Amid the delightful distractions of the present week, I have been unable to collect and concentrate thought for even this glad hour.

The grand mistake in the life of teachers, has always seemed to me to be this; that they attempted too many things and became distinguished in nothing. But to-day, I am half inclined to reject the sentiment altogether; for who can think of the merchant princes, lawyers, physicians, clergymen, editors, authors, members of state and national legislatures, artists and teachers, whose names we,—dear and time honored co-laborers,—can place on the list of our pupils,—and not feel a becoming pride on such occasions as this! What branch of honorable business, national or commercial enterprise, in which they may not be found? It was a great satisfaction to hear one of their number so highly complimented by the gallant Col.'s chief of staff, who represented the New York delegation yesterday, in this tent.

Let me tell you, Sir, the present actors will play their part equally as well as those who are slowly retiring to the more shady scenes of life. They may not speak or write more logically and elegantly than Fields and Laighton, who charmed us with their eloquence yesterday, nor preach more forcibly than one who addressed us then and here. But I do say and say it without tear of contradiction, that if the enemies of human progress, attempt to obstruct their pathway, they will "take the Battery at the point of the bayonet" they will "carry the enemy's works by storm!"

The world is to be handed over to civilization and the light of letters,—and the "Man of sorrows" is yet to be the head of triumphant legions!

Go into any stirring, enterprising locality of earth, and if you can find a Portsmouth High school boy or girl, an inch even behind the foremost in business, or any good work, it will appear in next year's Almanac, as one of the strange phenomena of the season! If their be such a one, there must be something unnatural about it. I might mention a list of worthies—but it would be invidious, I can only tell you where you can have your wants supplied. If you need books, go to the world renowned publishing houses of Boston, New York and Philadelphia.

If you want diamond rings and jewelry, inquire in this assembly of the dealers themselves. If you wish to know why all the sheep and camels are rushing to shelter for dear life, go to the large woolen jobbing houses of the same cities. Are you in search for dealers in drugs and medicines, inquire at the paternal mansion in Richards avenue before you take the cars; and so I might say of all kinds of business, and of the earnest minds that manage these branches of Industry. But time is not allowed me, Sir, to tell of the Gideons and Barraks, and the hundreds, whose names I could mention with exceeding great pleasure. Still in behalf of those who have preceded me as speakers let me predict that no pupil shall ever fail of success in life, if he or she do but follow the faithful and excellent instruction that they have received. Twenty years of my life I have endeavored to fill the office of of Principal of the Portsmouth High Schools, about ten years in each, and when you shall meet here again as many years hence, you can decide for yourselves, whether or not my prediction is true.

5th. The High School Scholars of Strawberry Bank—Its earliest and sweetest summer fruit.

Response by Rev. Edward A. Rand of South Boston.

Mr. President, Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am thinking what a splendid christening this child of our love, the High School Association will receive. And if it starts with so much eclat, what will its future be? I am asked to speak about some of the summer fruit in Old Strawberry Bank. As a lady has preceded me, and a second represented by me is to follow, and then a third is to speak, I can but think in what a quantity of the sweetest of this summer fruit I am packed.

I would call your attention, Mr. President, to two features of this summer fruit. I think it was old Izak Walton who said that God might have made a better berry, but it was evident he had not. We may say of our High School scholars that possibly there might have been better boys and girls, but as a fact we don't believe there have been.

Another feature of this summer fruit is that it don't perish. The strawberry leaves on my badge have begun to spoil. The fruit grown on Old Strawberry Bank does not wither. The mind of our scholars is not decaying. The body may lose, the mind improves. I met to-day one whom I would call an "old boy." He salutes, am just the same as ever." Lifting his hat, he showed something of a "snowy expanse." As we grow older, though we may not have a Websterian brain, we are apt to get a Websterian brow. Our friend while affirming that he was just the same, added, "I am only a little more barefoot up here."

Though the body may lose, the mind is just the same. Indeed, our summer fruit improves. And to show this, I will read these verses written by Mrs. Carrie Whiton of South Boston, once an enthusiastic member of our Girls' High School. These verses were sent to P —— and have been placed in my hands. [The poem alluded to, we have already published in a previous issue.]

I think, Mr. President, that these verses show that our summer fruit does not decay but improves with time.

7th. The Ladies—Our brightest and most precious jewels. In honoring them, we honor ourselves.

Mr. Frank W. Miller responded to this, as follows:

A pretty stint, Mr. Chairman, you have set me for this hot afternoon, to answer to "the ladies." Why, sir, I think they are amply capable of speaking for themselves, and to my surprise and pleasure, they have already done so on this occasion. But, sir, will you please tell me whether I am to speak to, speak of, or speak for the dear creatures? [The President—either you choose—you are to be their champion.] Ah, well, I must be cautious; and this reminds me of a story, not new, but perhaps all have not heard it.

A schoolmaster was questioning a class of boys in theology,—and it would appear that he possessed more theology himself than religion. How many Gods are there? asked dominie, of boy No. 1—who doesn't seem to have been A No. 1 boy, by the way. Two, replied he. One flogging was the reward of his ignorance. The next unlucky lad increased the number of Gods, and lolidly responded, three. But this was too many and too much for the irate pedagogue, and another whipping was the result. The next boy increased the number of deities to four, with like unsatisfactory result to himself, if not to the master; and so on. Finally, one lad who had watched the proceeding with great interest and no small concern, moved a little closer to the window near which he stood, and when the momentous query reached him, blurted out the answer he had decided on,—ten! Then seeing the master making for him, with dread intent, he sprang through the window, and ran off across the fields. Meeting presently another boy, with some books under his arm,—where are you going? said he. Down to that school there. Humph! that's a pretty place to go—how many Gods are there? Why, one, to be sure. Ha! you'll look well going down to that school with one God. I took ten down, and had to put my back against the door.

So, Mr. Chairman, were I to undertake to speak for the ladies, I should want to see my way clear for escape if necessary, without damage to the Band between me and the opening of the tent. But sir, I shall not do this—there is no need of it. When your toastmaster was in the newspaper business with me, and a new Democratic daily was started, an old gentlemen at the West End wrote us a note, asking us to discontinue sending him the Chronicle for obvious reasons. What does this mean? asked the junior partner, who had not then had so much experience in this line as myself—what can this mean? Why that he prefers the loco sheet, being of that persuasion, that's all. So, for obvious reasons, I shall decline to speak for the ladies, except for a moment.

To speak of them, my experience and observation has been, that women are smarter and more capable than men, even in a business point of view; and I think that you, Mr. Chairman, and all others competent to judge, will agree with me, that out of a hundred women, more will succeed, than of an equal number of men. I was very glad to hear Mr. Fields, in his remarks yesterday, take such strong ground in favor of equal rights—of education and suffrage, for women. And likewise the earnest plea of the lady just now, in the same vein. I think every girl is also entitled to a good husband who does not drink or smoke.

But, Mr. Chairman, if I am expected to respond as a High School girl, I plead not guilty to the charge. But I am next thing to it, and did the best I could for I married one of them. Neither were the boys afforded such facilities for acquaintance with the girls at school, in my day, as now. I wish to ask the ladies here—the young ladies—you girls, who in your white dresses, now enter the portals of the nice High School building—where do you suppose the Girls' School was kept, in former years? down in an old cellar underneath the Court House! yes, and the boys in a garret—better than the girls' quarters—but in an old unused Grammar School house. Then when we boys wanted to see the girls, we had to sneak around at the old Court House when school let out, while now all a young fellow has to do is to happen along at the right time, and meet his lady friend as he passes next door and she happens to come out. Verily, the world moves. The fine High School building, for which the pupils are indebted perhaps as much to our lamented friend Mayor Walker, as any one—is a great improvement over the old cellar and garret. One more step forward, and have one School instead of two, and attract the sexes together.

This new Association I rejoice in—and believe it will result in pleasure and, profit. When it was first talked about; I did not feel that I had any part in the matter, as I had almost forgotten that I ever attended the High School—it was so long ago, and I had hardly been reminded of it since. But on reflection, I recalled that I was a pupil under Mr. John T. Tasker, and for a few months with Mr. Kimball. Our young friend Mr. Hazlett deserves much credit for his exertions in keeping up his Class Association, and organizing this general one. I close these rambling, unpremeditated remarks, with this sentiment: Portsmouth Girls—at home or abroad—give them an equal chance with the Boys.

9th. The High School Boy of the Future—A What is-it!

Response by Hon. James Shaw, Alabama.

Mr. President, Ladies and Gentlemen:

If I had been called upon to speak about the High School boy of the past, I might be able to say something that would interest you and do justice to the subject. But the "High School boy of the future" opens up a field for discussion and speculation too broad for treatment on a festive occasion like this. The High School boy of the past is a figure around which my fondest and pleasantest recollections cluster. I remember him when he attended the old rookery on State street, the chief distinction of which was that its front door was in the back yard.

I remember him, when as a "bad boy" he bankrupted his pocket in spruce beer dissipation, and wherever I have seen him, the training of Kimball and Payson, and their assistants, and the influences of our alma mater have blossomed with a manhood with which it was a pride and a pleasure to be associated. And then the fellowship of those boys! Only those can appreciate it who have met them in a strange city or in a hostile country.

The interchange of recollections and reminiscences which follow such a meeting! I tell you, friends, an occasion of this kind is an oasis in the life of the absent son, which lives in his memory for years. In regard to the "High School boy of the future," I can only express the hope that he will be a fit successor of those who went forth from the old State street school. In their lives he will find the incentives to industry, perseverance and integrity which success afford; and in the fate of many who have passed away in the flower and bright promise of youth, he may learn that

> "Whether in the prison cell or
> In the battle's roar,
> The fittest place for man to die,
> Is where he dies for man."

13th. The Navy—Portsmouth proudly claims her share in the lustre of its achievements.

Frank W. Hackett, Esq.

The speaker in coming forward said that at this late hour had it been any other than a paternal voice that summoned him he might have disobeyed. But besides the usual filial obedience, he had discovered, when a small boy, that this parent had once been a teacher of the Portsmouth High School, and ever since that discovery, the son had obeyed more implicitly.

It was a remark of Franklin that the man who was good at apologies was seldom good at any thing else. Still, in justice to himself, Mr. H. felt compelled to offer a word of explanation. He had been busy all day yesterday trying to keep in order a pack of noisy fellows from Washington, Chicago, Savannah, and the Lord knows where, and he went to bed last night to sleep soundly. But he woke in a nightmare to recall the fact that he was to answer to a sentiment here to-day, and that sentiment, of all things, "The Navy." In a moment of weakness he had yielded to the peculiarly winning manner of his friend Marston, who asked him if he would help them out with a response.

Thinking, of course, it would be something classical, (the speaker continued,) I agreed at once. I imagined that I could go home and look over the old Horace and Virgil, and be prepared. But "the Navy." Why, the first thing that occurred to me, in thinking it over, was an anecdote of one of our old citizens, a little colored man named Barns who lived not more than a hundred rods off from here; perhaps some of you older boys remember him. (B.'s voice, "He's living now!" Mr. H. Well, I'm glad to hear it.) He was a good natural parson—Barns, whose profession was the elevating and purifying one of whitewashing. There was a tall man associated with him of a little lighter shade but greater ability, named Ames. One day, somebody thinking to quiz Barns, tapped him on the shoulder, with the remark, "Good morning, Mr. Ames!" That gentleman drew himself up his full height (it didn't take long,) and replied: "Excuse me, Sir, I rather guess you've made a wrong mistake!"

Marston has made a "wrong mistake" in setting me to talking about "The Navy,"—particularly if it is all to be done in five minutes time. Now, what has the Girls' High School, for instance, to do with "the Navy." About all I can think of is, that the young ladies of this institution have given many a naval officer his first lesson in capturing prizes, and where could he get a better one? I don't know much about it myself, because during the war, as soon as I got on some bright buttons, they sent me right off South where there was not a young woman to be found on whom could be tried their peculiar efficacy. I had occasion the other day to send over to Annapolis a word of our Washington proceedings and I was astonished to find how many of our Portsmouth young ladies were in command there, and other stations will perhaps tell pretty much the same story.

The Boys' High School and "The Navy." Indeed as I begin now to think of the two subjects, memories come thick and fast, and I know not what to choose. Indeed, there is no ship of war has left this port without a Portsmouth boy or two on board. And you may be sure that he has ever been true to his native town. I can refer to but a single instance which is a type of all. Would that time allowed mention of Harris, of Penhallow of the High School, and of Bates and Boardman, who though under another teacher, were yet of us—Portsmouth boys.

There comes before me now the vision of a youth, of slender form, with a face sweet and gentle as a woman's, who left these streets with sunshine about him, with many a warm pressure of the hand from friends who loved him and bade him God-speed. I see him on the deck of the Oneida, that deck memorable for the words there spoken, "I cannot leave my post till regularly relieved." I see him pass from sight as that noble ship takes her fatal plunge into the deep—his manly, generous youth—Thomas L. Tullock, Jr.

Mr. Hackett closed with the expression of a hope that the High School boys of the future would be true to the traditions of the past, and that the boy of Portsmouth training and nurture would be found always and everywhere doing his duty.

THE DEDHAM SHOOTING MYSTERY.

A suspicious circumstance or two in the conduct of Mrs. Chas. Briggs Lincoln at the time of her husband's attempted assassination in Dedham, Mass., Sunday night, led detectives of the State Police to take her into custody. She went to Boston in company with her husband and both went with the detectives to the State Police headquarters, where they were subjected to a careful questioning. It will be remembered that Lincoln was walking with his wife about nine o'clock, Sunday evening, and had left the road at her suggestion and was in the act of helping her upon a large rock, over which passed a stone wall, when he received the result of two discharges of a pistol in the hands of a man but a few feet distant, one ball lodging in the flesh of the breast, and being easily extracted, and the other in the knee, and not being extracted. In the dusk and excitement he was unable to distinguish who the assassin was, but states to the detectives that he very much resembled a young man named Henderson, who had paid attention to the now Mrs. Lincoln before he married her about two months ago. As soon as the pistol was fired his wife let go his hand, and ran home, and was in the house about five minutes before her husband came in. There were several houses between the spot where the shooting occurred and her home, and it seemed the natural impulse of a woman and a wife to get into the first one, either for her own safety or to give the alarm. She explains this by stating that she was frightened and excited, and thought only of her own safety, and ran home. As soon as her husband reached home, she went for a constable. The young man Henderson had been on intimate terms with her, and in a fit of temper succeeding a quarrel with him, she married Lincoln. After their marriage she again became friendly to Henderson, and the theory is that it was by an understanding of hers with him that her husband was brought to the locality where the shooting occurred. Lincoln is bewildered what to think, but his affection for his wife makes him slow to believe that she could have done it. Mrs. Lincoln stoutly protests her innocence. She was locked up in the Tombs; she is twenty-two years old, of medium size, fair looking, with a keen black eye, and has complete command of herself.

THE SUPPOSED MURDERER OF CHAS. GOODRICH.

Amy Stone, alias Kate Stoddard, has been arrested by the Brooklyn police on the charge of murdering Charles Goodrich. She was taken into custody at the Fulton Ferry gateway on the Brooklyn side, and is locked up in the York street police station. The police had been searching for her for many weeks past, and following traces of her from one place to another. It is supposed that she was hidden the most of the time in Jersey City and Philadelphia. She visited New York several times, and on two occasions narrowly escaped being taken before Wednesday. The detectives claim to have in their possession facts, forming a perfect chain of evidence implicating her in the murder of Charles Goodrich. The inquest in the case, which was never concluded, but was left opeu for further investigation, will be resumed this week. Thus it seems there is some hope at last of solving the mystery attending the crime which has caused intense excitement in that community. The Brooklyn police are "very reticent."

How Do You Feel?

The fervid heats of summer are now over. In what condition have they left you? Is your liver torpid or disordered, your appetite feeble, your digestion imperfect or painful, your nervous system shaky, your mind lethargic? This is the state in which the autumn finds tens of thousands of us, and in this state we are ripe for the malarious fevers, and bowel complaints, and bilious diseases, which the heavy dews, the vapors, and the vast difference between the temperature of night and day are apt to engender. Rouse yourself from this condition with HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. Wake up the latent vitality of the body, which only requires the stimulating, strengthening and regulating agency of this mighty vegetable restorative to enable it to remove its activity and potency, Indigestion, biliousness, miasmatic fevers, and disorders of the bowels, are the usual sequences of a long debilitated term. Prevent or cure them with the Bitters. You can do either, but prevention is best.

It was a day in mid-summer;
The boiler had burst;
Four-and-thirty brave fellows
Lay mangled in the dust.

Our hearts melted with sorrow;
With lightning speed we sent,
Thinking only of the glad to-morrow,
If we found the Centaur Liniment.

Well, we found it at Lindsley's store, three miles away; but it did its work, saved pain, inflammation, and suffering.

The Centaur Liniment always does its work, whether it be for scalds, bruises, rheumatism, stiff joints or lameness.

But this to us is an old story. Why will any suffer? Come all ye halt, lame and sore, and be healed for a dollar or fifty cents, and if you haven't that, then for nothing. We know what the Centaur Liniment is, and will warrant it every time.

Cripples throw away their crutches and leap for joy. Horses neigh for it. When Centaur Liniment comes in the front gate, pain flies out at the window.

If you would sleep without pain, walk without limping—straighten out that crooked knee, use those rheumatic-distorted fingers, or get rid of a horrid neuralgia, just use the Centaur Liniment. (White wrapper.)

The other kind (yellow wrapper) is just as effective upon your lame horses and mules. A wonder, says one; a miracle, says another.

IRON IN THE BLOOD.

DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, DROPSY AND HUMORS.

PERUVIAN SYRUP

Makes The Weak Strong.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, in so combined form as to make the character of an aliment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form its energizing effects are not followed by a corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy from weak, sickly, suffering creatures to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

There is to be a game of base ball at Kittery Foreside on Saturday, between a South Berwick club and a picked nine of Kittery players.

We were in error in stating that Mr. Mitchell, Com. Howell's secretary, was to be one of the judges of the boat race which is to come off on the 15th. Mr. Mitchell was one of the judges originally chosen, but declined to serve, and Lt.-Com. McCook, U. S. N., will take his place.

We are informed that a select crew of Marines are to row in the Commodore's barge against the Plymouth's gig on the 15th inst.

Alfred H. Martine, a well-remembered son, was the only delegate in the procession from the city of Fall River. He wore an exquisitely painted badge, executed by himself, and said to be quite as beautiful as the much admired New York badge.

At the regular monthly meeting of Kearsarge S. F. E. Co. No. 3, Benjamin Atwell was duly elected Chaplain.

On Wednesday, July 9, the Congregational Church of South Seabrook kept its 6th anniversary. After a collation in the smaller vestry the people adjonrned to the main vestry, where appropriate exercises took place. Addresses were made by Rev. Wm. A. Rand, the pastor, and by Rev. Edward A. Rand of South Boston.

THE FATAL BALLOON VOYAGE.

The aeronaut La Mountain, who lost his life while making a balloon ascension at Ionia, recently visited New York for the purpose of inducing moneyed men to raise funds to enable him to attempt an aerial trip across the Atlantic. He was unable to excite much interest in his project, and left for the West disheartened. He also negotiated with the publishers of a daily newspaper in that city, who had recently secured the services of Prof. Wise to make a transatlantic balloon voyage, but for some reason the parties did not make a bargain. La Mountain resided for a long time near the city of Troy. His wife, who now lives at Troy, often attempted to dissuade him from his hazardous profession, but in vain.

Upon one occasion La Mountain was advertised to make an ascent from Troy, and Mrs. La Mountain, after ineffectual endeavors to prevent him from going, resolved to accompany him herself, and share the danger to which he would be exposed. She made the ascent with him, and the trip was a most successful one, the balloon landing in the Adirondacks. Prof. La Mountain, like most adventurers of his class, was bold and fearless, but lacked the business tact and shrewdness to make his experiments successful in a financial point of view. He was very poor, and himself and family were often deprived of the necessaries of life, and suffered many hardships on account of his infatuation for aerial experiments.

He was known as Edward La Mountain, not the successful aeronaut, Prof. John La Mountain, who made the memorable voyage from St. Louis to New York State in company with Prof. Wise in 1859. The accident at Ionia was due to the use of a hot-air balloon, which was long ago discarded by all practical aeronauts, and to the fact that the netting did not properly cover the canvas, so the balloon actually slipped out from the enclosure of the ropes, and of course precipitated the car and its reckless passenger to the ground.

THE NITRO-GLYCERINE EXPLOSION.

Accounts of the explosion of nitro-glycerine and giant powder at the Cambria Coal Company's magazine near Cotesville, Pa., say that the shock was like that of a severe earthquake, and the shaking of the houses continued for some seconds after the magazine blew up. It is feared that a number of lives may have been lost, as no one within half-a-mile of the magazine at the time of the explosion could have escaped. At last accounts it had not been ascertained who were missing, as the families of many of the men and boys employed in the vicinity live in other counties. No trace of any bodies has yet been found, though 500 might lie beneath the ponderous masses of earth displaced by the awful force of the explosion. The greatest excitement prevails.

THE LOST RIVER MURDERERS.

A dispatch has been sent to Major Curtis, from Washington, directing him not to bring the Lost River murderers before the Commission for trial. It is supposed that these murderers will be turned over by Maj. Curtis to the authorities of Jackson county, Oregon, for trial. The trial of the murderers of the Peace Commissioners has probably concluded.

—"Does one woman in fifty fill the lower half of her lungs with air?" is the stern inquiry of a sanitary exchange. The editor of that paper never heard the voice of an infuriated mother-in-law.

—A young man in Peoria sought to secure his sweetheart by strategy, so he took her out for a boat ride, and threatened to jump overboard into the lake if she didn't consent to marry him. But it did not work. She offered to bet him a dollar that he daren't dive in.

—A schoolboy's composition on tobacco. "This noxious weed was invented by a distinguished man named Walter Raleigh. When the people first saw him smoking they thought he was a steamboat, and as they had never heard of such a thing as a steamboat, they were terribly frightened."

Readables.

William Bean, 16 years of age, of Turner, Me., with several others went to the house of a neighbor, and while there one of the company picked up a pistol lying upon a mantel-piece, and was examining it, when it was accidentally discharged at the moment that young Bean was entering the room through an open door. The ball struck his left side, passing downward and lodging in the pelvis. The ball had not been extracted at last accounts.

On removing an old house in Middletown, Ohio, which was used as a hotel twenty years ago, a skeleton of a man was unearthed. A number of the citizens claim to remember the mysterious disappearance of a horse-dealer named Caleb Russell about twenty years since. It was thought at the time that he was murdered for his money, but no trace could be found at the time. On examination of the floor it showed that a hole had been sawed out, large enough to admit a man's body. This, no doubt, is the skeleton of the missing horse-dealer.

The Agent of the Coast Wrecking Company telegraphs from Halifax his opinion that the steamship City of Washington can be saved, as she is upright and lays high on the beach. Her cargo will mostly be saved.

On Sunday two young girls of Gloucester, Mass., named Maria Roper and Ella J. Harris, went out rowing in a dory with two young gentlemen acquaintances with the intention of visiting the lighthouse, on Ten Pound Island. The young men supposed they could manage a boat, but being inexperienced were unable to row against the sea, and a squall coming up the party were blown out of the harbor. The dory leaked badly, but fortunately, when their boat was half filled with water, the party met with an inward bound vessel, and were taken off and taken into Boston.

A procession of colored Sabbath school children was attacked in the streets of Baltimore, Tuesday evening, by whites, and a general fight ensued. No one was seriously wounded.

A man was fined twenty-five dollars and costs at Dedham, Mass., for killing one woodcock out of season.

The most astounding developements have been made by official investigation into the management of the Vermont Insane Asylum. The cruelties and abuses inflicted on the patients of this institution by the fiendish managers are almost beyond belief.

Francis Hall and his son John, while working in a field at Brocks Crossing on Friday, were struck by lightning. The young man was instantly killed, and the father severely stunned.

Lord Gordon is again the centre of interest. Efforts have been recently made to induce Gordon to leave Fort Garry and come to the United States. This appears to have failed, and two men, named Hogg and Fletcher, were sent from Minneapolis to Fort Garry to kidnap Gordon. He, however, scented their purpose, and instead of being kidnapped himself had them arrested, and they are now in jail at Fort Garry.

The departure of young Frank Walworth for the New York State Prison took place Wednesday. At half-past nine o'clock the prison van known as the "Black Maria" stood in readiness in the Tombs prison yard, to convey the convicts to Sing Sing. Shortly after Frank H. Walworth, the young parricide, was taken from his cell by Deputy Sheriff Shields. Sheriff Brennan was also present. Mrs. Walworth was waiting outside with a carriage, in which was a large basket of flowers and a hamper of delicacies. She expected the Sheriff would send a deputy with him in the carriage to Sing Sing. This the Sheriff refused, saying he would have to go like any other convict, and directed Mr. Shields to put the manacles on him. The mother then took farewell of her parricidal son, who was placed inside the prison van. Eleven other convicts were taken from their cells, all handcuffed, and were put in the "Black Maria," the doors of which were barred and locked, and which was then driven to the Forty-second street depot.

O. J. Brown of Claremont has been forty years a stage-driver.

There were four attempts to set fires in Nashua on the Fourth, in stables and lumber-yards, but all were prevented without much loss.

On July 1st, Gideon E. Soule, LL. D., after more than fifty consecutive years' service, as instructor and principal of Phillips (Exeter) Academy, voluntarily retired from the position. It is doubtful if another instance is to be found of so protracted a connection of a teacher with an academy.

The grass-hoppers are doing lively work in some places in this State, where they destroy entire fields of beans, eating both the leaves and stalks.

On Friday afternoon, the new house and barn at New Rye, Epsom, owned by Elder Holbrook, and occupied by James W. Marden, were burned, with a quantity of new cut hay. Loss $1,200 to $1,500; no insurance.

Joseph Smith of East Concord has an Alderney cow, eight years old, from which fifty pounds of butter were made in the month of June, while the family used all the milk they wanted and sold some besides.

ORDINANCE NO. 4.

SEC. 3. All waste water of houses, yards, cellars, sinks, pumps, &c., shall be conveyed by their owners or occupiers to the common sewers, or to such places as the Health Officers may direct.

SEC. 4. No person shall be allowed to throw any vegetable or dead animal substance, or any other matter capable of producing infection into any street, lane, alley or dock, or upon any wharf, but shall bury them or throw them into the river below low water mark.

SEC. 5. The contents of vaults and privies shall not be permitted to rise within one foot of the surface of the earth. And all owners or occupiers of buildings having such vaults or privies as may require it, shall cause them to be emptied within ten days from the promulgation of this ordinance, and in future on or before the first day of May in each year. And any such owner or occupier neglecting so to do, shall forfeit and pay for every such neglect a sum not less than three or more than twenty dollars, and a like sum for every week's neglect after the time above specified.

SEC. 11. The health officers may give written notice to the owner or occupier of any building, vessel or enclosure, to remove or destroy any nuisance or other things deemed by them, on examination, to be injurious to the public health, within a certain time limited therein; and in case such owner or occupier—the said notice having been given to him, or left at his usual place of abode—shall neglect to comply therewith, the said health officers may, by direction of the Mayor accompanied by the city marshal, forcibly enter such building, vessel, or enclosure, and cause the said nuisance or other thing aforesaid to be removed or destroyed.

SEC. 14. Navy Department.

BUREAU OF CONSTRUCTION AND REPAIR, WASHINGTON, June 21, 1873.

SEALED PROPOSALS will be received at the Bureau until 12 o'clock noon, August 1, 1873, for the construction, including all the materials except the live oak timber, of the hull of a sloop-of-war of about 640 tons measurement, complete for sea service. Plans and specifications in detail for the hull, showing the work to be done, may be seen and examined at this Bureau, and at the Commandant's Office at the Navy Yards at Philadelphia, Brooklyn, Charlestown and Kittery, on and after the 4th of July next.

The hull must be completed in all respects according to the contract and specifications; the materials must be of the best quality, and the work must be done in the best manner, and the vessel be delivered at such Navy Yard on the Atlantic coast as the Department may direct in eight months from the date and signing of the contract.

Payments will be made as the work progresses, in proportionate amounts, reserving the usual percentage until the final completion and acceptance of the vessel.

The bids must be accompanied with the guarantee required by law, that if the contract is awarded, it will be promptly executed, and the names of the parties who are to become the sureties to the amount of the face of the contract will also be stated.

The Department reserves the right to accept or reject any or all bids which, in its opinion, are not to the public interest.

Bids will only be accepted from parties who are known shipbuilders, and to have the necessary facilities for doing the work. oawtj

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY, SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,

For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs.

No. 76 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,

After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of Inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity for a Agency to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGGART."

HAVING contracted for a quantity of the above coal, we would call the attention of Manufacturers, Dealers and Consumers to the following different grades mined and controlled by the Company.

HARD WHITE ASH COAL,
FREE BURNING WHITE ASH COAL,
SHAMOKIN WHITE ASH COAL,
SHAMOKIN RED ASH COAL,
NORTH FRANLIN COAL,
LYKENS VALLEY COAL.

In order that all coal shall be shipped in good order, a most rigid system of inspection, both at the mines and at the shipping ports, will at all times be enforced. In every district of the coal region there will be appointed a number of competent persons skilled in the preparation of coal, as local inspectors, whose duty it will be to visit the several collieries daily to see that a proper force is at all times employed in removing slate, and to prevent, if possible, any coal being sent from the mines in bad order. In addition to these efforts at prevention, no means will be left untried at the shipping ports to cure the evils of careless preparation. At Schuylkill Haven, Port Clinton and Port Richmond, ALL COAL WILL BE SUBJECTED TO THE PERSONAL EXAMINATION OF A SKILLED INSPECTOR BEFORE THEY SHIPPED, and if condemned by him, will be dumped in places provided for the purpose, and before being loaded into vessels WILL BE THOROUGHLY REPICKED AND CLEANED BY HAND.

SEWING MACHINE SALES

For 1872.

BY comparison of Statistics from sworn returns of the sales of Sewing Machines for 1871 and 1872, it shows that the

"DOMESTIC"

SEWING MACHINE CO.'S sales have increased over 375 Per Cent., while no other Co.s' sales have increased over 30 per cent., proving the great popularity of the "DOMESTIC."

Annexed are the percentage of gain, of the leading makers:

Domestic Sewing Machine Co.,	gain	375	per cent.
Wheeler & Wilson	"	"	36	"
Singer	"	"	23	"
Grover & Baker	"	"	5	"
Weed	"	"	18	"
Wilcox & Gibbs	"	"	12	"
Wilson	"	"	9	"

Other Machine Co.'s sales show a loss over the year before.

If the increase in sales be any criterion of merit, the "DOMESTIC" bears the palm.

The "DOMESTIC" works so easy, it is working itself into every family.

The "DOMESTIC" runs so light, it is distancing all competitors. It only asks a few days trial.

The "DOMESTIC" is recommended by the Medical Faculty.

Morning Chronicle

A QUEER STORY.

Mr. John T. Drew, Special Assistant United States District Attorney for the Southern District of New York, makes a statement which, if true, goes far to exonerate Mr. Colfax from prevarication in the Credit Mobilier matter. Mr. Drew says that in the summer of 1868 he was engaged in some matters before Congress which required the assistance of Massachusetts people. On the day of the payment of the check, June 28, 1868, Drew called upon Ames at the Capitol and was by Ames taken to the office of the Sergeant-at-arms. There Drew distinctly saw the face of the check with the words, "S. C. or bearer, Oakes Ames," thereon. Ames held the check. Drew saw that the uppermost bill was of the denomination of $500, and one of the other bills was $100. This money Ames subsequently gave to a gentleman in the lobby, then unknown to Drew, with whom Ames engaged in conversation concerning some New Orleans cotton cases. Mr. Drew has been absent in Europe for nearly a year in the revenue service of the Government, and had a very inadequate comprehension of the political affairs in the United States last winter as he spent much of his time in travel. Drew returned to this country after the investigation closed, and has not permitted this statement to be made public until now. Mr. Drew is a brother of Mr. Silas S. Drew, dry goods merchant of Nashua.

SUITS AGAINST A FERRY COMPANY.

Parties are now making a strong effort to bring to trial the Staten Island Company officials who were indicted nearly two years ago for killing nearly one hundred people by the explosion of the Westfield at New York. Charges are made that the District Attorney is sadly derelict in duty in neglecting to prosecute the implicated parties. Engineer Robinson, who had charge of the boiler on the day of the fatal explosion, is still retained in this company's employ. The relatives and friends of persons who were killed being thus far unable to gain pecuniary recompense through the Courts for damages sustained, now seem determined to bring the company to punishment in a criminal point of view. Whether the effort will be successful is, to say the least, a matter of doubt. Money will be raised to furnish the best legal talent in the city to assist the District Attorney in the prosecution.

THE LOUISVILLE LOTTERY.

In the Louisville Library drawing number 20,893 draws the capital prize of $100,000; No. 5630, $50,000; No. 98,743, $10,000; No. 10,550, $5000. At the close of the public library drawing on Tuesday Colonel R. T. Dunett, President, announced that with the funds derived from the present concert the payment for the library building was assured. To enlarge the usefulness of the library another concert will be held at which the money capital gift will be a quarter of a million dollars. The intention is to make the library the grandest on this continent and rival those of the old world. O. A. Knapp of Louisville held the number 64,170, the ticket which drew the 25,000 prize.

—A California lover has proved his devotion by a literaly ride of one hundred and twenty miles for a bride. Presenting himself to the clerk of the county for a license, he found that, as the bride was not of age, a written consent from her parents would be necessary. In vain he urged that they knew all about the match and lived sixty miles away. Finding the clerk inexorable, he unhitched one of the horses from the team with which he came to town, borrowed a saddle and started off. He returned late the next night, and said he would have been back sooner if he had not got lost on the mountains. He had ridden the whole one hundred and twenty miles without rest; but he had obtained the parents' permit, and the next morning early the wedding took place.

The Great South American Blood Purifier.

JURUBEBA

IS THE MOST POWERFUL CLEANSER, strengthener and remover of Glandular Obstructions known to Materia Medica.

IT IS SPECIALLY ADAPTED to constitutions "worn down" and debilitated by the warm weather of Spring and Summer, when the blood is not in active circulation, consequently gathering impurities from sluggishness and imperfect action of the secretive organs, and is manifested by Tumors, Eruptions, Blotches, Boils, Pustules, &c., &c.

WHEN WEARY AND LANGUID from overwork, and dullness, drowsiness and inertia take the place of energy and vigor, the system needs a TONIC to build it up and help the Vital Forces to regain their recuperative power.

IN THE HEAT OF SUMMER, frequently the LIVER and SPLEEN do not properly perform their functions; the Uterine and Urinary Organs are inactive, producing weakness of the stomach and intestines and a predisposition to bilious derangement.

Dr. WELLS'

EXTRACT OF JURUBEBA

is prepared directly from the SOUTH AMERICAN PLANT, and is peculiarly suited to all these difficulties; it will cleanse the VITIATED BLOOD, strengthen the LIFE-GIVING POWERS, and REMOVE ALL OBSTRUCTIONS from IMPAIRED and ENFEEBLED Organs.

IT SHOULD BE FREELY TAKEN, as Jurubeba is pronounced by medical writers the most efficient PURIFIER, TONIC and DEOBSTRUENT known in the whole range of medicinal plants.

SATURDAY, JULY 12, 1873.

Portsmouth High School Re-Union.

To the 3rd sentiment,

The Class of 1864—the first to form a Class Association; may its action and success be contagious.

Responded to by Chas. A. Hazlett:

Mr. President:

I thank you for your kind and flattering introduction. Ladies and Gentlemen it is with sincere pleasure that I respond for the class of '64, for to the members of that class more than to any other, belong the honor of effecting this reunion here to-day. A few years after graduating, the members of my class formed a Class Association not only for their own benefit and enjoyment but with the hope that at some future day a reunion of the graduates and members of both schools might be effected.

We have every year since organizing had our annual Supper [and good ones they have been too] our river excursions and most important of all, our Class Secretary has kept a complete record of the residences, occupations and successes of the various members. And the very fact that such a record is kept, is an incentive to each member,—or at least I know it is to me, to make each of our records as honorable and successful as that of any of our classmates. I hope this Association will be as successful as has that of the class for which I have the honor to respond.

5th. The music of Our Sailors—Too's Notes a never to be protected.

Henry C. Barnabee responded as follows:

I thank you most heartily, Mr. President, for the toast complimentary to my profession, and you Ladies and Gentlemen, for the kind reception you have accorded me in connection with it. Were I in the habit of making speeches, I know of no occasion when I should feel more in the mood than the present, which calls up so many reminiscences of my school days. Were I able to do so, I am afraid I should have to appear in the character of the bad boy and recite some of the laughable experiences of school life, which though they might be fun for you, would be productive of anything but that emotion in the breast of my old teacher Mr. Kimball, who I have no doubt is sitting there thinking of the fearful struggle he had in endeavoring to make me walk in wisdom's pleasant ways.

I beg him, however, to believe that the spirit of fun which so exercised him was but the germ of that talent, which in later years, if it has not done anything for the world's advancement, has, I trust, effected something in furtherance of that gospel of cheerfulness so eloquently advocated by our friend Mr. Fielded of whom we all feel so proud. I am not vain enough to suppose that you expected a speech from me. You only desire an illustration of the sentiment of the toast, I therefore propose to sing you a song, and in order to avoid a visitation from the coat tail committee who are authorized to pull us down in two minutes, I shall do it at once. I have selected the song entitled the "Cork Leg," not because of any special appropriateness for this place, but because of its potency on former occasions in setting things in motion.

I beg to assure you of my warm interest in this celebration by the cheerfulness with which I throw myself into a violent perspiration. Let me add the hope that the sweet influence on this occasion will not close the present exercises, but, like the Dutchman's leg of which I am about to sing to you, go on forever.

11th. Our Army—Portsmouth boys; First to attack and last to retreat.

Capt. J. Albert Sanborn.

Mr. Chairman and Friends:

About nine years ago, during the discussion of a little question between two rather important sections of our country, I had the honor to be connected with a regiment of New Hampshire soldiers. As a part of the regiment, Portsmouth and the Boys' High School was honorably represented in one of the most brilliant and successful charges of the war.

We had stormed one of the strongest batteries in front of Pittsburg; we had captured a large number of prisoners, guns, and materials of war; we had hastily reformed our columns of attack and had attacked and driven the enemy from his second line of works; the fighting had been bloody and victory had been purchased only at the sacrifice of many precious lives, and we were at last gathering together the fragments of our companies, when an Irishman belonging to another company, and who had been through it all, came up to me and said: "Captain, will you be kind enough to let down the hammer of me musket, I never fired a gun in me life."

This is the only son of the Green Isle I ever saw, to whom fighting was not as natural as eating, and I have often thought that through all the dash, daring and excitement of that contest, the relations of Patrick must have been peculiar, and altogether indescribable. But I never expected to be agitated by the same feelings, until your Master of Ceremonies, a few hours ago told me that I was expected to respond to a toast.

And now, Mr. Chairman and friends, although I have been uplifted and borne along by the same deep emotions which have filled all your hearts; although I have grasped the hand and renewed the acquaintance of many schoolmates and companions of earlier years; although my eyes have seen and my ears have heard the glory of the coming of our girls and boys, in these beautiful decorations, inspiring music, and happy smiling faces which even now fill our city with light and joy, yet, when I am set to the dreaded task of making a speech, I feel the request of Patrick is the only figure that will illustrate my dilemma, and I shall ask you, Mr. Toastmaster, to let down the hammer of my musket, for I never fired a shot—of this kind—in my life.

This morning I was honored by an invitation to attend the serenade given by the New York delegation to the friends. In passing along the streets of our city, it was a touching sight to me, to hear one after another of that delegation say to the leader of their band, "Mr. Downing, in this house I was born, here my parents live, will you oblige me by playing "Home Again," or "Here resides my dear old Grandmother, if a kind Providence spares her life a few years longer, she will be 100 years old, please play Sweet Home!" And as the ever dear and familiar notes of these household hymns were wafted through the early morning air, sad or happy and grateful tears would fill their eyes, which they did not attempt or care to restrain. I thought while standing there, "why here are these men of whom we are all proud, our brothers who are winning fame and fortune for themselves in distant cities, and conferring honor upon the city of their birth, and every son and daughter of Portsmouth, but better than honors or fame, or fortune, their hearts are in the right place, they love, remember, and cherish their own." And this my friends is the whole of it. This is the key which has opened all our hearts and doors, this is the impulse which has turned all these many thousand faces homewards to meet with us.

So it was with your soldiers and sailors. We need but recall the names of Stark, Pearson, Whipple, Richards, Gerrish, Goss and many others, or need but recount the flags in yonder cemetery, each marking a soldier's grave to be aware of the fact that our city has placed its full quota upon the altar of sacrifice. Our soldiers possessed those attributes which give distinction to our living sons at home and abroad, and were rich in those qualities which enoble human nature and which obscurity of birth cannot dim, or exalted station guild.

I trust that I may claim for your soldiers that their hearts also were in the right place, that they loved their kindred, their homes and their country, and that they endeavored to do their duty.

16th. Future Reunions—Infinitely more pleasant, May their realization surpass all expectation.

Remarks of Rev. Massena Goodrich:

Mr. President:

It may be asked by some why we should take special interest in a meeting like this. What is there in such an organization that should kindle enthusiasm. I reply that to the start given us in our common schools, most of us are largely indebted for any success we have attained in life. I often think of a story that President Felton of Harvard College related with much glee while living in Cambridge over twenty years ago, I was associated with him one year as a member of the school committee. The story was this. Two boys were overheard talking together. It seems that they had been attending a private school, but had been removed thence to the public school. "I say, Bill," said one of them to the other, "these common schools are a grand institution; they take the starch out of a fellow so." It was a favorite principle with President Felton that the common schools ought to be made so good, that a private school cannot live.

Mr. President, I know that all of us will endorse the sentiment of that boy. In the struggles of life all must eventually find them good. Well, for the youth that have come forth from our city, if the starch was early taken out of them! Experience has shown that in the rough and tumble of life, whatever genuine success they have acquired has resulted from downright energy and straightforward integrity.

I know, Sir, that you agree with President Felton, in the wish that our common schools shall be made so good that they will defy all rivalry; for I recollect that in my school-boy days you were often an active member of the school committee. And now with respect to the sentiment to which I am desired to respond I rejoice that such a union has been formed as has been described here. As years roll on, it will be pleasant for these youths to recall the history of their associates, and to trace one another's career. One consideration which brought me to this celebration was the hope of meeting some of my old school-fellows. There was a little band of twenty in whom I felt special interest. You recollect, Sir, that Mr. J. U. Bourne once taught our High School. At the time he left, many of his pupils sympathized with him, and we presented to him a little testimonial of your regard. As I said, there were twenty who contributed for the object, and I have often tried to recall their names. Half a dozen I recollect. There was Samuel Treat, now U. S. Judge for the southern district of Illinois, there was E. G. Brooks, D. D., now of Philadelphia, there was that gifted young divine, whose form moulders on the shores of the Pacific, T. Starr King, there was A. Tappan Akerman for a time Attorney General under President Grant; there was M. Percy Kennard, a success of merchant in Boston. I would that I could recollect the rest. It is the object of this High School Association to preserve a record of its members, and to keep the chain of friendship unbroken. It is a worthy object. May future meetings recount achievements that shall shed lustre on those who graduated from our High School! May success crown it! And may our dear old city have reason to exclaim of her children, whether they roam abroad, or remain at home as did the Roman matron, these are my jewels!

Railroad Improvement in Portland.

The Portland correspondent of the Boston Journal says: "The important changes and improvements at the Eastern Railroad station here are now well under way. The depot has been thoroughly renovated and painted, new signs put up, and everything made attractive; the western portion widened, and two of the tracks leading westward from the city and that across the street leading to Portland bridge have been removed. The main track running through the depot has been moved south ten feet, graded up to the level with Commercial street, and now runs through the Maine Central depot. The Maine Central depot is to be taken down, when the track now running through it will be straightened by moving it several feet south. As soon as the grading of this track is completed, all Maine Central trains will run directly into the Eastern depot, which is the old Portland, Saco and Portsmouth depot. The removal of the headquarters of the Maine Central from Augusta to Portland has thus practically already taken place. The freight bills of this road are now filled at the Portland freight house of the Eastern road. Mr. George Batchelder, the efficient General Agent here of the Portland division of the Eastern Railroad, has been appointed to a similar position of the Maine Central and is now General Agent of both lines. Mr. W. S. Eaton of this city has been appointed freight agent here of both lines.

The long controversy pending between the Portland, Saco & Portsmouth road on the one side, and Cape Elizabeth, Portland and private parties on the other relative to the crossing at grade by the Portland, Saco & Portsmouth tracks of the highway leading to Cape Elizabeth via Portland bridge, is at last likely to be adjusted. There was a consultation here between Manager C. F. Hatch and Superintendent J. Prescott of the Eastern road and the parties protesting against the crossing, and the result is that a civil engineer is to be set at work to make a plan to be adopted to obviate all objections. The probability is that Commercial street will be bridged over as formerly at Brackett street, and the expense of the same be equitably met by the Eastern road, county and others.

The Train Wreckers.

The Manchester Union says there seems now but little doubt that the story told yesterday by the woman relative to the attempt to wreck the train above Suncook, was in many or all respects false; and the gravest suspicion now rests upon the woman herself.

Her name is Mary Carlton, and she formerly kept a boarding house at No. 12 Manchester Corporation, in that city; she sold out last fall, and subsequently lived on Laurel street, from whence she went to Pittsfield, where she assisted her son in going into the harness business.

The woman has been apprehended, and it seems the story she told does not stand testing. The people with whom she claims to have stopped at Pembroke Street cannot be found. Business transactions which she claims to have had with the Amoskeag Bank and with John T. Moore, cannot be shown. She claims to have got some money from George McAllister, corner Bridge and Chestnut Streets, but this cannot be substantiated. In fact, her whole story seems to be a fabrication, and it is nearly certain that she was either the principal or an accessory in obstructing the track. The matter will be thoroughly investigated.

Mrs. Carleton was taken from Manchester to Concord on Friday by the City Marshal of Concord. It is believed she is a fraud and humbug of the first water.

B. P. Shillaber's Poem.

We have succeeded in obtaining from our friend Shillaber a copy of his excellent poem which was so well received at the Tent on the Fourth, and hasten to lay it before our readers, in accordance with repeated requests to do so. While time is dealing a little roughly with the body, it will be observed that the mind preserves its youthful vigor and is as brilliant and witty as of yore.

Gleam, waves of swift Piscataqua,
Sing, woods on tranquil Kittery's side,
Shout, Newington upon the Bay,
Years of "Greecland's icy," play,
And Old Rye mingle with the tide;

Let "kettle to the trumpet speak,
The trumpet to the cannonier;"
Ring, bells, whose tones o'er Walker's Creek,
Through distant vales, shall echoes seek,
And bring their willing captives here.—

For every heart is full to-day,
And everything that has a record,
Must tributary language pay,
To recognize the genial sway
Of Joy, the season's sovereign lord.

Our good old mother spreads her arms,
To welcome back her sons to-day,
Who come from worldly strifes and harms,
Responsive to the potent charms
That still among them all hold sway.

From scenes afar, with lengthened ranks,
They to her side maternal fly,
Forget the early difeuous spanks
That fell in showers upon their flanks,
When driven abroad their fate to try.

No cause for murmuring at the fact;
'Twas Providence in kind disguise
That sent them off to think and act,
To cultivate the world's great tract,
And make men better and more wise.

This is the mission every "son"
Is obligated to perform;
And, in the lone decisive run,
Invariably it is done,
As all confess with feeling warm.

The pulpit, law, the trades, the mart,
The press and schools, wherever you search,
Perform, it seems, a better part,
With more efficiency and heart,
When trade-marked by the Old North Church.

How wide they're scattered! every land
And every sea some one may show;
From Egypt's yellow glistening sand,
To where the icy floes expand,
And the North Pole sticks thro' the snow.

They take, of course, the foremost place,
With modesty that is not weak,
And soon as seen a Portsmouth face,
Contestants cease to urge the race,
Awed into silence by its cheek.

But aright the record that they show,
In worth and manliness and "stick;"
And every one, as we well know,
Succeeds from the first signal "go!"
And all are virtuous and rich.

But, grandest trait of those who roam:
Their "memory unimpaired" here have rest;
E'en though the hair, like ocean-foam,
Circleth the base of thought's high dome,
They ne'er forget their primal nest.

The "lean and slippered pantaloon,"
Whp "pipes and whistles," minus teeth,
Feeds his whole heart with joy anew,
And all the fires of life's young June
Glowing with ardor underneath.

Twixt farthest Indus and the Pole,
Climes heights, remote from human tread,
You'll find, out on that lofty scroll,
Some name, familiar to your soul,
Carved on the old-time Fountain Head.*

One I remember years aback,
Friend and companion of my youth,
Who early was impelled to pack,
I recuse police were on his track,
For simple error and uncouth.

I heard from him—south, west and east,
At last as being in Fejee,
Tattooed and feathered, sweared and greased,
Presiding o'er a local feast
Among the islands of the sea.

A mother, too, of grotesque mien,
Who mixed wish us in boyhood's day,
Lacking the lively "pistareen,"
Put out from home, two days between,
And vanished from the scenes away.

He for a while from sight was lost,
When an exploring sailor men
Saw him, crouched, cued, upon post,
The admiration of a host—
A heathen god in Hindostan.

So when Eli Gibson disappeared,
—That neverdo-well, the neighbors' tease—
For whom a halt end was feared,
By that contrivance, looped and geared,
Thus settles grave delinquencies.—

After long years had passed away,
A traveller beneath Turkish skies,
Saw, clad in gorgeous array,
With servants rich, in livery gay,
A form that filled him with surprise.

'Twas Bill, whom fate had hither cast,
That his astonished vision saw,
Fanned by four Sudras as he passed,
With money and importance vast,
A real seven-tailed bashaw.‡

So Portsmouth girls in marriage hide,
—Forgotten or unknown their sphere—
But strong and true the tender pride
Which draws them to the river side,
And here again they reappear.

Ever to Portsmouth instincts true,
We find, what time like this imparts,
That, like the old "name of the shoe,"
They duty's line have kept in view,
And in their sphere reigned Queen of Hearts.

If lady's, or if humbler role,
They're called to, you may bet your life
That in the atmosphere of soul,
Where the domestic gods control,
No discount's asked for her as wife.

We fain would kiss sweet Mary Ann,
As erst we did in early youth,
But wholly modify our plan
As we behold THAT OTHER MAN,
And fear to risk our only tooth.

Why all don't marry, we might quiz,
But if for lack of love or pelf,
That is their own especial "biz;"
We only know that what is, is,
And each knows how it is herself.

Now "home again," but oh, how changed
Each scene, beneath the flight of years!
Tho old-time scenery deranged,
The good old neighborhoods estranged—
Recalled through memory and tears.

We scarce a single road retrace,
—The schools and play grounds disappeared—
We follow "Old Arthur" to replace,
We miss the "great Rocks" to honest face,
The "willows" that our boyhood cheered.

"Peahallow's field" has left no sign,
And structures rise o'er former sites,
Where eager boyhood watched the shine
Of lightning from the cloudy line,
O'er "Christian Shore" on Summer nights.

Growth, growth, though scarce perceived at home,
Steals silently along each track;
Noted the more by those who roam,
—Seeds germinant in kindred loam,—
Hiding the path on looking back.

And where are they, the loving ones,
We left behind, when forth we came?
Dear, unsubsidized, homeless homes
They're had their "innings" and their "runs"
And long ago closed up the game.

Yet here and there a form we meet,
Time-honored relics of the past;
With dimming eyes and lagging feet,
Who our returning presence greet,
Tried, true and faithful to the last.

The capillary ducts may dry,
The nerves by age may be unstrung,
Passion no more may fire the eye;—
But though the faculties decay,
The heart will evermore be young.

I met Apollo here to-day,
—As full of genius as an egg.—
With music, art and verse in play,
As actively as when away
I went, my destiny to beg.

'Twas MOSES, not of Horeb fame,
But gentle, tasteful Thomas P.,
Whose heart is fit with art's true flame,
—Self-fed, the more to others' shame—
A martyr to the Graces three.

And here we meet much native skies,
With cheerfulness and genius blent;
And our old mother's kindly eyes
Have looked to all our small supplies,
On hospitality in-TENT.

God bless her,—bless us, every one!
Give pleasure unrestricted power,
And every daughter, every son,
When Care again the field hath won,
Shall breathe a blessing on this hour.

The harp that twenty years ago
Made some prefence to lyric fire,
Now halts and slackens in its flow,
Like cold molasses, running slow,
And is at best a feeble lyre.

Yet while its cords can sound a strain,
If not so musical and grand,
'Twill true to this sweet thought remain
That brings us, children, home again,
Beside our mother's knee to stand.

SELAH.

How to Baffle Disease.

The man who puts a bullet through his head dies more speedily than he who is continually sending volleys of strong, cathartic pills down his throat, but the drastic pellets are as much in the end as the leaden ball. The only question of time. Common sense should teach everybody that the idea of expelling disease by subverting the bodily vigor which is its natural antagonist, is supremely absurd. There should be no purgation without invigoration and regulation. These three processes should go on together and they will do it in all cases where Hostetter's Stomach Bitters are used as a remedy for disease or for the general debility flowing out of a torpid state of the digestive and secretive organs. In this great vegetable restorative are mingled three essential elements of curative, preliminary, alterative and general and anti-bilious element. By these means dyspepsia, bilious disorders, intermittent fevers, sick headache, constipation, and nervous debility are readily cured and epidemic disease prevented.

Pints and quarts of filthy catarrhal discharges. Where does it come from? The mucous membrane lining the chambers of the nose, and its little glands, are diseased, so that they draw from the blood its liquid, and exposure to the air changes it into corruption. This life liquid was to build up the system, but it is extracted and the system is weakened by the loss. To cure, gain strength by using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which also acts directly upon these glands, correcting them, and apply Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy with Dr. Pierce's Nasal Douche, the only one reaching the upper cavities, where the discharge accumulates and comes from. The instrument and two medicines sold for $2, by all Druggists. 688

It was a day in mid-summer;
The boiler had burst;
Four-and-thirty brave fellows
Lay mangled in the dust.

Our hearts melted with sorrow;
With lightning speed we sent,
Thinking only of the glad to-morrow,
If we found the Centaur Liniment.

Well, we found it at Lindsley's store, three miles away; but it did its work, saved pain, inflammation, and suffering.

The Centaur Liniment always does its work, whether it be for scalds, bruises, rheumatism, stiff joints or lameness.

But this to us is an old story. Why will any suffer? Come all ye halt, lame and sore, and be healed for a dollar or fifty cents, and if you haven't that, then for nothing. We know what the Centaur Liniment is, and will warrant it every time.

Cripples throw away their crutches and leap for joy. Horses weigh for it. When Centaur Liniment comes in the front gate, pain flies out at the window

If you would sleep without pain, walk without limping—straighten out that crooked knee, use those rheumatic-distorted fingers, or get rid of a horrid neuralgia, just use the Centaur Liniment. (White wrapper.)

The other kind (yellow wrapper) is just as effective upon your lame horses and mules. A wonder, says one; a miracle, says another.

The article is selling as no other article ever sold, and it only sells because it cures. See the certificate around the bottle. Sold by all Druggists.

There are several others in this place taking the VEGETINE, and all have obtained relief. Yours truly,

MR. H. R. STEVENS:

Dear Sir.—Through the advice and earnest persuasion of Rev. A. Beck, of this place, I have been taking VEGETINE for Dyspepsia, of which I have suffered for years. I have used only two bottles, and already feel myself a new man. Yours, truly,

My daughter has received great benefit from the use of VEGETINE. Her declining health was a source of great anxiety to all of her friends. A few bottles of the VEGETINE restored her health, strength and appetite.

What I Know About Vegetine.

SOUTH BOSTON, May 9, 1870.

H. R. STEVENS, Esq.:

Dear Sir—I have had considerable experience with the VEGETINE. For Dyspepsia, General Debility and impure blood, the VEGETINE is superior to anything which I have ever used. I commenced taking VEGETINE about the middle of last winter and after using a few bottles it entirely cured me of dyspepsia, and my blood never was in so good condition as at the present time. It will afford me pleasure to give any further particulars relative to what I know about this good medicine, to any one who will call or address me at my residence, 380 Athens Street.

IRON IN THE BLOOD.

DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, DROPSY AND HUMORS.

PERUVIAN SYRUP

Makes The Weak Strong.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to dispose the character of an ailment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the vegetable food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning the Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and wasteful decay and throwing out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is one secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, imparting strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building upon an Iron Foundation.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, lifeless, suffering creatures to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

Laconics.

Rev. Dr. John Lord, whose reputation as lecturer is as wide as the English language, will lecture in the North Church, on Sabbath evening next at 8 o'clock. Subject, "Moses." The public are cordially invited, and are promised a rare treat. Dr. Lord is a native of Portsmouth, and has been in town "celebrating."

The annual Exhibition of the Boys' High School occurs on Monday next.

A young man named Murphy, son of a respectable Irishman, residing in Hunking street in this city, succeeded in making things a little lively at the South End on Friday by getting drunk and assaulting his paternity. The father was perhaps a little indiscreet, in dealing his progeny several well-directed blows in the face, but no man has a right to say what he would do under such sad circumstances as those of a son filled with hellish liquor entering his father's house to tear and rave, and turn the quiet home into a pandemonium. It is not our business or privilege as journalists to tear away the veil which sacredly screens the domestic circle from public view. Hence we cannot trace the cause of this family difficulty, and only can conjecture that as rum will change a kind-hearted, good-natured man into a wild and hideous demon, its transforming influence had been at work in this instance, and the form it took and the words it uttered are too loathsome and disgusting to describe. Suffice it to say that young Murphy, who is about 20 years old, got drunk on Friday morning, and going home at noon commenced abusing his father, who was peaceably eating his dinner. The father attempted to quiet him, but without effect. High words ensued and a fight was the result. Razors and fists were freely used, and the neighborhood of Hunking street,—hitherto distinguished for its quietude—disgracefully disturbed. Young Murphy was at last arrested and locked up.

This (Saturday) evening Civil Engineer B. F. Chandler will celebrate the 21st anniversary of his appointment to the charge of the civil engineering department at this navy yard, by a social reunion of his friends at his residence on what was formerly Seavey's Island, where he will be pleased to see them all. Steamer Emerald will leave the navy yard landing at the foot of Daniel street at 7:40 this evening, returning from the yard at a quarter before 10 o'clock.

It was with difficulty people could keep warm on Friday, so cold and damp was the weather. An overcoat would have been acceptable in the street, while in doors a coal fire would not have been uncomfortable.

Strawberries are bidding adieu to us for the present, and in their stead, blueberries, cherries, currants and other fruits are tempting our palates. Cucumbers, green apples and other cholera promoters have also made their appearance.

A Good Deed.

John H. Eastburn, for many years the City Printer of Boston, died recently, leaving a large estate, which he bestowed most judiciously on numerous charitable Societies, and deserving relatives, friends and acquaintances. Col. Eastburn never forgot that he was a Printer; and numerous are his legacies to the craft. And we are glad to see that among his long list, he marked down $1000 to his old and valued friend B. P. Shillaber. He couldn't ha' done better and we hope the recipient may live a year for each dollar, and his shadow (not his shadows) increase.

State News.

Daniel Beede of Fremont, while loading a load of hay on the 4th, was thrown from the load and his head striking against a drag rake, one of the teeth was run through the back part of his neck. Although unconscious for several hours and unable as yet to walk, Mr. Beede is slowly recovering.

A Keene girl named Kate McIntire, was seriously injured at a picnic on Friday by the accidental discharge of a pistol in the hands of a young man named O'Brien. The ball entered her body just above the hip-joint, making a bad and painful wound. She was immediately brought home and attended by Dr. Twitchell, and is likely to recover.

Otis M. Brown, of Contoocook, had a severe contest with a monster black snake, 12 feet long; but as he had no weapon at hand the critter escaped.

Wednesday morning, Frank Prescott an employe in the Winnipiseogee Paper Mill, while stepping over a shaft, had the cloth in one leg of his pantaloons caught by a set-screw, drawing the leg under the shaft and fracturing it in two places before he was extricated.

A store and dwelling combined, in Ossipee, occupied by Daniel Glidden, was burnt a few days ago.

Thomas Sullivan and William T. Searle, of Pittsfield, were arrested Tuesday on a charge of stealing a gold watch and chain from Mrs. Sarah A. Foss. Sullivan plead guilty, and implicated Searle. Both were bound over.

The Democrat says Rev. Clarence Fowle pastor of the Unitarian church in Laconia, being taken suddenly sick last Sabbath morning, his wife, Mrs. Emma S. Fowler, occupied the platform and conducted the services in place of her husband. No one was aware of the change until she took her place and announced it. She conducted herself with the modesty of a blushing school girl, combined with the ease and dignity of a pulpit vete an.

Our Boys Abroad.

The following epistle from a son of Portsmouth will explain itself:

NEW BEDFORD, MASS., July 8th.

Kearsarge Engine Co., Portsmouth, Gentlemen:—I was much pleased to see the active part you took in the warm and generous reception home of the Sons and Daughters on the 4th and was particularly pleased with a device carried in the march, showing your Co. as playing on the Old South Church in the great Boston Fire. That decoration was exceedingly well chosen, and forcibly reminded me of a little incident in the past. We here at New Bedford did not get to hear of any fire till noon on Sunday (no operator being at the office before,) and at two o'clock P. M. our Engine was ready to start. Then hours were consumed in telegraphing Providence to get the right of way on the lines, and the engine only got to Boston about six o'clock P. M. on Sunday. As soon as they were fairly off, I went home and remarked to Mrs. Libbey, that "I would bet $100 old Portsmouth had a steamer playing on the fire before daylight this morning." She laughed at me, but sure enough when our Monday morning papers came, there it was as large as life, "Kearsarge from Portsmouth had a stream of water on the fire at six o'clock Sunday morning, and rendered efficient service."

I was very proud of you for the pushing energy which overcame all obstacles, and brought you to the one front of the battle with so much credit to yourselves, and honor to dear old Portsmouth. I trust you will yet have many opportunities to distinguish yourselves, and feel sure that you will never be found wanting in danger-hour. Portsmouth has again doubly endeared herself to her absent Sons and Daughters by the warmth of our reception home, and I trust we may all constantly endeavor to carry ourselves in such a manner that she may be as proud of us as we are of her and all her belongings.

Very respectfully yours,

HENRY LIBBEY.

THE ORANGEMEN'S PARADE.

From threats which have been made in certain quarters, and intelligence which has been furnished to the police authorities, there are grave apprehensions of trouble between the Catholic Irish and the Orangemen of New York on the occasion of the parade of the latter to-day. The Commissioners and Inspectors of Police were in close consultation with Superintendent Matsell Thursday, offering and receiving suggestions as to the best method of disposing the force to promptly suppress any riotous demonstrations which may be made. It is said that the police authorities do not intend to call on the military this time, as they believe the force is fully able to cope with all the turbulent spirits that will make their appearance in the streets on that day. A portion of the police force, comprising men who have served in the army, and who are accustomed to handling arms, are furnished with rifles of a new breach-loading pattern, to be used in case of riot.

THE BOARD OF HEALTH of the City of Portsmouth call the attention of the public to the following sections of City Ordinances No. 4 and No. 100, and invite all interested in the preservation of health in the City to aid them in the execution of their duty.

ORDINANCE No. 4.

SEC. 3. All waste water of houses, yards, cellars, sinks, pumps, &c., shall be conveyed by their owners or occupiers to the common sewers, or to such places as the Health Officers may direct.

SEC. 4. No person shall be allowed to throw any vegetable or dead animal substance, or any other matter capable of producing infection into any street, lane, alley or dock, or upon any wharf, but shall bury them or throw them into the river below low water mark.

SEC. 5. The contents of vaults and privies shall not be permitted to rise within one foot of the surface of the earth. And all owners or occupiers of buildings having such vaults or privies as may require it, shall cause them to be emptied within ten days from the promulgation of this ordinance, and in future on or before the first day of May in each year. And any such owner or occupier neglecting so to do, shall forfeit and pay for every such neglect a sum not less than three or more than twenty dollars, and a like sum for every week's neglect after the time above specified.

SEC. 11. The health officers may give written notice to the owner or occupier of any building, vessel or enclosure, to remove or destroy any nuisance or other things deemed by them, on examination, to be injurious to the public health, within a certain time limited therein; and in case such owner or occupier—the said notice having been given to him, or left at his usual place of abode—shall neglect to comply therewith, the said health officers may, by direction of the Mayor accompanied by the city marshal, forcibly enter such building, vessel, or enclosure, and cause the said nuisance or other thing aforesaid to be removed or destroyed.

SEC. 14. The owner or occupier of any building, vessel or enclosure shall be liable to pay the expense of the removal or destruction of any such nuisance or lother thing, as aforesaid, including fees of the health officers who order or cause the same to be removed; and the same may be recovered by action to be brought in the name of the city.

SEC. 17. Any person or persons who shall violate any rule or regulation, or commit any act forbidden in any section of this ordinance, to which no special penalty is annexed, shall forfeit and pay a sum not less than one dollar nor more than twenty dollars, to be recovered by complainant before the police court of this city.

Navy Department.

BUREAU OF CONSTRUCTION AND REPAIR, WASHINGTON, June 21, 1873.

SEALED PROPOSALS will be received at the Bureau until 12 o'clock noon, August 7, 1873, for the construction, including all the materials except the live oak timber, of the hull of a sloop-of-war of about 640 tons measurement, complete for sea service. Plans and specifications in detail for the hull, showing the work to be done, may be seen and examined at this Bureau, and at the Commandant's Office at the Navy Yards at Philadelphia, Brooklyn, Charlestown and Kittery, on and after the 6th of July next.

The hull must be completed in all respects according to the contract and specifications; the materials must be of the best quality, and the work must be done in the best manner, and the vessel be delivered at such Navy Yard on the Atlantic coast as the Department may direct in eight months from the date and signing of the contract.

Payments will be made as the work progresses, in proportionate amounts, reserving the usual percentage until the final completion and acceptance of the vessel.

The bids must be accompanied with the guarantee required by law, that if the contract is awarded, it will be promptly executed, and the names of the parties who are to become the sureties to the amount of the face of the contract will also be stated.

The Department reserves the right to accept or reject any or all bids which, in its opinion, are not to the public interest.

Bids will only be accepted from parties who are known shipbuilders, and to have the necessary facilities for doing the work. cawjl

R. H. EDDY,
SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs.

No. 76 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON.

After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of Inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity for a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges. HARD WHITE ASH COAL.
FREE BURNING WHITE ASH COAL.
SHAMOKIN WHITE ASH COAL.
SHAMOKIN RED ASH COAL.
NORTH FRANLIN COAL.
LYKENS VALLEY COAL.

In order that all coal shall be shipped in good order, a most rigid system of inspection, both at the mines and at the shipping ports, will at all times be enforced. In every district of the coal region there will be appointed a number of competent persons skilled in the preparation of coal, as local inspectors, whose duty it will be to visit the several collieries daily to see that a proper force is at all times employed in removing slate, and to prevent, if possible, any coal being sent from the mines in bad order. In addition to these efforts at prevention, no mine will be left untried at the shipping ports to cure the evils of careless preparation. At Schuylkill Haven, Port Clinton and Port Richmond, ALL COAL WILL BE SUBMITTED TO THE PERSONAL EXAMINATION OF A SKILLED INSPECTOR BEFORE IT IS SHIPPED, and if condemned by him, will be dumped in places provided for the purpose, and before being loaded into vessels WILL BE THOROUGHLY RE-PICKED AND CLEANED BY HAND.

SEWING MACHINE SALES

For 1872.

BY comparison of Statistics from sworn returns of the sales of Sewing Machines for 1871 and 1872, it shows that the

"DOMESTIC"

SEWING MACHINE CO.'S sales have increased over 375 Per Cent., while no other Co.s' sales have increased over 36 per cent., proving the great popularity of the "DOMESTIC."

Annexed are the percentage of gain, of the leading makers:

Domestic Sewing Machine Co.,	gain	375	per cent.

Wilcox & Gibbs	"	"	"	12	"
Wilson	"	"	"	8	"

Other Machine Co.'s sales show a loss over the year before.

If the increase in sales be any criterion of merit, the "DOMESTIC" bears the palm.

The "DOMESTIC" works so easy, it is working itself into every family.

The "DOMESTIC" runs so light, it is distancing all competitors. It only asks a few days trial.

The "DOMESTIC" is recommended by the Medical Faculty.

IN A DENTIST'S CHAIR.

If Spivens is to be believed, there was recently an extraordinary case of dental surgery in this city. He says that a friend of his wife visited a dentist on —— street, for the purpose of having a tooth extracted. It was an eye tooth. Spivens accompanied his friend for the purpose of favoring him him with a little sympathy over the shoulder. It is so pleasant to witness the agony of a friend, and to advise him to bear it like a man.

The dentist seated his patient in a chair, lanced his gums, applied his forceps, and gave a vigorous pull. The tooth was wrenched from its sockets, and came out easily enough, but the root hung fire. Either it was a very long root or it stretched. In fact, the dentist has exhausted his reach, and the root is not yet entirely out.

Spiqens ventured to inquire if the root was not unusually long; but the dentist was not going to admit that anything could happen that had not already occurred in his experience.

"Not at all," he replied; "I have often pulled teeth whose roots reached down to the hips."

He mounted a chair and took another pull. He thus succeeded in getting away with a yard of the tooth, but the root continued to hang. At the same time the patient's leg, below the knee, was violently jerked up.

Spivens ventured to say that this was surely an unusual case.

"It is a little singular," replied the dentist; but I once pulled a tooth whose roots reached down to the man's knees."

Having thus distinguished his questioner, he tied his patient to the chair and straightened out his leg by putting it in splints. Then he took the forceps over his shoulder and walked away like a deck hand going up a bank with a bow line.

When he reached the parlor door he braced himself against the jamb, and laid back for a final pull.

The tooth popped out this time, but the dentist made the most noise when he reached the floor.

Spivens jumped forward and picked up the latter end of that tooth. The root had two prongs, and on the end of each prong was a toenail.

"That's what hurt you so," said Spivens, consoling his friend, whose screams had been somewhat annoying, "Never mind; it will be all the same a hundred years hence. Don't you think, doctor, that this is rather the most unusual case that ever happened in your practice?"

"I am inclined to believe that it is the most singular case of its class," replied that imperturbable dentist; "but I once extracted a tooth for one of the Siamese twins, the roots of which extended through the bodies of both, and at the end was a corresponding tooth from the mouth of the other. It was a good thing for Chang, for whom I pulled the tooth, but bad for Eng, whose tooth happened to be sound."

Spiven's friend had such a high respect for the dentist that he told that he might keep the tooth for his pay.

Some incredulous people may accuse this story of being too thin; but they are mistaken—it is tooth out.

Soc Francis, son of Gov. Francis of the Passamaquoddy tribe, was accidentally shot at Pleasant Point, Me., Thursday, while taking his gun from a canoe. The ball passed through his eye, killing him instantly.

IN PAWN.

[Biddeford Times.]

Recently a man all the way from Kennebunk got drunk on Biddeford tanglefoot and was lodged in the station. He was taken before Judge Jellison and fined, but having no money he left his coat and watch as security and went home to get the money. Yesterday he returned to town and redeemed his property, paying his fine. It so happened that he had two dollars left after paying his fine. The temptation to try another glass in this city was too strong to be resisted and last night he was fished out of the gutter. Being again brought before the Judge he was fined $5, and costs. As he had no money to pay, he again left his coat for security and went home for more money.

The Great South American Blood Purifier.

JURUBEBA

IS THE MOST POWERFUL CLEANSER, strengthener and renover of Glandular Obstructions known to Materia Medica.

IT IS SPECIALLY ADAPTED to constitutions "worn down" and debilitated by the warm weather of Spring and Summer, when the blood is not in active circulation, consequently gathering impurities from sluggishness and imperfect action of the secretive organs, and is manifested by Tumors, Eruptions, Blotches, Boils, Pustules, &c., &c.

WHEN WEARY AND LANGUID from overwork, and dullness, drowsiness and inertia take the place of energy and vigor, the system needs a TONIC to build it up and help the Vital Forces to regain their recuperative power.

IN THE HEAT OF SUMMER, frequently the LIVER and SPLEEN do not properly perform their functions; the Uterine and Urinary Organs are inactive, producing weakness of the stomach and intestines and a predisposition to bilious derangement.

Dr. WELLS'

EXTRACT OF JURUBEBA

is prepared directly from the SOUTH AMERICAN PLANT, and is peculiarly suited to all these difficulties; it will cleanse the VITIATED BLOOD, strengthen the LIFE-GIVING POWERS, and REMOVE ALL OBSTRUCTIONS from IMPAIRED and ENFEEBLED Organs.

IT SHOULD BE FREELY TAKEN, as Jurubeba is pronounced by medical writers the most efficient PURIFIER, TONIC and DEOBSTRUENT known in the whole range of medicinal plants.

The Editorial Excursion.

Getting Up and Coming Down—A Short Trip—Ten miles. Colebrook and Connecticut Lake—Country Circulation—On to Dixville Notch.

COLEBROOK, N. H., July 9.

Since the Editorial Association started on the annual excursion, there has been a constant succession of novelties and hardly time for rest. Landlord Corning, of the Lancaster House, was the first to take charge of the party, and made everything pleasant. Here we first discovered these ancient vegetables known in heathen mythology as field strawberries—so long agone in Strawberry Bank that they are almost forgotten. Here, too, were a plentitude of trout, which delighted the palate of the Aurora delegate. As the time approached for the arrival of trains to take us north on Tuesday, a secession took place and a score of us found ourselves whirling along to Littleton and back to Bethlehem, and from thence to the Twin Mountain House, cided among ten thousand—more or less. Mount Washington was the object of the expedition, and an extra train was to take us to the summit. Then divers of the party gave up the expedition until but three would attempt it, and the train didn't go up the mountain for three, you understand. "We three" partook of an alarming dinner, the gentleman from Mobile declaring that the waiters were such confounded distinguished looking gentlemen that he could not ask for food. They anticipated his wishes, however. A Concord publisher, the Mobilian and yours truly arrived at the base of Mount Washington before seven P. M. and started on foot up the railway just as a shower came on. Five twenties wouldn't induce this deponent to repeat that weary march. The Concordian did it in two hours and sent a signal officer after the other two, who arrived fifty-one minutes after, drenched to the skin, with aching lungs and thankful hearts. Mount Washington is dismal enough on a pleasant day, but enveloped in clouds is a good specimen of nature's utmost horror. Capt. Dodge prepared lunch and put us under blankets, tired but wiser men—as it were. We had become lowly in spirit and fain would rest—but daylight brought us to our feet to see a wide expanse of clouds, driving mist and rocks. Then strayed we out into the coming day and clambered down the foot-path to Marshfield in just two hours. Then the clouds swept off the brow of Washington as we bounced through the mud and over the rocks for that haven of rest, the Twin Mountain House, arriving too late for the train. The Mobilian and his companion had breakfasted at Littleton the day before on red crackers at a total cost of five cents. Now, he enjoyed the best dinner of his life, which he only left to take a seat in Col. Barron's wagon behind a $1000 span, that we might reach Whitefield in time to connect with the train bound for the remaining members of the party, who were doing Connecticut Lake. We had the pleasure of being driven to Mount Washington and back by Mr. Cutting, the sharpest agent on the mountain stage line, and now Col. Barron took the ribands. The reminiscences of these two days' rides will long linger in our memory. Making a junction with the train at Whitefield, we were joined by other friends at Lancaster, came on to North Strafford and dined and are now esconced in Mr. Remick's Parsons House, the only place in this country where the first guest who arrives gets the best room. Two hours later came in the party from Connecticut Lake with the irrepressible Fisk twanging the fish horn. He has seen a sixteen pound trout at Connecticut Lake and was celebrating with sound of cymbals. When Jericho is rebuilt and goes down again, Fisk is to contract for the job of razing it. This evening, the party was serenaded by the Colebrook Band, an excellent organization, worthy of the finest town in Coos.

On Tuesday noon, most of the party left Lancaster going over the B. C. & M. R. R. to Groveton, thence by Grand Trunk to North Stratford. After dining, coaches were filled and the party were driven through Colebrook to the villages of Stewartstown, N. H. and Canaan, Vt.; where quarters were provided for the night in hotels of both towns which are separated by the Connecticut river. After supper, the visitors started for a trip to Canada, crossing the line a mile distant, and saluting the Queen, returned to their respective hotels.

Bright and early, the party started for Connecticut Lake, going through a beautiful country with fine farms on each side of the road, with the everlasting hills in the background. Arrived at the lake, the party went on board the steamer "Honest John" and went on the lake, and after a trip of two hours landed and dined, returning in the afternoon to Colebrook, where they quartered for the night.

At the business meeting at Lancaster, Monday evening, a series of resolutions asking the repeal of the law preventing the circulation of weekly newspapers in their own county, were postponed by reference to a special committee to report in January.

Thursday, we go to Dixville Notch, returning home via the Profile. Among the guests of the party are Hon. Nelson Dingley, Jr., Maine's next Governor, Geo. A. Marden of the Lowell Courier, Geo. S. Merrill of the Lawrence American, and Luther L. Holden, the Boston Journal's balloonist and mountaineer. A jolly party they are, and the feast of reason as we picnic at Dixville Notch is liable to be racy. G.

Dixville Notch—A Wonderful Region—Numerous Attractions—A Picnic—Table Rock—Social Speech Making.

COLEBROOK, N. H., July 10.

At 8 o'clock this morning, the party took carriages for Dixville Notch and were well repaid for the ride of ten miles. The same evidences of thrift observed heretofore abounded on the route. The wonders of Dixville Notch are half untold. The Crawford Notch is its inferior in attractiveness and wildness of scenery. The road through Dixville Notch is rocky and abounds in hills. The mountains rise perpendicularly and are capped by bare rocks resembling huge pillars and forming indeed "castles in the air." These rocks are of a character entirely distinctive from any other mountain range, quartz being found at rare intervals. Hammered and broken, the pieces form a parallelogram in every case, and serve as stairways for ascent, resembling petrified wood. The ride down the Notch is precipitous and evoked expressions of disapprobation from the ladies. About three miles from the entrance, the party picnicked, a long table laden with an abundant and most palatable store having been laid. The only drawback was the incessant attack of myriads of almost invisible insects on the ladies and gentlemen. Riding down the Notch, we discovered that the Profile had a rival, for there was an unmistakable stone face revealed against the southern sky on the right, though not in features resembling the "Old Man of the Mountain." The Notch has its flume and cascades also, and they are no less interesting than the Pool and the Silver Cascade. At the meeting of the Association this evening, the name of Prof. Huntington was given to the cascades, which are hereafter to be known as Huntington Cascades. On the ride to the Notch, the members of the party in the first carriage dignified a high mountain spur on the north with the name "Shaw's Head," in honor of the gentleman from Mobile. On the return, half the editorial party and some of the ladies climbed the rugged side of "Table Rock," Portsmouth doing it in sixteen minutes and returning in eighteen. The scene from the summit is the grandest of New Hampshire's mountain region. Thirty feet below the summit is an ice cave of unknown depth, filled with snow and ice.

This evening, the Association held a social meeting at Colebrook Town Hall, the citizens attending. President Cogswell presided. Speeches were made by Hon. Nelson Dingley, Jr., Maine's next Governor, Messrs. Elwell, of the Portland Transcript, Merrill of the Lawrence American, Haskell of the Boston Herald, Marden of the Lowell Courier, Hon. George G. Fogg of Concord, Col. Henry O. Kent of Lancaster, Col. William H. Hackett of Portsmouth and John M. Hill of Concord. Mr. Ross of the Boston Advertiser, read a facetious poem, and Mr. L. L. Holden, of the Boston Journal, read a letter from Prof. Huntington, regarding the phenomena at Dixville Notch, from which it seems that the Notch was probably formed by an upheaval in the glacial period and has been washed out by passing glaciers. A confirmation of this theory is found in the fact that a short distance from the Notch a mountain of rock has been rent in twain to an unfathomable depth.

The party leave for the Twin Mountain House to-morrow at six A. M., and go from thence to the Profile to remain over Sunday, returning home Monday. G.

Alleged Confession of the Murderer of Goodrich.

It is reported in New York that the woman Stoddard has confessed that she killed Goodrich with her own hand while crazed with jealousy. From statements made at Police Headquarters there appears to be no doubt that her accomplice was the Spaniard Roscoe. Later dispatches confirm it.

Kate Stoddard, the alleged murderer, has made a full confession of her connection with the Goodrich murder, and says that the revolver found in her trunk was the weapon with which she killed Goodrich. Every article of property taken by her from the premises she seems to have preserved. Since the time of the tragedy she has had a terrible struggle for life. Working at times as a sewing girl, she made money enough to buy bread. At other times she was compelled to sell her old clothes for sustenance, but curiously enough while thus at the verge of starvation she kept the jewelry and money of her victim lying untouched in her trunk. She had two trunks, both of which were taken possession of by the police. In one of them was found an immense package of letters from her father and mother. These letters show that her home is at Middleborough, Mass., and that her real name is Minnie Waltham. The letters are carefully and kindly written, showing the old people to be full of solicitude for the moral and material welfare of their daughter. There is nothing at all to justify the supposition that they knew anything about the crime. In addition to these letters from her parents, two were found from Goodrich, making arrangements to meet her.

The following is the statement of the woman herself to the police relative to the murder and how it was committed: "She had been living with "Charlie," as she called the deceased, and was greatly attached to him. He wanted to cast her off, but she loved him so much that she could not leave him. She entreated on her knees that he would allow her to remain, but he was firm, and in fact was brutal in his treatment of her; and the Thursday before the Friday the body was found was the day fixed for her to leave him, he threatening her with all sorts of things if she dared to trouble him further. She says that she loved the man so much that she could not leave him, and that when she saw him determined to discard her, she worked herself up to murder him. She had one of his revolvers in her pocket, not the one which the detectives found lying at the house beside the corpse, and while Goodrich was stooping down on hand and knee, in the act of lighting the heater, she drew the pistol, and extending her hand toward him she said: "Charlie!" He looked up, and she shot him three times. These were the fatal wounds which the post mostem examination disclosed.

After she committed the murder on Thursday morning, she waited all day and night in the house watching it. On Friday morning she had occasion to go to New York, and early that morning she washed the blood from the face of the murdered man with a towel, which she afterward wrung out, and which was also found damp by the police. She it was who fixed the corpse as it was discovered, and when she had done this she went over to New York for something or other, and was about to return to the house that Friday evening. She went over to Fulton Ferry, and she had but fairly put her foot on the street when she heard the newsboys crying out, "Extra! Murder of Charles Goodrich." She bought a paper, returned to New York, and the rest is known. She states, "I killed him for love, I couldn't part with him."

There are some features in the woman's history and her deportment that seem to justify the belief already prevalent in certain quarters that she is insane. The daughter of the lady at whose house Kate Stoddard resided stated that she came there in the second or third week in April. She said she was employed in New York and wished a furnished room. She used to do light straw work. She made hats very prettily. She used to go to work every morning, and and came back at evening regularly for the first month or so, until three weeks ago, when she did her work at home and took it over in parcels when finished. She never had a friend call or received a letter. We never saw her associate with any one. She spoke of her relations, but her story was false, as we have learned since. She said her father lived at Trenton, N. J., and that her mother was dead. She said too that she intended to visit him on the 4th of July, and we expected her to go, but she didn't.

She used to bring her meals to her rooms and eat there. Some bread, pickles, etc., were found by the police yesterday. Sometimes, however, when she came down for hot water or anything, we would ask her to eat with us, which she did. I should judge she is from 25 to 28 years of age. She is slim and thin featured, has light hair and is a perfect lady in her manners. She has evidently been brought up in good circumstances from her speech and deportment. She had several dresses, not expensive, but neat. She exercised great taste in her dress and was always very clean. Her room was always tidy and in good order, and we thought her a perfect lady. She used to hire a piano, which she played upon. She was not a good player, but she said that she was very fond of music. She never veiled her face when she went out; went out whenever she had occasion to; was fond of going to Mr. Beecher's church. She used to attend every Sunday regularly. On Tuesday she left about nine o'clock in the morning, when the police came.

A reporter was informed that Kate Stoddard had attempted to commit suicide. He went to the police authorities, but they denied any knowledge of the matter. Coroner Whitehill, however, said, "she has not attempted suicide, but there is no doubt she would if an opportunity presented. She has begged and prayed ever since she has been satisfied that her guilt was proven to be left alone. There is a woman with her all the time, and on repeated occasions she has made this request, urging it with tears in her eyes, "Let me be alone, if only for a few minutes, for God's sake," she said, and asked the woman in charge to take pity on her. This was at the second precinct station house in the captain's room, where she is confined. She will not be left alone, a female attendant watching over her day and night.

The New Haven Palladium publishes the particulars of a disgraceful social affair of which the other New Haven papers have contained many indefinite rumors. It seems that Alfred D. Goodyear, a well-known money lender, who owns a cottage on the West Haven shore, repaired to it last week with his little son and a woman of bad reputation. His wife on Friday went to the cottage to remove her child and was most brutally used by her husband, who kicked and beat her until she was almost insensible. The unfortunate woman was cared for by strangers and at length reached her home.

On the evening of July 4th James Crosier of Halifax shot and killed his son-in-law, William Smith, during a drunken altercation. The two had been spending the day at Green River Village, in Guilford, had partaken plentifully of the ardent, and on their return home, in the course of a dispute, from words came blows. Smith knocked his father-in-law down, pounded him severely, and threw him out of doors. The old man was badly bruised and stunned; but, rushing into the house, he seized a loaded shot gun, and aiming it at Smith shot him dead. Crosier has always sustained a good reputation as a peaceable, law-abiding citizen, while the son-in-law, when under the influence of liquor, has always been ugly and quarrelsome. The homicide was committed to jail to await action of the Grand Jury in September.

LORD GORDON.

The case of "Lord" Gordon-Gordon, whose attempted kidnapping by Western officers has been reported, excited much comment among the brokers and bankers of Wall and Broad streets. Recently efforts have been made to induce Lord Gordon to leave Fort Garry, Canada, and come to the United States. Mr. Osborn, of the firm of Osborn & Chapin, who were Gordon's bankers, when asked about the arrest said he knew of it, and all he did know was that Gordon was a swindler. Mr. Jay Gould was also asked about the arrest of Gordon, but said he knew nothing concerning it. Mr. William Belden of Park avenue, who is now in California, told a prominent broker before his departure that Gordon was a "fraud." The total amount of which Gordon is said to have defrauded Gould is about $800,000, and it is to recover this money or a portion of it that suits have been instituted against Gordon, and the attempts made as stated to get the "Lord" once more on American soil.

How to Baffle Disease.

The man who puts a bullet through his head dies more speedily than he who is continually sending volleys of strong, cathartic pills down his throat, but the drastic pellets are as fatal in the end as the leaden ball. It is only a question of time. Common sense should teach everybody that the idea of expelling disease by subverting the bodily vigor which is its natural antagonist, is supremely absurd. There should be no purgation without invigoration and regulation. These three processes should go on together and they do so in all cases where Hostetter's Stomach Bitters are used as a remedy for disease or for the general debility growing out of a torpid state of the digestive and secretive organs. In this great vegetable restorative are mingled three ease natial elements of cure: a purifying element, a tonic element and an anti-bilious element. By these means dyspepsia, bilious disorders, intermittent fevers, sick headache, constipation, and nervous debility are readily cured and epidemic disease prevented.

Pints and quarts of filthy Catarrhal discharges. Where does it come from? The mucous membrane lining the chambers of the nose, and its little glands, are diseased, so that they draw from the blood its liquid, and exposure to the air changes it into corruption. This the liquid was to build up the system, but it is extracted and the system is weakened by the loss. To cure, gain strength by using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which also acts directly upon these glands, correcting them, and applying Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy with Dr. Pierce's Nasal Douche, the only method of reaching the upper cavities, where the discharge accumulates and comes from. The instrument and two medicines sold for $2, by all Druggists. 888

CHARLES W. GARDNER.

It was a day in mid-summer;
The boiler had burst;
Four-and-thirty brave fellows
Lay mangled in the dust.

Our hearts melted with sorrow;
With lightning speed we sent,
Thinking only of the glad to-morrow,
If we found the Centaur Liniment.

Well, we found it at Lindsley's store, three miles away; but it did its work, saved pain, inflammation, and suffering.

The Centaur Liniment always does its work, whether it be for scalds, bruises, rheumatism, stiff joints or lameness.

But this is as is an old story. Why will any suffer? Come all ye hall, lame and halt, and be healed for a dollar or fifty cents, and if you haven't that, then for nothing. We know what the Centaur Liniment is, and will warrant it every time.

Cripples throw away their crutches and leap for joy. Horses neigh for it. When Centaur Liniment comes in the front gate, pain dies out at the window

If you would sleep without pain, walk without limping—straighten out that crooked knee, use those rheumatic-distorted fingers, or get rid of a horrid neuralgia, just use the Centaur Liniment. (White wrapper.)

The other kind (yellow wrapper) is just as effective upon your lame horses and mules. A wonder, says one; a miracle, says another.

The article is selling as no other article ever sold, and it only one dollar because it cures. See the certificate around the bottle. Sold by all Druggists.

Dear Sir—I have had considerable experience with the VEGETINE. For Dyspepsia, General Debility and impure blood, the VEGETINE is superior to anything which I have ever used. I commenced taking VEGETINE about the middle of last winter and after using a few bottles it entirely cured me of dyspepsia, and my blood never was in so good condition as at the present time. It will afford me pleasure to give any further particulars relative to what I know about this good medicine, to any one who will call or address me at my residence, 386 Athens Street.

Portsmouth High School Re-Union.

Concluded.

19th. The Schoolmaster Abroad. — Portsmouth Schools are ever ready to send out graduates which the needs of her sister communities may make upon her supply of educated Sons and Daughters.

By Rev. Wm. G. Nowell of Malden:

I suppose I am called to respond to this sentiment because I have been trying to supply the needs of a Massachusetts town in the way of High School teaching, and am perhaps the only schoolmaster now at work abroad representing the old High Schools of Portsmouth.

Certainly I am justified in saying to you here that in doing this, the work of my six days, I am doing little more than endeavoring to carry out the principles of education and use the knowledge, for the goodly foundation of which I am indebted to the schools of my boyhood.

I should be recreant to my own sense of simple gratitude due, did I fail to mention to-day the names revered by me as the names of the teachers, helpers, friends, of my boyhood. Miss Place and Mrs. Mudge, in the little brick schoolhouse north of the Burroughs mansion; Miss Eliza Salter, in one of those landmarks of the olden time now removed from opposite the old Wentworth residence on Pleasant street; and Mr. Israel Kimball, whom so many of his old boys delight to honor here to-day.

The principle of conscientious study for the sake of study itself, of knowledge, of growth; the persuasive power of a kindly personal interest, the habits of attention, of accuracy, of research, which characterized the Portsmouth High Schools of 20 to 30 years ago, are the things which we find the High Schools of the suburbs of the metropolis of New England need to-day. In those schools we do not do everything just on the old pattern. The good pupil follows his master not as slavish copyist, but as illustrator of his principles and spirits.

Our boys and girls, not only walk to school together, but they sit mingled together all over the main room of our one High School for both boys and girls; and those of us who are accustomed to the perfectly harmless and in many ways advantageous method of the united school, are glad to witness in this first meeting of this new joint association of the graduates of the Portsmouth High Schools, a token that you in the old homestead are moving into line with the times.

We do not say our Latin just as you do. Instead of de gustibus non disputandum, something which sounds like day goosebeeos none decapeddumbum. We transmute the name of the old commander of the conquering legions and emperor of the eternal city from Cæsar into the hard ringing Kaiser. We transform the silver-tongued orator of the old Roman commonwealth from Cicero into Keekayro. We turn jam into yam.

In the old times the switch of the birch and the swift sharp stroke of the ferule were experiences rather to be expected. In our day, as the old boys about me will testify, they were comparatively infrequent; but in the pictures we form of the more ancient schoolmaster these implements of torture are the inseparable accompaniments of his severe presence. We do not find need for their use to-day; and I pledge that while I represent your association as a schoolmaster abroad, I will not inflict corporeal punishment in any way whatever. There are many other points of need and of lack of need in the schools abroad to which I might refer, and in this presence memories of the past come crowding thick and fast upon my brain and fill my heart.

But we of 20 and more years ago are old fellows. As the poet sings:

semula necdum,
Temporibus geminis canebat sparsa senectus.

The tales we would tell seem antiquated to you. Let me only add that the schoolmaster abroad, as I doubt not these at home, find the girls of our High Schools at least not inferior to the boys, and that some among them are eager to be educated by substantial studies rather than to be ornamented by light and frivolous accomplishments. I know two girls who, taking four daily studies instead of three, and these four the advanced and in part difficult studies of Greek, Latin, French and Trigonometry, hold undisputed the foremost places in their class,—and the class includes among its number three young men preparing for college.

I renew my expressions of gratification at the evidence we have to-day of a progressive spirit in the management of the old schools of our home love, confessing at the same time that however far we of Massachusetts and New Hampshire side by side may advance to meet the demands of the future in our school systems, we school masters abroad, sons of old Portsmouth, shall still be carrying out the essential principles which governed the conduct of the schools of our time, and will always acknowledge, with a glad and deep gratitude, the fostering care with which we refined and educated us in childhood and youth.

18th. Our Merchants—The bargains of the school yard have grown into the traffic of the Nation. Energy and integrity are the pillars of mercantile success.

Mr. Samuel J. Nowell of New York:

My voice is not so strong as my heart. It has succumbed to the fatigues of the occasion, but I appreciate so highly the compliment tendered in my selection as your vice president from New York, that I cannot decline to say at least a few words in response to your call. A young friend of mine, who was recently at Geneva, and now is a resident of Washington—I won't call his name for his modesty would object,—wrote me last week, that people sat down on the curbstone and cried because they were not born in Portsmouth.

When I first read the statement I was disposed to Hack-it in two, and take it half at a time, but since I have been the recipient of your beautiful and touching hospitality, I feel that I too, had I not been born in Portsmouth, could sit down on the curbstone and cry! I thank you in behalf of our delegation for your kind and cordial welcome and for your words of personal compliment to myself and my companion in arms, Col. Goodrich. We have in New York a large working population, which is directed very largely by New England men, and prominent among these, are the Sons of Portsmouth. Many holding positions of great trust and responsibility are with us here, others were detained from coming by imperative engagements elsewhere. I could read you letters received from over thirty gentlemen of our association, regretting their inability to go with us, bidding us God speed, and wishing us to say to you God bless you!

We are glad if by our lives we do honor to our native city and to the old High School. It was here that our minds and characters were formed, our traits and tendencies developed, and that we were prepared to move into the wider arena, and to fill the positions which have fallen to us. I am glad so many of the High School boys have achieved such marked success, as I that the graduates of the young ladies school stand so high on the roll of honor.

We come to you not only as Sons and Daughters, but as fellow-townsmen and countrymen and as High School children. The triple significance of the day's work impresses us with especial distinctness. We shall travel back to them through many years of our lives, with the deepest delight, and we shall look forward with delightful anticipations to the day when you shall again call on us to place another three-faced urn in stone in the journey of life. Many of us who are here now, may not come then, but they will have passed to the best land above from the best land below.

It is said unto us, "Return to the land of thy fathers and their kindred, and I will be with thee." As we are clasped in the arms of those who love us; as we look into faces shut out from ours through the interval of many years; as we meet the dear and early friends, the companions of our boyhood and girlhood, the glow in our hearts partakes of this Divine Presence. May it

Bless all your fields with rich increase,
And crown each true heart's pure desire,
"For here we have joined where we love is home,
Home that our feet may leave but not our hearts;
The chain may lengthen, but it never parts."

I thank you again for your choice of myself as one of our vice presidents, and for the placing of my name so closely to that of our dear friend from Boston, Mr. Fields, whom we all delight to honor and esteem. I feel that some other one than myself from the large number of your graduates in New York could have filled the position more fittingly and more thoroughly; but as I said to you in my acceptance I thank you for your choice, because it unites me once more to the dear old teacher with whom five of the pleasantest years of my life were spent with his associates, all of whom I esteem, and with you who are now occupying the familiar places and because the golden network you are weaving as an Association links me more closely to the delightful past.

Now, I want you to give a few moments to my dear old friend, Col. Goodrich, who has done so much through all the work, and from whom I know you will be glad to hear.

COL. GOODRICH, on rising, was greeted with prolonged and hearty cheering. He said, speaking with evident difficulty,—

Mr. President, — I am sure, Sir, that you will excuse me. My voice, like my heart, has gone out in particles, all over this dear old town. I have been talking and cheering two long days, and have talked and cheered perhaps too much. There is much to say, Sir, and the provocation is great to say it; and, could I make myself heard to this nice people, I should occupy the whole allotted five minutes, in "thanks, and thanks, and ever thanks." I know you will excuse me, Sir.

The Veteran of the Reunion.

The oldest member of the Boston delegation of Sons—and doubtless the oldest visitor in this city on this occasion, was Mr. Charles Tappan, 89 years of age. He marched a mile or more of the route of the procession, leaving it only at the solicitation of friends, and afterwards walked to the tent on Wibird's Hill. Mr. Tappan was a native of Northampton, Mass., and is the last surviving brother of a large and prominent family, of whom Mr. Lewis Tappan, recently deceased in New York, and Arthur, the famous reformers, were members. Mr. Charles Tappan worked at the printing business when young, in Worcester, Mass., with Mr. Thomas, a son of the famous Isaiah Thomas, who (the son) had learned the trade in this city.

Mr. Thomas in 1806 established a bookstore in Portsmouth with Mr. Tappan, under the firm of Thomas & Tappan, the latter being in charge. Their store was on the corner of Market and Daniel Streets, now occupied by Mr. Wm. B. Lowd. Their beautiful gilt script sign on black ground, painted in Worcester, in 1806, has been well preserved in the attic of John W. and Joseph H. Foster, their successors, to this day, and is still pointed at with admiration by Mr. Tappan as an elegant specimen of sign painting. It was dated 1806, and reraised on pretty nearly its original site, during the late celebration, and formed one of the most interesting decorations of the time. Mr. Tappan was a resident of Portsmouth, for many years, and published several large volumes here, with his other business.

The P. H. S. A. Once More.

[Communicated.]

Please allow me, Messrs. Editors, to add to Mr. F. W. Hackett's very pleasant remarks on the "Navy," in Friday's Daily Chronicle, a singular fact which will interest all Portsmouth people. The U. S. S. Yantic sailed from Norfolk for Yokohama about thirty-five days ago, carrying, I am informed, among other things, a granite monument to be erected by the United States Government to the memory of the victims of the ill-fated Oneida disaster—young Tullock among the rest. And it is not improbable that on the Fourth of July, the very day the subject was thus referred to by one of his schoolmates here, another was assisting in placing the monument near where he breathed his last. We refer to Mr. Lyman G. Spalding, of this city, a Master in the Navy, who sailed in the Yantic.

In my own remarks, in response to the Ladies, my word educate is printed "attract," in the paragraph which says, "One step more, and attract the sexes together." As I was speaking for the ladies, you know, I accept the amendment, if they do; but to my thinking, the sexes do not need any further attraction than now exists, and probably the teachers will agree with me.

Yours, for the ladies, always,

F. W. M.

Rockingham Bank.

We learn that J. M. Tredick, Esq. has resigned the position of President of the Rockingham National Bank in this city, on account of feeble health, and Mr. John J. Pickering is elected to the position. Mr. Tredick has been President for twenty-eight years, having been elected in 1845; on the death of Mr. John Haven, who was the first President, having served from the establishing of the Bank in 1818, to 1845. Thus this very successful Bank has had but two Presidents during its long term of sixty years. And in Cashiers it has been equally fortunate, having had but two up to 1870—Mr. Jacob S. Pickering from 1818 to 1845, and his son Mr. John J. Pickering from 1845 to 1870. Such instances are very rare, and redound to the credit of all parties concerned.

Laconics.

A country bachelor is in deep trouble. He has a pet calf, which entered his room the other day during his absence, atea dozen cakes of perfumed toilet soap, chewed into tatters all his Sunday shirts, swallowed his last pair of socks, knocked down all the furniture in the room, and then quietly took a nap on the floor until his return. He thinks the cool impudence of that calf is incomprehensible.

Tax-payers will bear in mind that the Six per cent discount is allowed on all taxbills settled prior to the first day of next month.

The survey of another route for the extension of the Eastern Railroad from Portsmouth through the towns of Kittery, York, Wells and Kennebunk to intersect with the present road was concluded Wednesday, and is reported to be the most feasible and easily constructed in New England.

The picnicking season hereabouts is to be opened on Wednesday by the Catholic Society of this city for the benefit of their new church. Ample facilities will be afforded those who wish to visit Kittery Point on that day, where the gathering will be held. Tickets, 90 cents. Children half-price.

THE BOARD OF HEALTH of the City of Portsmouth call the attention of the public to the following sections of City Ordinances No. 4 and No. 100, and invite all interested in the preservation of health in the City to aid them in the execution of their duty.

ORDINANCE NO. 4.

SEC. 3. All waste water of houses, yards, cellars, sinks, privies, &c., shall be conveyed by their owners or occupiers to the common sewers, or to such places as the Health Officers may direct.

SEC. 4. No person shall be allowed to throw any vegetable or animal substance, or any other matter capable of producing infection into any street, lane, alley or lock, or upon any wharf, but shall bury them or throw them into the river below low water mark.

SEC. 5. The contents of vaults and privies shall not be permitted to rise within one foot of the surface of the earth. And all owners or occupiers of buildings having such vaults or privies as may require it, shall cause them to be emptied within ten days from the promulgation of this ordinance, and in future on or before the first day of May in each year. SEC. 11. The health officers may give written notice to the owner or occupier of any building, vessel or enclosure, to remove or destroy any nuisance or other things deemed by them, on examination, to be injurious to the public health, within a certain time limited therein; and in case such owner or occupier—the said notice having been given to him, or left at his usual place of abode—shall neglect to comply therewith, the said health officers may, by direction of the Mayor accompanied by the city marshal, forcibly enter such building, vessel, or enclosure, and cause the said nuisance or other thing aforesaid to be removed or destroyed.

SEC. 14. Navy Department.

BUREAU OF CONSTRUCTION AND REPAIR, WASHINGTON, June 4, 1873.

SEALED PROPOSALS will be received at the Bureau until 12 o'clock noon, August 7, 1873, for the construction of a steel vessel of war, except the live oak timber, of the hull of a sloop-of-war of about 640 tons measurement, complete for sea service. Plans and specifications in detail for the hull, showing the work to be done, may be seen and examined at this Bureau, and at the Commandant's office, at the Navy Yards at Philadelphia, Brooklyn, Charlestown and Kittery, on and after the 6th of July next.

The hull must be completed in all respects according to the contract and specifications; the materials to be of the best quality, and the work must be done in the best manner, and the vessel be delivered at such Navy Yard on the Atlantic coast as the Department may direct, in eight months from the date and signing of the contract.

Payments will be made as the work progresses, in proportionate amounts, reserving the usual percentage until the final completion and acceptance of the vessel.

The bids must be accompanied with the guarantee required by law, that if the contract is awarded, it will be promptly executed, and the names of the parties who are to become the sureties to the amount of the face of the contract must also be stated.

The Department reserves the right to accept or reject any or all bids which, in its opinion, are not to the public interest.

Bids will only be accepted from parties who are known shipbuilders, and who have the necessary facilities for doing the work. ow4jl

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY,
SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,

For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs,

No. 76 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON.

After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Advice, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claim of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity for a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges. COAL.

HAVING contracted for a quantity of the above coal, we would call the attention of Manufacturers, Dealers and Consumers to the following different grades mined and controlled by the Company.

HARD WHITE ASH COAL,
FREE BURNING WHITE ASH COAL,
SHAMOKIN WHITE ASH COAL,
SHAMOKIN RED ASH COAL,
NORTH FRANLIN COAL,
LYKENS VALLEY COAL.

In order that all coal shall be shipped in good order, a most rigid system of inspection, both at the mines and at the shipping ports, will at all times be enforced. In every district of the coal region there will be appointed a number of competent persons skilled in the preparation of coal, as local inspectors, whose duty it will be to visit the several collieries daily to see that a proper force is at all times employed in removing slate, and to prevent, if possible, any coal being sent from the mines in bad order. In addition to these efforts at prevention, no means will be left untried at the shipping ports to cure the evils of careless preparation. At Schuylkill Haven, Port Clinton and Port Richmond, ALL COAL WILL BE SUBJECTED TO THE PERSONAL EXAMINATION OF A SKILLED INSPECTOR BEFORE IT IS SHIPPED, and if condemned by him, will be dumped in places provided for the purpose, and before being loaded into vessels WILL BE THOROUGHLY RE-PICKED AND CLEANED BY HAND.
